Summerside

THE PAS. Man., Nov 3—Cold weather once again revives The Pas, 200 mile dog derby as a topic of conversation in this northern country and prospects look for a record list of entries. While still many months away, February 28, 1922, being the date on which it will be run, enquiries have been received from many would-be entrants, and the lineup of eleven crack teams in practically assured, but many more contestants may yet be heard from.

Many of the year's drivers, including Goyne, Dupas, Billy Winterton, Morgan, Brancroft, Larry McKay, Sam Pranteau and Jack Hayes, have again entered. A new entrant will be Billy Rusick, of Lake Athapapuskow, but very little is known of his ability or of his team. Stuv Bjorkman, of Gladstone, who enters annually but never shows up, is another likely entrant.

An invitation has been sent to the Nome Kennel club by the Derby committee to send teams and the Fairbanks racing drivers have also announced their intention of sending a representative.

—SOME EXCITEMENT— Kensington experienced a few moments of thrills yesterday. A small boy who had been sent for some cows that were near the highway, and having some difficulty in discharging the duty, returned and told that he had been assaulted by a man in the woods, who had made good his escape. At once an army of twenty-five stalwarts of the town was improvised and immediately marched to the territory of the desperado. This band of stalwart veterans besieged the infested area but the enemy had taken refuge in a hole and defied all attempts at dislodgement. The arrival on the scene of the Chief of Police gave the attacking party renewed courage and confidence, and the siege was renewed with belligerent proportions. The roar of artillery was audible for miles and the sound of revelry was appalling. Intense was the feelings of the citizens awaiting the awful results. But up to the time of writing the desperado has not been located.

CHECKERS WOULD NOT DESIST

HALIFAX, Nov 4—In consequence of the ruling received in Ottawa, J. L. McKinnon, chief returning officer, today instructed the registrars of new voters that representatives of candidates had not the right to be in booths when registrations are being made, but when checkers were shown copies of the ruling they declined to leave, holding that the registration offices were public places and that they were present as electors and not as representatives of particular candidates.

JUDGE WOULD HAVE NAUGHTY GIRLS WHIPPED

PITTSBURG, Pa., Nov. 2.—Tensard DeWolf, magistrate in moral court here, announces that he will appear before Mayor E. V. Babcock and the city council and ask that one hundred women be appointed special police officers to visit restaurants, hotels, cabarets, and like places and "warn young girls of the pitfalls" of the city's night life. Laxity of home rules and the leniency of mothers with their daughters are the main contributors to the delinquency of young girls in Pittsburgh, Magistrate DeWolf said. "Stronger warnings and a little more rod on the part of the parents, and there would be better girls," he declared.

DOING WELL ON SCHOOL LANDS

A report from Calgary, Alta., gives an account of the splendid progress of soldier settlers who acquired school lands in the vicinity of Castor. Eight returned men bought 1337 acres of school lands through the Soldier Settlement Board and so far have broken and cultivated ready for seed 700 acres. Part of the land had to be brushed previous to breaking. The field supervisor states: "These boys are a very desirable class of settlers who are hard and industrious workers, understand farming and are located on suitable land. They are all satisfied and contented with their farms. Their prospects for next year are very favorable. Their payments, although not large this year, have been or will be made in full."

PROTECTION NOW AND EVER

PETERBORO, Nov 3—"When is this country going to learn that it can make its way by one method, and one only, that is by tariff made in Canada for Canadian people," this was the question which Premier Meighen addressed to an audience of about 3,500 people who gathered in the auditorium here last night. The Premier presented all his arguments in support of protective policy. Mr. J. H. Burnham, candidate for West Peterboro, declared he now wished to support the protection as they had it in England, for England was no longer a free trade country. "I do not think any government, Farmer, Grit or Tory, responsible for the present conditions in Canada, declared Mr. Burnham. It is the result of a terrible conspiracy against the world led by Germany."

TO INVESTIGATE CHARGES

LONDON, Nov 4—The alleged hardships suffered by the British subjects at Ellis Island, New York, came up for brief consideration in the House of Commons today. Cecil Harmsworth, under secretary for foreign affairs, asked whether the representations had been made in Washington on this subject. He replied that judging by the distressing accounts received of the treatment of British subjects at Ellis Island and conditions under which they were compelled to live were the strongest complaints that would be made.

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 2.—That British flags were carried and cheered by delegates to the convention of the American Legion in Kansas City was stated in a message received at G. W. V. A. headquarters here this morning from R. B. Maxwell, Dominion President, and Rev. C. E. Jenkins, fraternal delegates representing Canadian ex-service men at the convention at Washington. President Harding was understood to have expressed opposition today during a conference with Chairman Porter of the House Foreign Affairs Committee to the passage of any resolution providing for immediate withdrawal of United States troops from the Rhine.

Mr. George Orr, French River, cured of Bright's disease.
Mr. Thomas McMahon, 160 Richmond St., Charlottetown, cured of anemia, rheumatism, and bleeding piles.

