

Barn and Silo Roofed with Brantford Asphalt Roofing. Resists Fire, Sheds Water, Wears Long

Flying sparks and embers from a burning building often cause roofs near by to catch fire, especially in a dry, hot season. Under like conditions, roofs covered with

are in no danger from flying embers, because any that fall on Brantford Asphalt Roofing die out harmlessly. Build a bonfire on a roof of Brantford Asphalt Roofing and the fire will not spread and the boards underneath the roofing will be protected in a surprising manner.

If a fire starts in the interior of a building Brantford Asphalt Roofing acts as a retardant and keeps the fire from spreading. Fire chiefs and insurance companies endorse its use in the most congested cities.

Brantford Asphalt Roofing does not absorb water, but sheds the heaviest rain with ease. Acid proof and alkali proof. Reliable, durable, economical. Three weights—60 lb., 70 lb., 80 lb. per square.

Brantford Rubber Roofing

is the same quality as Brantford Asphalt, but has a smooth, rubbery surface instead of the sand. It is particularly suitable for verandah decks and floor coverings. Three weights—40 lb., 50 lb., and 60 lb. per square.

Leatheroid Roofing

Slightly lower quality than Brantford Rubber Roofing. Used for same purposes. Has a leathery surface. Exceptionally good roofing at a low price. 35 lb., 45 lb., and 55 lb. weights.

Standard Mohawk Roofing

is made of the same materials as Brantford Asphalt Roofing, but is lighter in weight. A thoroughly reliable roofing at a low price. Tested for years and has given entire satisfaction. Sanded on one side. One weight—40 lbs. per square.

Climax Sheathing Paper

A tough kraft paper coated with high-grade asphalt. For making buildings damp-proof and wind-proof. Also for roofing temporary bunk houses, lumber camps, etc.

Samples of any of these roofings and prices will be furnished on request.

BOOM THE BICYCLE

Robson Black, of Ottawa, Ontario, an author and writer of some prominence in the Dominion, is an enthusiastic cyclist. He became sickened of street car service and resorted to the bicycle as a relief from the struggle and annoyance of trolley transportation. The result has been that he has become a staunch believer in the benefits of cycling.

Rae Halliday, of Ottawa is one of the most prominent sportsman of the Canadian Capital. Halliday decided to buy a bicycle this year as a means to health, exercise and utility. He bought the best bicycle obtainable and is now an out-and-out bicycle enthusiast. The first thing that he discovered was that he could cut the time required for his journey home from twenty-five minutes to twelve minutes and he is now able to go home for a real lunch each noon with ease.

The street cars carried him through the busy section of the city, and the cars were always crowded. With the bicycle, he had found a short cut along one of the Capital's famous driveways and he is able to enjoy the scenery as well as the fresh air on his trips back and forth four times each day. Halliday's only regret is that he did not decide to make use of a bicycle many years ago.

Canada is credited with having the largest bicycle trade organization in the whole of North America in the Canadian Bicycle Dealers' Association, Ontario Section. This organization is made up of many dealers throughout the Province of Ontario whose aim is to do all in their power to increase the advantages of cycling for all riders. The Toronto branch of the association won the highest honors last year in a competition "boosting" of cycling activities. Incidentally, the idea of holding a National Bicycle Week originated in Canada. This is the fourth year of a "Bicycle Week" in the Dominion while in the United States the wheelmen are having their third annual Bicycle Week this spring.

Have Dark Hair And Look Young

Nobody can Tell when you Darken Gray, Faded Hair with Sage Tea Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody else can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.

TWO BUILDINGS BURNED AT DARTMOUTH

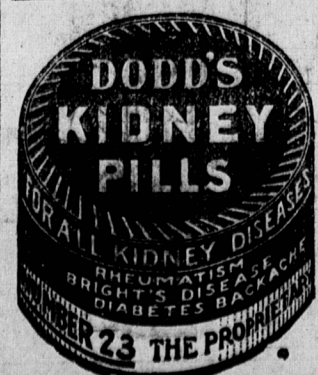

HALIFAX, May 19.—Fire last night destroyed a three-storey modern building and the Salvation Army barracks in Dartmouth. Several families were rendered homeless and the property loss is about $15,000.

The fire broke out about eleven o'clock in a laundry in the lower floor of the Smith building, and the flames spread rapidly. The firemen responded quickly, but by the time that they arrived the flames had complete control of the building.

There was a strong wind blowing, and at one time it looked as if other nearby buildings were doomed. The Dartmouth firemen, however, have the reputation of being good fire fighters and they demonstrated their worth last night. They soon had several good streams playing on the fire, and at 12.30 they had it well under control. The tenants who occupied the upper floors of the building lost all of their effects.

In addition to the laundry there was a Chinese restaurant on the ground floor.

The building is owned by Edgar Smith who is at present out of town.

DEVELOPMENT OF THE BICYCLE

Within the memory of men still living, some of them not very old either the bicycle was one of the wonders of the age. Farm boys would run to the front gate merely to see one passing. Anyone riding a bicycle down a city street, not only looked like a dare-devil adventurer, but was an object of more curious attention than if he had worn a diving suit or had ventured out with a straw hat on in February. Horses "shied" at the wheeled wonder, just as they afterwards "shied" at the autos; and newspapers chronicled a few "incidents" then—bicycle burglaries, bicycle elopements, and other things—just as they do now. Away off in some Western wilderness, Chief What-His-Name, of the Seven Smoking Tribes, voiced the sentiments of the red men in these words: "Huh! Heap lazy man! Sits down to walk?"

Development of the Bicycle

Looking backward from the vantage point of present day excellence in every line of mechanical invention, there were good reasons why people should stop and stare at a bicycle in those days. The very idea that a machine which would stand alone unless propped, would run without upsetting and carry a full sized man, was fascinating in itself. And then the size and make-up of those first bicycles—those old "Ordinaries" as they were called, with a front wheel as high as the moon, a rear wheel as small as a mushroom, and a man seated astride a steel pole between the two, whirling his feet around in circles—it was really something extraordinary. Balloons, flying machines, and bloomers had nothing on them. The only man who couldn't really appreciate the situation was the rider, who "took a tumble" when that front wheel struck a stone—he was usually unconscious for an hour afterwards.

Then came the first "safety" bicycle—that modified, dainty little creature (by comparison only), with the front crank and chain wheel slung between, and rear wheels both the same size, and a saddle within vaulting distance of mother earth. It was indeed a vast improvement. A few slow movements of the feet sent the creature spinning; a pressure of the hand on a brake, stopped again—sometimes with uncomfortable suddenness; and always there was the comfortable feeling that, if the worst came to the worst—if there was an indifferent and slow moving cow on the road, or a ditch to keep out of, or a steep hill to climb—it wasn't far down to terra firma, and a man could always make it by a jump—if his legs didn't get tangled up in the mechanism.

PRISONER OF WAR USED SHIRT AS WRITING PAPER

Quite a romantic interest attaches to the original manuscripts of several books that are to be published shortly. One novel, with an after-the-war plot, was written by two officers belonging to the Royal Air Force and Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders respectively, while they were prisoners of war in the hands of the Turks. The difficulties they had to overcome in order to obtain paper were tremendous, and when the book was eventually finished it had been written down on the backs of old letters, paper taken from parcels, and—a piece of a one-time white shirt.

Another author, repatriated from Germany before hostilities ceased, had his manuscript taken from him by the frontier guards on the German-Dutch border. It has just come to hand from Berlin, our authorities having been the means of securing its return to its rightful owner.—Tit-Bits.
