range for the work being done in reasonable time, said he had only been able to get a copy of the journal of last session from the Legislative Library at the time of the recent election and had only secured a copy by the regular distribution about a week ago.

THE PREMIER replied that it had not been usual to distribute the journals more promptly than was done this year, and that in the recent election the Opposition had all the official information necessary for the full discussion of public affairs. The consideration of the address will be taken up at today's session on motion of Mr. McPhee, seconded by Dr. Warburton.

The House adjourned at 3.35 o'clock till today at 3 p.m.

THURSDAY

Wednesday, March 8. The House opened at 3.35. Mr. McPHEE moved the House into committee of the whole to consider the grant of a pension to the speaker from the throne. He felt proud to be selected for this duty, sorry that it had not been entrusted to older hands. The prosperity of the country was a cause of thankfulness. He spoke of the great Empire to which we belong, containing 400 millions of people, and the good sons of Victoria, Edward, and our present noble King. The health had referred to our prosperous agriculture. He gave credit to the Government for fostering and encouraging it by farmers' institutes, dairy associations, seed fairs, cold storage, &c. Prosperity and contentment reigned throughout this Province and Canada. The value of our products in farm, dairy and fishing is 13 million dollars, $120 for each man, woman and child in the Province. He hoped in a short time to see a population of 200,000 in this Province.

Following the outline of the Governor's speech, he spoke of the educational value of the address in the value of our free educational system, and came to the matter of our federal representation. He could not believe that the Province would finally be deprived of our due representation and closed with a peroration lauding this Island Province as the Garden of the Dominion and of the American continent.

Dr. WARBURTON in responding the motion referred to the greatness and wisdom of King Edward, of his noble mother Queen Victoria, and the less sustained by their removal. But under Providence, one good Sovereign succeeds another and King George, wisely trained under his good and great father, bade fair to keep the line of noble Kings unbroken. He hoped he would get back our lost representation but there are difficulties in the way. Some other Provinces are opposed and some indifferent. He spoke of the importance of agriculture and the value of what had been done by the Government in various ways to assist and develop a great industry. Last year had been a good one, with generally large crops and excellent prices. He praised the Experimental Farm and its very capable and energetic Superintendent, Mr. Clark. The Farm in what it is and what it teaches he declared to be invaluable to the farmers of the Province. The short course at Truro, where the value to our young farmers, Exhibitions are useful. He thought the judges should give their reasons why they awarded prizes, first, second or third. That would be educative. A good class of immigrants were now coming to the Province. We want more lawyers for employment on and military training in the schools would be a valuable addition to our educational system.

Mr. MATHIESON congratulated the mover and seconder of the address, and considering what was in and what was omitted from the speech, they had done remarkably well. There is much in the speech about agriculture. Many other weighty matters were wholly omitted. It was well to recall the memory of the good King Edward, the greatest and wisest of the Kings of his time, a King among Kings. Why was there no reference to the coronation? It was well to have our losses in that respect restored. But for two years past the seat held by Senator Ferguson had remained unfilled in defiance of the constitution and our undoubted right. A seat so ably filled thus left vacant was a crime against the Province. Yet the Government had apparently no objection to the fact that was not the only vacancy. The Supreme Court was maimed and made practically useless as a Court of appeal. We are entitled to three Judges and we have but two. Important cases had been held up for more than a year, some of them involving large amounts. Why the Government delay? What is our local Government for if not to guard such interests as these? Why labor to get more representatives in the Commons when owing to death and illness we have but one member attending and voting in the Senate instead of four? He charged that while this was so these vacancies kept two members of the House of Commons practically useless, while seats were appointed to office. Of the four members in the Commons only one had raised his voice in protest. The silence of the other three had laid a double obligation upon the Government of the Province to protest with all their force and enforce our right of representation.

Mr. Mathieson proceeded to speak of our prosperous agriculture, which had reached the high water mark. Our farmers are progressive and the Commissioner of Agriculture would have hard work to keep up with them. Are the farmers receiving the aid and guidance they are entitled to? As to the seed fairs the farmers had acted of themselves. He would like to know what had been done to enforce the Weeds Act, and why so little was done. Let the results at the Experimental Farm be compared with those on the Provincial Farm. The latter is the better soil, and under charge of the Commissioner of Agriculture it produced but 30 bushels of oats per acre against 60 bushels per acre on the other. The Commissioner of Agriculture surely ought to visit the Experimental Farm and what had the Government done to assist and guide these people? How many had remained? He believed our Province better suited to old country people than is the Northwest.

