The warmly moving story of a beautiful woman's desperate search for happiness, is grippingly told in Warner Bros. latest film drama, "My Reputation," which opened last night at the Capitol Theatre. Starring Barbara Stanwyck, the film features a generally excellent company of supporting players including George Brent, Lucile Watson, Warner Anderson, John Ridgely and Eve Arden.

Adapted for the screen by Catherine Turney from the best-selling novel, "Instruct My Scrowns," by Clare Jaynes, "My Reputation" relates the heart-breaking saga of one woman's second chance at love and of the vicious scandal that brings heartache into her life and the life of her family.

Drummond, attractive young widow, mother of two lovable boys. Barbara Stanwyck plays another highly dramatic role of the sort which aided her rise to fame.

Shirringly directed by hit-maker Curtis Bernhardt and scored by Max Steiner, "My Reputation" was photographed by James Wong Howe, A.S.C. and produced by Henry Blanke.
