SHOE'S LINING CAUSED DEATH - WIMBLEDON, England, Sept. 1 (CP) - The coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death when it was revealed at the inquest that Caroline Ellen East, 14, died as the result of a bruise caused by the big toe rubbing against the lining of her shoe. Dr. L. F. Muldavin, of the Nelson Hospital, Merton, said death was due to syncope brought on by blood poisoning. It was a rare cure because most children will have sufficient vitality for the sore to heal before any damage could be done.

Her father examined the shoe and found that the leather lining of the toe-cap had curled up and become hard. He moistened it with oil. She became ill and next day she had a temperature of 105 degrees. On the following day the doctor advised her removal to hospital where she died.

Red Cross Crippled Children's Camp Closes

The Red Cross Camp for Crippled Children which has been in operation since early in July, came to a happy end on Friday last when the jolly group of sun-tanned children regrettably waved goodbye to the camp staff and Mr. and Mrs. Ludlow Jenkins at whose beautiful home "Lindenwood" Marshfield, they had spent such a happy summer. Fourteen handicapped children, mostly cases of bone tuberculosis in plaster casts for many months and requiring to be carried only able to get about with the aid of crutches, were at the camp for six and a half weeks and showed tremendous improvement in general health as the result of the splendid care given by the camp nurse, Miss Jean Thompson, and excellent food provided by Mrs. Jenkins. All the children gained in weight, some as many as seven pounds; they had a dark sun tan which is so important in the cure of bone tuberculosis, had broadened out mentally as well as physically because of the camp training and contact with other children, and in fact improved so much that they scarcely seemed like the same group of children that had arrived at the opening of the camp.

Several teachers assisted during the summer, the Misses Eileen Fullerton and Florence Howatt of Charlottetown, and Miss Novella Cunningham of Montague, also Miss Sarah McCarey, R. N., Miss Anne Robertson, R. N., Miss Catherine MacLean and Miss Iphigenie Arsenault of the Red Cross. Progress was made in school lessons given daily, some of the younger children never having attended school, and drawing and handicraft of all kinds helped to pass profitably the hours spent in rest. Both boys and girls learned to knit and there was keen competition in the growth of articles being made. Great interest was taken in the keeping of a daily weather chart. Group singing and quiet games were enjoyed. The exchange of French and English conversation was a source of merriment. Frequently faithful old "Rosie" was hitched up and the children were driven across the fields to the shore where they revelled in discharging kites, playing in the sand and having picnic suppers. Two picnics away from the camp were given, one at Dalvay and the other at Mr. Dunbar's shore at Keppoch, which was great adventuring for the youngsters. Everything possible was done to make this convalescent camp one of the happiest and most instructive experiences in the lives of these crippled children.

A feature of the last night was the viewing of motion pictures taken of the camp by Dr. T. B. Acker, orthopedic surgeon of Halifax, who conducts the crippled children's clinics for the Red Cross. It was grand fun for the kiddies to see themselves "in the movies" and excitement ran high. Songs were sung, presentations of handicraft done by the children were made to Mrs. Jenkins and Annie and a mounted collection of weeds given to Mr. Jenkins who had spent much time in teaching the children recognition of the various native plants. The "send off" was festive also, as each child left camp with a large bouquet of garden flowers, a bag of sweets and one of apples from the orchard and a jar of Mr. Jenkins' delicious honey.

The camp, organized and supervised by Miss Mona Wilson, Director of Public Health Nursing, was the realization of a desire of many years in the expansion of work for crippled children and demonstrated without a doubt the benefits derived from regular routine, rest, good food, sun treatment, days usefully spent entirely out-of-doors in a happy environment, all of which will greatly hasten the cure of these children.

The Red Cross is immeasurably grateful to Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins who so generously co-operated in establishing the camp and who took such a kindly interest in the children. The Society also wishes to thank all those who provided transportation and "treats" for the children and helped in any other way. It is grateful to the other Department for arranging the dental clinic, Dr. D. T. Wayne, enabling the children to return home with their dental defects corrected. Thanks also are due to the Gyro Club for a generous financial donation.

Explosion Sufferers Slowly Recovering - HALIFAX, Sept. 1 (CP) - Nine of the 11 persons injured last Wednesday when an explosion wrecked J. C. MacKeen's yacht Elmarara were still in hospital tonight, but all were said to be making encouraging progress toward recovery.

The most seriously injured, Mrs. Harry P. MacKeen, wife of a prominent Halifax barrister, showed marked improvement although suffering from severe burn. Others in hospital were Mr. and Mrs. David MacKeen, Ottawa, and their two children, Rosemary, 7, and Marjorie, 5, Judith MacKeen, 5, daughter of Mrs. Harry P. MacKeen; Harold Stevens, 12, Halifax; Christina MacKeen, 4, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. MacKeen; Captain Arthur Lantz, Mahone Bay, N.S.

Mrs. J. C. MacKeen, wife of the owner of the yacht, and David MacKeen, three-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry P. MacKeen, had been removed from the hospital to their homes.

IN MEMORIAM

MR. GEORGE S. THORNE

The death occurred at North Sydney on Sunday of Mr. George S. Thorne, aged 67, a native of Charlottetown, being a son of the late Richard Thorne. For many years he was connected with the North Sydney Herald, being first foreman, and appointed editor in 1908. Later he resigned and was for a time Chief Magistrate of North Sydney. He had been laid aside from active work for the past ten years after he had taken a stroke of paralysis. He leaves a widow and grown up family. His surviving relatives include two sisters, Mrs. P. S. Brown and Mrs. Peter Hughes of Charlottetown.

MR. SEYMOUR KEMP

How beautifully the poet depicts the equality of mankind, whether the millionaire in his palace, or the poor man in his hut, in the following lines: O, why should the spirit of mortal be proud? Like a swift fleeting meteor, a fast flying cloud A flash of the lightning a break of the wave Man passes from life to his rest in the grave. Scarcely a day passes but we are confronted with the great uncertainty of life, the unfallibility of the Scriptures in comparing man to the grass of the field which today is and tomorrow is cast into the oven. These statements were fully exemplified on Friday morning, Aug. 7th, when in the twinkling of an eye, Seymour Kemp, an employee on Dredge No. 9 was ushered into eternity, the victim of the terrible accident which shocked not only the countryside, but as well the whole province, the gruesome news even extending far into the mainland.

Prof. Hiram Ball of St. John was a welcome visitor to Montague last week. Prof. Ball taught a large class of piano, vocal and violin pupils here some years ago. He was organist of the Baptist Church at Charlottetown at that time. He is now organist of the Tremaine St. Church at St. John. Prof. Ball was accompanied by Mr. R. B. Clark, representative of the Ontario Glove Manufacturing Co., St. John.

TO JUDGE BEAUTY WHEN NOT POSING - BRAMPTON Ont., Sept. 1 (CP) - The annual fair here is to have a beauty contest, but the contestants will not know that they are under the critical eyes of a judge. Instead of mincing before a crowd in bathing suits, the contestants of all the girls and women on the grounds, will just walk about and act naturally, for there will be no act naturally, for there will be no act naturally. The identity of the judges will not be known.
