In Memoriam

MR. R. A. MacLEOD

We deeply regret to chronicle the death of Mr. Robert A. MacLeod of Uig who passed suddenly away on Thursday the 14th, inst., after only a few days illness of pneumonia.

He was visiting friends at Earnscloffe when he was taken ill. He left for his home in Uig and upon reaching there he collapsed and in a very short time his spirit passed to Him Who gave it.

The late Mr. MacLeod was a native of Uig, where he spent by far the greater part of his life. For a time he was engaged in business in Omaha, Nebraska, and on his return to the island some years ago he was connected with the hardware business of the late Mr. Ewen Cameron then carried on in Charlottetown.

For some years past Mr. MacLeod had been salesman for Fertilizer Firms, and in this connection he travelled considerably throughout the island, and became well and favorably known in the centres and rural districts of the Province. He was a man of the friendliest disposition, charitable and genial and strongly imbued with a desire for what was right and best for the people. He was a consistent member of the Baptist Church and his demise while there were apparently many years of usefulness still before him will be greatly deplored.

Besides his brother Mr. John MacLeod, with whom he made his home there are left to mourn two brothers, William of Dundas and Benjamin of Crapaud and also two sisters, Mrs. Alexander Campbell of Brookfield and Mrs. Brehaut of Boston. To the bereaved The Guardian extends sincerest sympathy.

EDMUND BIRCH.

On the morning of Wednesday, April 6th, the people of Port Hill and surrounding communities were surprised and saddened to hear of the death of Edmund, dearly beloved son of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. S. Birch, at the early age of 19 years. The deceased was a young man of a quiet disposition and those who knew him held for him the highest respect. When only six years of age he received a fracture of a bone in the leg, which necessitated an operation in the Prince County Hospital and though at first it seemed as if the operation had been successful, yet, at intervals it continued to bother him, and when about ten days before his death, he was taken down with an attack of this trouble it was found that his heart was in a weak condition, and owing to the intense pain which he suffered, he became very weak, and despite kind and tender nursing and good medical attention he passed away. The funeral was held on the afternoon of Thursday, April 7th, and was largely attended. The services at the house were conducted by Rev. H. R. Coleman, assisted by Rev. Andrew Brown, and at the Church and graves by Rev. Mr. Coleman. The remains were laid to rest in the cemetery of St. James' Episcopal Church only a few yards from his home. The pall-bearers were Stuart and Clair Montgomery, Claude Yeo, Hatfield Maynard, Roy Strongman, and Alvin McLean.

The following beautiful wreaths were placed upon the casket: "Pillows" - The family.

Broken Circle—Wyman and Sophie Birch.

Spray—Ella and George Nisbet, Crescent—Russel, Ernest, Reginald and Percy Birch.

Crescent—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Staver.

Wreath—C. N. R. staff, Summerside.

Crescent—Sr. and Jr. W. A. and Sunday School.

Spray—Jessie Montgomery.

Besides his parents he leaves to mourn six sisters and six brothers, as follows: Mrs. Arthur Conlon, Lloydminster, Sask.; Mrs. Geo. Nisbet, Portland, Me.; Mrs. Thos. Nisbet, Tyne Valley; Mrs. Walter Newcombe, Port Hill; Mrs. A. Coles, Milton; and Martha at home; Wyman, yardmaster C. N. R. Side; Sydney, Port Hill; Thos. and Harry, Aberdeen, Sask.; and Laurie and Cecil at home. To the bereaved we tender our deepest sympathy.

JOHNSON SMALLWOOD.

All that was mortal of a kind and loving husband passed to its eternal reward in the person of Johnson Smallwood, at the early age of 61 years, on March 27th, at Vernon, P. E. I.

Deceased had been in failing health for some time but patiently bore his sufferings with calm resolution to the end. He was visited during the last days of his illness by his pastor Rev. P. D. MacGuigan, who administered the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church to a fervent Christian soul. Besides his numerous friends and neighbors he leaves a sorrowful widow to whom the community extends its heartfelt sympathy. The funeral, which took place on Tuesday morning, March 29th, was largely attended by those who came to pay their last respects to an honest and respectful citizen.

