SHIP BUILDING REVIVED

As noted in our news columns yesterday shipbuilding on a considerable scale, as a starter, has been inaugurated at Cardigan, where the keel will shortly be laid of a three hundred ton schooner. The movers in this commendable project are Messrs. J. A. McDonald, G. A. Thompson of Montague, and ex-Mayor Charles Lyons of Charlotte town. The ship will be built under the supervision of the veteran shipbuilder, Mr. Kimbal Coffin.

We understand there is abundance of lumber for shipbuilding in many parts of the province and with the modern appliances that can be brought into requisition today in the way of gasoline and other motive power, shipbuilding should be a far different proposition from what it was in the days of the saw pit and the broad-axe. Fortunes were made in those old days in shipbuilding but it is extremely doubtful if, even in its palmy days, the outlook for profit was as bright as it is today.

The demand for tonnage was never as keen as at present when everything that can hold out any hope of making even a short voyage is put into commission. A three hundred ton vessel, such as the one now being started at Cardigan, will be a mine of wealth to its owners when built and a means of lucrative employment to labourers, carpenters, blacksmiths, lumbermen and others while building.

The good example set by the enterprising gentlemen above mentioned might well be followed by others in the province. There is any amount of capital available, plenty of building material and plenty of suitable locations for shipyards. Suitable lumber is also still available for many ships although not as abundant as when the primeval forest covered the greater part of the province. Labour is also available and there are still living many who earned good money in the old shipbuilding days. With all the disadvantages, however, resulting from depletion of the forests and scarcity of labour, the inducements for shipbuilding at present prices are still sufficient to offset any difficulties that may arise. Shipbuilding is today a patriotic duty as well as a money-making business.

AN AUXILIARY CAR FERRY

The movement to induce the Government if possible, to procure the car ferry Leonard until recently used between Quebec and Levis, as an auxiliary to the Car Ferry Prince Edward Island will be heartily endorsed by everybody in this province who knows our transportation difficulties. At present we are dependent solely on the Prince Edward Island to link us up, going or coming, with the mainland. This steamer will have to go in dry dock this spring for the annual cleaning up, as she will also have to do periodically afterwards. When she is off we will be practically tied up. It is not beyond the range of possibility either that our present car ferry might meet with mishap, in which case, especially in winter, we would be completely isolated. The car ferry has done marvellously well during the present winter, having met no interruption that she did not overcome and making from one to two and three trips daily. This is very satisfactory but cannot be expected to go on indefinitely. The ice fighting is by no means yet over for this winter, indeed, judging by past winters the worst is yet to come. A second steamer, under the circumstances is not only desirable but absolutely necessary and could be kept well employed in summer either between the Capes, in conjunction with the Prince Edward Island, or between two ports elsewhere, and in winter could be held in reserve at the Capes or used when freight conditions necessitated it.

We feel sure that when the urgent necessity for a second steamer is represented to the government, steps will be taken to procure her for this service if there is not more urgent need for her elsewhere.

SHOULD TRAIN HERE.

A rumour has gained currency in military circles here, that it is the intention of the military authorities to remove the soldiers now quartered here to Aldershot for camping and training. What foundation there is for the rumour is not very clear but Mr. James Paton, M.L.A., has taken the matter up with the authorities at Ottawa with a view to preventing such a transfer if contemplated.

There are no better facilities for camping and training here in Charlotte to the province, are here, and military necessities where, there is to be removed.

Excellent quarters for the soldiers and we feel will not be a sufficient reason

Almost one-half of the European population is coldly neutral towards the issue, which we look upon as vital, if, indeed, they are not positively hostile to the cause of the Allies. With the result that nearly all the burden of recruiting has fallen upon the other half. The Government alone can effectively appeal to a large section of the population, containing as it does some of the best material, among whom the enemies of the allied cause are now using their worst efforts to prevent the men from rising from the slough of poverty and degradation into which they have fallen. Ignorant they may be, but cowardly they certainly are not. The call should be made with the full strength of the Government."

THE SIDEWALKS

The promptness with which the threatened overflow of the sidewalks was attended to yesterday morning by the new street committee is commendable, and a good deal of inconvenience to pedestrians was prevented. The thaw, however, demonstrated the necessity of a uniform system of treating the sidewalks. Those who had conscientiously obeyed the by-laws and cleaned off their sidewalks down to the concrete were the ones who were anatomized by pedestrians for allowing pools of water to accumulate in front of their premises, while the sidewalks on which the accumulation of several snowstorms had been allowed to settle provided a dry footpath. Had all been cleaned off, as they should have been there would have been no pools of water, neither would have there been any had the snow been allowed to accumulate on all alike, although the latter method would have afterwards resulted in the trouble known as "hog backs." The necessity of cleaning off all or none is plainly evident and it is hoped that the new machinery now in motion will see to it that all sidewalks are treated alike.

