FORCEFUL SERMON BY REV. DR. FULLERTON

The Fourth and Last Sermon in Series on Death, Judgment, Heaven and Hell.

In St James Church last evening Dr Fullerton preached the fourth and last of his series of sermons on Death, Judgment, Heaven and Hell. There was a large congregation, and the musical portion of the service was excellent, Mrs Hare contributing a very fine solo. Considerable interest has been evidenced in these sermons, and last evening's was particularly good.

The text was taken from the Gospel of St Matthew xxiii. 33: "Ye serpents, ye generation of vipers, how can ye escape the damnation of hell?" This, said the preacher, was the stern utterance of Jesus Christ, not against the outcast of society nor the ostracised of the Church; not against the drunkard, the sensualist, but sternly and directly against the members of the Church of God, who were either living a double life or unconsciously injuring others and thereby injuring His Kingdom. He calls them, in no unmeasured language, a generation of vipers, and tells them there is nothing for them but the damnation of hell. A few years ago it was customary for the great Spurgeon to advise his students in their teaching, always to shake their hearers well over the pit before they concluded a sermon. "That is the custom of a few to-day who have not grasped the higher revelation and broader vision that has come to our age through the teaching of Jesus Christ. Where you have preaching combined with ignorance you may have fire and enthusiasm, but you always have a materialism that the preacher himself does not understand and that can never do either good or injury to his hearers. It is true that twenty-five or thirty years ago we heard more of hell and heaven in preaching than we do to-day. But we have changed; we no longer emphasise what lies beyond the grave. We are placing the accent on the present life. We are not dreamers about something that will drop from the clouds and regenerate humanity. We are idealists working for the dawn of a new heaven, and a new earth, that day that will declare humanity as a whole to be the temple of the living God. And for this outlook on life, on death, on eternity, we are not indebted to the preachers of the Christian Church, we are not indebted to the great theologians; we are indebted to the poets of the Victorian era, to some of the brilliant intellects of New England. They have given us that vision of God that enables us to sing that "the love of God is broader than the measure of man's mind, and the heart of the Eternal is most wonderfully kind." But this change does not only apply to the One hundred years ago Lord Chancellor Allenbury (?) opposed a bill that sought to declare that the theft of five shillings was not a capital offence. He insisted that if they ceased hanging then for stealing a dollar and a quarter property would not be safe, and every bishop in the House of Lords stood up by him in his opposition to that reform. To-day the temper of jurisprudence is so improved that the idea of vengeful punishment cannot be endorsed anywhere. The penalties enacted by law are either for the benefit of society or for the good of the individual criminal. Why should we not carry that same advance of thought, that same nobler conception of God into our teaching, into our ideas of the unseen and eternal. On one occasion the great Bismarck was shot at, and during the following meal he discussed it with his wife; and she said, 'If I saw the assassin in such a position in heaven that I could push him down into hell I would gladly do it.' And the iron Bismarck said, 'You could not be in heaven and have that feeling in your mind.' It is incompatible with the presence of God in life, and yet how much we Christians nurse the idea of vengeance. A man known to me, a preacher, says that in the city of London not very long ago a preacher depicting the last judgment said, 'Young man, when you are sent to hell at the judgment day you will hear someone chime in Amen, and you will turn and see that it is your mother. Young woman, you will go through the same experience and it will be your father.' It is impossible to believe in such extravaganza of barbaric hate. We have not so learned the Christ. The revelation of God has taught us some things higher and better, and we cannot believe in the idea that our Almighty God, who gave us the Christ, is a torturer. Surely that is a degraded phantom that should pass away and never reappear. The brilliant but lurid imagination of Dante is not in keeping with the light of the Cross of Jesus Christ. Let us abolish these thoughts for ever. They are a slander on the God who did not demand from us a sacrifice because we have sin, but who gave the sacrifice and gave the highest and best that he had. And yet, in the light of Christian revelation, there is a heaven, there is a hell. These are tremendous realities. They meet us here; they meet us hereafter. Death does not put an abrupt end to the continuity and unbroken development of character. We take our characters with us, and each one of us goes to his own place. The great question, when we speak of hell and heaven, is, how are we going to enter

HAS THE FINAL STAGE OF WAR BEEN ENTERED

Three Million Russian Soldiers Rolling Like Tidal Wave on Austria-German Forces. Italy's General Mobilization Order Drafted and Awaits Only Signature of King. Two More Forts Destroyed in the Dardanelles. Turks Have Abandoned Attempts Upon Suez.

(Special to The Guardian)

PETROGRAD, March 27.—Three million Russian soldiers are rolling like a tidal wave upon Austro-German forses, along the Carpathians from Bunanjc River to Bukowina thrusting back their foes from their fortified positions in the passes and on the crests. To meet this vast army the Germans are withdrawing the major part of their forces from the Vistula and Niemen front where spring thaws have caused a cessation of operations at most points.

