A Morning Smile

Junior, all covered with dust, came into the house. He carried his mitt and ball in one hand and a couple of bats in the other. "Say, ma," he said to his mother, "taking her by surprise, do they play baseball in heaven?"

No, my son, I don't think that they do, replied the mother. Why do you ask?

Huh! responded the lad, well, you won't catch me being good and dying young, then that's all.

Living & Leisure The Woman's Realm

INNER FIRE
Enthusiasm's the best thing, I repeat: Only one can't command it; fire is all; dead matter's nothing, we agree; And he is a mad dream, or God's very breath.

The fact's the same; belief's fire once in us. Makes of all else mere stuff to show itself. We penetrate our life with such a glow. As fire lends wood and iron. But paint a fire it will not therefore burn; Light one in me, I'll find it food enough.—Browning.

HATS COMPLEMENT FLAT-FRONT HAIR
NEW YORK—Hattie Carnegie leans to the flat front idea in hair, and in one instance poses a spring furban of purple straw above the smooth part of the hair, giving the hat a long line at the back which reaches to the chin. She also uses a black shanting baku with striking originality, giving its bonorandie which frames the face a pleasing crispness reminiscent of the little starched lace caps of the Bretons.

SYMPHONY SEMITONES
The symphony orchestra, in using from 90 to 110 instruments, in four fifths of the number audible to the human ear. Of the instruments having the greatest individual range, the piano has 88 semitones, the harp 76, the marimba and xylophone 54 each, the cello 44 and the violin, the accordion and the soprano clarinet 40 each.

JERSEY IS USED TO FINISH DRESSES
NEW YORK—Because Norell has been a pace-setter for several seasons his middy-like fitted tops that look as if they were in two pieces, are worthy of mention. He uses jersey for most of them, cutting them so they define the figure. He complements them with accessories from the '20's, clothes on the head and one-strap white shoes with brown leather heels. Every woman of maturity remembers the silhouette and details well.

TO REMOVE WHITE RINGS
The familiar white rings or dull spots on table tops and other polished surfaces by hot dishes and damp glasses sometimes disappear if the spot is wiped with cambric or a light oil. Rub lightly with the finger tips, and rub with the grain of the wood, or you will scratch the polish under the stain.

Dorothy Dix Says—

SERVICE MEN NEED LETTERS
Chance For Girls To Do Patriotic Service In Cheering Up Men At Distant Fronts

DEAR MISS DIX—The other day on a railroad trip my seat mate happened to be a soldier who delivers the mail to the boys in the camp to which he is attached. He told me it was awful how badly the boys craved letters and how few they got, and that the importance they put on their mail couldn't be expressed, much less exaggerated, and that after he had finished delivering the mail many of them would come to him and say: "Are you sure I didn't get a letter?" I should have had one. Please look again." And if none could be found, they would walk away so depressed.

He also said it didn't mean a lot who the letter was from, or what it said, just so it was a letter, and that they would exchange names of girls and write to them. He said he took out three times as much time as he spent in every day, and that some of the poor, lonely fellows almost wrote their fingers off trying to get in correspondence with someone—anyone who could write to them.

Can't you get the girls to help these poor chaps out?

A READER.
