Price Control Questions And Answers

Questions and answers on Price Control will appear in The Guardian as a regular feature each day. The questions are those which have reached the Wartime Prices and Trade Board from housewives in this region. The answers are provided by the Board. Readers who have intelligent questions to ask on price control are invited to send them in writing to the Women's Regional Advisory Committee of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, Chappell Building, Charlottetown.

Q. Does delivery of meals by restaurants come under the dollar limit for retail deliveries?

A. No Delivery of meals is exempt from the dollar limit order.

Q. Why is a thresher allowed an ounce of sugar per meal and other people only eight ounces a week?

A. Because a thresher works from dawn to dark in the open air using up a great deal of energy in hard labor, he has been allowed more sugar than the average city dweller.

Q. Are the new ration coupons good until used or do they lose value if not cashed in during the specified two weeks?

A. Coupons in the permanent ration books issued last September are good until used.

Q. Will the farmer who has cash have a better chance of securing farm machinery than the man who must purchase his on time payments?

A. Absolutely not. The farmer's need for a particular piece of machinery is the only consideration that enters into the picture.

Q. My husband and I received three hors d'oeuvre dishes for wedding presents. We have been told to exchange two of them for something else. Is this alright?

A. Quite alright! Permission has been granted to exchange gifts but no refunds are allowed.

THE COOK'S CORNER

COOKING THE TURKEY

Singe the bird, using tweezers to remove pinfeathers. Remove lungs and scrub the bird inside and out with warm water in which two teaspoons of baking soda has been mixed. Dry thoroughly. Salt the fowl inside., then stuff filling both the body cavity and neck cavity firmly. Close the lower opening with a cord and needle. sew the neck skin to the back bone. Tie the feet together close to the body and turn the tips of the wings close back under the body. First place the turkey on its back in an open pan and brown in a hot oven 20 to 30 minutes. Baste frequently with a mixture of half a cup of melted butter and two cups of hot water After the first browning turn the oven to moderate and continue roasting for twenty-five minutes to the pound. Baste frequently —if browning too rapidly protect the breast with a clean piece of cloth soaked in milk.

Dorothy Dix Says—

BOYS SHOULD BE TAUGHT THE SOCIAL GRACES, TOO

Lack Is Often a Handicap, While Good Manners Are Asset.

A great many mothers realize that it is just as important to give their girls social training as it is to send them to college. So from the time little Susie can walk and talk she is told how to make a curtsy, how to meet strangers, how to say, "thank you," prettily, how to be self-possessed without being pert, and even how to carry on a conversation and entertain a caller while Mama is putting on her complexion before making an appearance. The result is that by the time Susie emerges from her cocoon into being Susan she is a poised young woman, with a charm of manner that is the open sesame that flings wide before her every door through which she wishes to pass.

Curiously enough, however, so few mothers think it necessary to prepare their boys for social life that when a woman, not long ago, gave her son a debut party to formally introduce him into society, it rated headlines in the newspapers.

Why mothers think it is so much more important to give girls social training than it is to boys, Heaven only knows. Maybe it is because Mother gets so worn out trying to teach Johnny not to gargle his soup, or to say, "huh", when he is spoken to, or not to sit fast in the easiest chair in the living room when guests arrive, that she gives up in despair any attempt at adding any frills and adornment to his conduct. Anyway, very few mothers spend any elbow grease in trying to polish up their rough diamonds.

Yet, boys need to be grounded in their childhood in the niceties of behavior even more than do girls, for girls are more observant than boys are, quicker to notice what is the proper thing to do and far more imitative. It takes a man half a lifetime to acquire the social graces that a woman can learn while she is rolling down her sleeves nd taking off her apron and moving out from the kitchen into the parlor.

SOME NEVER LEARN

And sometimes a man never learns his Emily Post at all. I know a great scholar, who knows as much as a large-sized dictionary, who still doesn't know how to hold a fork. I know another world-famous man, who has literally stood before kings, who is still as awkward as a bull in a china shop in a drawing room. Many and many a man has achieved everything except the art of carrying on a casual conversation.

Of course, if a man is a genius he can eat peas with his knife, and gobble his food, and tell women home truths instead of paying them pretty compliments, and get away with it. But even for him the lack of social grace is a handicap. Many a talented man falls of appointment he craves because his rough, homespun manners would not fit into the silk-lined social circles in which he would be thrown.

A banker once told me that the hardest thing he ever had to do was to pass over a highly competent man, who really rated the promotion to be the manager of a branch he was establishing, because of his table manners. "In his position," said the banker, "he would have had to go to banquets and be entertained by prominent people, and we couldn't be represented by a man who didn't know the first principles of table etiquette."

As William Percy says in his delightful book, "Lanterns on the Levee," "this is a very nice world if you remember that while good morals are all important between the Lord and His creatures, what counts between one creature and another is good manners."

A GOOD APPROACH

This being true, why shouldn't mothers take the trouble to equip their boys, as well as their girls, with the knowledge that they are going to need more than anything else on earth—and that is how to get along smoothly with other people? Why shouldn't little Johnny be taught, from the time he is a crawler, how to meet people and what to say and how to say it graciously? Why shouldn't he be taugh, from his youth up, to pull out chairs for ladies and open doors for them and treat old people with courtesy and respect?

Why shouldn't he be made to write letters of thanks and show appreciation for favors done him, just as his sister is made to do? And why isn't he taught how to dance, how to play a decent game of bridge, and to help a girl on with her coat without mussing her hair or wrecking her frock, and how to hand a cup of tea without spilling it all over the place?

Of course, if a boy is real bright, he will learn these things in the course of time, but it would save him some awful moments of awkwardness and wondering what to do during his adolescence if Mother had taught him a manner, as well as manners, so that he would not only be at ease himself in every situation, but other people at theirs.

