Pastor Was Well Known In S'ide

Friends in Summerside of Rev. Charles de Wolfe White, son of Mrs. White and the late Archdeacon White, will be interested to learn that he has taken up his duties as rector of the historic Church of St. Georges, Halifax, N. S. and conducted his first services there on Sunday.

Rev. Canon Cunningham, D. D., who was rector of St. Georges for 37 years took the services at St. Luke's Annapolis Royal on Sunday.

Previous to their departure from St. Luke's parish, Rev. and Mrs. White were tendered a farewell banquet in the church hall by the guilds of the church. Mrs. White was also given a farewell party by the I. O. E. of which she was the rector.

Their many Summerside friends wish them happiness and success in their new home.

Elmsdale and Vicinity

The fortnightly meeting of J.R. C.B. of Elmsdale school was held on Friday. The roll call was answered by drawing a grab bag. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. The treasurer reported $3 had been collected from a bean contest. The money had been collected by delegates who had been appointed to cover the various sections of the district. Since the guessing is not yet completed, the person guessing the correct number of beans is unknown. The convener of the service committee, Mrs. Williams, reported that new garments to be sewn had been received and distributed among the girls. It was decided that the Red Cross members send Easter cards to all the elderly residents of the district, as the time for the meeting was limited. The entertainment committee will be the same as last month namely: Florence MacNeil, Preside, Whelan, and Douglas Peterson. The roll call for the next meeting is to be answered by the suggestion of some means to promote health during the spring and summer months.

An event of local interest took place within the past week when Miss Daly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Daly of Alma, was united in marriage to Mr. Waldron Barbour, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Barbour of Alma. Marriage rites were solemnized in Summerside by Rev. J. A. Ramsay, D. D., a very popular and we are pleased to learn that they plan to remain in their former neighborhood.

Congratulations are being extended to Mr. and Mrs. Everett Murray of Elmsdale on the arrival of O'Leary on Friday of a baby girl.

The pupils of Elmsdale school held two debates recently. In the debate between Grade VI and VII the subject which was "Resolved that summer is more pleasant than winter" the pro side was victorious during the summer and that the cost of living is much less than in winter due to decreased consumption of fuel and clothing. The arguments of the negative were claimed that more sport exists in winter and more vitality and energy are found. The vote resulted in a tie. Daniel French, from the city, was done perfectly by Mr. Gardner Marks, Lester Van, Daniel French, and James Gallagher, who were both boys certainly need never worry about being tall for haves. Wade Carver, an unwieldy suitor, although given the cold shoulder often, refused to be taken lightly in his love-making. Stan Woodside taking this part, Jackson the native Romeo, played by Ed. Bealstro, brought peels of laughter from the large audience. Mr. Gable, to if Ed. landed in Hollywood? O'Leary, that's what was done also, but several would like to see what would have said? "If he had left out those words, 'Dat's a Fac' R'se O'May—Mammy's Lil' Will Rose, was capably acted by Miss Gady's Baker, Mammy Cole, a black treasure, acted by Mrs. L. Crane, certainly proved to be a treasure, in more ways than one. Hester O'May, Rose's maiden aunt, played by Mrs. H. Mowbray, was exceptionally well done. Peggy French, Daniel's Sister, played by Miss Vivian Marks, was also played to perfection. Little Van, played by Miss Olive Glydon, Joan, a mountain charmer, was played by Mrs. J. Woodside, who also did an excellent job. Mrs. C. Mowbray, a former woman, was capably played by Mr. C. Howard. Each and every member of the cast did a swell job and to choose an outstanding performer would be a job for more than Mr. De Milie, the Great. Between acts the audience were entertained with solos and instrumental music keeping them interested and happy throughout.

Mr. Allison Bernard, who has been in Charlottetown attending the short course for the past three weeks, returned home on Saturday evening. S.

KEEP YOUR YOUNG PEOPLE FROM UGLY POSTURE
To sit bent is to grow bent. Never sit in this "round back" position. If you have to bend forward from the hips, rather than by further bending the back.

If you need support, rest both arms square on the desk and to sit down, your table, not your legs out frequently. Bend your back over your chair and occasionally roll the head right back and lift the chin.

