MONDAY MR. JAMES PATON TO RETIRE

The Guardian understands that Mr. James Paton and Mr. J. Rowland Paton of Patons Ltd., intend disposing of their interests in the firm to Mr. John A. McLaren who has been so long associated with the firm as partner and director. The business will be continued as heretofore under the designation of Patons Ltd.

DUNK RIVER FARMERS INSTITUTE

The annual meeting of the Dunk River Farmers Institute was held in Kelvin school on Friday evening January 2nd. The President Mr. John R. Stavert occupied the chair. After the usual business of the annual meeting was dealt with the election of delegates to the Central Institute took place which resulted in Messrs John R. Stavert, T. J. Humphrey and James Marchbank being elected. The Directors and officers of the Institute were re-elected. Hon. W. M. Lea, then gave a very lively address on general agriculture. He greatly emphasized the importance of organization and urged the farmers to stand together as this is the only way in which the farmers can make progress. He also dealt very ably with dairying fertilizers and feeding live stock. A general discussion followed, after which a vote of thanks was tendered the speaker for his instructive address.

Attorney General J. J. Johnston

received a telegram on Saturday from the Crown Attorney of York County, Toronto stating that the relatives of the late Mrs. Thomas Corbett Ellis whose death under tragic circumstances occurred at Harmony last 13 last week desire to have the fullest investigation made in the case.

Ellis has been remanded to jail until Friday next.

In the autopsy performed on the body of Mrs. Ellis by Drs. McPhee and Arsenault it is understood that they found the brain, heart, lungs, stomach and other internal organs in a normal condition.

The wound on the right side of the neck, as stated by the doctors at the inquest, was an incised wound, and made by a sharp instrument. The scissors could not have been used after the skin incision had been made. The jugular vein and carotid artery were severed. There were no indications of lacerated wounds. It would not have been possible to have used the scissors if the jugular vein had first been severed by the razor. There were four or five lacerations on both arms, evidently old bruises. There were two cuts on the left wrist, a little above the wrist joint. These were in a standing direction. The skin and subcutaneous tissue had been cut through near the radial artery. There were two cuts on the other side of the left arm about an inch apart. The marks on the right arm were between the shoulder and elbow, somewhat in front.

In a letter which deceased wrote to Rev. J. J. Bamford, dated Harmony, December 28th, 1919 she said:

Dear Mr. Bamford:—You may be surprised at my writing to you as I have not as yet met you. I have been too homesick to attend church. I wonder if you can and will help me. I am a daughter of the late Thomas Brampton, of China, now retired and living at Dunkirk Church Walk Worthing England. Owing to my husband's intemperance, I know my father will not have me back home and I am desolate and unhappy and my husband has on several occasions threatened my life. I ran downstairs to my father-in-law this morning undressed as my life was in danger and he followed me, seized me, and tried to kick me.

I am in a delicate state of health, otherwise I would have availed myself of my brother's offer. I wish you to read the enclosed letters and return them. I have had no further communication from my brother on the subject.

I am without money my husband appropriated my $90 gratuity. He on one previous occasion turned me out of doors. I then wrote to my brother's wife, he is a graduate of Toronto University and a Major on the Canadian staff during the war.

Mrs. Ellis in her letter further declared that her husband's parents were kind, but she dare not leave their roof. Her husband had bought a farm under the aegis of the Soldier's Settlement Board. His parents she said, agreed that it would be wiser to separate but they were afraid of him doing her violence his temper being most uncertain. She also wrote Mr. Bamford that Mr. Ellis, Sr., on leaving for Misouche said that she was not to be turned out but that her husband came upstairs, and told her to pack her trunk and go to h— "Surely there is some redress," in the letter went on "One seems in a back water here and unable to help oneself. This letter is, I am afraid most incoherent, but I feel so worried. When my husband was intoxicated he frequently illused me but there is no excuse now though I dread the lifting of the prohibition in January. Perhaps I will call and see you? I shall be most grateful to you for any advice.

Sincerely yours,
MARIE ELLIS.

There was also a letter found from her father, and another from her brother, addressed to a party in Charlottetown. These, however, have not yet been put in evidence, and their contents cannot be made public.

ANDERSON-SOUTH.

A quiet but pretty wedding took place at the home of the groom, Cable Head West on the 6th, inst., when Alexander David Anderson of Cable Head and Miss Ethel South of Birmingham, England were united in marriage by the Rev. J. M. McLeod, in presence of a few friends of the contracting parties. Mrs. McLeod presided at the organ and Miss Esther Anderson accompanied the bride. Mrs. Anderson who has been a faithful Christian worker in Birmingham and received several tokens of appreciation on the eve of her departure to P. E. I., will be quite an acquisition to the community and the groom is favorably known as one of the progressive men of the place. After the marriage ceremony, the guests sat down to a delicious supper and at the close a speech was made by the officiating clergyman, who cordially welcomed the bride into the community and expressed the good wishes of the people. The guests responded by singing "Auld Lang Syne." The evening was pleasantly spent, and many of the young people, unarmed and unmasked, voluntarily came to express their good wishes.