That is what is called having a good approach and it spells success in every walk of life.

JUST outside the window, aircraft are warming up, taking off, coming in. Those keen young airmen are tomorrow's fighting heroes. Wouldn't you like to be there to help them on their way. As an airwoman in the R.C.A.F. you'll see them come in as students; you'll be there to applaud when they get their wings.

A few months later you'll see their names in the headlines. Then you'll remember how you helped them on their way. You issued them their parachutes; recorded their flying time; prepared their meals; kept weather records for their safety; brought in their supplies in transports; carried on the stenographic work of the station; despatched secret teletype messages, worked at other interesting jobs.

Women's share in the work of the R.C.A.F. is expanding rapidly. There are splendid opportunities for advancement if you join now. Courses offered in air training centres will equip you for responsible positions after the war.

The R.C.A.F. needs girls, ages 18 to 40, with at least High School Entrance. Apply at your nearest R.C.A.F. Recruiting Centre, bringing proof of education and birth certificate. NO WAITING! EXCELLENT OPPORTUNITIES FOR PROMOTION.

A Morning Smile

Something went wrong in the cookhouse and the piecrust was as hard as a brick The mess wag sent it back with a message:

"Give us the tools and we'll finish the job!"

A well-known bishop was just home in England after a long stay at one of our distant colonies Broad of mind as well as physique. he was strolling round the crowded London street. Suddenly out of a sea of faces he recognized a friend of many years past. He stopped in front of him and put out his hand. The friend looked puzzled and said:

"Where in hell have I met you before?"

The bishop,. equal to the occasion and in no wise disconcerted by this tactless remark, asked goodnaturedly:

"Let me see —er —what part of hell do you come from?"

THE CHILDREN'S CAROL

How far is it to Bethlehem?
Not very far.
Shall we find the stable room
Lit by a star?
Is He within?
May we stroke the creatures there,
Ox, ass and sheep?
May we peep like them and see
Jesus asleep?
If we touch His tiny hand
Will He awake?
Great kings have precious gifts
But we have naught,
Little smiles and little tears
Are all we brought.
For all weary children
Many must weep,
Here, on His bed of straw.
Sleep. children. sleep.
God in His Mother's arms.
Babes in the byre,
Sleep as they sleep who find
Their heart's desire.

CHRISTMAS GREENS

The custom of hanging evergreens in the house during the Yuletide originally had a purpose beyond that of decoration. In olden days each kind of evergreen was believed to confer special blessings on those who passed beneath its boughs. To pass under holly insured good fortune throughout the year, bayoneant victory., while laurel was supposed to impart a spirit of beauty and poetry—Missouri Farmer.

CRACKERS

It has long been the custom in France to sell packets of sweets in coloured wrappers twisted at the end to keep the contents from falling out. The French called them cosaques. They were introduced into England about eighty years ago, and from them the cracker was developed. Some millions of crackers are made every year and sold all the world over.

WARM LINGERIE

With an eye toward heat-rationing, lingerie departments are featuring warm undergarments as being both smart and practical — gowns, night shirts and pyjamas of flannelette, matching petticoats and rompers of virgin wools and spun rayons cozy socks, slippers and shawls. While interest centres on warmth, style and becomingness a e not sacrificed. Luxurious y warm night shirts are shown in soft pastel colours. attractively embroidered, gowns, both fitted and yoked models, are made up in plain as well as quaintly printed flannelette. tatting trimmed Tailored robes and slim, boyish pyjamas are popular choices with college and high school misses.

WARDROBE FORESIGHT

Next summer's wardrobe may depend to a large extent on just how well this last summer's clothes have been cherished. Packing garments away correctly is therefore important Unless clothing is absolutely unusable do save it. Garments that are not washable should be dry-cleaned. Those that may be laundered,. should be washed carefully. mended, buttons and fasteners of any kind replaced. Clothing which may not be worn as is, but part of which may be used in combination with some other material in the future,. may be ripped apart and usable sections stored. The old-fashioned scrap bag is important again. Do not starch. Pressing lightly before packing away makes neater storing.

CAROLS

Songs of joy and praise. often accompanied by dances, have been sung by the English for more than a thousand years, being handed on from the Druids to the Christian church. On Christmas Day in the Morning, and The Cherry Tree Carol, are found in many languages, with slightly different words.

USE FOR WALLPAPER ROLLS

To make economic use of rolls of assorted wallpaper that may have accumulated over a period of time, a room can be papered with these by using them inside out, adding a pretty border or moulding. or using a roll of one design to make panels.

For Bad Winter Coughs, Mix This Syrup at Home

Quick Relief. Big Saving. So Easy. No Cooking.

This well known recipe is used by many thousands of housewives, because they have found that it gives them an effective, dependable medicine for distressing winter coughs. It's so easy to mix—anyone can do it.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for effect on throat membranes.

Then make a syrup by stirring two cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. It's no trouble at all, and takes but a moment. No cooking needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey instead of sugar syrup.

Put the Pinex into a 16 ounce bottle and add your syrup. This gives you 16 ounces of cough syrup, unusually quick-acting and dependable, and you get four times as much cough medicine for your money. It never spoils, and is very pleasant—children love it.

You'll be surprised by the way it takes hold of severe coughs, giving quick, satisfying relief. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Money refunded if it doesn't please in every way.

Santa Rides Again— Santa Will Ride! By Geoff Hayes

Santa was all smiles as he took the children's wraps.

"I was afraid I would have to call off my visit this year," he said.

"The world is so full of sorrow that my elves are busy elsewhere.

"But now with your kind help, SANTA WILL RIDE AGAIN!"
