PRAISE FOR DR. HAMILTON'S PILLS

"I can speak with wonderful confidence about the power of Dr. Hamilton's Pills," writes Mrs. Sangster. "I am now sixty years old, but for some time past have been in poor health suffering from a nervous condition and kidney trouble. Violent headaches made life a torture. Weakness in my back also afflicted me. I became so nervous and weak I could scarcely work. My appetite was poor and I grew nervous and sleepless. When in pitifully low health I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills and was completely restored to happy, vigorous health again."

Saxons Killed At Coronation Of William I

ALARMED BY SHOUTS OF HOMAGE IN STRANGE LANGUAGE THE CONQUEROR'S NORMANS DREW SWORD

LONDON, April 5—(CP)—Of all the unusual incidents which have marred many previous Coronations, the bloodiest occurred at crowning of William the Conqueror in 1066. The Norman prince had invaded England and gained the victory at Hastings. On Christmas, 1066, a wild snowy day, William was crowned at Westminster. For the time being there was no Archbishop of Canterbury, so the ceremony was performed by the Archbishop of York.

When the Archbishop asked the Saxon nobles, formerly subjects of Harold II, if they would receive William as their King there was such a responsive shout of approval that William's Norman soldiers, not understanding the language of the conquered people and mistaking this demonstration for signs of revolt, rushed in with drawn swords, and put many a good Saxon to the death.

In a few minutes the then new grey building was empty save for the King, prelates and monks, but the prayers and litanies went on and though robbed of some of its splendor the ceremony was performed with all order while outside William's new Saxon subjects were being trampled under the hoofs of Norman horses.

William I was the illegitimate son of Robert the Devil, Duke of Normandy, and was trained in a hard school. Three of his guardians were murdered in France and it appeared the young duke-elect would suffer the same fate, but when he was only 20 years of age he stamped out a serious rising in the districts of Besin and Cotentin, one of many encounters with Norman rebels. He is supposed to have received

Veterans Guard Monarch's Coach Coronation Day

YEOMEN WARDERS OF TOWER CHARGED WITH DUTY OF ESCORTING KING TO HIS CROWNING AT WESTMINSTER.

(By Thomas T. Champion) (Canadian Press Staff Writer) LONDON, April 4—Surrounding the royal coach on Coronation Day will be those historic guardians of his Majesty known as the Yeomen of the Guard.

The section of the Yeomen permanently stationed at the Tower, and who are usually drawn upon for high ceremonial duties, are known as Yeomen Warders, and trace their "feilowship" back to a period as old almost as the Tower itself.

They are selected from sergeants of the Army of long and distinguished service, and are sergeants-major with warrant rank. They are taken impartially from every branch of the Service, and are appointed by the Constable of the Tower.

The chief dignity amongst the Yeomen Warders is the Chief Warden, who for many centuries was known as the Yeoman Porter, for it still remains his duty to lock the gates of the Tower every night.

At 10 o'clock the Chief Warden approaches the main guard and demands and escort. This is declared by the Officer of the Guard, and consists of one non-commissioned officer and four men under arms and one in addition, generally a bugler, carrying a lantern. This escort, with the Chief Warden carrying the keys, marches off to lock the gates.

All the gates of the Tower are locked and barred, the soldiers of the escort turning inwards and presenting arms. Then the keys and escort march towards the Bloody Tower, but are brought up sharp by a sentry who, lowering his bayonet, challenges: "Halt, who comes there?" "The Keys," replies the Chief Warden. "Whose keys?" demands the sentry. "King George's keys. All's well," and the sentry then lifts his bayonet and allows the procession to pass.

An Ancient Ceremony

Arrived opposite the main guard the Chief Warden with his escort find the Guard already turned out to receive them. "Guard and escort, present arms," is the order given by the officer of the Main Guard.

The Chief Warden steps to the front, and taking off his Tudor hat says in a loud voice:

"God preserve King George!" to which the Guard and escort in chorus reply "Amen." A slight pause and then the muffled buglers play the nightly "Last Post." For more than 600 years this ceremony has been performed nightly at the Tower of London.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to go. The liver should pour out two pounds of bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk. A new bowel movement doesn't always get on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel up and up. Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of catalyst but have no alcohol or mercury in them. Get the fast Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly.
