

DIAMONDS

The most important feature in the buying of a diamond is the dealer you patronize. You must have absolute confidence in the house you deal with. Our reputation covers the value and quality.

For many years we have been selling diamonds to people who know and demand the best. Every stone is absolutely backed by our guarantee—a guarantee that has stood for a most unexacting honest policy for nearly half a century.

PRESENTATION AND ADDRESS.

On Wednesday evening, April 7th, a number of friends invaded the house of Mr. and Mrs. Angus Currie, of Bideford, to spend one more pleasant evening with them before they left for their future home in Quincy, Mass. A most enjoyable evening was spent in games, music and pleasant conversation. Luncheon was served by the ladies present, the quantity of which was testified to by the loud-speaking appetites of those partaking of it. A purse of gold was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Currie, accompanied by the following address, which was read by Mr. Reid:—To Mr. and Mrs. Currie—Dear Friends—We, a number of your friends and neighbors, having learned, with much regret, that you and your estimable family have decided to leave your beautiful home and take up your abode for a time in the neighbouring republic, feel that we cannot permit you to do so without some direct expression of the esteem and regard in which you are held. Words fail to express how deeply we regret your departure from amongst us, as we have all on so many occasions, had the opportunity of enjoying your kindness, hospitality and entertainment, and we shall always cherish the memories of the pleasant evenings, spent in your home. It is needless to say that we wish you continued happiness, prosperity and health in your new abode, and we shall look forward eagerly to the time when you shall see fit to return and open up afresh the friendship which has so happily existed between us, and which now will only be held in check by the distance intervening. We have much pleasure in presenting you with this brief address accompanied by these pieces of gold, which do not in any measure, serve to estimate the amount of our esteem for you, but which we feel, you will appreciate, not for their intrinsic value, but for the good-will, and kindly feelings towards you, which prompted their donation. And now, dear friends, we join once more in wishing you every continued blessing and prosperity through life. Signed on behalf of those present. Mr. Currie, in replying, spoke very feelingly of the friendship which had always existed between the people of Tyne Valley and his family and they would always cherish the fondest memories of the pleasant times they had spent together. After the singing of "Auld Lang Syne," the company dispersed to their homes, feeling that they had passed a very enjoyable evening.

LETTER OF SYMPATHY.

To Mr. Lieith Cowan and Family—Dear Friends:—It was with feelings of the deepest sorrow, that we, the members of the Lower Montague Presbyterian Ladies Aid Society, learned of the death of your beloved wife; and our heartfelt sympathy goes out to you in your sudden and great bereavement, and to the children who have so early been bereft of the care and training of so good a mother. We have lost a loving helper, but our loss is indeed very small when compared with yours. We commend you to look for consolation to Him, who doeth all things well, and who ever comforted and sustained our departed friend.

The organization of our Society was altogether owing to the work of Mrs. Cowan, and we feel that what ever success we have attained has been due to her self-denying labor. During the two years in which she has occupied the office of President she was most faithful in her attendance on all the meetings; most patient and painstaking in all her undertakings, and her leadership and presence had seemed to us indispensable as one, who being dead yet speaketh. On behalf of the Society—Mrs. M. J. Davis, Mrs. George I. Wright, Mrs. S. E. Atken.—Patriot please copy.

Business Change

A business change has been made in the firm of Morris and Smith, dealers in foot wear, whereby E. H. Beer, formerly of the firm of Beer and Weeks has become a partner in the Morris and Smith concern. In 1911 Mr. Beer on account of poor health sold out his interests here and went to California where the sunny climate restored his health and he returned prepared to go into business again. The well known firm of Morris and Smith have been in business in Charlottetown for the past fifteen years and have deservedly earned a reputation for their reliable and painstaking methods. The success of the firm has encouraged them to enlarge their present retail business and also to go into the wholesale trade. Arrangements are now being completed to this end and the firm will hereafter carry a wholesale stock in Charlottetown where the merchants throughout the Province can have their wants supplied. The addition of a new partner and a new branch to their already popular business will no doubt, place this well known business in a strong position and the Guardian bespeak for them continued success in the retail business and success in the retail business and good results for their enterprise in branching into the wholesale line thereby keeping business in their own Province which has heretofore been done largely by concerns in the other provinces. 9480.

CONCERT AT ANNANDALE.

One of the largest audiences ever assembled at Annandale with an almost perfect night and a first class programme all combined to make the concert held at Annandale on Monday, April 5th, under the auspices of the Annandale Dramatic Club, such a decided success. The first number on the programme was a chorus entitled "We'll Never Let the Old Flag Fall," by the choir of the A. D. C., followed by recitations by Misses Featrice Morrow and Marguerite Jenkins and Mrs. G. E. Savitte, who acquitted themselves in a highly creditable manner. Among the numbers worthy of special mention was a dialogue entitled, "Mr. Worth's Farm Hands" in four acts, which delighted the large audience. Misses Ida Macdonald and Jean Howlett and Messrs. John Horton, John Laperre and Marple Howlett acting their respective parts in a manner, (as remarked by a critic), worthy of professionals. Miss Mary Laperre sang a solo in fine voice and was heartily encored. Mr. Marple Howlett sang a solo entitled "When Jack Comes Back." A dialogue entitled, "Peleg and Patience," is also worthy of special mention, the characters represented by Miss Mary Laperre and Miss Howlett being particularly well depicted. A laughable farce comedy entitled, "The Darkey Wood Dealer," followed by a solo by Mr. Roy Howlett, who, as on former occasions, brought down the house, being obliged to respond twice to the persistent encores of the large assemblage, and the closing chorus, entitled, "We Didn't Want to Fight, But by Jingo Now He Do," by the choir brought the highly interesting and entertaining programme to a close. Misses Jean Howlett and Mary E. MacFarlane presided at the organ in their usual capable manner. A feature that added greatly to the entertainment of the evening was the violin solos by Laperre Bros. with organ accompaniment by Miss Mary MacFarlane. The assistance of Misses Helen MacFarlane and Jessie Laperre in the A. D. C. choir was in a large measure responsible for the high quality of the vocal portion of the programme. The splendid success of the evening's entertainment is largely due to the commendable efforts of the energetic teacher, Miss Ida Macdonald, under whose management the programme was prepared. The thanks of the A. D. C. are due Mr. Joseph Chaffee of Glenside, who very kindly acted as chairman and auctioneer and, needless to say, maintained his high reputation as a master in those particular arts. The snug sum of $80. was realized.

"TOMMY'S" VERSION.

General Sir Archibald Hunter, commander of the British Third New Army, is immensely popular in the service on account of his large fund of good stories of reg. mental life. One of the best concerns a certain "Tommy" who was more noted for his wit than for his scholarship. The man's grammar and spelling were simply awful, and Sir Archibald, who was quite a young officer at the time, was always trying to teach him the King's English.

"I don't believe you know what w-o-m-a-n spells," said the future General to the uneducated one on the occasion.

"Trouble, as a rule, sir," replied "Tommy," with a grin.

Hunter was so amused that he was quite unable to reprimand the man for his "cheek."