(Special to The Guardian)

PARIS, March 27.—It now has been established that Fort Dardanus has been destroyed and those at Kalid Bahr seriously damaged by operations of the allied fleet in the Dardanelles, says a Havas despatch from Athens, dated Friday. Sailing ships engaged in mine-sweeping were fired upon by Turkish field artillery posted at Frenkeui but the batteries are said to have been silenced by fire from two battleships.

According to a despatch from Mytilene three British and two French warships anchored in the Gulf of Smyrna with transports.

ROME, March 27.—Reports that a general mobilization order had been drafted and awaited only the signature of King Victor Emmanuel, is circulated in official circles to-day. The report was accepted as true by the interventionist press which predicted that Italy and Roumania would enter the war simultaneously on the side of the Allies.

'This will be the final phase of the war," says one newspaper. Germany and Austria will be unable to stand against the pressure of Italy's and Roumania's operations. Italy will come into her own.

LONDON, March 27.—Turkish troops, defeated in their campaign against the Egyptian town of Suez on March 23, have abandoned their efforts in that direction and retreated to Nekli, according to an official report from Cairo issued by the Government Press Bureau to-day.

TWO IMPORTANT FARMERS' MEETINGS

Banner Oat Club Discusses Further Organization. Egg Circle Holds Annual Meeting.

A meeting of the Banner Oats Club was held in Summerside on Friday to discuss the advisability of forming a Co-operative Seed Association. The President, Rev. J. A. Macdonald, parish priest of Kinkora, occupied tht chair. In opening the meeting the chairman gave the advice that organisation was necessary for the benefit of the club. The helpfulness of such an association would be far-reaching in its benefit, and only depended on a proper foundation being formed.

Prof. Reek was caled by the chair and gave some valuable advice concerining the proper formation of such a scheme and how it could be financed to the advantage of all concerned.

Several members cited views pro and con concerning the scheme, but all felt that a clearer view of the necessities for forming an association must be had and the general outcome would need to be plainer.

It was moved by Prof. Theo. Ross, and seconded by Mr Horace Wright, "That a Co-operative Seed Association beformed and the directors be appointed and incorporation applied for."

An amendment was moved by Mr Alex. McFarlane, and seconded by Mr Albert Schurman, that the matter under discussion be put aside and held for a future meeting, and that a committee of five be appointed to report on the matter at that meeting, which was carried.

Prof. Reid was appointed convener of the committee and authorised to call the meeting of the committee on Tuesday, April 6, at the Agricultural Hall, Summerside, at 10.15 a.m. The committee consisted of Father J. A. Macdonald, Albert Schurman, Horace Wright, John E. Sinclair and W. H. McGregor.

A meeting of the members of the Canadian Seed Growers Association was called at 1.30 p.m., to discuss matters relating to exhibits for Seed Fairs. A committee composed of W. H. McGregor, Thos. Waugh and Percy Marchbanks was appointed to consider the matter and meet with the other committee on Tuesday, April 6, at the Agricultural Hall, Summerside.

A third meeting was called for the purpose of finding the opinion of the grain growers on the advisability of forming a seed centre for the production of high-class seed. Mr Albert Schurman was appointed President of the organisation, and Mr Horace Wright was appointed secretary. A movement was taken to secure pure Banner Oats of pedigreed quality from W. H. .McGregor of Central Lot 16. In this way the movement was put on a reliable footing and will undoubtedly be a valuable asset to the province for the production of pedigreed oats.

EGG CIRCLE MEETS.

On the evening of Thursday, March 25th, the Kinkora Egg Circle held its annual meeting. There were in attendance approximately 175 people. Rev. Father John McDonald took the chair.

In his opening address Father McDonald referred particularly to the splendid proportions which the Egg Circle movement was now assuming, there being in active operation some 62 organisations, comprising a total membership of over 5,000 farmers. A business of over $250,000 last year had been transacted. He said, moreover, that the recent annual meetings had been exceptionally well attended and that there was a marked advance in the interest being taken in the movement, which fact was referred to as being the best possible indication of the good the movement was doing and the determination of the farmers to continue and bring the enterprice to still greater perfection.

Mr Benson, the Poultyr Representative of the Federal Live Stock Branch, was the principal speaker of the evening. First of all Mr Benson pointed out the opportunity which now awaits the farmers of Canada with respect to the development of an export trade in eggs with Great Britain. This was desirable and advantageous, particularly because of the dire straits which the Mother Country is now in as regards her supply of this most necessary commodity. She will this year be short of over 100,000,000 dozens of Eggs, due to the cutting off of her usual available supplies. Great Britain is the greatest egg importing country in the world. Canada should welcome this opportunity of gaining access to the British egg market.

Mr Benson then suggested that a few changes and additions be made to the constitution and by-laws. These were accepted by the meeting. The old board of directors were re-elected. After th conclusion of the business part of the Programme, Mr Benson proceeded. He explained that the present low price of eggs was in large measure due to economic conditions, brought about by unemployment and financial stringency due to the war. The buying capacity of the public had been reduced and unless the price was brought down to a certain figure a large proportion of the consuming population could not afford to buy.

