Interscholastic Basketball Title Goes To Windsor

Technical School Squad Eliminated Saint John High By Taking The Round By A Total Score Of 71-52

(Canadian Press)
SAINT JOHN, N. B., April 18.—Governance in Dominion interscholastic basketball went to the Windsor-Walkerville Technical School tonight. The Ontario team defeated Saint John High School 71-52, taking the final round by a total score of 71-52.

As in the first game, speed and accuracy was the deciding factor. Ability to capitalize on breaks and recovery of rebounds contributed greatly to Windsor-Walkerville's victory. Blind passing and weakening in the last half were largely responsible for Saint John's defeat. Both teams went at a rapid clip, resulting in floor work. Sharp marking by the referees resulted in frequent use of the whistle. Numerous changes were made in the line-ups toward the close of play. Saint John's coach, Andrew "Red" Malcolm, outstanding senior basketball player before his retirement this year, changed his players frequently in a final, fruitless attempt to present a scoring front. The play was so fast that John Murray, coach for the visitors, used

SECOND DAY BIKE RACE CONCLUDED

(Canadian Press)
FORUM, Montreal, April 18.—Three teams shared the spotlight tonight as the second day drew near the close in Montreal's eighth semi-annual six-day bicycle race.

Tied for the leadership in distance were the Victoria combination of Polly Parrott and Lou Rush, the United States team of Al Crossley and Bartell and the French red devils, Alfred Letourner and Gerard Debats. Parrott and Rush held first place by virtue of 78 sprint points to 69 and 54, respectively, for their rivals.

A gap of three laps was open between the leaders and the fourth place Italian duo of Roboli and Saetta. Torchy Peden and Laurent Gadou were next, another lap back.

A crowd of 6,000, a record for a Tuesday night in Montreal, witnessed the 9 p.m. sprints.

London Aces Arrive For Game

(Special to The Guardian)
MONCTON, N. B., April 18.—The Aces, of London, Ont., last year's Dominion Intermediate Basketball Champions, arrived in Moncton this afternoon on the Ocean Limited, of the Canadian National Railways, to play the Moncton Pawnees, Maritime champions, to decide the Dominion intermediate championship for this year. The games will be played Wednesday and Thursday nights in the local Stadium where the Moncton Hawks won the Eastern Canada Senior Amateur Hockey Championship when they defeated the Montreal Royals. The Stadium floor has been put into shape for the basketball games and a large attendance of fans is expected. The London Aces and the Moncton Pawnees met last year and it is hoped that this time the Moncton team will duplicate the success of their hockey brothers.

Timely Tips On Sport

MARITIME CHAMPS ELIMINATED

Mount Allison University basketball team, this year's Maritime champs, were forced to bow to the Notre Dame de Grace five of Montreal in their two-game series which ended last night. The total round score was 83-to-50. The collegians lost the first encounter 53-to-27, but last night gave a much better account of themselves, the Upper Canadians being forced to their limit to down the "Maritimers" 30-to-23.

HUMMING WHEELS

A movement is under way to start a bicycle club in the city. The sport of cycling which has for some years been more or less in the background, is apparently due for a well deserved revival. It is understood that during the coming season a number of race meets and other attractions will be staged by this club. These events will provide many thrilling minutes for the spectators as well as chances for competition among the participants. As will be seen elsewhere in this issue, an organization meeting is to be held this evening, to which everyone interested in cycling is invited to attend.

"TOBY" CAPTAIN

Alan "Toby" MacMillan, Charlottetown student attending Acadia University, who has been a tower of strength on the Acadia hockey team this winter in their bid for the Valley League Championship, has been elected next year's captain.

SCORING ACE OF LEAFS

Here is a brief history of Ken Doraty, scoring hero of the Toronto Maple Leafs:

Doraty made his debut in the International League in 1927-28, appearing with Kitchener Flying Dutchmen. He was 13th in the scoring parade with 19 goals and six assists. He was runner-up to Eddie Goodfellow then with Detroit Olympics, for the scoring championship in 1928-29. Doraty played that season with Toronto Millionaires. "Hap" Holmes took him to Cleveland in 1929-30 and he ranked fourth in the sniping with 26 goals and 16 assists. In 1930-31 he got 25 goals and 24 assists and last winter had 21 goals and 15 assists.

Doraty was obtained by the Leafs last fall from Cleveland Indians, via Syracuse. His work in pre-season training was so impressive the Leafs kept him on the payroll. He was returned to Syracuse in mid-winter and then recalled after a few weeks' service. According to reports Doraty was shipped back to the minors largely because of verbal clashes with Charley Conacher and Harvey Jackson, although this has since been denied. Dave Downie was brought up to take Doraty's place but failed to make the grade and was returned. Doraty was recalled.

