W. C. T. U. NOTES

AT SET OF SUN

(By Emily Houseman Watson)

How hast thou spent this day?
What hast thou done
To ease the toilsome way
For weary one?

How hast thou spent this day?
What kindly deed
To help upon the way
Some soul in need?

How hast thou spent this day?
Has word of thine,
Upon some darkening way
Caused light to shine?

How hast thou spent this day?
At set of sun,
Ah, well, if thou canst say
Thy task it done!

THE REGINA CONVENTION RECOMMENDS

(a) That more emphasis be placed upon our Youth Programmes, "L.T.L.", "Y.T.C.", "Y" "Temperance in Schools and Colleges," and "Temperance in Sunday Schools", etc.

(b) That Essay, Poster and other prize contests be given more leadership and financial support.

(c) That our Medal Contest work be stressed anew, and the rules governing it revised in the best interest of our work.

JESUS THE TEACHER

Religion is a way of living. Too often perhaps religious teaching has been confined to teaching words and ritual. Facts alone are not important but the use we make of these facts.

Since religion must be related to all interests and problems of life we must think of the little child and consider his problems and his interests before we can expect to guide his religious development. We have but to study carefully the method Jesus used in teaching the people with whom he came in contact.

Although Jesus was a carpenter by trade He did not use these experiences when talking to people, but gave His messages through the things that he knew the people would be interested in.

When He talked to the farmers He talked about sowing seed and the harvest, the grapes and the vineyard. When He talked to the fishermen he said, "Come and I will make you fishers of men. To the shepherds and pastoral people, He spoke about the Good Shepherd and the Lost Sheep.

As He walked and talked He did not speak to them about things afar off, but He talked about the seeds, the weeds, the lilies, the big trees and the great out-of-doors, and when He taught the little children, He took them in His arms and blessed them.

So as teachers of little children let us not forget the methods used by Jesus. Let us talk to them about the things in nature with which they are acquainted. Let us discover their experiences and use these things in developing their religion. And above all of these let us not forget to provide an environment in which love abides and where perhaps our best teaching will not be done in words but by our example of Christian living as Jesus was an example of the things about which he taught.

DR. A. E. BELDEN'S ADDRESS

Mrs. Grace Knight, Edmonton, Past President introduced the guest speaker of the evening, Dr. Belden. Mrs. Knight pointed out that "if the world can be united by force for war, surely it can be united for peace."

Dr. Belden, distinguished English author of many books, appealed to women to unite in a "new policy for Christendom in a warless world."

The Christian church is the logical medium through which to obtain this unity for peace.

"The church is the only body in the world today with sufficient potential unity of sufficient moral quality to provide adequate leadership.

"And if the deliberations of the V. N. O. should fail," he predicted, "your land will be chosen cockpit of the next war being so strategically placed between New York and Siberia."

The only salvation for the world, the speaker said, lies in the vast memberships of the Christian world, conservatively estimated at some 500,000,000 banding together to call a permanent ban on war.

He quoted from his book "Pax Christi" to explain how this might be done. Such a unity, he said, would embrace all Christian forms of religion, Catholic and Protestant and would undercut all political beliefs.

"The whole world is waiting for this Christian leadership" said Dr Belden. "War is Number One enemy for mankind and unless the Christian people make their voice heard and their influence felt there will be no peace, no future, for us, for our children or for our children's children. The choice is unity or complete annihilation."

DELINQUENCY LAID TO PARENTAL NEGLECT

Saint John, N. B.— Parental neglect accounted for 96 per cent of the cases dealt with in the juvenile court here, Cecil E. Hart, probation officer of the juvenile court, said in an address to a service club.

Parental neglect, indifference and ignorance of child upbringing are almost certain to have an adverse effect on the lives of their children, he said. The most glaring examples of child delinquency had come from homes where the parents themselves set a bad example or who refused to take on the responsibilities of parenthood.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT

I have never heard a woman say, in explanation of an unhappy home life: "My husband would be the best man in the world if only he was not a teetotaler. That spoils him."

I have never known an insurance company offer reduced premiums to hard drinkers.

I have never known the value of a house increased by the fact that there was a public-house next door.

I have never known the value of a house increased by the fact that there was a public-house next door.

I have never known a man account for his prosperity by saying: "It is all the result of my spending so much money in the pubs."

I have never known a community issue a handbook in praise of its town and include the number of public houses among the town's amenities and assets.

I have never known a Chief of Police advocate the opening of more public houses as a method of reducing crime.

