Plant-Food Near Roots Gives Maximum Results

How can the amateur gardener be sure to get maximum results from the commercial plant food he applies to his garden?

Many experiments to bring out this information are constantly being made, and much new information has been developed. It was long the practice of manufacturers to recommend that plant food be broadcast on the vegetable garden, after it had been spaded and smoothed, at the rate of 4 pounds to 100 square feet, and then raked into the top soil.

The amount—4 pounds to 100 square feet—is still recommended for the average garden, and where a well balanced plant food giving all the chief nutritive elements is used; but while broadcasting it is good, a better method is to apply the plant food in bands on either side of the row in which the seeds are sown.

The reason for this is that the plant requires balanced nutrition right from germination or transplanting. Certain elements do not travel very fast in the soil. Others attach themselves to soil particles and do not get to the feeding root area. It is better when making application of plant food to put it in a location where it will be more convenient for the roots.

Even nitrogen, in the form usually found in plant food, will not at once dissolve and be evenly distributed in the soil moisture though it will in time, after certain chemical changes have taken place.

The method recommended for applying plant food today, is to stretch the line to mark the row in which seeds are to be planted. Then not less than two inches away on either side, make a furrow four inches deep. Pour plant food into each furrow at the rate of one pound (or pint) for 50 feet, and cover it with earth. Then make the drill in which seed are to be sown and proceed with planting as usual.

Remember that it is possible to use too much plant food, and do not exceed the recommended application. Additional plant food should be applied later at about five or six week intervals to keep your plants growing well. And be sure to keep your bands of plant food two inches away from the seed drill, so that the soil in which seedlings are coming up will not get an overdose, which the young plants cannot handle.

Mr. King's Rival in Glengarry Outlines Election Platform

"If he's not good enough for Prince Albert, he's not good enough for old Glengarry," Dr. Richard Monahan told the Ottawa Journal over the long distance telephone this morning when explaining why he had decided to oppose Prime Minister King in the August 6 by-election.

The Doctor—"spell it out", he cautioned, "for I don't like abbreviations"—is 64 years of age, and by his own account has lived a fabulous life as soldier, politician, sailor, aviator mountain climber, world statesman, figure skater racing driver and confidant of Lloyd George.

Located at Summertown

He spoke to the Evening Journal from the Chateau Stanley, at Summerstown, after a chase over long distance telephone lines that had lasted all morning. "I am making a full statement at a press conference later in the day at Alexandria," announced the Doctor.

"What," asked the Journal, "makes you think the people of Glengarry will prefer Monahan to King?"

"My Scottish connections are better than those of the Prime Minister" replied the doctor. "I fought with the Black Watch on the Indian frontier. My Empire ties are closer, too, for I was with the British Grand Fleet at Jutland."

With both the Black Watch and the Grand Fleet, the Doctor disclosed he had been a medical officer, serving later in a similiar capacity with the Royal Air Force.

"Pure Irish."

"I am pure Irish," he continued "born in Montreal. After the last war I remained overseas, coming back to Canada a few years ago, and up to June was medical officer of health at Temiskaming."

The Doctor admitted he was "now looking for a practice—perhaps around Sharbot Lake"—a settlement some 50 miles north of Kingston.

"When in Temiskaming," he recounted, "I had a splendid idea for development of the country north clear to Hudson's Bay. It involved an immense water power project, and a scheme by which the people would share as they should in the production of gold mines."

For Glengarry, the Doctor has a proposition, which if undertaken he claims would restore the old country to the status of the "garden of Canada."

Aqueduct Scheme

Trouble with Glengarry today, he explained, was lack of water, and he proposed to bring it in by aqueducts from the St. Lawrence river.

He also had under consideration a scheme for non-contributory state medicine, and a new Federal Labor Code, modelled after the Wagner Act in the United States, but so "refined and streamlined" that under it Canadians would enjoy an income of some $300.000 each."

The Doctor revealed a life interest in world affairs.

"Before the war," he recounted, "I climbed over the Swiss Alps to see Prime Minister King at Geneva and plead for his intervention in the Spanish Civil War. I wanted Canada to assist the Spanish Republicans, but as usual, "Mr. King did nothing."

Still "in favor of the League of Nations, the Doctor wants to see any new world security organization move back to Geneva "to save the cost of construction of new buildings."

He also had interviewed Mr. King at an Empire Conference, urging that Canada "pitch in and help the Czechs and other Central Europeans before they went under. Again Mr. King didn't turn a finger."

"Have you any other occupation than surgery?" The Journal asked the Doctor.

