THE COOK'S CORNER

GLAZED ONIONS

Three cups medium-sized silver-skinned onions, 4 tablespoons butter, 3 tablespoons sugar.

Cook onions in boiling water for about 25 minutes or until partially cooked. Drain and dry on paper towels or cheese cloth. Melt butter, add sugar and onions. Cook over low heat, shaking at intervals to keep onions from sticking. Serve hot when glazed.

ORANGE CUSTARD

Try serving orange custard for dessert. Be SURE it is very cold when you serve it and you'll find it to be almost as popular as ice cream with the children. Here again we have a healthy combination of milk, eggs and citrus fruits.

Two cups milk, 2 eggs, slightly beaten; 1-8 teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons sugar, 1 tablespoon orange juice, 2 oranges peeled and cut into sections, 1-2 cup heavy cream, whipped.

Scald milk. Combine eggs, salt and sugar, gradually stir in hot milk, return to double boiler and cook over hot water 5 minutes or until the mixture coats the spoon, stirring constantly. Add orange juice; cool quickly. Place one-half of the orange sections in six custard cups, dividing equally. Pour cooled custard over the oranges. Garnish with the remaining orange sections. Chill thoroughly. Serve with whipped cream. This is a delicious dessert and especially good for invalids and children.

A Morning Smile

SURE THING

"See here", exclaimed the stranger, as he stumbled into his twentieth puddle. "I thought you said you knew where all the bad places were on this road?"

"Well", replied the native who had volunteered to guide him through the dar, "we're a-findin' of them, ain't we?"

TOSS UP

Pat was engaged putting a water main into the poorhouse. Saturday came and the boss saw Pat dolefully examining his pay packet. "Mistake in your wages, Pat?" he asked.

"Oh, no", said Pat, "but I was just wondering whether me or the water would be in the poorhouse first".

Wingleby—If ever I should meet my double I would certainly go up to him and shake him by the hand.

Tinkersley—Surely there are better ways of expressing your sympathy?

A MOTHER'S PRAYER

A mother's prayer for her son in the Service:

Dear God, my heart is heavy day and night,
So once again I pray for my dear son;
At Duty's Call he chose the Path of Right—
Yet, If I could, I'd not change what he's done.

"Somewhere" this night he stands 'neath danger's pall.
Strong in his Faith and Love of You and me,
Offering, if needs, his very life, his all—
Oh, God, "No greater love than this can be!"

Guard him, Dear God, wherever he may be,
Beneath Thine arms from danger keep him free;
In Thy good time, Lord, send him home to me,
If not—then God I give him back to Thee.

MARRIED COUPLE SHOULD ACT AGE

It is kind of hard on the kids when parents decide that they are going to be cute young things—instead of a married couple who are heads of a growing family, writes Ruth Millet.

Cute young things treat their children as amusing toys, instead of as small human beings who need unceasing care and attention and love.

When they are in the mood they play with their children, dress them up and show them off to friends and have hilarious times with them.

But when the parents aren't in the mood, the children get pushed off on an obliging grandparent on neighbourhood girl who wants to earn some spending money—or if they are old enough to look after themselves, they are told to keep quiet and quit asking questions and they can have a nickel.

The children of cute young things learn early in life that mama's and daddy's friends are mamma's and daddy's friends—so they don't kick too much at being whisked out of sight before company arrives.

It takes them awhile to realize that, just like the kids next door, they have a "mamma" and a "papa"—though they don't understand, but which makes sense to cute young things, they know their parents only as Pat and Peg.

They are never sure just how they will be received by their parents when they tiptoe into their room in the morning. They may get great bear hugs and hear themselves called pet names—or they may find that the cute young things, having left a country club party only a few hours before, are grouchy and not in the least glad to see their young ones.

So it isn't a very comforting and secure world—that which the small fry of cute young things face from babyhood.

They never know quite what to expect at home—and as a rule they soon start wandering to some more typical neighbourhood home to get the attention and sense of security and tranquility they don't get from Pat and Peg.

