"Caught Cold."

Had a Distressing, Tickling Sensation In The Throat.

Mr. Albert MacPhee, Chignecto Mines, N.S., writes: "In Oct., 1908, I caught cold by working in water, and had a very bad cough and that distressing, tickling sensation in my throat so that I could not get sleep at night, and my lungs were so very sore I had to give up work. Our doctor gave me medicine but it did me no good so I got a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup and by the time I had used two bottles I was entirely cured. I am always recommending it to my friends."

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup combines the potent healing virtues of the Norway pine tree with other absorbent, expectorant and soothing medicines of recognized worth and is absolutely harmless, prompt and safe for the cure of Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Croup, Sore Throat, Pain or Tightness in the Chest, and all Throat and Lung Troubles.

There are many imitations of "Dr Wood's" so be sure and get the genuine when you ask for it.

Put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25 cents. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

SAYS C.P.R. WILL MAKE EVERY EFFORT TO DIVERT ENGLISH TOURIST TRAVEL TO CANADA.

ST. JOHN, March 8—That the Canadian Pacific Railway will make every effort to bring an increasingly large number of English tourists to Canada, and that to this end they have made a tourist bureau part of the official machinery of the C.P.R. administration at Montreal, was the statement made to a Telegraph representative on Saturday by G. M. Bosworth, fourth vice-president of the C. P. R. Mr. Bosworth arrived by the Empress of Britain after spending several weeks on business in Europe. While abroad he visited Austria in company with George McL. Brown, European manager of the C. P. R., and investigated conditions there with a view to the possible establishment of a direct steamship service between Canada and Austria. Mr. Bosworth is almost enthusiastic over the prospects of developing trade between Canada and Austria through the medium of a direct steamship service, but like most C. P. R. officials, whatever their station, he is not in the habit of discussing the company's affairs with newspaper men. He, however, informed the Telegraph that the Austrian service is practically a certainty, thus corroborating a story published in this paper last week.

"Canada has much to gain from such a service," he said. "While in Austria I found that this Dominion is very favorably regarded there as a field for agriculture which offers far better returns than any European country, or even the United States. Land for settlement purposes is cheaper, and the Austro-Hungarian farmers find conditions here very similar to those in the land they left. In the past we have got very few Austrian settlers in proportion to the number who have gone to the United States every year, but now Canada is much more favorably known and this knowledge cannot but bear fruit in the shape of a great increase in immigration, once we get a direct service. The Canadian wheat fields offer great opportunities to the men who come from the Hungarian wheat fields, and the fame of our wheat has long since reached the agriculturists of Europe.

"Then another great benefit from improved service will be shown in the growth of trade. Austrian commercial travellers pay but scant attention to Canada, because of the difficulty in getting here. The Austrian market also offers a field for many lines of Canadian manufactures not now sold there to any extent. With a direct service, and the consequent great increase in Austrian immigration, there will naturally be an increased demand for Austrian goods here, as well as for Canadian goods in Austria."

Asked as to the arrangements for the service, Mr. Bosworth said that they had not been completed. Northern Austrian ports will probably be served by the London and Antwerp boats, while for Southern Austria there will be a direct line to Trieste. These, however, are matters of detail. The principal thing which is of most interest is that a service will be established, and that the Canadian termini will be Montreal and St. John.

Speaking of English tourist travel to Canada, and the possibility of expansion and development in this direction, Mr. Bosworth said that the C. P. R. will, in the future, make increased efforts to develop this very lucrative trade. The English tourist who travels "de luxe" is, according to Mr. Bosworth, "a most desirable guest to cultivate," and the large and important place which Canada now occupies in the Empire, makes the present an especially good time to cultivate him. English tourist travel would be a year round business. In the summer time the tourist would come for the ocean voyage, as well as for the opportunity to see Canada from coast to coast. The game and fishing seasons would also attract many, while the winter sports would prove a potent magnet in the winter season.

"We believe that next season will see a remarkably heavy increase in this travel, and we are making active preparations to cater to it. A tourist bureau has been opened in Montreal in charge of Mr. Benjamin formerly Chicago agent of the C. P. R., and every attention, will, of course, be shown to the visitors. At the same time we will continue to do our share in the way of advertising Canada in England, and in Europe generally. Hitherto we have devoted most of our attention to advertising Canada as a place to settle in. We will continue to do this, but will also endeavor to show English tourists that this country offers many attractions as a holiday spot."