Resolution Passed At Board Meeting

The Summerside Board of Trade expresses its appreciation of the efforts of the Honorable W. H. Dennis, Minister of Agriculture, who, we are credibly informed, is making available seed oats for the farmers of Prince Edward Island on a credit basis and would urge that consideration be given to seed wheat and seed barley, and also that publicity be given to the advantages to our farmers in growing, wherever possible, a certain percentage of wheat and thereby give considerable employment in the flour mills throughout the Province and retain in this Province a considerable amount of cash which our farmers now use to purchase imported supplies. Most important of all to have, without purchasing, the wheat by-products, bran and shorts readily available for their own use in stock and poultry, which have been neglected during the past winter on account of the small amount of wheat, barley and oats produced last year as only farmers in good circumstances could afford to purchase such feed.

Moved by W. W. Robinson, Seconded by B. J. Lidstone.

Kensington and Vicinity

Mr. Everett Hughes, enjoyed a pleasant week-end in Summerside.

Miss H. Waite, of Summerside, enjoyed Sunday at her home in Kensington.

Mr. Ailie McNeill and Mr. Heath Baker, were visitors to Summerside on Saturday.

Mr. Clifford Rodd, of Charlottetown, enjoyed a week-end in Kensington with friends.

Mr. Chas. D. Howatt, principal of Borden school was a week-end visitor to Kensington, the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Howatt.

A large number of citizens of this vicinity, taking advantage of the opening of the highway, motored to Summerside on Saturday evening.

The long looked for Government Snow Plows, arrived in Kensington Saturday from Charlottetown and continued on to Summerside on the highway for motor traffic.

A light snow storm which visited the community on Sunday once again made the side-roads in outlying districts, that were beginning to dry up, wet and muddy.

A large and enthusiastic audience spent an enjoyable and happy evening in King George's Hall, Kensington on Thursday evening, March 31st, when they attended the three act comedy drama, "Mammy's Lil' Wild Rose," presented under the auspices of Margaret Women's Institute. The play is a cast of the characters with brief sketch of each player's part. Daniel French, from the city, was done perfectly by Mr. Gardner Marks, Lester Van, Daniel French, and James Gallagher, who were both boys certainly need never worry about being tall for haves. Wade Carver, an unwieldy suitor, although given the cold shoulder often, refused to be taken lightly in his love-making. Stan Woodside taking this part, Jackson the native Romeo, played by Ed. STUDENTS IN DOUBT
Naturally many individuals have been touched personally. Canadian and American students in Kingston, who are in doubt as to whether they should obey cables from their parents ordering them home at once, are in doubt.

Children in Austria, in schools or at home, are being rushed home. Austrian journalists in Paris have found themselves suddenly without jobs, their contracts with the National Geographic Society closed up because of Jewish management or refusal to conform. A large group of Austrian students who went home to visit in Schussnig's independence have not been heard of since. Their things are still here but no doubt they have been refused permission to return.

Nearly 15,000 people are here. The news that their country has ceased to exist and that the swastika had replaced the Austrian flag before their eyes is an inexpressible agony to many of them who have experienced it.

In a little boulevard Poissonniere not far from Les Halles is a small restaurant patronized exclusively by Austrians. The proprietor, round, bald, blue-eyed and animated, smiles sadly these days. His pianissimo has been ordered to continue playing the Viennese waltzes his clients said.

"The last word has not yet been said," he says proudly. "It is true that we Austrians are of German blood, but there is more difference than between an Austrian and a Frenchman. Our men, for example, are different from the Prussians that we are sometimes called the 'Latinized' Germans."

(C.P. by Guardian's Special Wire) PARIS, April 5—Premier Blum's fight for decree powers over finances aroused parliamentary speculation today as to whether his programme might be succeeded by a strong government with dictatorial economic and financial powers.

The Chamber called "robber" at the Socialist Premier during chaotic debate on his proposals, senators showed by a quiet vote how little chance Blum's bill had in the Upper House.

The Democratic Left, which controls the Senate, voted 46-3 in caucus to reject Blum's demands for decree powers.

Even as Blum struggled for his bill, thousands of new strikers joined the 30,000 already out. The huge metal workers' strike spread to other new plants in the Paris district.