Your Individual HOROSCOPE —By Frances Drake

Look in the section your birthday comes in and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Monday, November 24th

(Copyright, 1941, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

MARCH 21 to APRIL 20 (Aries)—Unfriendly rays indicate that you must watch your step, particularly in financial and personal matters. Relieve tension by a well planned and productive schedule. Cast aside idle thoughts and concentrate on essential items.

APRIL 21 to MAY 20 (Taurus)—Grand vibrations emanate from benefic stars to cheer you on; make this a banner day. Be definite in actions. Be conscious of your talents and develop them to the full.

MAY 21 to JUNE 21 (Gemini)—Don't permit unworthy individuals or thoughts to influence your policy or routine. Schemers may tempt. Turn a "deaf ear" to them and their ilk.

JUNE 22 to JULY 23 (Cancer)—The higher you aim the better your chance to attain real achievement. Irritating influences prevalent now will bother you unless you proceed with calm, unruffled manner toward your goal.

JULY 24 to AUGUST 22 (Leo)—Look at yourself in the mirror and see what others see, not only in attire but also how you act and speak, which is a picture of the inner YOU. Don't sell yourself short! Give your best always.

AUGUST 23 to SEPTEMBER 23 (Virgo) — Diversion is the word. Exercise your varied capabilities to circumvent today's unfriendly vibrations. The individual with foresight, courage and useful modern methods will benefit.

SEPTEMBER 24 to OCTOBER 23 (Libra) — Financial and investment matters rate high this friendly period. Avoid emotional complications that sometimes go hand in hand with the handling of important interests. Relax and study.

OCTOBER 24 to NOVEMBER 22 (Scorpio) — Industrial and clerical workers, government and civic employes, students, beauticians head favored list this at times quiet day. Move quickly to remedy any faults or bad habits that may be hurting your personality.

NOVEMBER 23 to DECEMBER 22 (Sagittarius) — A so-so day. Energize your schedule with more constructive thought and action based on experience of previously planned endeavors. Properly allocate your efforts. Important items first.

DECEMBER 23 to JANUARY 21 (Capricorn) —Guard budget, watch your spending. In many attractive buys, at least "attractive" on the surface, when you get down to "brass tacks" the value is not there. Carefully check over each item before investing.

JANUARY 22 to FEBRUARY 20 (Aquarius) — Your vibrations coincide with those of Capricorn. Have genuine feeling for everything you undertake. Put your heart into your interests. Result will reflect your earnest and dependable effort.

FEBRUARY 21 to MARCH 20 (Pisces) — Don't underestimate your competition. Do your best to go it one better and reap cherished reward. Care needed in financial and business matters. Unfriendly influences warn you to be on your toes to overrule disturbing incidents.

A CHILD BORN ON THIS DAY Versatile, kind, lovable and charitable. Inclined to be stubborn at times but calm, logical reasoning can surmount this. Religion should be a major item in this child's routine— it is a stabilizer through life. Teach this child not to fret about bygones but rather to look ahead for the present and future.

Dorothy Dix Says—

DON'T QUIT MAKING LOVE AFTER THE WEDDING BELLS

Greatest Mistake In Marriage Is To End Courtship At Altar And Become Just Husbands And Wives

A bride asks me if I will tell her what are the mistakes that husbands and wives most frequently make in marriage. Well, the most common mistake that they make is in thinking that they have caught the car and that there is no need to chase it any longer. They end their courtship at the altar and become just husbands and wives instead of lovers. They throw away the bait with which they caught their poor fish. They slump in their personal appearance. They don't even try to look attractive to each other, and abandon all the arts and wiles by which they sold themselves to each other before marriage. They cease to kiss because they are no longer kissable and their marriages go flat because they do not take the trouble to keep them pepped up. They make the mistake of taking each other for granted. The husband thinks because he told his wife when he was courting her that she was the most beautiful and wonderful creature in the world that it is so deeply engraved on the tablets of her memory that she can never forget it and he doesn't have to say it over again. The wife thinks that her husband will know intuitively that he is still the hero of her girlish dreams without her ever mentioning it to him. But compliments do not last that long. What the husbands and wives are pining for is to be told every day how marvelous their mates consider them. Hot air is the diet on which marriage thrives and fattens.

