Tigers Triumph Over Chicago Cubs 6-5

Rowe Hurls Brilliantly In Relief Role To Give Bengals Extra Innings Win

Owen Tallies Winning Run In 11th Frame On Single By Jo-Jo White. Teams Resume Series Today With Tigers Favorites.

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—Out of a tempestuous blast of wintry weather, bitter arguments and basehits, Detroit Tigers, instead of the home-town Cubs, emerged today as the team to beat in the frost-bitten battle for baseball's world championship.

The American League champions, fighting every step of the way, survived a succession of discouraging developments to capture their second straight game behind the relief pitching of Lynnwood "Schoolboy" Rowe in 11 innings that generated enough heated warfare to offset the biting breezes from Lake Michigan.

The final score was 6-5 as Marvin Owen, playing first base instead of the injured Hank Greenberg, tallied the winning run on Jo-Jo White's single off southpaw Larry French in the second extra frame.

Tigers Favorites

The victory put Detroit in the lead, two games to one, and abruptly switched the betting odds as well as the pitching edge in favor of the American League pennant-winners. With four games, as the maximum left, the next two here, the Tigers now need only two triumphs to clinch their first World Series in five attempts. The Cubs must win three out of four to capture the big end of the money but they are now distinctly back on their heels.

The National Leaguers went down fighting, so much so that Manager Charley Grimm and Captain Edwood English were chased off the field for arguing too strenuously with Umpire George Moriarty as climax of arguments in the sixth and seventh innings. They also saw their right-handed ace, Lonnie Warneke, fall to hold the Tigers during a four-run rally in the eighth that knocked big Bill Lee out of the box.

Failing to hold off the invaders with Lee, Warneke and French, a trio of front-line flingers, the Cubs consequently are now reduced to the shock troops of the pitching corps. Tex Carleton, lanky right-hander who came from St. Louis Cardinals this year, was named tonight to start the fourth game tomorrow. In a position to gamble after taking the lead today, Manager Mickey Cochrane plans to start Alvin "General" Crowder, his veteran right-hander and come back with Rowe the following day, if there's a chance to settle the series in the fifth game.

Rowe Hero of Tilt

The Schoolboy's triumph this afternoon, under fire, was the climax of a surging, scrambling struggle in which the advantages sea-sawed and the opposing sides battled furiously for the benefit of a half-frozen crowd of 45,532 fans who contributed $208,999 in gate receipts, lifting the series total beyond the $500,000 mark.

The odds and most of the breaks looked to be all against the Tigers. They were forced to shake up their line-up before the game started and take the field without the services of Greenberg, the clean-up cloutier and first baseman, who came out of yesterday's contest with a badly swollen left arm—the result of an injury in sliding to the plate—and probably is lost to the American League champions for the rest of the series. This broke up the so-called "iron man" infield and compelled Cochrane to shift Owen from third to first, with young Herman Clifton stepping in to fill Owen's shoes.

On top of this, the Tigers were quickly put on the defensive as Lee, the freshman right-hander of the Cubs, outpitched Eldon Auker, the submarine ball right-hander, and gained a 3-0 lead. The first Bengal thrust was stopped short, with one run home, as Pete Fox was trapped and tagged out off third base in the sixth inning, precipitating an argument that resulted in the banishment of Del Baker from the third base coaching line.

Four Run Attack

The Detroit "G-men" however, weren't through for the day. They finally drove Lee to cover in the eighth when White drew a pass, to start the inning. Cochrane popped out but Gehring doubled to right and Goslin smashed a single to the same spot, tying the score.

This was enough for Lee. Putting their biggest stakes right on the table, the Cubs called Warneke, shout-out hero of the first game, from the bullpen. The crowd roared mightily as Joe Lonnie strode to the box, confident the right-handed ace would halt the Tigers in their tracks until the home team could cut out on another rally. It looked like good strategy, in fact, until Fox batted a base hit to left and Rowe followed with a 4-1 to centre, scoring Goslin with the run that put the Tigers in the lead for the first time.

With Fox on third and Rowe on first, the Cubs then went into a defensive lull—in A. Rowe broke for second, with Owen at bat. Hartnett fired the ball to second, Rogell hind, going into the eighth, but they came roaring back with a four-run attack to take the lead, only to have the Cubs rally in the ninth to tie the score with a fusillade of basehits off the delivery of Rowe. He locked like Taps for the Shoo-boy in the home half of the 10th when Freddy Lindstrom led off with a double up to the bleacher screen in deep right-centre but Rowe tightened up, retired the side, and then throttled the Cubs in the 11th after the weaker half of the Tiger batting order produced the winning run.

