VIOLENT ATTACKS OF DYSPEPSIA

Suffered Tortures Until She Tried "Fruit-a-tives"

St. Jean de Matha, Jan. 27th, 1914.

"After suffering for a long time with Dyspepsia, I have been made well by "Fruit-a-tives." I suffered so much that at last I would not dare to eat for I was afraid of dying. Five years ago, I received samples of "Fruit-a-tives" and after taking them I felt relief. Then I sent for three boxes and I kept improving until I was well. I quickly regained my lost weight—and now I eat, sleep and digest well—in a word, I am fully recovered, thanks to 'Fruit-a-tives.'

Mme. CHARBONNEAU.

50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c. At dealers or sent postpaid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

BRITISH DEFECTS.

Britain is suffering from a number of deeply-rooted and almost ineradicable national prejudices, which all amount to a sort of credo about the absolute world power and sea dominion of England. Just as the French or the Italians are thrilled with enthusiasm by the power of a few effective and inflammatory phrases, so is the Englishman moved to action as soon as an appeal is made to one of his dogmas just mentioned and they are proclaimed to be in danger. Of all the enemies of Germany the British people is the least determined and the least enthusiastic of all; if the masses of the British people is the least enthusiastic of all; if the masses of the British nation struggle for existence it is due to the fact that they have not yet realized that their credo of the unlimited world-power of England is in danger and is being threatened with the loss of its material foundations. Everything, however, points to the probability that when England finally awakens to the realization of this danger the struggle will already have been settled, and its result will have become unalterable.—Frankfurter Zeitung.

JANET KNEW.

An old tenant on Queen Victoria's Balmoral estate used to be greatly concerned when the Queen went driving on Sunday afternoon. She even ventured to speak about it. The Queen, who allowed a good many liberties to her tenantry, smiled, and said to the old woman: "But, Janet, the New Testament tells us distinctly that the Sabbath was made for man." "Aye," said Janet, severely, "I know it does; and I think none the more of the New Testament for that."

A CHILD'S TONGUE SHOWS IF LIVER OR BOWELS ARE ACTIVE

IF CROSS, FEVERISH, SICK, BILIOUS, GIVE FRUIT LAXATIVE AT ONCE.

Every mother realizes after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs," that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping.

When cross, irritable, feverish or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, Mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When its little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic— remember, a good "inside cleansing "should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs", which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here so don't be fooled. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company."

FINE WORK OF Y. M. C. A.

Providing entertainment for Canadian soldiers near the trenches in an old barn at night, without heat or light, is one of the interesting experiences of a Y. M. C. A. officer, as related in a letter just received from France.

"Recently a Colonel sent in a request for a night's entertainment for his men, but added that it might be wise to send someone in advance to view his accommodation, as all he had was an old barn," he writes . . . . . "We found the officers and all the men assembled in the old barn, and although without heat or light we had a merry evening. The piles of last year's straw served as desirable seats for a large number, the loft made a serviceable gallery, while the over-head beams were crowded with those who wanted uninterrupted views. The curtain was suspended among the cobwebs and the pathescope machine mounted on a couple of bully beef boxes, while the gramophone was honored with a small table borrowed from a farm house.

"No audience at a famous theatre could have enjoyed the evening better than those chaps. When the gramophone played pieces they knew they all joined in, and several times during the evening they enlivened the barn with selections that were not known when the First Division left Canada. Eight rolls of films were shown and when at the close of the evening the Colonel called for cheers for the Y. M. C. A., they made the rafters ring, and an officer from the column, who accompanied me, said: 'The 'Y' sure has a place in the hearts of those men.'

"Five nights a week are spent in this way, and so far the column have loaned me a car so that these places can be reached. They average eight miles from this central 'Y.'

"Recently I asked an officer from an Ontario town to accompany me on one of these trips and operate the machine, which he gladly did. At the close of the evening he said: 'Do you know, the last time I was in a 'Y' they put me out for using bad language, and there I've run through six films and haven't sworn once.'"

FAT PEOPLE DIE FIRST.

When you are working overtime—smile! You mightn't feel like doing so, but, according to the latest statistics, you are qualifying for a long life, especially if your work is physical and out of doors.

A certain Dr. Virgil A. Davis has been finding out what makes people live a long time. It has taken him twelve months to do so, and one of his subjects was the oldest woman in the civilized world—age 138.

Out of 381 men and 291 women of 90 years or more, the largest number were farmers, and, after them came carpenters and merchants. Most of the old people had worked hard all their lives, and had always had plenty of fresh air and ventilation.

Environment was found of more importance than heredity, and blondes were found much more inclined to long life than brunettes.

Fat men and women did not figure in the venerable group, and bald heads were not conspicuous.

Stimulants, including tea and coffee, were very sparingly indulged in. Meat was not eaten more than once a day, and all the meals were of very moderate quantity.

It seems that temperance, ventilation, hard work, sufficient sleep, milk or water for beverage, have been the general rules of these long livers; but one point must be remembered—these virtues must not be pursued with a martyred air or a long face. One of the good old rules which the doctor's investigations have verified is the fact that laughter and cheerful interests are better than medicine. All his subjects were great laughers and never worried.

WENT TO THE DENTIST.

After suffering a long time with toothache the young colored girl got up her courage enough to go to the dentist. The moment he touched the tooth she began to scream. "Look here," he said, "you mustn't yell like that. Don't you know I'm a 'painless dentist?'" "Weel, mebbe yo' is painless, sah," she said, 'but ah aint."

DRAGONS.

The mythology of dragons (may the City of London always keep hers!) is immensely mixed. The one thing certain seems to be that of the many writers who describe them not one ever saw them. Many of the descriptions come nearer to a winged crocodile than anything else, and the conjecture that the dragon idea was developed from some tradition of an extinct saurian seems probable enough. In the highly imaginative gypsy lore of south-eastern Europe, the "drakos" becomes the ogre of the nursery; he takes a human wife, hunts, is an expert in horseflesh, and lives, of course, in a palace. Andrew Lang pointed out that the modern Greek story of "the last drakos" is the same as that told in Scotland of "the last Pict."—London Chronicle.
