Interpreting The War

By Kirke L. Simpson
Associated Press Staff Writer

Repair of Britain's naval and merchant shipping in United States yards is expected to be undertaken on a large scale, and should prove a means of effectively helping Britain meet the German sea blockade.

It would release British shipyard facilities and labor, now tied up on repair work, to expedite new craft construction. It would also reduce the strain on the United States yards by having them build the ships that would be sent to the United States to be repaired.

Such another benefit for Britain would be that craft undergoing overhaul in United States yards would be out of danger from Nazi bombers.

How much of it, either naval or merchant, could be sent across the Atlantic to the United States? The answer is that craft undergoing overhaul in United States yards would be out of danger from Nazi bombers.

Cabinet Crisis

train tomorrow for Vienna to sign the pact with Germany. But it was recalled that such an announcement Saturday said the delegation would leave tonight—and the special train waited at the station throughout the evening without showing any sign of departure.

Another factor thrust into the turbulent situation was a report in authoritative diplomatic circles that Greece had warned Yugoslavia against giving Germany permission, as provided in the proposed pact to send sealed trains across the country carrying war materials and wounded men.

These circles said Greece informed Yugoslavia such permission would be a "hostile act."

The announcement tonight said the special train carrying Premier Dragisa Cvetkovic and other government leaders would leave at noon tomorrow (8 a.m. A.S.T. Monday) for Vienna.

Huge Demonstration

Immediately the report spread that the opposition leaders were planning a huge demonstration. The time was kept secret but it was believed that it might coincide with the time planned for the train's departure.

No acts of violence were reported up to date tonight but from towns and villages throughout Serbia, Croatia and Slovenia came reports of street demonstrations.

In some towns, the reports said, as many as 30,000 persons gathered in the streets, cheering the three ministers who resigned from the cabinet in protest against the proposed capitulation to Germany and Italy.

Thousands of peasants gave an ovation to one of the outgoing cabinet men, Minister of Agriculture Branko Cukiric, when he arrived at his home town of Banja Luka.

The mayor of the town said in a passionate address that Cukiric was "one of the few men worthy to be called a Serb."

At Prokupac, centre of a large Serb district, a crowd said to number 10,000 paraded the streets, singing old Serb songs.

Another crowd of 10,000 demonstrated at Skopje, in southern Serbia near the Greek frontier.

Telegrams to Regent Prince Paul and Premier Cvetkovic from Yugoslavs all over the world, calling for resistance to the Axis, flooded into the capital.

Many Yugoslav societies in America sent messages of protest and congratulations to the three resigned cabinet ministers.

Some of the protesting politicians, authors and first great War heroes in the kingdom even telephoned Prince Paul's palace and the Premier's office to register their views.

Though the special train stood ready for hours tonight, it was not until nearly midnight that it was made known the train would leave tomorrow.

How Regent Prince Paul settled the cabinet difficulties was not immediately but an announcement of the new cabinet members was expected late tonight.

An agreement such as the axis pact requires the unanimous support of the cabinet under Yugoslavia's constitution.

Besides the Premier, it was reported the Vienna party would include Vice Premier Vladimir Cincar-Markovic and important Yugoslav editors.

Hitler Impatient

It was reported in government quarters Saturday that Hitler was growing impatient with the Yugoslavs and had given them until tonight.

His objection to the German-supported plan to let Nazi trains across this country was based on the contention that it would be a warning to Germany and would permit Greece's enemies to ship war materials to Greece's frontiers with Yugoslavia and Albania.

The Greeks pointed out that sealed trains sooner or later probably would be carrying soldiers as well as supplies.

With Greek pressure, supplemented by British influence thus applied to prevent the government at the last moment from going through with its deal with Hitler, German quarters expressed increasing indignation and impatience at what they feared would be new delay and "procrastination."

British quarters said Prince Paul, himself pro-British, had been told Yugoslav capitulation would alienate the sympathy of the British Empire, the United States, Greece and possibly Soviet Russia.

In connection with the Soviet's attitude, there was an unconfirmed report that Russia's Balkan expert, Arkady A. Soboleff, secretary general of the Moscow foreign office, with the president in the chair, David Murphy, who was in charge of the devotional period, opened the meeting with a call to worship and a short prayer. After the hymn, there was a reading of the Weighing Party and there was some discussion about getting up a one-act play and musical program in the near future. It was decided the membership fee should be 25 cents. It was also decided to change the night of meeting to Tuesday.

The next meeting will be on Tuesday, March 25th at the home of Ferné Bell; David Murphy to be in charge of the program and Evelyn Bell in charge of the devotional period. Deane Bell, Grace Howatt and Mary Muttart are the lunch committee. Thelma Quigley, who had charge of the program, put on a couple of contests and Chinese Checkers were played. Lunch was served by the committee. The meeting closed with the Young People's benediction. —S.

Many Pay Final Tribute To Flier

Laid to rest in Peoples Cemetery after brief service at Anglican Church.

Pull military honors marked the funeral of Leading Craftsman William S. Murray, who was laid to rest yesterday afternoon in a plot acquired by the Air Force in the Peoples' Cemetery at Summerside. The service was held in St. Mary's Anglican Church. The personnel of the Air Force attended the services and citizens lined the streets and followed the procession as it left the church. The coffin, draped with the Union Jack and the Air Force ensign with the deceased's aircraft cap placed on top, rested in the chancel of the church where it had been taken after the morning service. It was guarded by four class mates of the deceased who stood one at each corner, with arms raised during the entire service. The organ, led by Mrs. Clark, the organist, rendered very impressively the beautiful and appropriate hymns "Let Saints on Earth in Concert Sing" and "On the Resurrection Morning."