The pallbearers were:—Dingwell Jenkins, J. George MacDonald, William Jenkins, John R. Almond, Truman Jenkins, Allan Fraser. "May his soul rest in peace."

THOMAS MCCARTHY
EDDIE O'HALLORAN

Seldom has the residents of St. Mark's, Lot 7 been cast into deeper gloom, than on the morning of March 28th when it was made known that Michael O'Halloran and Charles McCarthy had received a telegram stating that their sons Eddie O'Halloran and Thomas McCarthy had been killed the previous evening, by being struck with a street car at Stamford, Conn. The heart-rending news fairly chilled the neighbors with grief and they flocked to the homes of the grief-stricken friends and did all they could to console them, but nothing seemed of any avail, as their grief was too deep for human sympathy to heal.

Imagine the feelings of those friends on receiving such dire news and who waited for five long days for the remains of their beloved ones to arrive with the one consolation in view, that if taking their last sad look at them, but even this comfort was denied them as the caskets were not opened for reasons too well known to the reader.

Death is at all times sad, but especially so, in those cases, when the lives of two promising young men are taken so suddenly, without one moment's notice.

The affliction which Mr. and Mrs. O'Halloran are called upon to bear, is rendered doubly sad by the fact that only last June they mourned the loss of another son, who left a young widow and four small children.

The deceased young men were of kindly and jovial dispositions, general favorites and always ready to assist in all the youthful activities of the community, and their large circle of friends deeply regret their untimely death.

They were devout members of the Catholic Church, even in Stamford, they were never known to have missed the Sunday devotion held in their church.

On Friday evening, April 1st their remains accompanied by Wilfred O'Halloran, Eugene McCarthy, and Mary McCarthy, arrived at Bloomfield Station, where an exceptionally large number of relatives and friends were in-waiting to follow them to their respective homes, the homes they left only a few months ago enjoying youth, health, and strength. Little did they or their kind parents think as they stepped from those thresholds, that their next home coming would bring them enclosed in their beautiful caskets.

The two funerals took place on Saturday, April 2nd to St. Mark's Church, Lot 7 and were not only the largest but the saddest even seen in the parish. The church was filled with those, who out of sympathy for the bereaved and admiration for the deceased came a considerable distance to show by their presence, that they too were deeply grieved over the sad deaths of the departed.

The pastor Rev. J. A. McDonald offered up the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass after which the two caskets were silently borne to the cemetery where all that remained earthly of two dutiful sons were consigned to the dust. Over that pitiful scene at the graves we will draw the curtain as it was too sad for a frail pen to describe.

Eddie O'Halloran leaves to mourn his heart-broken parents, seven brothers, one sister and an adopted sister, with whom he lived while away.

Thomas McCarthy leaves his sorrowful parents, four brothers and three sisters.

To these we tender our sincere sympathy and leave them with the one sweet and consoling hope that of meeting their beloved ones in the "Great Beyond" as they will never enjoy their pleasing company on this earth any more. May their souls rest in peace.

JOHN A. TAYLOR.

A brief biography of John A. Taylor, lately deceased by his brother David Taylor.

John A. Taylor was born in Brooklyn, P. E. Island, on April 12th, 1857.

Passed away April 2nd, 1927, in Long Beach, California. Jack, as he was familiarly called, is worthy of remembrance, not for fame or wealth or name, nor for many words, for he was a quiet man. His efforts were for the best things. At an early age he learned the blacksmith trade, completing his apprenticeship under Elisha Weatherbee of Georgetown, P. E. Island, graduating as a first class mechanic in his chosen line.

In 1879, he accompanied by his brother Donald, went to Colorado, locating at Golden, but soon after settled in Greeley, where he later formed a partnership with Mr. M. H. Farr, under the firm name of "Farr and Taylor." Together they built up a thriving trade in blacksmith and wagon & machine repairing, and later conducted a farm implement business in connection.