A special meeting of the Charlottetown Board of Trade was held on Saturday evening when two important matters came up for consideration.

The first was with reference to a rumor that it is the intention to close the Dominion Express Company's office in this city. It is understood that there is a move on foot to close all Dominion Express offices where the C. P. R. has connections. Nothing was done in this matter, awaiting more definite information on the subject.

The general opinion expressed was that it would be a great loss to the city to have the Dominion Express office here closed.

The next matter was in regard to the proposed increase of rates in the P. E. I. Telephone service and the renewal of the contract for a term of thirty years. The increase in rental of the lines is placed at about $6 per year over present rates. The long distance scale is decidedly in advance of the present schedule and according to the speakers would make it almost prohibitive.

The members of the Board felt that the lease of thirty years which the Company is desirous of securing in telephony, such as wire-So many changes and improvements in telephony, such as wireless, are taking the place of the old systems that it was deemed inadvisable to grant any company a thirty years monopoly.

The secretary was instructed to write to other provinces and ascertain full information as to the systems in vogue.

Mr. Keshi Ishino, fur farming expert of the Imperial Japanese Government, and who is connected with the Department of Agriculture and Commerce of that country arrived in Charlottetown on Saturday.

Mr. Ishino comes here for the purpose of studying the fox industry and will be the guest of Dr. Leo Frank at the Rosebank Ranch for the next two months.

This gentleman is the original man who introduced the fox industry in Japan. That was nine years ago.

At his suggestion the Japanese Government took the matter up seriously and started the fox industry.

At the present time the government has an experimental station with ten pairs silver foxes and about two hundred comprising reds, crosses, blues, etc., that are running wild on an island, which is owned by the government.

At present there are 31 pairs of silver foxes that have been imported from P. E. Island besides 40 pups which were raised from these this year.

Most of the foxes from P. E. Island arrived late in the year when the breeding season was practically over.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

While travelling on the ice off Hampton shore Friday noon, Mr. S. P. Tarbush, of this city had the misfortune to break through, the horse and sleigh both went down. After a struggle for some time he managed to get the horse out but left the sleigh loaded with goods in the hole until he got help an hour later. The goods were nearly all damaged every thing being soaked with the briny waters of the Northumberland Straits. Apart from the loss of his goods he and the horse are not any the worse of the dip.

town desire to give public expression to their deep sense of appreciation of the many favors and kindnesses at the hands of the people during the year that has just come to a close. They wish to thank in a special manner the Ladies of St. Charles Auxiliary Society for their unflinching devotedness to the welfare of the Hospital, and their generous co-operation in every work having for its aim the financial improvement of the institution. The Sisters feel that they are under a deep debt of gratitude to all their kind friends and they beg and pray that a beneficent Providence may bless all who have aided so well in promoting the work of the Hospital during the past year.

On Saturday morning, Nov. 22nd 1919, Mrs. Charlotte Rattenbury, widow of the late Benj. Rattenbury passed peacefully away, after a prolonged illness of eight months. Deceased was seventy-seven years of age. She was a kind friend and neighbor, and her generous hospitality, coupled with rare kindness of heart won for her a place in the hearts of all with whom she came in touch and many acts of kindness done in her own quiet unassuming way will keep her memory green in the hearts of all who knew her.

Although her last illness was of long duration which she bore with Christian resignation to the Divine will. She had always been a woman possessed of wonderful physical and mental vigor which she seemed to retain to the end, being able just before she passed away to give full directions for her funeral which took place on Monday afternoon, and the large number of people who assembled to pay their last tribute to the deceased bore strong testimony to the esteem in which she was held. She leaves to mourn several nieces and nephews, two of whom—Agness and Jessie McKinnon tenderly cared for her during her illness.

The funeral service was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Wilson, of Covehead, assisted by Rev. Mr. McVicar.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. Vernon and Leith McKinnon, Arthur, Leonard, Guy and Harold Cudmore, grand-nephews of the deceased. She was buried in New Glasgow cemetery beside her husband who predeceased her the 7th of December 1918.

Our hearts are sad and lonely
Since Auntie passed away
Her days on earth were numbered
With us she could not stay.

Her toil of life is ended
She rests from pain and care
At home with Blessed Jesus
We hope to meet her there.

The death dews on her forehead
Her eyes they sought our face
The best fond look then lingered
As loath to leave the place.

Our loss we know is heavy,
We miss her gentle care
In mansions Jesus promised
We will surely meet her there.
