GERMANS OBJECT TO RE PLANTING ORCHARDS

Willing However to Pay for Forest Trees Used During the War

PARIS, April 3.—At a hearing today before the Reparations Commission on land and orchard damage, Germany contended that it was incumbent upon her to pay the proportional cost of the replanting orchards which should be determined by the difference between the age of the tree when destroyed and the normal life of the tree according to an official announcement.

Germany recognized that compensation was due for the destruction of forests to the value of the wood destroyed or carried away and also for reforestation, provided the felled trees were of no commercial value.

A decision by the commission is expected shortly.

Presentation to Mr. Henry Craswell

Mr. Henry Craswell, for many years, a good and faithful engineer on the Prince Edward Island Railon a pension.

Tuesday a number of the engine-men of the railway met at gine-men of the railway met at Mr. Craswell's home and presented him with a beautiful gold headed walking cane and the following address, read by Mr. J. L. Douglas, Financial Secretary of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers.

To Bro. H. Craswell:—

Your associates, who have learned to Love, Honor and respect you for your sterling qualities and upright character, tender you this testimonial of appreciation of your undiring efforts n their behalf, and of the unselfishness with which you have labored for the betterment of your fellowmen. In the morning of your young manhood, in the high noon and evening of life, you have given of yourself, or the betterment of your fellowmen, and now as you are nearing the sunset of life, you may carry with you the assurance that you have gained the love, honor and respect of those with whom, and for whom you have labored so faithfully. Since you completed your work with credit,—befitting the high type of man that you are, you no doubt will hear, with gladness the official message, "Well done thou good and faithful Engineer." With good work you have earned the pension which the C. N. Railway's now extends to you as a reward for duty well done. In leaving your active vocation as Engineer, Brother, you may rest assured that you carry with you, the confidence and high esteem of the members of the official family and of all your fellowmen, and perhaps of thounsands of grateful passengers, who daily travel this section of the National Lines in our great Dominion. It is also worthy of special note, that amid the great din and clatter of your busy life, you found time to devote to active Christian duties, serving as an active member of the church you love so well, having an abiding faith in the teachings of the Bible, particularly the sixth chapter, thirty third verse of St. Matthew, which says:—"Seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness and all things will be added unto you." We note that at the time of your retirement you will be one of the oldest men in active service on the Island Dis-rice, as an Engineer, you also have been gifted with a legal bent of mind, having the faculty of being able to express your views clearly and forcibly, for which reasons, you have been specially adapted for committee work, and still now at the age of 63, we find you a young, old man. We are aware you have given upwards of 45 years service uninterrupted to the P. E. I. Ry., and many years of membership to the B. L. Engineer's, and we know it is a source of pleasure to you to reflect on the growth and helpfulness of the B. L. E. and the mite of money you have contributed to the cause has been repaid many times over. We feel you do not look like a man retired, you are sprightly, and seem as young today as when we first knew you many years ago, we also are sure your robust appearance and good health are largely traceable to your sunshiny disposition, and good fellowship, you never looked for trouble and was always a true friend. Personal history shows you were appointed Chairman and Treasurer of the B. L. F. for the P. E. I. R., portion of Division 162 located in Moncton in the year18, and the appreciation of your fine personality and loyalty, is evidenced by your continual election to that office up to and including the present time, any new drive was always ably assisted by you and always remaining a live wire at meetings and on the Locomotive could put "Pep" into everything. In addition to being an engineer of the first class you commanded confidence and respect of all chanical de department, the regard is attested fact that you sit continuously on the Insurance Association Committee, for at least fifteen years.

You have had rare success in your long railroad career as Locomotive Engineer, having met with no serious wreck or mishap, having, it may truly be said:—"Never scratched paint." This is something in the Railroad game, for upwards of one-half century but it is a crowning feature, to be able to hold up one's end, with the best of them, right down to the finish, and retire with a record that is an unfailing testimonial to your loyalty, no less than to your sterling manhood, and your skill as a Locomotive Engineer. You, as was true of so many of the veteran pioneers, commenced your railroad career very young, at the age of 18, entering service June 5th, 1876, being born March 4th 1858, began firing in '78, promoted to Engineer in 1887 and continued so to present, saw the hook motion, experienced feeding them tallow from the running board at thirty miles and hour, stood for hours at tender brake wheel ready to stop the engine in switching operations. Saw and handled the development of railroading in the country from its antiqueness and infancy up to the present state of complicy and evolution, and still retain the active and powerful hand, the sharp, clear eye which has so well served and guided you through all those years of railroad life.

Your host of friends, send greetings and good wishes for a long and happy life in the bosom of your family, to enjoy the fruits of your labor, also we extend felicitations to your co-partner in life Mrs. Craswell, who has been your worthy helpmate and a helper through life, and truly believe that we can extend the same courtesies, as if to yourself.

Signed on behalf of Associates,
C. L. PARTRIDGE
Secretary of Committee.

Councillor P. A. Smith also made an appropriate speech in his usual agreeable style.

Mr. Craswell made a fitting reply, warmly thanking the brethren for their tangible token of regard and their expressions of good will.