Side Trade Board Votes Money For Tourist Booklets

At the meeting of the Summerside Board of Trade on Monday evening a motion was passed voting a sum of money sufficient to cover the cost of booklets to be placed in the motor cars of tourists to Prince Edward Island during the summer season.

It was stated at the meeting that the Town Council had voted 50 dollars for the same purpose. The idea of distributing booklets to tourists was favourably received by the Board.

Visitors Jumpy Parisians Cool With Nazi Coup

(By Gladys M. Arnold, Canadian Press Correspondent)

PARIS, April 6—(CP)—The sangfroid of Parisians during the recent centenary European crisis astonished foreigners, particularly the German occupation of Austria came just after the resignation of the Austro-Government and when the only visible evidence of disquietude among the French was the impossibility to buy a newspaper 10 minutes after an edition appeared.

On the other hand the Opera was sold out for Jascha Hefetz's sole concert this season; theatres, restaurants and concert halls were jammed; sports stadiums and side-by-side bicycle races packed with people who only care seemed to be the next race.

Just the same, while German tanks rolled through the swastika in Vienna and changed the name of "Dofuss Place" to "Adolf Hitler Place," the "Petit Chanteur" de Vienna (Little Singers of Vienna) who followed the German troops at the Salle Pleyel here met with an enormous demonstration of sympathy.

The Austrian national anthem followed La Marseillaise and for the first time the audience shouted something like 2,000 shouted "Vive Schussnig!" "Schussnig for Austria."

However, beneath the surface the city of Paris, even in a beautiful spring, is depressing. People are not smiling. For the first time their confidence seems to be shaken, and a certain nervousness which has quenched the usual buoyant Parisian spirit.

Conversation in cafes, parties and restaurants has dropped to a morose level. It is to realize that the Frenchman is fully aware of the situation which is menacing his peace.

Wardens at mid-day all the wardens in the city are blown in order that they will not become rusty with disuse.

It would be greatly appreciated if the gentlemen who receive this letter is addressed would extend their co-operation by bringing this request to the notice of all members.

Yours faithfully,
JAN MACKENZIE,
Minister of National Defence.

Defence Minister's Letter Read

The following letter from Defence Minister Mackenzie was read at Monday night's meeting of the Summerside Board of Trade:

Ottawa, Ontario, February 7th, 1938
To the Secretary, Board of Trade Summerside, P. E. Island.
Dear Sir—

I should like to bring to attention a very important matter concerning preparation for the defence of Canada in time of war or emergency real or apprehended, and am taking the liberty of addressing this important letter to Boards of Trade, Chambers of Commerce and other organizations through which you can be reached.

Those who employ members of the Non-Permanent Active Militia, the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve and the Non-Permanent Squads of the Royal Air Force, Officers, non-commissioned Officers and men of the Royal Navy, the Permanent Active Militia and the Royal Canadian Air Force are competent and efficient but as you well know, the majority of them are in civilian life and would be required in time of emergency or war would be drawn from the non-permanent forces.

The immediate training of this letter concerns the training of the non-permanent forces. Given that young Canadians in sufficient numbers offer to serve with the non-permanent forces, in the case of the case, it becomes necessary to train them and this is carried out by members of the permanent forces.

Training personnel of the Non-Permanent Active Militia, for instance, is carried out at local headquarters of the Regiments or Units. In the summer training is carried out in military camps at several points throughout the country. Employers of Non-Permanent Active Militia personnel will grant that the training at local headquarters is usually carried out in the evening, does not disturb the ordinary course of work or employment. It may be somewhat different when the employees are called to attend training camps.

The Non-Permanent Active Militia is the first line of Canada's land defences. It is to these Officers and men that Canada must look for national security. It is submitted that these soldiers are deserving of all possible assistance and encouragement on their behalf. I would earnestly request the sympathetic consideration of employers in making it possible for members of the Militia to train without feeling that their positions or employment may be adversely affected by such patriotic action.

It would be greatly appreciated if the gentlemen who receive this letter is addressed would extend their co-operation by bringing this request to the notice of all members.

Yours faithfully,
JAN MACKENZIE,
Minister of National Defence.

Germany Look To New Claim For Colonies

(By Edwin S. Johnson, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

LEIPZIG, April 6—(CP)—With subsidence of foreign resentment over Hitler's ventures in Austria, the German map in the west recently believes the Fuehrer will renew with increased vigor his insistence on return of Germany's former colonies.