Some years later Jack became sole owner and proprietor of the business, and prospered, by reason of work well done and because of honest and courteous treatment to all. During these years of busy work there was found the time to take active part in the movements which are always necessary in the life of a growing town, so when a volunteer fire company was formed, this young enthusiast was one of the leaders. Later when a company of workmen was organized he was soon made Captain. He was also an active Oddfellow and Mason, taking leading parts in their degree team work. In 1887 he married Miss Fannie E. Billings, daughter of one of the pioneers of the "Greeley Colony", and to them have been born three children, viz. Neil, who is at this time a successful business manager in Colorado, Calif. Mrs. E. O. Bacch of Fortuna, Calif. Mrs. Taylor resides in the city of Long Beach, California. When the United States became involved in war with Spain, Captain Jack and his company enlisted as volunteers, and were sent to the Philippine Islands, where they served until the conclusion of the war. Upon his return he again took up the work which he had laid down, some years later moving into a new shop which he had equipped with electrically driven lathes and a modern machinery for the manufacture of perforated wall pipes, steel head gates for reservoirs, and several other specialties of his own invention and design. After six years in Colorado, he moved his family to California, bought a comfortable home in Long Beach in sight of the great Pacific. Jack has always been a rugged, well preserved man until within the last two years. His illness becoming acute in the last few months an X-ray examination was made which revealed the cause as gastric ulcers and cancer. There were many of the old friends from Colorado who had also come to California, and there were many new found friends to help with kindly acts and words of cheer during his illness, and when the end came they laid him away in a beautiful spot in Inglewood Cemetery, with the casket draped in the "Stars and Stripes" the Emblem of his chosen country for which he offered his life in the time of need.

Jack was the fourth son of Neil Taylor and Mary Hume Taylor of Brooklyn, P. E. Island, who were well known pioneers of their day.

Brothers and sisters still living are William, San Diego, Calif., Donald and Charles and Angus, Colorado, Duncan, Seattle, Wash., and David, Pomona, Calif. Mrs. Anne Bears, Watertown, Mass. and Mrs. A. MacRae, Charlottetown, P. E. I. There are many relatives on "The Island", both of the Taylor and Hume families, and no doubt there are many old friends who will be made sad to hear of the passing of this friend of the olden time. He was a firm believer in the Divine order of life, and in the ultimate triumph of Love and good. He was a man of honor, as his father before him.

(Pomona, California, March 7th 1927)

MR. JOHN D. MCCARVILL

The death of Mr. John D. McCarvill of Kinkora on the 14th ult., at the age of 60 years removed from this earthly sphere a highly respected citizen and successful farmer who was always interested in his vocation and made a success of it.

One week previous to his demise he was apparently in his usual good health but was suddenly stricken with a severe attack of pneumonia and notwithstanding the best medical skill and nursing employed the disease became incurable and he departed this life on the above date.

Mr. McCarvill was a good and sincere member of the Catholic Church and previous to his death was frequently visited by his pastor from whom he received the last sacrament of the church and was fully consoled and resigned to meet his Redeemer.

In life he was of a bright cheery nature always pleasant and entertaining and had many ardent friends in the community in which he lived and was also a kind husband and father as well as a charitable neighbor.

He leaves to mourn a wife and two sons, Charles and Leonard at home, one brother, Mr. O. G. McCarvill, Kinkora, three sisters, Mrs. Arthur Murphy, Summerside, Mrs. F. P. Murphy, Emerald, Mrs. Peter

Bon Ami

No wonder Mother smiles too—

Little Betsy laughs with delight at the new "kitchen mirror." And Mother smiles, too! For in a twinkling, Bon Ami's magic has made all the aluminium shining clean.

A generous sprinkle of Bon Ami Powder—a few rubs with a damp cloth—then polish with a clean, dry cloth.

Gone is every trace of stain and burn both inside and out—and your aluminium glistens like brand new! It's not work—it's just like play!

Manufacturers of aluminium ware for many years have recommended Bon Ami for keeping the polished parts of aluminium bright and shiny.

All around the house you'll find dozens and dozens of uses for magic Bon Ami—both Powder and Cake. And it is kind to your hands. It never roughens or reddens the skin.

Have you tried Bon Ami for cleaning and polishing Bathtubs, Tiling, Fine Kitchen Utensils, Aluminium Ware, Brass, Copper, Tin and Nickel Ware?

There's nothing like Bon Ami for cleaning and polishing Windows, Mirrors, Steel Knives and Forks, White Shoes, Linoleum and Congoleum.

Cake and Powder—most housewives use both
