She had made her vows to God—he remembered only that he loved her! A powerful picture of conflicting passions, brought back gloriously because millions have asked for it.

C.C.M. SKATES

SKATE FOR THE SHEER JOY OF IT

THERE'S magic in the skating stroke—exhilaration in the feel of those narrow steel blades skimming over the glassy ice, the wind on the cheeks, and the glow of warm blood pulsing through the veins. No wonder skaters feel gay, light-hearted, full of pep. They just can't help it. Skating makes them feel that way. It's the King of winter sports. And C. C. M. Skates—made of specially heat-treated and tempered steel—are the King of skates. Sizes to fit everybody.

DOG ISLAND RULED BY TERRIER

Inhabited only by dogs, with a terrier as ruler, an island is reported by French sailors as having been discovered off the coast of Africa. It is called Juan de Nava, and lies in infrequent waters between the African coast and Madagascar. No humans live there, and the sailors believe it had not been visited previously in years. The dogs are thought to be descendants of pets shipwrecked or abandoned there. When the captain of the French vessel landed on the island recently he was met by a large mongrel dog, evidently part terrier, who appeared to be the canine king. When the Captain threw a stone at him the animal stood his ground, howling like a wolf. Immediately dogs appeared from all sides, baying the intruder, who was without weapons, to best a hasty retreat.

May Extend Boys Movement

Big Brother Scheme Successful in Australia For Years.

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 8.—(By The Canadian Press)—The Big Brother Movement, which has achieved remarkable success in connection with the movement of boys to Australia, that have elapsed 1,500 boys have been extended to Canada if the hopes of its officers are realized. Captain Thornton, M. C. travelling representative of the movement, is returning from Australia in November and will visit various Canadian cities to explain the movement to the Canadian people. At present boys are only sent to Australia under the scheme but the London Committee, with headquarters at Australia House, point out that there is an abundant supply of the right type coming forward, 400,000 boys leaving school annually in England. The Prince of Wales is patron of the movement. Richard Linton, an Australian, founded the movement. Travelling about England in the interests of stimulating the movement of British youths to Australia, he realized that a big deterrent was the natural attitude of parents who wished some assurance that the moral and physical welfare of their boys would be looked after by some reputable and disinterested person. On returning to Australia he got together a band of individual Australians, who were themselves established citizens, and who undertook to act as guide, philosopher and friend to one English boy migrant. These men were termed Big Brothers. And so it followed that boys leaving England were termed Little Brothers. During the three years that have elapsed 1,500 boys have gone out to Australia as Little Brothers and there is no lack of Big Brothers on the other side. The Little Brother is selected if he is a clean living, well mannered British boy who is determined to work hard on the land. He must have reached the sixth standard of elementary education. He has to pass the medical tests of the Migration Authorities. He undertakes: (I) To follow the advice of his Big Brother (it must be remembered the latter is not his employer). (II) Not to leave his employer without the Big Brother's written permission. (III) To consult his Big Brother in any trouble. (IV) Not to drink spirits or gamble until he is 21. (V) To open an account at a Savings Bank, and to save at least half his earnings. (VI) To write to his parents and his Big Brothers at least once a month. On arrival the Little Brother is met by his Big Brother and he is due course despatches him to an approved farmer who agrees to pay him $3 a week and his keep (exclusive of clothes). The ceremony one is struck by the prominence given to the Cross, the symbol of the Christian faith. In the evening the anthem "How Long Will Thou Forget Me" by Pfleger, Mrs. Jas. MacMillan singing the alto solo, and the mixed quartette was taken by Mrs. Sutherland McLean, Mrs. A. Mutch, Messrs Sutherland and Lloyd Nicholson. English experimenters have succeeded in keeping apples without decay for long periods by storing them in rooms containing about ten per cent of carbon dioxide in the air. Without unlocking a new front door for residences an occupant of a house can open a window, push the side through a protecting metal grille. Minard's Hairnet invaluable everywhere.

Church Services

ZION CHURCH SERVICES

Rev. XXI: "The Ideal Church" was the topic of the morning. This city four-square and the Bride, the New Jerusalem of John's vision. There was a good congregation despite the inclement weather. In the morning the choir sang the anthem "O Lord be Gracious" by Willgoose, Miss Christina Miller taking the solo.

The evening service was patriotic in character. Basing his remarks on Psalm 72, which is the Hebrew conception of Kingship, a Kingship of Service, the minister gave a short account of King George V from the time when he, with his elder brother, became naval cadets on the "Britannia" until his coronation.

In concluding, Mr. Fulton drew many interesting lessons from the coronation ceremony. The Sapphire Orb and Cross, now thought to be highly symbolical as they were seen erally taken from the altar, presented to the King and placed again upon the altar. They signified that all kingly power and authority had a religious origin. It came from God and must be given back into His hands. In the coronation ceremony one is struck by the prominence given to the Cross, the symbol of the Christian faith.

MANX CASTLE HAS DOG GHOST

Peel Castle, which the King has presented to the residents of the Isle of Man, is noted for its hidden treasure and its ghost dog. Little is known of the treasure, but the story of the Man-the-Doog is recorded in history. The canine is described as a spaniel which barked in the heat of the fireplace of the guard room. It is related that the Manthe Doog would travel a passage which was used by the soldiers, when delivering the keys to the castle—always in pairs for fear of the ghost. One whisky-emboldened soldier defied the ghost by going alone one night. A terrific uproar was heard, and the adventurer returned, dumb with terror, and died in a few minutes without uttering a word. Shortly afterwards the passage was closed.