Billy Rogell led off the winning rally with a single to left. He was cut down at second when Lindstrom scooped up Owen's attempt to bunt and fired the ball to Stan Hack at second for a force play. Clifton then grounded a short fly to Lindstrom, who failed to anticipate a bad hop and was charged with an error, that proved the final "break" of the game. Rowe fanned, swinging, but White, with the French two and two, picked out the French's next pitch and drove it on a line to centre, scoring Owen and sending Clifton to third. Cochrane's foul fly ended the inning.

Unable to Come Through

The Cubs roared yelled for another out-back but the lower end of the batting order, including replacements who helped tie the score in the ninth, were unable to come through again. Hack grounded out and Rowe bore down with a final flourish, to strike out Chuck Klein and Walter Stephenson, pinch-hitting for French.

The game repeatedly rose to high pitches of argument and excitement as well as blinding heights. Led by Grimm, the Cubs swarmed out of their dugout in the sixth to protest Moriarty's decision in calling out Phil Cavarretta on an attempted steal of second. The Chicago manager was put out of the park for making his comment, too heated, but this didn't quiet the some bench. It kept "blowing" Moriarty, an American Leaguer, with the result that he went to the dug-out at the end of the seventh and also chased Captain English, another non-combatant, to the showers.

At the time the Cubs were in the lead and apparently riding high, behind the pitching of Lee, who held the Tigers to five hits in the first seven innings and looked to be on his way to victory in his first world series start.

The home team jumped off in front on Frank Demaree's home run into the right-field bleachers, in the second, with another mar-ker coming in on Stan Hack's single, steal of second, Clifton's error on a roller by Jurgens and Lee's infield out. A pass to Jurgens, followed by Lee's sacrifice and Aurie Galan's hit to right, produced the third Cub run.

Gosse Goslin's single, his first hit of the series, and also the first of three straight times for the day, was followed by Pete Fox's triple to the right-field corner in the sixth. With one out, it looked like a big Tiger rally. But Gabby Hartnett's snap throw to Hack caught Fox napping and Rogell struck out to end the inning.

The Detroit "G-men" however, weren't through for the day. They finally drove Lee to cover in the eighth when White drew a pass, to start the inning. Cochrane popped out but Gehring doubled to right and Goslin smashed a single to the same spot, tying the score.

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—Bolling with rage, the Cubs charged Umpire George Moriarty with wearing a Detroit uniform as they stormed and muttered to themselves after reaching their dressing room today with the sting of a 6-5 lacing burning in their hearts.

"Nobody else but Moriarty beat us today," screamed Gabby Hartnett, the Cubs catcher. "If he hadn't chased Grimm, Woody English and Stainback out of the dugout we would have won. When it became necessary to make replacements in the 10th, English wasn't there to go in for Jurgens. Moriarty saw that. The American League got even with the National League because Quigley chased Baker out of the game in the sixth for beefing on Quigley's decision when Fox was caught off third by my throw."

Cubs Retired In Order

Rowe retired the Cubs in order in the home half of the eighth, picking up the job where Auker and southpaw E. On Hogsett, who twirled the seventh, had left off. He looked to be secure as he retired Cavarretta on a long fly at the start of the ninth but the Cubs' reinforcements all but put the Schoolboy to rout before he escaped with a tied score.

Hack punched a single to right, Klein, one time National League batting king, pinch-hit for Jurgens and did the same thing, sending Hack to second, Jimmy O'Dea, substitute catcher and another southpaw hitter, batted for Warneke and lashed a basehit to right scoring Hack, and sending Klein to third. With the Tiger infield playing in, Galan took a toehold and smashed a long fly to centre. White made the catch easily but there was no chance to halt Klein's dash for the plate with the tying run. Herman ended the inning by grounding out.

