SAYS PROVINCE WOULD NEVER RETURN TO OLD CONDITIONS

Premier Ferguson Explains The Virtues Of Government Control And Shows The Salutary Effect Of A State Law Against Drunkenness.

(Canadian Press)

ATLANTIC CITY, Jan. 7. —Premier Ferguson of Ontario said here last night that seven months of government control of the sale of liquor in that province had convinced him that the province would never return to the old conditions.

"Before the new law went into effect", he said "there was the spirit of lawlessness developing crimes of a serious character being traceable to the situation. After a full decade the government of which I was Prime Minister began to inquire as to the feeling of the people for government control of liquor sales, the election proving there was a demand for it.

"Our policy is not to push the sale of liquors. On the contrary, we endeavor to restrain it in the form of control. Our people for the most part are temperate. Those who abuse the privilege of obtaining liquors under government permits are deprived of it and those who indulge in drunkenness are punished. There is now a state law against drunkenness whereas the offense was formerly punished by local police courts as against municipal ordinance.

"Records of the courts will reveal that cases of drunkenness have increased. That does not indicate that there is more drunkenness now than before the new regime but rather that the drunkards are being checked up. Formerly it was customary for police courts to turn loose large numbers of those arrested for intoxication. Under the law in effect this cannot be done. Those who become tipsy and appear in public will be punished."

Four Thousand Runners Take Part In S. A. Diamond Rush

GRASFONTEIN, Union of South Africa, Jan. 7—One runner dropped dead in the diamond rush to a new field on the Grasfontein farm in which 4,000 runners participated although it was announced only 100 valuable claims were available.

All night along the Rue Weldt roads, made quagmires by heavy rains, the runners assembled at starting points arriving in all sorts of conveyances including ox carts and automobiles. Thirteen clerks worked frantically issuing claims certificates at the rate of 400 an hour.

This was probably the last big diamond rush in South Africa for at least a year, as the government announced last December that prospecting on crown and private lands would be prohibited for a year or more, as it was feared the output from valuable diggings would exceed that of organized companies and consequently disrupt the industry.

Diesel Motor For Aircraft Perfected

(Canadian Press)

NEW YORK, Jan. 7. —Elmer A. Sperry, inventor of the Gyroscope Compass, announced that he has perfected an aeroplane engine on the Diesel principle. He said within a year he expected to have a motor of 1,000 horsepower, weighing two pounds per horsepower and consuming crude oil instead of gasoline with a higher power development per gallon at one fifth the fuel cost.

Adoption of the Diesel engine to aircraft, considered one of the surest steps to huge air liners, has been the problem of aeronautical engineering throughout the world. The Disel motor differs from the ordinary gasoline engine in that there is no spark and that crude oil is used in place of gasoline, thus eliminating the fire hazard.

Fire In No. 9 Granville St. Last Night

A still alarm was rung in at 8.20 p. m. last night for a fire in No. 9 Granville Street, a house owned by Mrs. Robert Curtis, residing at present in Boston, Mass., and occupied by Mr. John Donovan.

The firemen quickly arrived on the scene, and soon had the blaze under control, but as it had got a footing in the coal heap in the cellar, and also in the main wall of the house, it was over an hour before it was completely extinguished.

Mr. Donovan was sitting in the parlour of the house, when he noticed smoke coming out of the wall, near the surface, and the alarm was at once turned in.

Damage to the extent, it is estimated of about $500.00 was done to the front part of the establishment by fire and water but the family were not forced to leave the house. It is thought that the damage is partly covered by insurance, but owing to the absence of the owner, it is not possible to verify this.

The fire is believed to have started by a spark from the furnace igniting a stack of shingles piled up in the cellar close to the outer wall of the house.

They will be gone until the latter part of February and an elaborate program has been arranged for their education and entertainment in Europe.

A feature of their visit to England will be a meeting with the Prince of Wales.