The German people generally have faith in their leader bordering on the fanatical. Past experiences have convinced Hitler that nothing that cannot be achieved and are prepared to follow him towards any objective—even if it involves war.

While the chancellors of Europe were brooding over the crisis attending the military occupation of Austria, there was little evidence of concern among the population of southern Germany. Foreign intervention was unthinkable. Hitler had spoken and whoever dared challenge his decision must be prepared to fight.

The greatest boast of the average citizen. He goes out of his way to impress upon the visitor the remoulding of Germany's might under Hitler's leadership. Before the advent of the Fuehrer, Germany the country was torn by clashing political interests, the country was in economic eclipse, in a state of bankruptcy, with unemployment rife.

All that has been swept away by Hitler, they say. To the German Aryan he is a demi-god. His name is on every body's lips throughout the day in Germany. "Heil Hitler," His picture is almost a common-place as the swastika emblem and every factory and public building displays his bust in bronze in a prominent place.

But the German believes Hitler's mission is far from complete achievement. German minorities in other lands will always be a problem and the government is keeping close watch on the treatment of German nations in Czechoslovakia.

The new power of Germany is the new power of Germany. Discussing the subject said: "A powerful, self-reliant nation of 70,000,000 people will never tolerate the rule of a weak, dependent nation."

Germany must have access to a generous source of raw materials and responsible spokesmen recall the recent challenge of their foreign minister, Von Ribbentrop: "It is necessary possible to have milk and honey flowing in some countries while others have to fight for a mere minimum of existence. This remedy can be found in another form—the problem of returning Germany's former colonies, or by the German people's own strength."

The charge that Germany's foreign ambitions will not be fulfilled by restoration of her former possessions is brushed aside with indignation. "It is easy to offer such excuses," a government spokesman said. "All Germany wants is the right to share some of the world's rich resources for the sustenance of her own people."

Germany, he said, had been forced to accept a new world order. "A natural alliance would be ultimately dissolved. By extending colonial interests to Germany, she would have brought into zones of influence helpful Britain and other colonial powers."

LOOK FAR AHEAD
Restoration of her former colonies, however, remains a German dream. Germany's delay in settlement of this question is regarded as an insolent rebuff to what the average German insists are legitimate claims.

HEALTH
A HEALTH SERVICE OF THE CANADIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

WHAT TO EAT TO BE HEALTHY
A deficiency of any of the essential foods known as vitamins, minerals, proteins, fats and carbohydrates endangers your health. If any one of these necessary foods elements is missing from your diet, it works in a gradual or, in some cases, a rapid lowering of your level of health. Your vigor will be impaired. You will probably feel what is commonly known as "seedy," and if this condition is speaking and continues for any length of time, you will die.

You have all heard of substances called vitamins. There are at least six of these substances all of which are essential for health and life itself. They have one thing in common, the daily amounts required are extremely small. For example, one pound of vitamin B would cover the needs of the average adult for over a billion years, yet without it we would die. Vitamin A is essential for the health of the mucous membranes of the eyes, nose, throat, bronchial tubes, esophagus, stomach, intestinal tract, and the genito-urinary passages. Vitamins B1 and B2 are necessary for the nerves, skin, and the normal functioning of the body. A lack of vitamin C affects the mile and miles of capillaries throughout the body, while vitamin D is essential for the normal formation of the bones and teeth. Without vitamin E, animals cannot reproduce themselves.

We all know that a lack of iodine causes goitre, and a lack of iron, anaemia. Iodine is necessary to get the iron from the food into the red blood corpuscles, and calcium and phosphorus make up over 96% of the mineral part of bones and teeth. Proteins build up the body cells and are necessary to keep them in repair. Fats and carbohydrates supply energy, which the body uses to produce muscular effort and heat.

Carefully conducted investigations have shown that when your diet is just slightly lacking in any one of the 30 necessary food elements, your resistance to infections, such as colds, bronchitis, and influenza, is lowered, so that you catch these diseases easier and have greater difficulty in recovering than when your diet is adequate. This minor deficiency of any of the necessary and elements in your diet will probably not produce any one specific symptom, but still, you will not carry on at the highest possible level of good health.