I have never known a motorist involved in an accident attribute it to the fact that he was a teetotaler, or that he had not had a few drinks before starting out.

Yet the Brewers say: "Beer is necessary to an A- nation." Why?

The test of life is not what you are worth, but what you are.

QUESTION BOX

How is membership secured in the World's W. C. T. U.?

Each member of each local Union automatically becomes a member of the World's W.C.T.U. because two cents of our membership fee eventually reaches the World's Treasury. However, it can be easily understood that these small amounts, though aggregating quite a sum, are not sufficient to carry on the World's work, so Unions are asked to contribute to World Missions, especially at any meeting commemorating Frances Willard.

A Life Membership in the World's W.C.T.U. means a gift of $100, from an individual where a province gives $100 it may name a member to receive the honor of receiving a Life Membership. But best of all this gift extends Temperance Missions where the need is great.

Canada has given 18 World's Life memberships in the last two years. Also, 92 life members have joined the Canadian W. C. T. U. This is a great help to the Canadian Treasury just now when expense is great on account of starting Headquarters. This means a gift of $25 to the Canadian Treasurer and the pledged.

A sincere and cordial welcome is extended to all who will worship with us at this season of triple anniversaries: the 139th anniversary of the founding of this congregation; the 83rd anniversary of the laying of the corner stone, and the 21st anniversary of the United Church of Canada.

Eleanor MacKay Is Bride of Peter Milne

(Edmonton Journal)

The home of the bride's parents formed an attractive setting Friday evening for the wedding of Miss Eleanor Isobel MacKay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Crawford MacKay, of Edmonton, formerly of Charlottetown, P. E. I., and Mr. Peter Thomas Martin Milne, son of Mrs. David Milne of Victoria and the late Mr. Milne.

Rev. Angus McQueen performed the ceremony which took place before a window in the drawing-room under a cedar arch in which pink baby mums were entwined. The room was done in gladioli and baby mums with palms and ferns flanking the arch.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a slipper-length white satin gown featuring a bodice made with a sweetheart neckline and trimmed with guitne lace. The full skirt was accentuated with a peplum and a bustle back terminating in a short train. Her embroidered chapel veil was held in place by pink Delight roses and baby mums and she carried a bouquet of Sweetheart roses and stephanotis.

Mrs. Kenneth Allison played the wedding marches and Mrs. J. Valpy sang "The Wedding Prayer."

At the reception later at the home of the bride's parents, Mrs. MacKay, mother of the bride, received, wearing a floor-length dress in Honor blue crepe, the full pleated skirt featuring a draped peplum. Her corsage was of gardenias and Sweetheart roses. Miss Grace Milne, of Victoria, B. C., sister of the groom, who also received chose a slipper-length black dress embellished with crystal beads and complemented by pink accessories.

Mrs. W. W. Davison and Mrs. Donald J. Carter presided at the bride's table which was laid in white lace and centred by a tiered wedding cake flanked by white tapers adorned with silver bells. Mrs. C. W. Macdonald and Mrs. Clifford Carter Down assisted in serving and Mrs. Gordon MacKay, sister-in-law of the bride, looked after the guests.

Toast to the bride was proposed by Mr. Ralph Bellamy.

The newlyweds left for a honeymoon at the coast, the bride travelling in a two-piece wool suit in a tomato shade with a plaid topcoat. Her accessories were in gray and black.

They will take up residence in Edmonton at 9817 108 st. The bride is a niece of Lt. Col. C. L. McKay of this city.

WHEN a bereaved family is left without income, someone must find the means of paying for food, clothing and shelter. Often this responsibility falls on shoulders quite unfitted to carry it.

Life Insurance is a sure answer to the problem of providing a continuance of income. It enables a breadwinner to provide out of his current earnings for a guaranteed monthly income to replace those earnings in case of need. If he lives long, the same Life Insurance will provide an income for his retiring years.

There is no substitute for Life Insurance for the man who wants security for his loved ones and for himself.

BIG FOUR IN WHEAT

Most of the world's wheat production is consumed near where it is grown, so that only about one-tenth or 660 million bushels moves overseas into what is called international trade. The greatest wheat producing country is China which grows about one billion one hundred million bushels a year. Russia comes second, with an average of one billion bushels a year. The United States is third with an average around 900 million bushels a year, and Canada is usually fourth, with more than 400 million on the average. While Canada is but the fourth largest wheat producer in the world, she holds a distinguished place. She is the largest exporter of wheat and produces the highest quality wheat. This quality in the past has always given Canada an advantage over her competitors.