The Maritime representatives on the party were the following: Hon. Walter Lea, Minister of Agriculture for Prince Edward Island; Albert Simpson and W. F. Bryant, also of Prince Edward Island; J. K. King, manager of the Maritime Livestock Board and official representative of the New Brunswick government; E. D. Haliburton, Hantsport, N. S.; Robert Chaie, Annapolis, N. C. P. R. To Develop Tourist Traffic In The Maritimes

MONTREAL, Jan. 7. —Digby, Nova Scotia, is to have a new hotel. It is to be completed in time for the tourist season of next year and will then replace the Pines, which for many years has been an important feature of this tourist service of the Dominion Atlantic Railway. The announcement was made here today at Windsor Station, the headquarters of the Canadian Pacific, of which system the Dominion Atlantic is a part, by Mr. Grant Hall, President of the latter railroad, and it was stated that the projection of the new hotel at this time, while badly needed on account of the steady development of tourist traffic over the line of the Dominion Atlantic between Halifax, Digby and Yarmouth, was indication of the Company's confidence in the further extension of the tourist traffic of the Maritime Provinces.

20 PERSONS DROWNED IN LONDON FLOODS

London Suffers Worst Disaster of Modern Times When Flooded Thames Overflows its Banks.

LONDON, Jan. 7. —London was aghast today at the most devastating catastrophe which the river Thames has wrought in modern times. At least nineteen persons were drowned by the sudden rise of the river when waters caused by rains melting a Christmas snow swept down on London and met an abnormal tide. The river receded to normal this morning with the ebb tide.

Fearing a recurrence of the disaster at the next flood tide, engineers labored frantically building temporarily barricaded walls where the walls along the embankment collapsed early this morning. Extensive search of the poorer districts, it was feared, might show more victims.

The river swept over its banks for sixty miles from the sea and a night of alarm and tense excitement, such as has been unknown for years resulted.

The granite wall along the Victoria embankment held against a terrific volume of water, preventing a more serious catastrophe in the centre of the city.

The water rose to the top of this wall, which is four weet wide and runs for a mile and a half from the city proper to Westminster St. At some points the water overflowed but the wall itself held against the rush of the water. tA one point beyond the Westminster end of the embankment, another wall burst. The waters rushed through the gap, deluging the streets. Two people were drowned there. The basements of many houses were flooded.

At the point where the Egyptian Obelisk known as Cleopatra's Needle stands on the embankment, the waters overflowed the walls which is lower here than elsewhere. Th steps at the base of the Obelisk were flooded. The electric conduits which operate the street cars were invaded by the waters and tramways service was stopped.

On the opposite bank of the river matters were much worse. There is no embankment and from Westminster to the east the streets were quickly flooded. Hundreds of dwellers of the poorer districts were roused either by police or by the sound of the advancing waters. They fled in haste and terror from their beds, amid an uproar of shouts and cries of alarm.

Fleeing From The Floods

Brief reports came from the densely populated section below the business centre of the city told of the struggle of frightened people to escape from the sudden rush of water into their homes. Numbers of houses were flooded in Limehouse, Rotherhithe, Poplar and Canningtown in the neighborhood of the docks.

Many public buildings were thrown open to shelter the sufferers, police and others assisted in removing the stricken there and supplying them with food.

Among the noted buildings which were partly flooded were the tower of London, where the military garrison turned out to protect the Royal Jewels and other property; Lambeth Palace, residence of the Archbishop of Canterbury; St. Thomas Hospital, where all lights were put out, and the Tate Picture Gallery.

Deaths Reach Twenty

LONDON, Jan. 7. —Flood deaths in the London district caused by the sudden rising of the Thames early this morning after an abnormal tide had reached twenty at noon today. The deaths were distributed as follows: Fifteen in the Westminster area; two in Putney; two in Hammersmith, and one in Burlington. Crowds stood along the Victoria embankment at noon to see whether the abnormal tide would recur.

Government Control Vs. Prohibition

TAMEST NEW YEAR IN YEARS FOR BANDITS OR "DRUNKS," SAY POLICE

TORONTO, Jan. 7.—Crime in the city over the New Year season was light.

A lone bandit, with a revolver, held up stores at 143 Amelia St., and 140 Duke St. Saturday night, netting $15. In the first store a woman's scream scared him off.

Saturday afternoon a citizen reported having his pocket picked of $450 while in the line-up at the Government vendors at Spadina ave., and Dupont Sts.

Several minor shop and housebreakings were reported.

