"I was in love with a boy in Winnipeg — but last year the realization came to us both that I had a talent that should be fulfilled." When eight years old she was acclaimed a musical genius, and at 10 she won a $5,000 scholarship from the American Conservatory of Music in Chicago. Later the people in her home city established a fund to enable her to go to New York for further study. Now Winnipeggers are raising money to buy her a $12,000 Montagna violin.

Patients Safe As Ont. Hospital Burns

GRIMSBY, Ont., Jan. 29 —(CP)—Thirty persons, half of them patients, escaped uninjured today when fire, believed to have started in the laundry, destroyed the West Lincoln Memorial Hospital, a two-story stone-and-frame structure two miles east of this Lincoln County town.

The patients, among them elderly persons and new-born babies, were bundled in blankets and carried to safety by nurses, neighbors and passing motorists.

"Every kind of truck and car was used to take the patients to safety," said one, William Evans. "All the valuable hospital equipment was just tossed out into the snow. The boys on our truck pitched in and helped carry out the women and babies. I'm pretty sure not one patient was burned."

The fire spread quickly to the roof, which soon was blazing furiously. Within 30 minutes the roof collapsed and flames were burning out the interior of the building. A former golf club, the building was estimated to be worth $75,000 when it was converted into a hospital about two years ago. The equipment was worth $25,000, it was reported.

"The whole community came to help," said Dr. A.P. McIntyre. "I have never seen anything like it."

Reforestation Plans Now Well Under Way At Southport Nursery

Discuss Empire Parliamentary Ass'n Session

OTTAWA, Jan. 29 —(Special)—At least one and perhaps two delegates from the Maritime Provinces will be invited to attend this year's session of the Empire Parliamentary Association in London in the fall.

It was learned here today following a meeting of the executive of the association in the parliament buildings this morning. Deputy Speaker Ross MacDonald presided and the executive was addressed by Sir Howard D'Erville, senior secretary of the United Kingdom Branch. Among executive members present were J. Watson MacNaught, Liberal member for Prince, Gordon Innes, Liberal member for Halifax and D. King Hazen, Progressive Conservative member for Saint John Albert.

Canadian officials of the Association assured Sir Howard that the specially-designed oaken table which Canada is presenting to the United Kingdom to replace the table of British House of Commons destroyed in bombing raids, would be of the highest standards of craftsmanship.

A new speaker's chair is being provided for Westminster by Australia, a clerk's chair by South Africa and despatch-boxes by New Zealand.

Island Farmers Seek 44 Dutch Laborers

Thirty applications from Island farmers for Dutch farm laborers have been forwarded to Ottawa, by the Provincial Department of Agriculture, it was learned yesterday.

Funeral Damaged U. S. Ship Sinks

BOSTON, Jan. 29 —(AP)—The fire ravaged United States Army funeral ship Joseph V. Connelly sank in a gale today 380 miles south of Cape Race, Nfld., after breaking away from the tug Turb, which had her in tow for New York.

The Coast Guard in reporting loss of the vessel said a short time before the Connelly disappeared from the cutter Acushnet's radar scope mountainous seas were flooding her after hatches.

No one was aboard the Connelly when she sank, the Coast Guard said.

Better Saws, Fewer Men Cut Pulpwood

MONTREAL, Jan. 29 —(CP)—Use of a new light-weight chain power saw developed in Ontario will reduce the number of employees in many woodland operations, Vernon Johnson, of the Canadian International Paper Company reported today to the technical section of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association convention. The new 26-pound, four-horse power machine is able to cut 15 cords of pulpwood daily, he said.

VALUABLE DISCOVERY

A new electro-chemical process is reported to recondition worn-out metal files to 90 per cent of their original efficiency.

Sturdy Seedlings

The mortality rate among the 50,000 seedlings has been insignificant, Mr. Snaezelle said, with the exception of the red pine. Those were damaged en route from Ontario and the loss in that species has approximated 30 per cent. The seedlings were imported from Western Ontario and it is thought the roots became overheated in transit. Another supply of red pine seedlings will be brought to the nursery in Island highways will, within the next few years, constitute vistas of pastoral beauty unequalled by any other Province in the Dominion. Mr. R. Snaezelle, supervisor of the reforestation branch, Provincial Department of Reconstruction, told a Guardian representative yesterday.

This scenic improvement will be made possible, Mr. Snaezelle said, because of the Provincial Government's reforestation policy which has now passed beyond the experimental stage to a point where success is assured.

Mr. Snaezelle said that over 50,000 young trees are thriving in the Government's three-acre nursery at Southport. Of those, 18,000 are red pine seedlings; 9,000, Austrian pine; 7,500, red cedar; 4,400, rock maple; 3,600, white ash; 3,000, green ash; 2,000, elm; 1,200, Scotch pine; and 1,000 are Island oak.