Mr. Bosworth, when asked about the service between Canada and Australia, said he believed it was practically settled upon, but, on account of his absence in Europe, was unable to speak definitely of it. As to the possibility of an Italian line, he said there was already considerable business between Canada and Italy. Whether the C. P. R. had in view the undertaking of such a service he would not commit himself, but observed: "We are always looking for business and will go where it is to be obtained."

As to the development of the west side property or any other matters affecting the C. P. R's relations with St. John, he would not speak. Another C. P. R. official, in speaking in this connection, however, said: "You need increased and improved hotel accommodation here. Given this there should be a great opportunity for the development and expansion of the tourist business."

Mr. Bosworth went through to Montreal on Saturday night.

Palpitation of the Heart.

One of the first danger signals that announce something wrong with the heart is the irregular or violent throb. Often there is only a fluttering sensation, or an "all gone" sinking feeling; or, again, there may be a most violent beating, with flushings of the skin, and visable pulsations of the arteries.

There may also be experienced a smothering sensation, gasping for breath, and feeling as though about to die.

In all such cases the action of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills in quieting the heart and restoring it to its normal beat, is, beyond all question marvellous, as our thousands of testimonials will show.

Mrs. Martha Mason, Marlbank, Ont., writes:—"Just a few lines to let you know what Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have done for me. I have been troubled with weakness and palpitation of the heart, would have severe choking spells and could scarcely lie down at all. I tried many remedies but got none to answer my case like your pills did. I can recommend them highly to all with heart or nerve trouble."

Price, 50 cents per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25 at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co. Limited, Toronto, Ont.

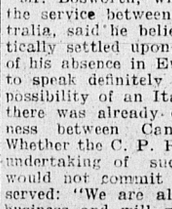
THIRD OPERATION PREVENTED

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound



Chicago, Ill. — "I want to tell you what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. I was so sick that two of the best doctors in Chicago said I would die if I did not have an operation. I had already had two operations, and they wanted me to go through a third one. I suffered day and night from inflammation and a small tumor, and never thought of seeing a well day again. A friend told me how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped her, and I tried it, and after the third bottle was cured."—Mrs. ALVENA SPERLING, 11 Langdon Street, Chicago, Ill.

If you are ill do not drag along at home or in your place of employment until an operation is necessary, but build up the feminine system, and remove the cause of those distressing aches and pains by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs.

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively restored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

THERE ARE LESSONS IN THE STORY OF JEKYLL AND HYDE.

In everything that came from the pen of Robert Louis Stevenson the observant reader is aware that the author has a moral lesson to inculcate. This is particularly true of the work whose title forms our present caption. Dr. Jekyll and Mr Hyde is the old world story of good and evil striving for the mastery of the human heart; it is the conflict ceaselessly going on within us between our better and our worse self, between spirit and matter, reason and passion, the angel and the brute.

It was the consciousness of this struggle that made the old pagan philosopher exclaim; "I see and approve the better course, but follow after the worse!" It would be difficult to find a more vivid description than St. Paul's pen picture of the fierce battle between the elements that go to make up what Stevenson terms man's dual nature. It is a picture drawn not from hearsay, but from the memory of the Apostle's own bitter experience: "To will good is present with me, but to accomplish what is good, I find not. For the good which I will, I do not; but that evil which I hate, that I do. I am delighted with the law of God according to the inward man. But I see another law in my members fighting against the law of my mind." And from the depths of the agony caused by this continuous, and at times seemingly unequal struggle he cries out, "Unhappy man that I am, who shall deliver me from this body of death?"

Assuredly there is a Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde in each and every one of us—the Jekyll part of us tending upwards, the sinister Hyde well content to remain on the brute level. Many a man is Dr. Jekyll to the outside world and the odious, monstrous Hyde in his own home circle. Many there are who show the Jekyll side cleverly enough in church on Sunday and with Hyde-like heartlessness bleed the poor, the widow and the orphan, during the rest of the week. As some one has well expressed it, "They are ready to offer their prayers on Sunday if on Monday they may go into the market place and skin their fellows and sell their hides."