The "drunk" list was not heavy. It was the first New Year under the L. C. A.

Police divisions reported the "tamest" holiday festival in years.

FEWER CHRISTMAS "DRUNKS" THAN UNDER THE O. T. A.

TORONTO, Jan. 7.—Police reports from the ten provincial districts covering the Christmas weekend received by Attorney-General W. H. Price indicate there was less drunkenness this year than at this season for several years past.

In Toronto there were 61 arrests, compared with 71 for this period last year under the O. T. A. In Windsor there were but five arrests; Kitchener only four. For these places the Attorney-General did not have last year's figures.

PHILADELPHIA HAD BAD CRIME YEAR

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 7.—Nearly 200,000 persons were arrested in Philadelphia in 1927, the greatest number in the city's history. The charges included evey variety on the criminal calendar. Those taken into custody in 1927 number 198,827 compared with 148,932 the preceding year and 138,073 in 1925.

Liquor charges, including intoxication, headed the list with 57,543 arrests. Breach of ordinance, which covers a multitude of offenses, came next with 54,543. Alleged assault and battery by automobile caused the arrest of 12,167 and vice and gambling 16,166. There were 150 murders during the year with arrests of persons implicated numbering 105. Divorces in Philadelphia in 1927 toopped those in 1926 by 119.

FROM MONTREAL GAZETTE, JAN. 5TH .

Thirty-six deaths from alcoholism are reported to have occurred in New York City during the holiday season just ended, not to count the number of like fatalities in Pittsburgh and other cities where prohibition is the law. Nevertheless, it is declared in the news despatches that, on the whole, it was an orderly holiday. It is disturbing to think what the results might have been if the festivities had been disorderly.

PROSPERITY TO ATTRACT MANY HERE

Col. Amery Says Old Country is Interested in Sound Settlement Schemes.

VICTORIA, B. C., Jan. 7.— "I am satisfied that as prosperity returns more and more to the Mother Country and to Canada that immigration from the old land to this Dominion will largely increase" announced the Right Hon. L. C. M. Amery, Secretary of State for Dominions, in an interview here today.

Immigration conditions, between countries, continued Col Amery, "invariably show improvement when prosperity is on the upgrade and there should be no exception between Great Britain and Canada for even if Great Britain is prosperous, it is probable that Canada will be still more prosperous and so immigrants will be attracted the more to migrate here."

Col. Amery stated that the British government was heartily interested in all sound schemes to attract British settlers to this Dominion.

"I cannot say exactly in what way we shall extend the 3,000 family scheme until I have been enabled to see what progress in the matter of immigration policies between Great Britain and Canada has been made during my six months absence from home.

"I intend during my tour of the Dominion to go into the matter of immigration policies with the various provincial governments and also, of course, with the Dominion government at Ottawa. I intend also to visit recent settlers here under the 3,000 family scheme. I shall then be in a better position to judge as to what policy in regard to the extension of immigration facilities is the one that we should get together on between the two countries."

APPROVES VISIT

Col. Amery stressed the point that it was very necessary for the ministers of the various empire governments to visit other governments of the empire and so gain a knowledge of the various conditions on the spot.

"In that way," said Mr. Amery, "we will gain that very important factor, a personal touch. We have benefited in the past by visits of members of the Canadian government and I feel strongly that, in my position of liaison officer between the government of the Dominions, I should visit the Dominions and become personally aware of their problems for it must not be forgotten the empire is kept going by a community of spirits and ideas."

Discussing the recent trade treaty between Canada and Australia in which Australia is given considerable preference for dried fruits, Col. Amery expressed hope that in due course the treaty would work out to the mutual benefit of both countries.

"I do, however, feel that the success of the treaty would be greater if, as far as possible, Canada bought her dried fruit from Australia instead of from California and that Australia bought her lumber from Canada in place of from Oregon. During my tour through the dried fruit areas of the commonwealth I was indeed very pleased to see that a great number of boxes used to pack the fruit were made of Canadian lumber.

