Our losses might have been even greater and we have to be thankful that they were not so." Fridgen—Kennedy Wedding

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Bonaventure's Church, Lakeville, N.B., when Rev. F. C. Carney united in marriage, with Nuptial Mass, Mary Agnes, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kennedy, Lakeville, and William George, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Fridgen, Revenue, Sask. The double ring ceremony was used.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of white brocaded satin, fashioned with sweetheart neckline, fitted bodice and full skirt; the long sleeves ended in points over her hands. Her only ornament was a string of pearls, a gift of the groom. Her finger-tip veil fell from a coronet of tulle illusion and small white flowers, and she carried an arm bouquet of American Beauty roses and maidenhair fern. Miss Ann Kennedy, who was her sister's bridesmaid, wore a gown of azure blue crepe, fashioned on similar lines to that of the bride. Her shoulder length veil fell from a headdress of flowers in matching blue, and she carried an old-fashioned nosegay of mixed flowers. The groom was supported by his brother, Pte. Raymond Fridgen, Revenue, Sask.

The bridal party entered the church to the strains of the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin. At the Offertory, the choir rendered "Adeste Fideles" and at the Communion, "Veni Jesus Amor Mi." At the signing of the register, Mr. Phillip Callaghan, cousin of the bride sang "I Love You Truly". The Recessional was, "On This Day O Beautiful Mother."

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents. The room was attractive with a Christmas tree and seasonal decorations. A group of bells hung from the chandelier over the bride's table which was centered with a four-tier wedding cake surmounted by a miniature bride and groom, white bell and wreath and flanked by white and red candles in silver holders. Rev. F. C. Carney proposed a toast to the bride, to which the groom responded. Mr. Harold McIvor toasted the absent members of the family of the bride and groom. The bride's gift to the groom was a birthstone signet ring and to the bridesmaid a Mexican brooch with aquamarine stone. The groom's gift to the best man was a Waterman's fountain pen.

For travelling the bride wore a two-piece ensemble of orchid wool with black accessories and gold wool coat with white wolf collar. They will reside in Summerside, P.E.I.

Western Approaches, New Film Story Of Sea Warfare

By FRANK LOW

LONDON, Jan. 2 — (CP) — A lifeboat filled with dying men, a ship which refuses to sink and a U-boat which surfaces too soon form the backbone of a new sea picture—"Western Approaches"—as stirring an epic as Noel Coward's "In Which We Serve."

Like the Coward story of a destroyer, this new film dedicated to the men of the Merchant Marine will be shown in Canada shortly. The actors are real seamen and the scenes are real Atlantic, stirringly beautiful in their technicolor or astoundingly grim."

The title, "Western Approaches", is the term applied to that mass of water in mid-Atlantic through which the war traffic of the world must pass and where, at the height of the U-boat terror, ships were consistently sunk.

This is the pictorial story of two vessels, the Jason and the Leander, which got into trouble there.

The Jason has already been sunk when the film begins. The opening scenes show her crew jammed into a lifeboat.

Then there is the Leander, a trim cargo vessel which is first shown as she pulls out at dawn from New York for the run to Britain. She loses her convoy and, on picking up the lifeboat's S.O.S. decides to rescue the Jason's survivors regardless of cost.

That is where the U-boat comes in. It has spotted the lifeboat and is using it for a decoy, knowing that the chances are some vessels will stop to pick up the men and become a "sitting duck" for a few well-aimed torpedoes.

With that situation, the ending is nerve-wracking melodrama, the more intense because it has happened so often.

VACCINE SUCCESSFUL

LONDON — (CP) — A British vaccine is being experimented with in the Argentine against foot-and-mouth disease in cattle, parliament has been informed. First results of the vaccine, a crystal violet dye, were termed successful.

Judging To Begin At Fox Pelt Show Today

Judging at the Prince Edward Island fox pelt show, which opened at Summerside yesterday, has been advanced a day, it was announced last night Under the revised schedule the first pelts will be placed today by Mr. Douglas Bell of Carleton. Earlier it had been intended to have judging start on Thursday.

The change was due to the fact that the new type pelts, platinums, platinum silvers, pearl platinums and white faces of the show collection are to be auctioned in the January auction of the Canadian Fur Auction Co. at Montreal the latter part of the month, and it is necessary to get them away as soon as possible in order to be included in that show. These new types will be judged first instead of silvers which appear first in the catalogue.

Yesterday it was announced that the foxmen's banquet would be held Thursday night at the Olympia, starting at 6 o'clock. There had been some uncertainty whether this popular feature of the show week would be held this year or not.

R. C. A. F. Mail Squadron Marks 1st Anniversary

OTTAWA, Jan. 2 — (CP) —Entering the New Year with new equipment and extended lines of service, the R.C.A.F. Overseas Mail Squadron tonight looked back on a first year of operations that saw the original Rockcliffe to Prestwick, Scotland, hop grow into six routes, including stops in France, Belgium, Holland, Italy, North Africa, Tunisia and Egypt.