NOTES

There are, so far, no grounds for reproaches. The fact that the British Empire has produced seven and a half million soldiers, and that 72 per cent. of them come from Great Britain, speaks for itself. Four years ago such numbers would have been thought altogether incredible, and they have only been reached by the hearty and zealous co-operation of the whole people. No less may be said of the industrial effort, which has been on a stupendous scale and over the greater part of it unmarred by any serious friction. Westminister Gazette.

DAILY SELECTIONS FOR

GUARDIAN READERS

Furnished by W. S. Louson,

OVER THERE

By Dr. Frank Crane

Over there a million of the best and bravest. Over here why all this cry for Victory Bonds, food conservation, sursutax? It means that the fathers are dying by, to feed, clothe, and arm soldiers.

Over there they are firing with their rifles, floating death in the trumpet charge. What are you doing over here? Criticizing the Government because you cannot ride a pet hobby?

Over there they have the monster of militarism by the throat. Over here you are talking of a peace that will let that monster escape still and to wreak his filthy will? Over there is a Niagara of self-sacrifice. Over here are you seeking to water your crop of profits by the sneak streams of self-indulgence?

Over there is your son, even now haps in an unknown grave. Over here are you going to encourage the nominated fanatics who are standing under to shoulder against the onslaught of the three-headed were-wolf? Is ravaging the earth? Over there the mad mullahs of Prussiaism are torpedoing peaceful ships, assassins of the sea are destroying the commerce of the world, and d and merchandise for the welfare of the people are piling up in the bottom of the sea. "spurs versenkt."

Over there they are carrying men into captivity, mutilating children, aging women, reducing cities to ash heaps, devastating fields as are and salt, still prating of world- and the mailed fist.

Over there, if we are doing any less our supreme best, if we are not doing at our country's disposal all lives, our fortunes and our sac-honor, we are recreants to the atest duty destiny ever imposed on a free people, we are silent al-of the lords of hell.

What are you doing—over here?

A VALUABLE WAR

By Father Bernard Vaughan, S. J.

"The war is costing £5,000 a minute, and not a penny too much when we consider the enormous issues at stake."

SNIPING DEVELOPED TO A FINE ART

They used to call the machine-gunner's section the "suicide club" in the early days of the war, so great was the slaughter among the gunners. In those days the machine gunners were too often used to hold back German attacks; but nowadays the percentage of casualties among machine-gunners has considerably decreased, although in an important engagement the post of machine-gunner is probably as dangerous as any that can be found on the whole front. But if a machine-gunner wanted to find a better life in which he would probably live to a ripe old age and become a credit to the community he would not choose that of a sniper. It is said that, taking the days of important actions with the days when there is nothing to report, the sniper has the most dangerous job in the army. It has been calculated that his average expectancy of life is about ten days. Some are killed on their way to their first sniping station; others have gone through the war for more than three years without a scratch; but ten days is said to be the average time the sniper lasts before he is sniped himself.

Sniper is a Picked Man

Stephen Trask, writing in "Arms and the Man," the official organ of the National Rifle Association of America, gives some interesting facts about the work of the Allied snipers on the western front. He points out that the sniper is a picked man just as the aviator is a picked man. He must have all the nerve and courage of the aviator, and he must have something else, namely, patience and a control of his muscles, that will enable him to lie motionless for hours at a time. In addition he must be a dead shot and have the natural instincts of a hunter. As regards marksmanship we shall probably hear some tales when the war is over that will pale the feats of Dr. Carver and make Daniel Boone look like Cedric, the noted Son-in-Law of Pa's. Not only is the man picked, but his rifle is picked for him. He has the choice of hundreds of the finest weapons that can be turned out, and when he has chosen his rifle he gives it as much care and attention as a society matron does her complexion.

Hiding in Front of Shelter

The art of sniping, which appears to have been born in the Crimean war was greatly developed in the Boer war, but has advanced more in the past three years than in the preceding fifty. Old tricks are out of date. Between the snipers in the opposing armies there is waged a constant battle of wits, each trying to outguess the other each trying to read the mind of his hidden enemy and do the thing he does not expect. For instance, the obvious thing for a sniper to do would be to hide behind some object like a rock or a tree and pick off his enemy from this concealment. To do the obvious thing, however, would be fatal. Nowadays the expert sniper hides in front of the object that it supposed to conceal him. If there is a rock that would shelter a man lying he would be to hide behind some object like a rock or a tree and pick off his enemy from this concealment. To do the obvious thing, however, would be fatal. Nowadays the expert sniper hides in front of the object that it supposed to conceal him.