"Under modern conditions, it is essential that we should know each other better and come to understand each other's point of view. That knowledge can only be gathered at first hand and not on paper. If that is so, it is obviously the duty of every public man in England to learn what he can of the rest of the empire. Especially so should it be the duty of the man occupying an office such as mine which is directly dealing with the different parts of the empire. The Dominion ministers have always realized these facts and they have been over to London for conferences. Obviously, all the traveling should not be on one side."

3,000 FAMILY SCHEME

Col. Amery said that much thought was being given to immigration and the extension of the 3,000 family scheme. He explained that one reason immigration from the British Isles had been slow during recent years was that conditions were not of the best there, and it is known that during times of depression it is difficult for persons who desire to migrate to raise the money necessary to pay their passages.

"But with more prosperous times here in Canada as well as across the Atlantic there should be an increase in the immigration flow," Col. Amery went on.

"I do not think there is any feeling in Great Britain that the Canadian government is not doing its part to stimulate immigration and I do not think there has been any apathy on the part of the Canadian government in the old land in this respect. The fact is that there have been economic factors at work which have retarded the flow of immigration to this country."

Col. Amery said during his trip across Canada he wanted to learn about all the economic conditions as they affect immigration.

At Toronto, he explained, he will be met by one of the officials of his own staff of the overseas settlement department.

"In person we will discuss immigration with the authorities at Ottawa," Mr. Amery continued. "It is more satisfactory to deal with such matters across the table; it is a much more expeditious way than by telegrams and letters."

WALES GIVES ADVICE TO SHIREMEN

Prince Remarks That He Had Spent "Many Happy Days Riding Over Your Land."

MELTON MOWBRAY, Eng., Jan. 7. — The Prince of Wales, accompanied by the Duke of York and Prince Henry, all wearing lounge suits, rubbed elbows last night with 900 Leicestershire farmers. They were guests of the British heiral, an old-fashioned roast beef dinner at Oldall, Demontfort Hall, Leicester. As the royal trio entered, the guests waved their tankards and sang, "For They're Jolly Good Fellows."

The Prince of Wales fumbled for the handle of a giant beer mug and raised the mug as each toast was drunk. At the Heir's request, all the farmers were in their workday clothes and didn't seem embarrassed.

The Prince of Wales proposed a toast to "the farmers", and remarked that he had spent "many happy days riding over your land.

"I would like to propose a couple of New Year's resolutions," he added, "which are easier to break than some of your fence rails. One would be a resolution suggested by the word 'new' in New Year's. Do not thing I am trying to teach my grandmother to suck eggs, but I hope you do not reject anything new without thorough investigation."

In concluding, the Prince of Wales expressed the hope that English agriculture soon would regain a more complete measure of prosperity.

Completes Sixth Leg Of Tour

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Jan. 7.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, completing the sixth leg of his central American tour, landed here today from Managua, Nicaragua at 1.51 p. m., Central Standard time.

Sudden Death Of Mr. John R. Davies

It was a very great surprise and shock to the relatives and many friends of Mr. John R. Davies to learn of his very sudden death.

Mr. Davies, who has been connected with the Marine Service for the past twenty-five years, returned to Charlottetown a few days ago from Halifax where the C. G. S. "Bayfield," with which he was connected, was laying up for the winter. Those who saw him thought he was in his usual good health. It appears, however, that he was suffering with heart trouble and other ailments for some months past and had been in consultation with his medical advisor.

On Saturday a friend went to his apartments on Queen Street and finding the apartments open and no response to a knock at the door decided to enter, thinking that perhaps Mr. Davies was ill, as his overcoat and hat were hanging in the hall and to the visitor's horror he discovered Mr. Davies in his bed apparently dead. Dr. Houston, the coroner was notified and immediately visited the scene and decided an inquest was unnecessary as Mr. Davies had passed away in his sleep.

Mr. Davies was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Simon Davies and a first cousin of the late Sir Louis H. Davies. Three brothers survive, namely Cecil in New Zealand, Frederic in Winnipeg and Arthur in Penticton, B. C.

The late Mr. Davies acted most acceptably as Social Secretary to His Honor Lieutenant Governor Heartz and also served as Private Secretary during the term of office of Lieutenant Governor McIntyre.

The funeral takes place this morning to Sherwood Cemetery, service being held at St. Paul's Church at ten o'clock, Rev. H. D. Raymond officiating.