The procession, which was in charge of Flying Officer Burns, formed up at the outskirts of the town and British world freeze comment on this report.

Water Street, Central Street to Church Street and on leaving the church went down Summer Street along Water Street and the Premier's Square where, after the firing of three volleys by the firing party and the sounding of "The Last Post" and "Reveille", the coffin was taken from the gun carriage and placed in the horse-drawn hearse. A procession formed of an escort party and supporting party followed the remains to their last resting place.

The order of the procession was as follows: entering the church, Flying Officer Burns, firing party, escort party, pallbearers, classmate of the deceased, escorting party, also classmates supporting party, ground men, mourners, wing commander Fullerton, Squadron Leader Mitchell, Mr. A. E. Brennan, classmate, supporting party of Air Force officers, R. C. M. P., Veterans Guard, Legion members, Mayor Campbell and members of the crown committee.

On leaving the church the firing party went ahead drawing the coffin, and immediately after the coffin followed the mourners, Wing Commander Fullerton, Squadron Leader Mitchell and Mr. A. E. Brennan. The remainder of the procession was in the same order as before.

The Station Square the Air Force formed in two columns while the last part of the military ritual of the firing of the volleys and sounding of "The Last Post" and "Reveille" was carried out. The final rites at the grave were conducted by Ven. Archdeacon Harrison.—S.

against the axis program, was said to have been persuaded to take over the duties of the growing pipe of other cabinet replacements were Dr. Vojta Tjorjevic, chairman of the agricultural co-operative, as minister of agriculture, and Dr. Dragomir Iokovic, former director of the Serb democratic party, as minister of social welfare.

All was far from serene, however, as evidence by the growing pipe of resignations of irate officials, the jobs of pro-British elements in the army, the cancellation effective Tuesday of all army leave, and reports from many cities of street demonstrations in favor of Britain and the United States and against Germany and Italy.

To Risk Civil War

That the government had chosen to risk civil war was indicated by a communique to be published in all Yugoslav newspapers today.

It said great nations can afford to under go great risks, but small nations cannot, so Yugoslavia has decided to maintain neutrality and peace as a basic condition to her development.

"We demand nothing from anybody but we yield nothing. We do not want to use our weapons except in case of attack, nor self-defence. Consequently, Yugoslavia will remain outside the war and not wage war so long as her sovereign rights are respected."

Such moments as this demand cold-bloodedness and objectivity from the rulers of the nation. No rash gestures or acts are permitted. Great interests must not be endangered. The future must be prepared with all cleverness; all negligence must be avoided.

The list of resignations of high officials opposing the German demand already included three cabinet ministers, eight senators, the minister to Russia and the government of the militarily important Vardar Valley district.

As army chiefs met secretly, it was related that three army officers already have sped to Greece to offer their services to the Greek army.

Graham Road Edge Out Emerald 7-6

Graham's Road hockey team on Wednesday evening in Kensington rink, edged out the Emerald squad 7-6, to win their challenge game. In doing so however, they were forced to their limit, to hold the Emerald boys who after a slow start found themselves in the second and last session to play the winners and make within an ace of at least making the contest a draw. Graham's Road got away to a good start and in the opening canto pumped in four counters to their opponents one and in the second registered twice while Emerald scored but one. In the third period the Emerald squad had by far the better of the argument as they outplayed and outscored the Graham's Road with four counters to his credit was the outstanding man for the winners for the losers.

Spring Valley Eagles Win Baker Trophy

Sparked by E. Craig, their fast, trick play, the Spring Valley Eagles on Thursday evening played fast, smart, rugged hockey throughout the three-out-of-five series to down the Kensington Hawks 6 to 2 and come out on top, in their best three-out-of-five series 3 games to 1, to win the Baker Trophy, the much sought after mug of the North Shore Hockey League.

The 400 fans present, time after time received the thrill of their lives and were kept in a constant uproar throughout as they watched both squads dish out a real playoff game.

E. Craig, Eagles' clever left winger, was without a doubt the shining star of the game. But one of his smart goals on his brilliant, sensational rushes, capturing one marker in each frame, getting the opening tally and also the final one, his team-mate and goalie, D. McInnis did sensational work, guarding his chancel to give him a wide margin as an outstanding man over his team-mates who turned in, although good hockey, was far from what they are capable of doing out. The Hawks sadly missed the services of their regular right defenceman E. Clark who, for reasons of his own, did not play.

The game got away fast with both squads on the hunt for goals, the Eagles to take home the mug and the Hawks to tie up the series at two games apiece. The Eagles drew first blood, however, when at the seven-minute mark for the Hawks, his solo breakaways went right in on McInnis to sink the water, and five minutes later F. Proitt on R. Howatt, rebounding, made his take to make it two up for the Eagles. Six minutes later E. Craig, on a pass from L. Glynod, led to split the Eagles' lead in half, and end the scoring in the first period.

Registered in the second canto, H. Champion doing the honors three minutes after play started. The Hawks' success in the first half of the game to run up a lead when Craig and Ramsay were chased to the cooler together for minor offences. The Eagles, however, proved that they are capable of playing defensive as well as offensive hockey.

Craig, coach of the Hawks, led the puck, they held the Hawks at bay and several times but for the classy work of McInnis would have tied the series for more markers. The third and final frame was all Eagles as they registered three to one, the opponents one. E. Craig, shaking up two and D. Ramsay, one, while R. Howard on a pass from A. McLean, got the Hawks' lone tally.