He (Mr. Mathieson) had repeatedly brought to the attention of the Government the necessity for cheaper school books. The answer of the Premier had been, "We have heard all this before." Premier Hazen was in power less than three months in New Brunswick when a reduction of 40 per cent. was made in the readers. When our Premier wanted to do something he went to the Commissioner, Sir James Whitney. In New Brunswick the reduction now applied to all school books. The Government here had shelved the question, appointed a commission which cost $4,000 on which they had not acted, and now there is no reference in the bill to raise rates. Surely there was some ground for complaint where here. The Provincial Farm cost to run it $14.32 and made $21, including what was collected from the previous year's sales, and after selling three-fourths of the stock. What had been done to get our farmers better transportation, to get rid of the three short haul rates? He had something to say about the loss of the Commissioner told what had been done to get cold storage for produce while in transit, and what the cold storage in this city had accomplished.

He (Mr. Mathieson) spoke highly of the class of immigrants who had arrived during the year. The success achieved by Rev. H. H. Spencer, R. spoken of in Parliament as being in good shape and said the dual control should be done away. Mr. Warburton had spoken of it also and favored the Dominion Government taking over the fisheries. He (Mr. Mathieson) held we should conserve our oyster fisheries and not hand them over to Canada. Again nothing is said in the speech about our claims against the Dominion. These claims had figured in previous speeches in 1899, 1902, 1904, and down to 1909. Then we were told our claims were to be pressed and would be paid and enable better provision to be made for the public services without increase of taxation. The Premier had totalled these claims at $7,600,000. And now they were not thought worthy of mention. We are asked to accept the gospel of sweet contentment that "we are doing fine," as the Government organ editor said, when he was drawing his salary from the Dominion Government.

Nothing was said about the consolidation of the statutes, a most necessary thing; nothing about those magnificent permanent public works, on which much money had been wasted for election purposes. Nothing about any of the most important matters outside of agriculture with which the House and country are concerned. And why, contrary to the custom, was no reference made to the death of the late Mr. Laird? Surely it was a barren speech.

THE PREMIER delivered a message from the Governor that when the House adjourns today it shall stand adjourned till Friday next at three o'clock.

Coming to the subject of debate he warmly congratulated the mover and seconder of the address on the ability with which they had discharged that duty. Especially did he compliment the new member of the Second District as a distinct acquisition to the House. The leader of the Opposition had criticized the speech, as it is usual to do. As to the omission of reference to the coronation, it was the same in this and in other Legislatures before King Edward's coronation. Next year, when the coronation is over the matter will receive attention. As to the representation in the Senate he thought it very unfortunate that only Senator Yeo was able to fill his seat and one seat is vacant by death. But this Government has no control in this or other federal appointments. Senator Ferguson was a very able man, and Senator Robertson is ill. Another seat in the Senate has been practically vacant for three years. There were also Senate vacancies for other Provinces. He looked to the time when the Senate would be reformed and made effective. Our representation in the Commons is of much more importance at present. He hoped, if we cannot get back what we have lost that at least our present representation may be retained. He had agreed with the leaders of Government in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia to press this matter before the census and the new allotment of representation are made. To this end a convention of all the Provinces was asked for. The Dominion Government held that unless all the Provinces agreed nothing could be done. At the convention at Charlottetown, Alberta and British Columbia were not represented, while those present were generally favorable. It was agreed that the three Maritime Provinces should prepare a formal memorial of their case. He believed the opportunity would come at next redistribution to have our lost members restored.

As to the vacant judgeship the Government had made no representations. They had no control over such appointments. As to agriculture the Government had done all they could, he thought they had done well and that the country appreciated it. The Stock Farm had never been a great success under any Government rule. The old days of Conservatism and became infected with tuberculosis, and the stock was discarded. He believed it was not desirable to breed animals at the Stock Farm to be sold at one-third the price of imported pure-bred stock. So the farm had been turned over to the Hospital for the Insane and the infirmaries.

It being 6 o'clock the House adjourned till Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock, in order to enable the members to attend the Seed Fair at Summerside.

Writing to the Presbyterian Witness on Church union on Feb. 25th, last, Rev. T. F. Fullerton, of St. James Church, City, says:—"In view of the large, and I think, an unjustified, and influential minority against the Basis of Union," the time has come for the strong majority to play a magnanimous part by taking such action as will remove the question of union from some time from the active propaganda of the church. I submit that this is a fair suggestion. I personally and strongly oppose union but I appreciate and admire the sincerity of those in favor of the same. I feel that great and permanent good must accrue from the joint deliberations which have revealed such splendid ability and fine spirit. There is, however, grave danger in the existing conditions in forcing to an issue the far-reaching question of union by the power which has been legitimately placed in the hands of the majority as the result of the action of the Presbyteries. I believe that such a generous act on the part of the majority would be highly appreciated by many in the Church who look at the question from opposite standpoints, especially as accompanied by some steps leading to federation.