Although the records show Doraty's age as 26, he is now in his eighth season as a professional. He got his start with the Portland Rosebuds in 1925-26 under the late Pete Muldoon. George Hay of the Detroit Red Wings, Dick Irvin, now coach of the Leafs, "Red" McCusker, one-time Windsor goalie, "Duke" Dutowski and Charlie McVeigh of New York Americans and Eddie Shore of Boston Bruins were among his first professional teammates. In 1926-27 Doraty became a member of the Chicago Black Hawks when the Portland team and franchise was purchased by Major McLaughlin. He finished the season with Minneapolis of the Americana Association.

HOCKEY PENNANT WINNERS

Below is compiled the National Hockey League champions from 1913-14. No one team has won the pennant three successive years. The Canadians have copied the honors seven times with Ottawa close behind with five. National Hockey League title holders are not necessarily Stanley Cup winners, as for instance, this year the Leafs are League champions while the New York Rangers are the Stanley Cup holders.

BOSTON GRIND GETS UNDERWAY TODAY

Thirty-One Runners Represent The Dominion In The Annual Boston Marathon.

BOSTON, April 18.—(C.P.)—The largest Canadian delegation in the history of the Boston A. A. marathon was entered today for tomorrow's 37th renewal of the grind. A total of 34 runners from the Dominion are on the list and several more are expected. Johnny McLeod of the New Waterford, N. S., boy who led for 23 miles last year before faltering, was among the first half dozen favorites.

Four former winners and 18 of last year's first 20 finishers are entered. As usual, Clarence Demar, 44 year old Keene, N. H., school teacher and seven times winner, is the outstanding entry, despite the presence of Paul DeBruyn, the New York German who won last year, Jimmy "Smiler" Henigan of Medford, Mass., 1931 winner and second last year, and the veteran Bill Kennedy of Portchester, N. Y., who led the pack back in 1917 and has been trying to repeat ever since.

A social register touch has been given this year's field by John C. Rice, Jr., Harvard senior. He is a cross-country runner who, for want of something to do, has turned to marathoning.

Hockey Season Suitably Closes

On the sday evening, April 13th, the citizens of Dunstaffnage and Marshfield assembled at Marshfield Hall for the purpose of a grand finale to the hockey season. The introductory remarks by the Chairman, Mr. H. B. Dennis, were followed by a short programme. The Chairman then called upon Mr. W. J. Gibson, the donor, to provide the main feature of the evening, the presentation of a beautiful silver cup to the best all-round player of the two teams. With a few well chosen words he presented the trophy to Mr. Lorne Scott of the Marshfield team amid great applause. This was followed by short speeches by the judge, Mr. S. J. Scott, Rev. Mr. Pritchard, Messrs. L. Jenkins, W. W. Gibson and the captains of the Dunstaffnage Willys Knights, Marshfield Maple Leafs, the second teams, and the Maple Leaves' Sisters.

After refreshments were served by the ladies the National Anthem brought a very enjoyable evening to a close.

Analysing Agriculture

"Some of the work undertaken last year by the Dominion Agricultural Economics Branch," said the Hon. Robert Weir, Federal Minister of Agriculture, in the House of Commons, "was a cheese factory study, including merchandizing costs. Cheese factories to the number of 250 have submitted statements as requested and given full information of the cost of operating for one business year. There has also been an investigation into the cost and other factors of milk production in the two provinces of Ontario and Quebec. That is, the relation between volume of business and cost of operation. That analysis is complete and the report will soon be ready for publication. They have also carried out careful work for three years in connection with ranching costs and have received reports from a number of leading ranchers. A comparison of percentages has been made with relation to costs and weight of lambs. They have also finished an investigation comparing costs as between tractors and horses in Western Canada. Reports were received from 1,000 farms."

Free Flowing Fertilizer

An important point to be kept in mind when purchasing fertilizer is its condition or capability of uniform distribution. To bring this about some manufacturers are putting on their fertilizers in fine granular form. Within recent years the trend has been towards a higher concentration of the plant food constituents. The lighter the concentration of the fertilizer, the more important it is that it should permit of an even distribution in view of the practice of applying fertilizer by machine, it is very desirable, says the Dominion Department of Agriculture, that the condition of the fertilizer should be free flowing, i.e., its condition should be such that stoppage or clogging of the material in the drill is not likely to occur.

BRITISHERS

pledged guilty and was sentenced despite an eloquent plea for clemency by his Russian counsel, A. A. Bariev.

Big, middle-aged Allan Monkhouse, Moscow director of Metropolitan-Vickers, John Cushtny and Charles Nordwell, engineers, were treated depicted within three days they will not be allowed to return to Russia within five years.

Red-headed A. W. Gregory, Welsh engineer with the company, was acquitted at the suggestion of prosecutor Andrej Viskinsky who said there was not sufficient evidence to convict him on any of the three charges. Gregory caused a stir in the court today when he was asked if he had anything to say on his own behalf. He rose to his feet and replied he had nothing to say, since the prosecutor had dismissed charges against him.

