PROBE DEATH AT MONCTON

Woman Is Believed Victim Of Asphyxiation.

MONCTON, N. B., June (CP)—A coroner's jury inquiring into the death of Florence Gauvin, 30, viewed her body today and the rooming house where she was employed, and then adjourned until Monday.

The woman died in hospital early today presumably from the effects of fumigating gas thought to have seeped through the walls of an adjoining building and entered a window of the rooming house.

Susan Arsenault, another domestic at the rooming house, and William Bourgeois also were overcome. The latter was able to leave the hospital but Miss Arsenault remained there, although she was believed out of danger.

Omer Hebert noticed a strong odor in his room, heard a thump in the hallway and found Miss Arsenault unconscious. He summoned police, he found Miss Gauvin unconscious in her room. Nine other persons asleep in the house at the time were not affected.

EUCHARISTIC

Desranleau of Sherbrooke, Que., was to be Archbishop Guillaume Forbes of Ottawa.

Between 15,000 and 20,000 filled the front sections of the 100,000-seat arena around the tall repository on the Plains for the first Pontifical Mass this morning. Towering high above the vast plains and overlooking the majestic St. Lawrence, the repository, visible for miles, glistened in the sun while the faithful followed the Mass.

The faithful joined with the choir of 200 voices in singing the Mass and their paean of song was carried far from the grounds stained by the blood of their forefathers in the memorable battle of Sept. 13, 1759 when General James Wolfe captured Canada from the French.

Government officials, including Lieut.-Gov. E. L. Patenaude, occupied seats at the foot of the immense, circular repository, banked with flowers and decorated with garlands of red peonies.

In wide circular rows around the base of the buff-colored, cross-peaked repository sat members of the Canadian episcopacy, priests and brothers, the archbishops and bishops in their satin robes of purple and red and priests in black cassocks and white surplices.

Cardinal Villeneuve, Papal Legate during the Congress, sat on a throne on the Gospel or left side, of the candle-covered altar, while Archbishop William Mark Duke of Vancouver, wearing the white church vestments symbolical of innocence and purity, celebrated Mass.

Study sessions were held in various city churches this afternoon, sermons and addresses on the liturgy of the Mass being delivered in English by bishops and priests from many of the dioceses in the 12 ecclesiastical provinces of Canada.

Barbara Hutton And Danish Husband In Dispute Over Son

(By The Canadian Press)

LONDON, June 23 — The second marriage of the former Barbara Hutton into foreign nobility has been shaken by a dispute with her Danish husband over their two-year-old son, Lance.

Friends of Count Court Haugwitz-Reventlow and the Countess said today that their estrangement, growing over a period of several months, had reached a stage where reconciliation was doubtful.

The Woolworth heiress yesterday obtained a court order to bulwark a tight police guard she had thrown around her regent's Park mansion. Her husband was in Paris, staying at the same hotel as her father, Franklyn Hutton, who was trying to patch up the quarrel. The two had lunch together and conferred lengthily. The Count afterwards remained [illegible] Hutton declared:

"It is all a surprise. [illegible] mix-up. All I can say is that these children have been in some misunderstanding."

Grandpappy Of All Lobsters Is Caught

(C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire)

YARMOUTH, N. S., June 23 —If the Atlantic's waters off the Nova Scotia south shore seem a little saltier than usual tonight, it's tears. Every lobster from Block Island to Campobello is a-mourning the loss of his grandpappy.

Grandpappy came to an untimely end when he got tangled up in a trawl from the Yarmouth schooner Nina L. Amid remarks about submarines and Loch Ness monsters he was hauled aboard and weighed. Verdict—a little more than 30 pounds. Grandpappy's total wheelbase was 37 inches.

They broke his claws off so they could get his body into a pot. Then they got two more pots and cooked the claws. The body fed the 13-man crew.

After they had a banquet from a claw, they filled its shell with water. Allowing for rivets, it held a quart and a half! It was more than a foot long.

Women's Institute

"After reading all the answers to the Questionnaire on Child Welfare," the convenor stated, "I have come to the conclusion that a great many forward steps have been taken in recent years and that we are only on the threshold of one of the biggest and most urgent tasks that ever challenged this organization, namely—the better care of our children's health so that they will grow up healthy in both mind and body."

CANADIANIZATION AND NATIONAL EVENTS

Mrs. J. E. Fleming reported on Canadianization and National Events. It was disappointing to receive only ninety replies on this subject, which should be of interest to all. The first question: Ways in which Canada has prospered since the World War, was answered well by about one third. A good many considered that Canada had prospered more through the development of natural resources, viz: Agriculture, including fur farming and growing of certified seed; also mining, fishing and the transformation of water power into electrical energy both for local consumption and export. The other important reply to this question included the increase of trade and commerce, within the British Empire and also with the United States and other countries abroad, and also the increase in manufacture of Canada's products; more rapid transportation by aeroplane for passengers and mail; likewise the development of the radio.