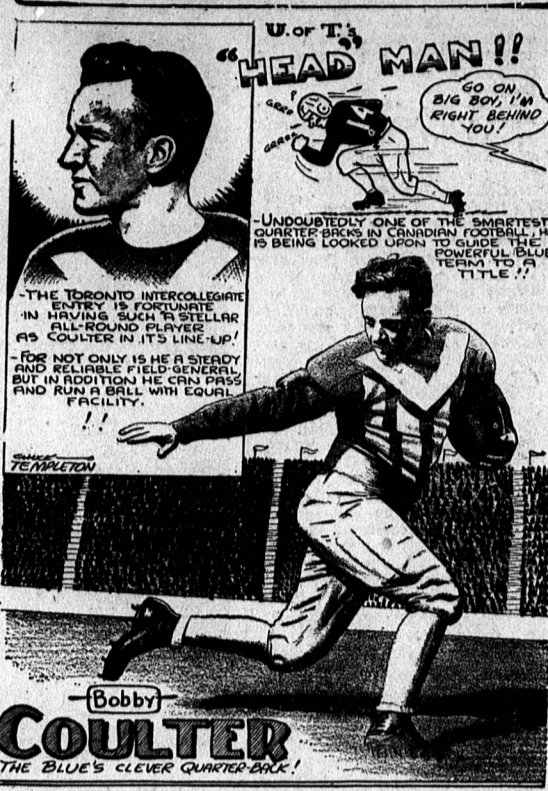

The Tigers threatened in their half of the 10th when Goslin got his third straight hit, a double to right, with two out but Fox popped out. Lindstrom's double in the home half of the 10th was the last springing opportunity for the home side.

With Goslin and Rogell, who also got three hits, leading the attack Detroit out hit the Cubs, 12 to 10 and dispelled the notion that the Cubs possess so big an advantage in their home park. Today's setback was the first time Chicago had been licked on its home grounds within a month.

Cubs Bitter In Defeat Denounce Umpire Moriarty

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—Bolling with rage, the Cubs charged Umpire George Moriarty with wearing a Detroit uniform as they stormed and muttered to themselves after reaching their dressing room today with the sting of a 6-5 lacing burning in their hearts.

"Nobody else but Moriarty beat us today," screamed Gabby Hartnett, the Cubs catcher. "If he hadn't chased Grimm, Woody English and Stainback out of the dugout we would have won. When it became necessary to make replacements in the 10th, English wasn't there to go in for Jurgens. Moriarty saw that. The American League got even with the National League because Quigley chased Baker out of the game in the sixth for beefing on Quigley's decision when Fox was caught off third by my throw."

Larry French, the Cubs big left-hander, English, Jurgens, Coach Roy Johnson, John Corriden, another coach and other Cubs charged Moriarty with cursing them, reflecting collectively on their ancestry when he rushed to the dugout to quiet the screaming Cub players after he had called Cavarretta out trying to steal second in the sixth.

"What were we supposed to do, lay down and die out there?" he asked. "If a manager can't go out and make a decent kick what the hell is the game coming to. I didn't swear at him but he swore at us. If he makes the same decision again tomorrow he'll have a chance to throw me out again."

"Hang with 'em gang," Grimm yelled to his muttering players. "You guys are better than they are. We'll get even with 'em tomorrow."

Grimm viewed the ball game, along with English and Stainback, through a hole in the clubhouse door. When Moriarty chased them, Grimm drove his fist through a panel in the door so he could watch what was going on on the ball field. It was from this spot that he directed his players with coaches Corriden and Johnson carrying out his orders. Grimm said he would start James "Tex" Carleton, six foot righthander, against the Tigers tomorrow.

In sharp contrast to the Cubs dressing room, the Tigers were whooping it up. Manager Cochrane said it was the toughest world series game in which he ever had played.

World Series Sidelights

(By Paul Mickelson, Associated Press Sports Writer)
(A. P. By Guardian's Special Wire)

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—The "Grimm reaper" became the "Grimm weeper" today.

Schoolboy Rowe begged Mickey Cochrane to play him at first base as a sub for Hank Greenberg, but Mickey told him: "Stick around anyway. I may use you."

The Schoolboy stuck around long enough to stick the Cubs and become the winning pitcher.

Greenberg sat on the bench during the game and cheered every time Marvin Owen made a nice stop at first. Coach Cy Perkins of the Tigers told big Hank that he'd play his next game next spring, but Hank vows he'll get back again if the series doesn't end too soon.

Augie Galan pulled the most sensational catch of the series to date in the third inning. With two men on base, Goslin hit a screaming drive deep into left centre. Augie raced for it and then made a leaping one-handed catch.

Again the scalpers were scalped. Although the attendance was less than either game at Detroit, the receipts were almost once and a half higher than either game at Detroit. Every ticket was sold at the public seat sales, but approximately 8,000 seats were vacant.