The P. E. Island Presbytery was in session Tuesday morning and afternoon. In the morning Assembly reports were dealt with. Rev. Andrew Gray, of Murray Harbor, was elected Moderator, Rev. W. H. Dr. James W. Robertson, Chairman of the Royal Commission on Technical Education and Industrial Training, who was here with that commission last year, recently delivered an address in Ottawa on Conservation. In the course of the address he referred to the work of the Institute of Conservation in P. E. I. Then in Prince Edward Island a farmer from near Summerside testified. We asked this farmer how long he had been on the place he then held. Twenty-two years. He had 97 acres. Twenty-two years ago he had a mortgage of $1,100 on the farm. For ten years he just had his own. Then he leased 30 acres to a farmer who kept cows and made butter. There is conservation—land, cattle and the family. The previous year—1909—he had sold $900 of butter and $300 worth of pork, and he sold a horse every second year. There was no mortgage on his farm. That's conservation.

FRIDAY. J. D. Livingstone, High Bank, has purchased a very handsome brood mare.

The death occurred at Kensington on Friday morning, March 3rd, of Isabel Katherine, little daughter of John A. and Mrs. Doughart, aged one year and seven months. The funeral was held on Saturday afternoon, when a goodly number of sympathetic friends followed all that was earthly to the cemetery. The services were conducted by Rev. A. W. Watson, who spoke words of comfort and Christian hope to the mourning ones. The grief-stricken parents have much sympathy in their deep sorrow. "Is it well with the child?—It is well."

A quiet wedding took place at St. Mary's Church, Winnipeg, Feb. 7, when Miss Mary E. McKenna, daughter of Frank McKenna of Charlottetown, P. E. I., was married to Francis J. Berrigan, also of Charlottetown, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Father Dalton. The bride wore a pretty cream cologne over a tulle dress with pretty hat to match and carried a bouquet of white roses. The bridesmaid, who was a sister of the groom, Miss Julia Berrigan, wore a white crepe de chine dress with picture hat. The best man was Robert Christie, of Carman, Mr. and Mrs. Berrigan will reside at 851 York street, St. James. Mr. Berrigan is a brother of George Berrigan, barber, City, and his bride has a large number of friends in this city. The Guardian extends its best wishes.

The funeral of the late Mrs. John Kelly, City, took place Wednesday morning from the P. E. I. R. Station, after the arrival of the eastern train to St. Dunstan's Cathedral and from thence to the R. C. Cemetery. There was a large attendance at the funeral. The services at the church and grave were conducted by Rev. T. S. McDonald. The following were the pallbearers: John Hogan, Thomas Hickey, Patrick Mahar, Patrick Stewart, Michael Smith and D. Dowling. The late Mrs. Kelly, whose death occurred on March 8th, in Morell, as previously reported, was a native of Ireland and emigrated to this Province in 1840, her maiden name being Ellen E. Gerry. She leaves to mourn, besides a large number of friends, three sons and one daughter, viz: Patrick in this city, William in Lowell, Mass; George in Morell, and Mrs. George W. Hooper, in Charlestown, Mass. She leaves forty-four grand children and three great grand children.

A rather important congregational meeting of Zion Church was held in the schoolroom last evening. There was a large attendance and Rev. R. J. Strathie presided. The object for which the meeting was called was for a discussion and decision on the proposed Zion Church, after some deliberation a building committee was appointed to consist of the following: Murdoch McLeod, W. T. Huggan, J. J. Bethune, S. A. McDonald, S. Albert McDonald, J. T. McKenzie, J. M. Campbell, and Rev. R. G. Strathie, officiating. This committee was given full power to arrange for plans, all for tenders, close contracts and generally superintending building operations. The new building will be on the Zion Church property on corner of Jernon and Prince Streets. It will be built of brick with stone trimming and will have a schoolroom attached. It will most likely be built along the general lines of the design furnished by C. B. Chapple, as exhibited in S. A. McDonald's show window for some time past. The new Zion will have a seating capacity of one thousand and will be filled in the interior in modern fashion. In the erection of the new church Charlottetown's number of splendid religious edifices will be supplemented by one worthy of comparison with any of its size in the Maritime Provinces.

The trustees have been instructed to sell the buildings on the lot where they intend to build and it is confidently hoped that operations will be commenced this summer. On Monday and Tuesday of this week a subscription committee canvassed a portion of this congregation and last night they reported that while but an inchoate canvass had been made, the result was most gratifying and that they met with a warm response from the congregation.

Many in this city will deeply regret to learn of the death of Miss Arabella Douse, Sydney St., which took place at her residence last evening. She was a recent attack of bronchitis hastened the end. She was a daughter of the late Hon. Wm. The evening was spent very pleasantly. The presents were many and costly, attesting to the popularity of the contrasting parties.
