NEW I. O. O. F. OFFICERS.

Gentlemen,—In June, '98, I had my hand and wrist bitten and badly mangled by a vicious horse. I suffered greatly for several days and the tooth cuts refused to heal until your agent gave me a bottle of MINARD'S LINIMENT, which I began using. WOMAN DIED WHILE OFFICIALS HELD PARLEY

BARRINGTON, August 9—A woman died at Barrington early this week under circumstances peculiarly sad and painful. She had been ill when leaving New York on a vessel of which her husband was captain, and grew worse on board. The vessel was becalmed off Barrington and the captain procured the services of a fisherman to take the woman in his motor boat ashore. She was put on board, clothed none too warmly for the purpose, but with no blankets or other protection from the cold fog. A letter accompanied her, from the captain, explaining the urgency of the case, but the fisherman found himself unable to get the woman landed or have her needs attended to for some hours after arriving with her at Barrington.

On the contrary she lay in the fisherman's boat for four hours while officials parleyed as to the proper steps to be taken. Her pitiful prayers to be taken ashore and not left there to die should have been enough, one would suppose, to move somebody to afford relief and shelter, but they availed not. There she lay for about four hours sick and cold and suffering and dying. The fishermen had an oil coat which protected him from the fog. She had no covering but the inadequate clothing in which she had been put on board the motor boat. Needless to say she died before morning. But needless also to say, that somebody should rise to explain how it could happen that such a tragedy should occur in a civilized land and among Christian people.

ENORMOUS INCREASE IN NUMBER OF HORSES

The Year Book of the U. S. Department of Agriculture discloses an astonishing increase in horse stock during the last decade. It shows that in 1900 there were 15,000,000 horses and 2,000,000 mules in the United States, and that ten years later, or in 1910, there were 24,000,000 horses and 4,000,000 mules. These numbers are the largest on record in the history of the country. Comparison with those of ten years ago they show a gain of more than fifty per cent. for the horses and 100 per cent. for the mules. If automobiles had never been invented to compete with horses these would be remarkable