Dr. Jekyll is a good man, a benevolent and a loveable man, and so are we all when we follow the promptings of our better nature; when reason, of conscience, holds sway over the unruly passions. But when it wearies for a while of the bitter strife and loosens its grip on the reins, the unchecked animal Hyde goes bounding forth on his career of license. The pampered children of luxury may smile with mingled feelings of contempt and pity at the policy of the old ascetics, but in that they only manifest their own want of sense. For, after all, the ascetics are very wise men from a philosophical as well as from a religious point of view. They realize that the passions are to the reason what the horse is to the rider, and that, if they would retain the mastery, they must occasionally use the bit and the spur. If they are somewhat stern in dealing with the brute element of their nature, it is not out of hatred, but with a view to its own ultimate best interests. It is because they love it wisely and well. They are following the practice of St. Paul, who tells us that he chastised his body for the purpose of bringing it into subjection.

The end and aim of both civilization and religion is nothing more or less than to establish and maintain an equilibrium between these two opposing forces—reason and passion. Civilization is not measured by wealth and luxury, or even by the prevalence of book learning; for mental culture may co-exist with the grossest animalism. It is not unusual to hear of born savages who have been reared in the lap of science and luxury hearkening to the call of the wild and returning to the barbarous customs of their forbears. No reputable authority on ethics has ever yet defined civilization as a state in which electrical appliances, aeroplanes, railroads, Dreadnoughts, and magnificent buildings abound. One and all, they tell us rather that it is the dominance of reason over passion.

"The time to buy silks is right now when the stock is complete. We have silks fit for a Queen, just in time for your dressmaker, and you will have no excuse to blame her if you don't get it on time. Paton & Co 3—8drtf.

Five Roses, Madam, Gives You Better Pastries Cheaper

Who started that moth-eaten, bewhiskered fallacy, Madam, that the best all-round family flour should be made from soft winter wheat?

Then, again, what great and eminent exponent of the culinary art would risk his reputation on such a delusion?

Once again and then some, we ask, who was it?

For behold FIVE ROSES, coming from the heart of the hard, sun-ripened Manitoba Spring Wheat, for bread unbeatable, for pastry peerless—behold FIVE ROSES, Madam, ready to prove them wrong, woefully wrong.

Soft wheat, you see, means more starch and less glutinous protein.

If it's starch you want, Madam, and not gluten—starch is cheaper and more plentiful in potatoes.

Wheaten flour is valued above all for its protein content, which is the real breadstuff.

And Manitoba wheat is ever so much richer in gluten and protein than the soft winter article.

* * * *

Of course, Madam, you already know the wonderful breadstuffs in the FIVE ROSES barrel.

But think of the pastries and the goodies you could make from that selfsame flour.

Take any standard recipe, Mistress Housewife—same quantities of shortening, water, salt and other ingredients.

Then, owing to its higher absorbing power, you require ONE FIFTH LESS OF FIVE ROSES than of so-called "pastry" flour.

Just mix your dough and set aside awhile before rolling, and roll thinner than usual.

Think of the saving, Madam, both in health and dollars.

* * * *

And for the same reason your cookies and cakes, etc., will keep longer, freshor, more melting, because FIVE ROSES holds the moisture.

Your FIVE ROSES pies, your cakes, biscuits, griddle cakes, all contain that exceptional nutritive value lacking entirely in soft wheat flours.

And they invariably raise higher, with a clearer, richer, more delicate appearance!

In tenderness, crispness, texture, we who have used FIVE ROSES twenty-one years have never been shamefaced.

The baking aroma gives you an idea of the flavor; is there any perfume to compare with that coming from a hot oven full of FIVE ROSES goodies?

You sniff blissfully and think not.

* * * *

If you want more pastries with less labor—more nutritious, more appetizing dainties—if you want to save temper, time and trouble, and money.

If you want to reduce his meals downtown and have him home at noon—Then, Madam, you will use FIVE ROSES.

Eternal vigilance is the price of success in the struggle between Jekyll and Hyde. Every unlawful indulgence granted the passions strengthens them and withdraws them farther beyond our control. It is far easier to change from Jekyll to Hyde than from Hyde to Jekyll, and if we repeatedly indulge the Hyde craving, it is probable that we will one day reach a stage whence return will be next to impossible. Those who have read Stevenson's story know that poor Dr. Jekyll tried it once too often. And so may we.—Baltimore Sun.