RUSSIANS SENTENCED

Eight of the sentences imposed on Russian prisoners went to Vassili Guev, described by Viskinsky as an inveterate saboteur, 35-year-old A. T. Lbanov and A. S. Scherchukin 39, manager of the Moscow Power Station; they got 10 years each.

M. G. Borin, 59, M. L. Kolyarovsky, 53, and V. A. Sokoloff, 33, after an official of a Russian industrial syndicate, were sentenced to eight years each. M. D. Zhenchenin 35-year-old chief engineer of the Moscow electrical plant got five years, P. E. Olyenik, 42, was sentenced to three years, P. P. Leyedev, 52 to two years and red-headed Anna Sergeyevna Kuznetsova, Secretary to Monkhouse, one and a half years. Thirty-year-old Y. I. Gilbert was acquitted.

Final Statements

The last procedure in the courtroom before sentencing was a series of final statements from each of the defendants. Perhaps the most dramatic of these came from Monkhouse, who told the court that a man of his profession could no more wreck his engineering accomplishments than he could kill his own children.

"It is quite understandable how I can be accused of wrecking that work," he said. "When engineers build works of this kind they look on them as their own children and I never yet knew a parent who would put a dagger in the heart of his child."

Each of the Russian defendants threw himself abjectly on the mercy of the court although the only woman among them, Anna Kutuzova, spiritedly remarked:

"I am accused of selling myself for face powder and perfume but I have used them when employed in Soviet offices and will continue to use them in the future."

MacDonald, who pleaded guilty at the opening of the trial, repeated that plea when his opportunity came to make a statement. MacDonald, who is lame, limped to the microphone in front of the Judge's stand. His aetific face was unusually pale. Standing with his hands in his trouser pockets, he looked Judge Ulrich square in the eye, and, in Russian, declared: "I confessed and I have nothing to add."

John Cushtny, who spoke in English, as cited that his counsel had "torn to shreds the flimsy evidence the prosecutor presented against me. I have said all through that I am not guilty and whatever the verdict, I shall leave this court an honest man as I came into it."

The next Briton heard by the Court, Charles Nordwell asserted that he took interest only in his work and always tried to do his best.

"My private life is lived solely in connection with my work and my own family," Nordwell continued. "After the evidence against me here, and after the fairness I received from the OGPU (secret police) after I was arrested, I have stated I have always been a friend of the Soviet Union, and the court, I think has documentary evidence to this effect."

"I feel sure in view of the evidence the Judge can pass only one verdict—not guilty. At this moment I am still a friend of the Soviet Union and not afraid to say so before all the press."

L. C. Thornton, the next Briton said briefly that at the beginning he had pleaded not guilty and he still made the same plea.

Then it was the turn of Monkhouse. He made the most protracted remarks of any of the defendants.

Thornton made a particular point that the Metropolitan-Vickers Company, which installed electrical equipment in important Soviet stations, desired to make its Russian connections permanent, that the Company wanted more orders and that the Russian Government owes it considerable money. He agreed that he and his colleagues would have been cutting their own throats by engaging in wrecking activities.

Nordwell, Cushtny and Monkhouse said in an interview immediately after the verdict had been announced, they would leave Russian the night of April 21. Gregory said he probably would accompany them.

Notwithstanding the outcome of the trial, the Metropolitan-Vickers Company still will be represented here by nine men, who, in the absence of contrary instructions from the company's headquarters in Manchester, Eng., will continue the firm's business as usual.

WILL THE AUTOS RUN NEXT SUMMER

Hark, I hear a voice a-calling
Coming up from old Tryon!
Saying in regard to autos
We must try to carry on.

We must run the cars next summer
Even though go broke we must.
For we love to feel important,
Love to raise a lot of dust.

Let the pastor wait for money
Let the sick and orphan moan,
Let the heathen in their darkness
Still bow down to wood and stone.

We have no time for such folly,
No time for such chaffy things,
While we sit back on soft cushions
Bounced right up on many springs

For our creditors, the butcher
Miller, merchant,
Why they can either walk or run,
Never let those little matters
Spoil a real good summer's fun.

Oh no! if you're an Empire builder
You are very far astray;
If you want to ease "Depression,"
You must turn the other way.

Pay the butcher, miller, baker,
Pay your bill down at the store;
Even if, that by so doing
You must lock your garage door.

Do not think my dear sister
That it lies within your power,
For to feed a hungry people,
On another's buckwheat flour.

Come, let us face the facts dear sister,
Times are hard and will be harder,
And there's many an honest toiler,
With a very light stocked larder.

Give the pastor a good salary,
Give your church a helping hand,
Don't forget the poor around you,
Don't forget the foreign land.

And perhaps He who feeds the sparrows,
May take notice of our deeds,
And supply us more abundant,
With the many things we need.