The oak, maple, and elm seedlings will be re-transplanted in the Spring at further distances to ensure their vigorous growth before being removed to their permanent homes along the various highways. Mr. Snaezelle said there is plenty of room at the Southport nursery grounds to allow for the second transplanting of those young trees. The planting of the Island oaks was made possible, he said, through the interest in the project of Mr. Frank Miller of East Royalty and Mr. Edward Gough of Cardigan. Mr. Miller supplied 750 of the oak seedlings and Mr. Gough the remainder.

By JAMES J. STREBIC
WASHINGTON, Jan. 29 —(AP)—Air Force Secretary Symington believes that the United States ranks behind Russia and Britain in air power.

He fears that a United States Air Force of the presently-planned size would be wiped out early in any new air war, unless it got huge reinforcements fast.

Symington expressed his views in an article written for American Magazine, in which he gave this formula for the security of the United States:

"An impregnable air curtain—a curtain sufficiently strong so that no fleet of hostile planes or waves of guided missiles can reach the mainland of this country."

"No longer are we the leading air power of the world," Symington said. "In quantity, we have slipped behind the Soviet Union, and qualitatively, both Russia and England have numerous developments that exceed our own efforts. England, despite her severe economic strain as a result of the war, is devoting a greater portion of her defence budget to an Air Force than we are."

He repeated previously printed reports that Russia is building plants at a rate of 75,000 to 100,000 a year, and is turning out copies of the B-29 Superfortress "in fairly sizeable numbers."

Symington said the 70-group Air Force now planned would be "strictly a one-shot proposition." Without tremendous, quick replacement he figured it too little for these jobs:

1. To support our own industries.

2. To support the evacuation, if possible, of our pitifully outnumbered occupation troops in Europe.

3. To launch and sustain a full-scale air offensive and destroy the enemy's industry and economy with atomic bombs and the latest weapons."

Symington said thus the United States must have a 70-group Air Force, backed by an industry able to expand that force with "extraordinary rapidity to at least 180 groups and...perhaps as high as 350 groups if the war should last three years."

He said the air force would have to spend $3,100,000,000 annually for a 70-group force.

(The President's Air Policy Commission has accepted the airforce's long-standing recommendation of a 70-group force but put the cost at $4,229,000,000 for this calendar year and $4,539,000,000 for 1948.)

AMHERST, N.S., Jan. 29 —(CP)—The Maritime spring stock show will be held here March 9 and 10 under auspices of the Maritime Stock Breeders' Association, it was announced today.

Exhibits will include 126 beef steers and 20 head of Shorthorn and Hereford breeding stock will be auctioned during the final day. Two showmanship classes also will be held.

MONTREAL, Jan. 29 —(CP)—Tall, ascetic Dr. Raymond Boyer, wealthy Montreal scientist whose conviction in December for conspiracy to violate the Official Secrets Act ended the last of the prosecutions springing from the 1946 probe into Russian-directed spy activities in Canada, will hear his sentence tomorrow.

Would Be Too Small If New War Started

General Oil Picture Said Far From Bright

Canada Considering Production Of Oil From Coal; Pilot-plant Planned For Maritimes.

OTTAWA, Jan. 29 —(Special)—Oil stocks stored on Prince Edward Island and held in reserve at Maritime ports earmarked for the diesel-operated engines of the provincial railway system and the car ferry Abegweit are sufficient to ensure maintenance of all schedules for the balance of the winter and longer. The Guardian learned today from Dominion Fuel Board sources. While the threatened shortage of oil, and notably fuel oil, is described as "alarming," by Reconstruction Minister Howe, it was anticipated more than six months ago, and stocks of oil needed for transport facilities to and on Prince Edward Island and in the Rocky Mountains were arranged with the railway companies at ministerial level.

It is not expected in Ottawa that the United States will place an embargo on oil shipments to Canada, although steps are being taken to counteract here a drastic reduction of oil imports. Although reticent to discuss oil importations, top-flight oil authorities here said that the United States controls a "large proportion" of crude oil produced in Mexico and South American countries, and that large quantities of oil are not easily come by on the world market.

Redouble Research
While the general oil picture for Canada is far from bright, chemists in the Fuels Division Laboratories in Ottawa are redoubling their research into the feasibility of producing oil from coal. Engineers and chemists of the Laboratories have recently returned from Germany with data on how that country manufactured many types of oil and gasoline from coal during the war years.

Plans have already been drafted (Continued on Page 5 Col. 7)