Stream of Big Snakes Pour From Cellar

Wriggle Up Stairs in Home Faster Than Family Can Kill

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—"You can't miss it," said the youth of whom well Miller's house in Palo Alto the reporter asked the way to Max Avenue, Hills yesterday. "Keep on past Harwood place and when you come to the house with six snakes stretched out in the road in front of it that's it."

There were six of them, black snakes, all less than six feet, but not much. The shortest was a little more than five feet from end to end and they were arranged in order of their size. The house faces Hillside avenue and there's a long stretch of sloping field between the front porch and that thoroughfare. To the right of the house lay another black snake, somewhere between five and six feet long. It was not quite dead and Mr. Miller was putting the finishing touches to it with a rake.

Nearby there were three over-size garter snakes and a snake that seemed to be a cross between the garter and the black snake. Mr. Miller was laying on with his rake and keeping an eye on the terrace below looking for more snakes. "Yes," said Mr. Miller, giving the expiring reptile a final wallop, "he's the seventh today. The place is full of them. Can't explain it. No other house in the neighborhood has them."

The reporter had made inquiries around the neighborhood and had learned this was the case. "We've always had them," said Mr. Miller. "Last year we killed four blacksnakes and so many garter snakes that we sort of lost count. On Thursday afternoon, Mrs. Miller, my wife, killed eight."

"Just a minute, please," interrupted the reporter. "Mrs. Miller killed how many?" "Eight," repeated Mr. Miller. "A big boy about six feet long, another about five, and six young ones ranging from three to three feet six, probably a family coming in for the winter. She was in the house looking out the window and saw the big fellow coming up the terrace."

Mrs. Miller was a very nervous woman before this snake invasion. Today she is quite well and self-possessed. She can polish off any number of snakes and aside from the rather natural loathing for a snake that seems to be the heritage of humanity she doesn't mind it in the least. But she saw this big fellow and got her rake. She clipped him behind the head and then noticed his wife coming along. She has become expert with the rake and one wallop settled the wife. Then she abolished the children.

"We're thinking of writing Dr. Dilmars of the Bronx Zoo and asking him to send an expert out to look us over. There's something unusual about it. Just about this time every year they begin coming. One might explain it by saying that the snakes were out a nice warm home for the winter but why on earth should they concentrate on my cellar? They ignore all my neighbors."

"We lived here several years and we've always had snakes in the cellar. We got used to it. An occasional snake meant nothing very much to us. We knocked them in the coal pile and scotched them in the potato bin. But they weren't epidemic. We used to talk about 'that day we killed the blacksnake in the coal bin. But you can go down my cellar this minute and there'll be two big fellows, very thick that are down there. I'll give you a rake and show you where they are. This year before last I had a well back of the house uncovered. There was something wrong with the pipes and we decided to investigate. There was something wrong, believe me. Thirty-two assorted snakes in the pipes and along the crevices. There was a terrible slaughter. Let me tell you."

"Personally, I am not afraid of snakes. Neither is Mrs. Miller, nor my little daughter. Moreover, we take no great pleasure in killing them. But it's really too much to expect a family of human beings to be crowded out by dozens of blacksnakes. We've got to kill them in order to have room ourselves."

"Of course the fall season is just beginning. Since Thursday morning we've bagged fifteen and it looks like a big year. This would be a dubious advertisement if we wanted to sell the place, but we don't. A man from California wanted to buy last year and offered a big price, but we refused. So they can't accuse us of press agentry, the place with snakes."

"There's this about their concentrating on my place. We Hollis Gardens folk can mobilize here and fight the snakes face to face. It's much easier than guerrilla warfare

English Farmers Are Re-Assured

Griffith-Boscawen Will Do Utmost For Agriculture When Report Considered

LONDON, Nov. 1.—Sir Arthur Griffith-Boscawen, Minister of Agriculture, addressing a meeting of farmers at Taunton yesterday, referred to the abolition of the corn subsidy and declared that the endeavor to build up a permanent agricultural policy based on subsidies was altogether wrong. He admitted the Government made a great mistake in starting it, and recognizing the mistake, they had done their best to put it right. The minister declared that livestock was far more important to British farming than cereals, hence the call for a report by a Royal Commission on the question of lifting the embargo against Canadian cattle. Importation of livestock was a matter of vital concern to production in England, as livestock-raising was a considerable part of English farming, and anything likely to interfere with that would have serious results on agriculture generally. To him the position was very difficult and he asked the farmers to have confidence in his desire to do the best for agriculture when the question came before the Cabinet and Parliament.

SIR R. L. BORDEN IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Nov 4—There can be no greater example of what can be done in limiting armaments laid before Washington Conference than the common history of the United States and Canada declared Sir Robert Borden, speaking last night at a dinner given in the honor of himself and Lady Borden by the Governor Sulgrave Institute.

Faith may move mountains, but it takes something stronger to remove freckles. Advice. Think twice before you speak, my son, and it won't do any harm to keep on thinking what you speak.—Boston Transcript.