Other answers were: — better roads, and improved mail service, which brings a daily mail to each and every person's door. Medical science has increased rapidly and surgical operations today are almost miracles.

About 99% of the answers to the second question referring to Sir Robert L. Borden were complete. Prime Minister of Canada, he held office until the end of hostilities; he passed the conscription act. He also gave the franchise to the mothers, wives and sisters of soldiers. He organized the Canadian Press for the gathering and distribution of news. Even after the war was over Mr. Borden still took a great interest in the affairs of Canada until he retired.

The important features of the Coronation ceremony were discussed also.

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

Mrs. Walter Leard, Bedeque, reported on Peace and International Relations. "So many things have happened that have threatened the very name 'Peace'," she said, "and in fact we wonder if there will ever be in this chaotic world of ours a peace that will be lasting. Certainly all nations claim they want peace, but how! Naturally on their own terms." Racial prejudice has done much to embitter one nation against another. As mentioned in the questionnaire, peace originates in the heart, and by teaching the child in the home the law of peace, and order, the respect for the opinion of others, which in time may bring about a world federation.

A great challenge was being flung out to the women of the world today to help create that atmosphere in the home, that no good can be accomplished by fighting.

About ninety questionnaires were returned answered, the majority of which have been fine. Some have been an inspiration. Many seem to think the gangster show very detrimental to peace education, and feel that youth is being brought up on a diet of crime motion pictures, radio programmes and newspaper comics.

All seem to favor the idea of a portfolio exchanged between countries. Many thought the Adult Education Movement a great factor and means whereby the intelligence of a community is drawn together and concentrated on subjects such as peace and foreign affairs and plans for their solution will be borne, that will not be satisfied until they find expression in definite action.

BIENNIAL CONVENTION

Mrs. Fred McLaren reported on the tenth biennial convention of the F. W. I. C. held in the club room of the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, November 16-22, 1937, at which a new constitution was framed; plans were made for a survey of the different provinces in connection with the establishing of a National Magazine, and a rural home sanitation programme, to be developed as part of the public health programme of the F W I C. was planned. The last was the result of the interest aroused by the excellent paper on the subject presented by Mrs. MacMillan.

Of special interest was the ten-minute talks given by the representatives of the different provinces. Each told of their most important achievement during the preceding two years. British Columbia had specialized in cottage crafts and had established two centres to assist in marketing their work; Alberta in hospital and relief work; Saskatchewan had provided libraries, playgrounds and skating rinks and held pre-school and tuberculosis clinics; Manitoba had concentrated on raising money for the cancer fund, establishing libraries and sponsoring musical festivals, dramatics and handicrafts of a high standard; Ontario was carrying out a very comprehensive home economics program, covering foods, nutrition, clothing, textiles, health education and housing; Quebec was taking special interest in the schools, providing better buildings, hot school lunches, tonsil and adenoid clinics; New Brunswick had given attention to help provide a home for feebleminded; Nova Scotia had specialized in handicrafts such as knitting, quilt and rug making, weaving and soft toys.

The coronation programme was reviewed in detail by Mrs. McLaren.

Insurgent Drive On Valencia Halted

(By The Associated Press)

HENDAYE, France, June 23—Spanish Government dispatches said tonight the Insurgent offensive against Valencia, former provisional capital, had been stopped.

They reported that on both wings of the front in eastern Spain, below Castellon de la Plana and Teruel, Government defences withstood Insurgent assaults. The front became stabilized after the Insurgent capture of Onda, 35 miles north of Valencia.

From the coast the line ran from below Castellon de la Plana inland 46 miles to Mora de Rubielos and thence eight miles south to Sarrion.

In the south, in Cordoba Province, the Insurgent campaign in the Panarroya sector slowed to a halt in a blistering heat wave.

There are 12 aircraft factories in Canada but, with the exception of Turkey, no other European government has placed orders here. Orders for 177 planes were placed last year and this by the Canadian Government.

In many expensive war plans, Canada's industrial resources might play an important part in an Empire scheme. For that reason, aircraft factories might take on added importance to an international spy ring but only from the viewpoint of potential production.

NEW YORK, June 23—(AP)—A mobile television transmitter making street shots in the vicinity of Rockefeller Centre picked up an unprecedented scene today—a girl's body hurtling from the eleventh floor of the Time and Life Building.

The set was being tested and its output was not on the air, although it was being fed by cable into the National Broadcasting Company studios where engineers sat horrified.

The girl was identified tentatively as Marian Perloff of Brooklyn. It was reported she had fallen from a window of Girl Scout headquarters.