And the record included the carriage of nearly 2,000,000 pounds of servicemens' mail, representing approximately 100,000,000 letters.

The original modernized and reconverted Flying Fortress and lumbering Dakota transports, with neatly painted mail bags scoring their flights over long distances that often include enemy skies, are being augmented by the latest Liberator model.

The service was not without casualties. In mid-March a mail plane crashed in Britain with the loss of five crew men while two weeks ago another mail plane was reported missing on a flight from North Africa to Rockcliffe. She carried eight men.

R.C.A.F. mail aircarft are familiar sights wherever Canadian active service personnel are serving overseas. The cargoes carried consisted of more than 95 per cent Canadian mail. A small volume of post office supplies and tobacco labels represent the other five per cent of the cargo.

In addition to Trans-Atlantic mail, Canadian troop mail originating in the United Kingdom is carried to the different European and Near East war theatres while Canadian casualties are carried on return trips to United Kingdom bases.

The Iranis, devout Moslems, eat no pork, drink no liquor, pray five times a day and rest on Friday.

Bishop Boyle Speaks On World Of Tomorrow

A full membership of the Rotary Club, augmented by a large number of guests, greeted the Most Reverend James Boyle, Bishop of Charlottetown, when he addressed the assembly at the noon luncheon yesterday at the Charlottetown Hotel.

The chairman, Hon. W.J.P. MacMillan, in introducing His Excellency, referred to the great interest the prelate had taken over a period of years while stationed in Cape Breton in the Childrens' Aid Society, the co-operative movement, Group Hospitalization, and Adult Education.

Bishop Boyle took as his subject "The World of Tomorrow." Too many people, His Excellency said, are expecting to enjoy perpetual peace, security, and prosperity after the war ends. An "all out" effort for peace is just as essential as an "all out" effort in war. The peace which all men desire cannot come about automatically. The dragon's teeth of World War No. 3 may well be found in a place that is not properly founded. The danger is great "that we may lose the peace after winning the war."

Post-War Years

Big Business is already planning and promoti ideas for the future, he continued. It is stimulating the wants and making a study of the needs of the consumer. A rosy era of prosperity is predicted for the post-war years. Some business men regard this as a "permanent wave" but, said His Excellency, "such was not the case after World War No. 1 nor will it be the case after this war unless many adjustments are made."

In His Excellency's opinion, too many Victory Bonds are being turned in to purchase consumers' goods. Such savings might to better advantage be used in the building of homes and in the developing of industry. The great problem, he said, was to keep men and women on the farms of a country "blessed by God."

Denmark has paved the way in this respect. Folk schools, co-operative societies, rural electricity, better roads, and the elimination of the middle man, all these have made for better conditions on the farm home.

Farmer's Income

A fair share of the national income should go to the farmer, Bishop Boyle said. Out of Canada's national income of nine billions a year, the farmer who comprises one-third of the population, only receives one-seventh of the income, or less than one-half of what is his just due. While a leading economist had said $2500 per year was essential to an adequate living, the average farmer only received $600. His Excellency asserted that it was hopeless to expect young people to stay on the farms unless basic adjustment was made. "Proclamations," said His Excellency, "cannot improve this situation after the war."

Groups which are trying to build a design without God are doomed to failure, His Excellency said. The sovereignty of God must be acknowledged just as the Four Freedoms acknowledge His sovereignty. Peace and freedom can only be purchased and maintained at the price of continued sacrifice and all must be on guard against trying to build world security at the price of freedom. "What men need," said the Bishop, "is opportunity; security will look after itself."

The thanks of the Club for his instructive and inspiring address was tendered His Excellency by Mr. R. H. Rogers who was co-chairman with Dr. MacMillan.

Mrs. Ralph Douglas sang three numbers, including two Christmas carols during intermissions. She was warmly applauded.

Guests at the luncheon were: Rev. J. W. McCardle, Rev. Canon Malone, Rev. T. E. MacLennan, Senator J. P. MacIntyre, Sgt. Allan Otaki, R.A.F., London, Eng., Sgt. J. W. Henschel, Liverpool, Eng., Lieut.-Col. W. J. MacDonald, Major A. Wilson, Capt. Roy McGillivray, Lieut. Ken Birtwhistle, R.C.N., Arthur W. Wellner, Chief of Police A. Birtwhistle, W.D. Gillis, Alan MacMillan, Flt.-Lt. Dr. MacVicar, R.C.A.F., Geo. W. MacLeod, Mr. Justice Arsenault, and Rotarian John McGrath.

Before closing President T. Roy Cudmore expressed to the guests, with particular reference to the returned men, the felicitations of the Club and expressed the hope that they should feel free to attend the Club's weekly luncheons at any time.