So it is very important for us to know the food elements we need, how much of each one of the food elements we should have and where we can get it. Through proper nutrition we can secure increased health and happiness, greater vigor, better resistance to disease, and longer life.

The next article in this series of "What to Eat to be Healthy" will tell you what foods to eat to secure an adequate supply of Vitamins A, B1 and B2.

Questions concerning Health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 Coleridge Street, Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

Presentation To Retiring Railwayman

Mr. Frank N. McKee, Canadian National Railway train conductor, Charlottetown, was read an address and presented with a gift yesterday on the occasion of his retirement after 46 years active service. Members of the Prince Edward Island Lodge 157, Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen met at Mr. McKee's home last night and address and made the presentation. Mr. McKee made fitting reply.

Following was the address, which was signed on behalf of the Brotherhood by Secretary Earl Levers.

"Brother Frank N. McKee— We the members of P. E. I. Lodge No. 157, Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, having learned with regret that you have retired from active service to enjoy the provisions of the Railway Pension Plan, we cordially wish to allow you to sever your connection with us in any way without extending to you in a tangible manner, the feeling of good will and respect in which you are held by this Lodge.

"Now that you have decided to lay down the mantle of active service with what is now the good of National Railways, one that you have worn for almost a half-century with equal satisfaction to all with whom you have in contact as railway patrons, to your fellow employees, and to the Railway Management, it is fitting that we should briefly review your splendid record.

"Since you have entered the railway service, away back in 1890, you have been called upon to fill many positions of trust and trials which you did with ability and knowledge, which always assures a job well done. You were met in transit with many kind and advisable remarks, and in the course of a railroad life, and you were always equal to the emergency, no matter how it appeared.

"The ordinary work of the Brotherhood, you were one of our most valued members. A regular attendant at the meetings, your wise counsel, your own experience of innumerable value to us, as the many and various questions came before the Lodge for decision and action. We trust you will still favor us with much of your time and attention as you can, and we hasten to assure you that your record membership of close to a half-century in our Brotherhood is an honored tribute to your faithfulness and fidelity to the maintaining of an organization you always considered the best friend of the Railwayman.

"We are glad to know that you are retiring on Superannuation, enjoying the best of health. It will enable you to properly enjoy your well earned rest. Our prayers and best wishes are for a long period of good health and happiness for both Mrs. McKee and yourself, and may you be able to enjoy the remaining years of life with all the comforts, good health and happiness it is in our power to offer you from the bottom of our hearts.

"In token of our esteem, together with the good wishes we have and hold for you, we wish you to accept this gift as a memento, which in after years, as you recline in your home, will remind you of the happy days spent with us, and the friendship which we entertain for your future. You have a record among us, equalled by few, surpassed by none on this system of railway, therefore the reward you have earned is one of the highest, and our wish is it be the happiest."

Praternally,
EARL LEVRS,
Secretary.

LEARNING THE COURT CURTSEY IS NOT EASY
Debutantes come to their mothers to a famous dancing academy in Knightsbridge to learn the correct court curtsy, are surprised to find that they must learn how to walk, say an English newspaper. A full quarter of an hour is allotted to deportment exercises by the expert who gave the King and his brothers their first lessons in ballroom dancing. Not more than a smart woman in ten knows how to walk, according to this authority, how to enter and leave a room, how to sit down and get up gracefully.

Debutantes are asked to come to their lessons in informal day clothes. For limbering and tap dancing exercises they change into shorts and special shoes. The Court curtsy practice at the Academy of the correct length are given a bouquet of artificial flowers or a fan, and the regulation feathers are pinned to their heads.

While debutantes will complete their Court curtsy lessons in the Universities, young men from the same academy will learn the 1938 version of the waltz, with three new steps, and a moderated version of the Big Topple.

Chaperones sitting round the dance floor this summer will be reminded of their own debutante days and of the Roger de Coverleys and Lancers then in vogue. The Big Apple is the first "square dance" to achieve popularity in the modern ballroom for some years.

STOCKPORT, England—(CP)—"Be a pal, I've had a night" a motorist here told the policeman who arrested him for drunk driving. He was fined £5 ($25) and had his license suspended for six months.