Also a Figure Skater

"Indeed," he replied, "I am a good figure skater, and looking forward, too, towards next Winter and my exhibition at your Minto Club.

"I have raced cars, worked as a journalist writing for Chambers' Weekly, climbed mountains and flirted with politics. That must have been around 1921 or 1922 when Lloyd George, himself asked me to be one of his candidates. I have always been a Liberal and spell it with a small 'l'"

"If," asked the Journal, "at the moment you have no practice, how are you managing to live?

"I have a private income—a mere trifle—about $6,000—enough to keep me from drowning, so to speak—from the teak forests of Burma."

"That sounds interesting," suggested the Journal.

"It is indeed. My wife is the granddaughter of Anna Leonowens better known as 'Anna of Siam', and it is through that connection that the private income stems. Just recently Hollywood purchased, for $75,000 the rights to the story of Anna of Siam,' and that has helped immensely."

The Doctor warned that, nice as a $6,000 income might sound it was "really a pittance," compared with what could really be done.

"When I am elected," he promised, "good incomes will be around $300,000. That's more like it, don't you think?"

For his Glengarry campaign the Doctor, in his own words, is "going to go all out."

There was a pause when the Doctor added;

"I am going to give Willie the works. That's rather a neat phrase 'give Willie the works' don't you think?"

The Doctor hae a daughter of eight, now living with Mrs. Monahan in a boarding house just outside Sharbot Lake.

During the campaign he will make his headquarters at the Bank of Montreal in Lancaster.

"Before this is through," he cautioned, "We're going to set the heather blazing again across old Glengarry."

Address and Presentation

On Thursday evening July 26th, the spacious home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Murphy, Augustine Cove, was filled to capacity, when a large number of relatives and friends gathered there to extend heartiest felicitations on the occasion of their twenty-fifth anniversary.

The bride and groom of twenty-five years ago were escorted to seats in the prettily decorated living room by Mrs. James Murray and Mr. Adrian Murray.

Mr. Bruce Campbell in a few well chosen words explained the cause for the gathering and called on Mr. E. C. Bell to read a carefully worded address while Mrs. Harry Dawson made the presentation of a beautiful chest of silver and a large sum of money.

Mr. Murphy on behalf of himself and his wife, thanked all present for their kindness after which all joined in the singing of: "For they are Jolly Good Fellows."

A bountiful lunch was served by the ladies of the community and the remainder of the evening was pleasantly whiled away by music and dancing.

All departed to their homes at a late hour wishing Addie and Frank many many more years of happy wedded bliss.

Following is the Address:

Dear Addie and Frank:—On this the 25th anniversay of that most important day in your lives, when the sweet wedding bells proclaimed the beginning of your married life, we, who are privileged to call ourselves your friends are gathered here this evening to offer you both our heartiest felicitations on this happy occasion.

We need not assure you that we, one and all, consider it a rare privilege to have enjoyed the confidence of your friendship during all those years and earnestly hope our happy relations will continue down through the coming years.

Your presence in this community has ever been an influence for good, and in all that pertained to the Social and better things of life you were ever ready to play your part willingly and unsparingly. Good Citizens, Kind Neighbors and True Friends.

As to your home—it is here that your real worth is to be found. God fearing and honest parents, you have nurtured your family in the fear and admonition of the Lord and to them I say—The influence of a Christian home is far better than all gold or earthly riches they may acquire, and they go forth clad in strong armor to meet the dealings of a cold and cruel world.

Undoubtedly, coming this far on life's journey, you have had your ups and downs, tears and sorrows, labor and work, pleasure and pain joy and gladness, and through all these, you have been loyal and helpful, one to the other, each helping to bear one another's burdens and so tonight as we all look back, we can understand why a wise Providence did easily ordain that you Addie and Frank should have seen eye to eye and tie the matrimonial knot.

We ask you dear friends to please accept this small gift, not for its intrinsic value, but merely as a token of our kind regard and esteem towards you and with it our fondest hope that you may continue to travel along life's highway together, enjoying good health and prosperity and as for those of us gathered here tonight, we trust we may again be with you not only on your golden but on your diamond Anniversary.

Signed YOUR FRIENDS,

Augustine Cove,
July 26, 1945.

Native of Indian River Decorated

The following news item from a Trenton, N. J., paper will be of interest to Prince Edward Islanders. Father Raymond Gillis referred to is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Gillis of Indian River, P. E. I. The courage and devotion to duty shown by Father Gillis on the battlefield carried him through life. Although orphaned when quite young he worked and attended night school and finally realized his ambition to become a priest.