Don't Be Too Frank

Husbands and wives make the mistake of thinking that marriage gives them the privilege of telling each other home truths and disregarding all tact in dealing with each other. No man would tell any strange woman that she was putting on poundage, or deride her taste, or let her see how stupid and boresome he thought her. But he does not hesitate to tell his wife that she is getting fat, and to make fun of her new hat, or tell her that she doesn't know what she is talking about when she expresses an opinion.

Nor should any woman puncture the little pink balloon of the egotistic man who is boasting of his triumphs or doing his little parlor tricks. On the contrary, she would listen with an expression of absorbed attention to his ballyhoo about himself and beg him to tell again how he caught that tarpon or pulled off that big deal.

Mistakes To Be Avoided

Most husbands and wives would rather die than pay each other a compliment, yet they know that no flattery is so sweet as the home-brewed, and that any woman or man who will feed their mates on sweet talk can have them eating out of their hands.

Husbands and wives make the mistake of thinking that marriage will give them some sort of supernatural power that will enable them to marry one kind of man or woman and change him or her into something entirely different as soon as they get them home.

Miracles Seldom Happen

Of course, these miracles never come off, for adults don't change their mental and moral characteristics any more than they do their physical ones. Husbands and wives are things that have to be taken "as is," as the shipping manifests say.

Husbands and wives make the mistake of thinking that the daily spat is an innocent indoor sport in which they can indulge without any harm being done, and that after calling each other every insulting name they can think of and wounding each other's vanity to the quick that they can wipe it all out with a few kisses, and everything is as it was before. Fatal mistake. Neither party ever really forgets or forgives. The wound never heals and every quarrel puts a nail in the coffin of love.

Wives Need a Boost, Too

Dear Miss Dix—Why will a man, who is kind, thoughtful, unselfish and all that a wife can ask as long as things run along smoothly, become aloof and intolerant when his wife is tired and nervous from overwork and needs affection and understanding more than at any other time? Why don't husbands realize that wives need a boost when things go wrong as much as they do? TIRED WIFE.

ANSWER—Perhaps it is because men depend more spiritually upon their wives than wives do upon their husbands. Or perhaps it is because men realize that when it comes to bearing things women have more endurance than they have.

You must have noticed that it is almost invariably the wife who makes the atmosphere of a home. If she is gay and cheerful and optimistic, the house is full of sunshine and laughter, even if the husband contributes very little mirth to it.

Husbands just naturally turn to their wives for comfort when they are in trouble, and a wife misses a great bet when she doesn't forget how worried she is and cheer him up. DOROTHY DIX.

AWAITING IRONING

A drawer in the kitchen cabinet should be lined with white paper and used to hold those odds and ends of rough-dry articles that gather in between laundry days. In this safe place the articles are kept clean and out of sight.

SAVING ON STOCKINGS

Now that silk stockings are becoming more precious every day, there is every reason for us to take care of these very essential articles. Lovely legs call for equally lovely stockings, and it is up to us to see that they wear as long as possible. The best way to treat your silk stockings is this. Dip them in mild, lukewarm suds after every wearing, avoiding rubbing or twisting the silk in any way. Rinse well and roll in a clean dry towel to remove surplus moisture and hang up by the toes to dry.

Unpopular Dancer Can Learn at Home

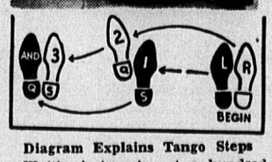

Diagram Explains Tango Steps

Wait! A tango's not a hundred yard dash! A girl hates to dance with a man who rushes her, Apache fashion, around the room.

Lots of men do that who aren't sure of their steps or how to lead. Are you? You could learn the steps from diagrams.

The tango count is a simple 1, 2 and 3. Doing the Cross and Side-Close Step, on Count 1 you step sideways on your left foot. 2—Cross right foot over left. AND—Uncross left foot quickly and take short step to side. 3—Close with right foot. Pause.

Our 32-page booklet has complete dance instructions for men and women and gives footprint diagrams for the smartest steps—in the tango, rumba, Conga, waltz, fox-trot, Westchester, Samba, Peabody, shag.