His sisters, Mrs. Russel Berry of Wellington, and Mrs. C. B. McLellan and Miss Gertrude Gillis, R.N., of Kensington, are the only members of the family living in P. E. I. Several brothers are located in the States.

"Father Raymond Gillis, S. A., now a Captain in the Chaplains Corps, was cited for meritorious service in Germany by the commanding general and awarded the Bronze Star Medal before the close of hostilities. The citation reads: 'Disregarding his personal safety, Father Gillis frequently risked his life to conduct services for the men in the front lines. With understanding of human nature and sincere sympathetic feeling, he gave comfort and spread confidence among men of all faiths.' Another recipient of this distinction for bravery under fire is Father Dennis Murphy, S.A., whose duties as a Chaplain kept him close to the front during the campaigns in France and Germany."

Y's Men Again Publish Car Book

In spite of many obstacles the Y's Men's Club of Charlottetown have once again produced their popular Directory of Prince Edward Island Registered Motor Vehicles.

The book this year is very attractive and contains the registration number of all cars and trucks registered to July 1st, 1945.

The proceeds of the advertising and sale of these books is used by the Y's Men in Community Work for boys and girls. Several years ago the Club acquired a beautiful Camping site at Holland Cove and each year improvements have been made in the facilities. Under the direction of the new Y. M. C. A. General Secretary, Mr. Jas McConnell, interesting developments are planned for the future.

The preparation and distribution of the Directory is done gratuitously by members of the Club, which is given the exclusive right of publication by the Government. The Club is deeply indebted to the Government, the advertisers, and all those who assisted in the work of production.

The chairman of the committee responsible for the book this year, is Mr. R. J. Rupert, Secretary of the Club.

The book is now on sale throughout the City and Province.

Twofold Source of Sun's Carona

(By The Associated Press)

PHILADELPHIA, July 30—Scientific photographs of the eclipse of the sun July 9 show the source of illumination of the sun's corona is "definitely two-fold," Dr. Roy K. Marshall, director of Fels Planetarium of the Franklin Institute, said today in a preliminary report.

He said the Institute's expedition to Wolseley, Sask., "accomplished its purpose—to obtain a permanent record of the visual appearance of the corona and to check the possible differences in appearance between red and green coronal emissions," the light sources.

Using twin astrographic cameras, Dr. Marshall used a red filter on one and a green filter on the other. Although astronomically strong and with measurable characteristics, the red and green negatives were not strong enough to enable photographic reproduction, so Dr. Marshall made sketches showing the coronal details.

"The green corona," he said, "not unlike a fried egg in appearance," disclosed a "broad, equatorial streamer" of light extending at least 2,000,000 miles—short compared with a 15,000,000-mile 'spike' of light seen during the eclipse of 1878." One ray about 500,000 miles wide, he said, appeared to be a "prolongation of a sharp petal" observed in another picture made by the Evening Bulletin-Franklin Institute-University of Pennsylvania expedition.

Further study of photographs and data obtained by other astronomers may produce evidence, Dr. Marshall indicated, whether the coronal phenomenon is due to titanic changes of material or merely light "pulsations along the jets and streamers."

This would appear to have an important bearing on the popular question of whether the sun is "burning itself out."

"These are matters for future study by versatile instruments at eclipses for which the duration is longer than 34 seconds. The eclipse of May 20, 1947, observable from Argentina, will have a duration there of between four and five minutes. On June 29, 1955, in the Philippines, the duration will be nearly seven minutes, as long as any eclipse of the past 10 or 12 centuries, and approaching the maximum theoretical duration of 7 1-2 minutes, never attained in historic times.

Because of cloudy conditions along much of the July 9 eclipse path, Dr. Marshall concluded, "the photographs taken by the expedition have become quite valuable."

A Business Opportunity

The Campbell Machine Company, Inc. of Wollaston, Massachusetts, manufacturers of electric floor surfacing machines since 1916, have built up a well-established business, both in the United States and Canada.

However, it occurred to us that we have made progress enough in the Canadian market now to warrant the establishment of a small manufacturing plant in Canada, preferably in the Maritimes for the purpose of manufacturing new machines, repairing and servicing the old machines now in use, of which there is quite a number.

We have made application for a Patent in Canada on a new Automobile Safety Device, already patented in the United States, which has the support of the Insurance Companies here as it will be the means of eliminating a great number of accidents, many of them fatal.

This Device shows possibilities of a large distributorship and can be manufactured along with the floor machine business. This would be —the means of putting quite a number of machinists to work.

The writer will be the the Charlottetown Hotel the first week of August and will be very pleased to meet interested parties and will supply further information in detail.

The Canadian company would have preference with the British Commonwealth of Nations.