He further pointed out the benefits which the farmers had already gained from the Egg Circle movement. There was a marked improvement in quality. A considerable increase in production had been brought about. And the prices realised were most decidedly in advance of those that would have been paid had the egg circles not existed. It was true that at times the apparent difference between store and circle price was not great. This, however, was explained by a number of storekeepers themselves who have acknowledged that frequently they paid the farmers more for eggs than they could get for them. He said further that many country storekeepers are coming to appreciate the good the egg circles are doing. They realise that the present needless loss eliminated and an increase in production, affecting, as these things will, the prosperity of the farmer, is bound to have a favourable effect upon their business.

Mr Reek, the second speaker, told the audience that the eyes of the Agricultural interests of the whole Dominion were upon them. He had, while in the other provinces, heard and read a great deal about the Egg Circle movement in Prince Edward Island, and after making a recent personal ivnestigation he was pleased beyond expression at the progress made thus far and the bright prospects for greater future success, as indicated by the genuine earnestness of the farmers in the undertaking.

RUSSIA OFFICIALLY TELLS OF ITS SUCCESS

(Special to The Guardian)

PETROGRAD, March 28.—The chief official staff of the Russian army headquarters in the Caucasus to-day gave out the following statement: On March 26th the Turks attempted an offensive movement in the Black Sea coast region but they were thrown back to the left bank of the Arkhave. In Chorrokh Pass our units continue to drive the Turks towards Artven in the direction of Sanganluk Mountains and in the Valley of Alaskert there have been minor engagements. In the other direction there has been no modification in the situation. An official statement from general headquarters issued last night said that West of Middle Niemen on the right bank of Narew and on the left bank of the Vistula there has been no essential change in the situation. In the Carpathians we have made considerable progress in the direction of Bartfield. The Austrians in falling back set fire to the Village of Sebro.

In the direction of Balligrod we have carried a fortified height East of Ravoljetz. Near Ruskedydinva and Koziouwka we successfully repelled important forces of the enemy. During the course of the day we made prisoners of about 2,500 Austrians, besides forty officers and we captured seven machine guns. In Eastern Galicia we drove back a battalion which crossed the Dniester near Jojava inflicting very heavy losses.

Another Russian official statement concerning the progress of the war, issued last night, says on March 25th the Germans between Skwa and Pissa Rivers in Northern Russian Poland attacked repeatedly twice, capturing some of our trenches near the villages of Seraln and Tarlak but we drove them back on each occasion to their former positions. The Germans lost heavily. Germans in certain sections North of Ezareff have been stealing our overcoats which are superior to theirs. Their soldiers constantly leave the trenches to strip overcoats from our dead but our effective fire makes them pay dearly for their theft.

At Ossowetz the Germans repeatedly tried to fly a captive balloon but our guns hit it every time. As a result of the absolute superiority of our guns the German batteries' fire is only short, being silenced quickly. In a fight at the village of Karaska we took over a hundred prisoners and six machine guns. A number of Czechs belonging to the garrison of Przemysl are clamoring for permission to fight for Slavdom in the Russian ranks.

(Special to The Guardian)

PETROGRAD, March 28.—The following supplementary official statement was issued to-night. The German press asserts the garrison of Przemysl did not exceed 25,000 men and that supplies would have lasted a long time if the garrison had not been compelled to share their rations with Russian prisoners; that the fall of Przemysl has no military importance and that the Russians destroyed 300 towns and villages in Galicia. All such assertions are malicious inventions. We captured at Przemysl an army of about 125,000. Its composition and the names of its leaders will be published immediately. Russians numbered only 1,350, most of them wounded. The importance the enemy attached to Przemysl may be judged by the innumerable sacrifices made to relieve the garrison dating back to November. No town or village in Galicia was destroyed.

GREEK NEUTRALITY WILL END THINKS PRES. POINCARE.

ATHENS, March 27.— The Hestia publishes a statement to the effect that President Poincare has assured the Greek minister at Paris that "coming events will convince Greece of the necessity of abandoning her neutrality."

WAR SUMMARY

(Special to the Guardian.)

LONDON, March 28.—Battles for the Carpathian passes continue with extreme violence, this being the only region where, at the moment, fighting on a large scale is taking place. The Russians, who recently regained possession of Dukla Pass, are pushing forward toward Baretfield on one side and Svidnik on the other, where, if they achieve their object, they would have in their possession the heads of the railroads running southward into Hungary. The Russians are also carrying on offensive operations against Uzzok Pass to the east, but at Tukhilka Pass, still further to the east, they apparently are satisfied to withstand the Austro-German attacks against the strong positions at Kozouwka, which the Germans tried to capture. Along the rest of the eastern front the battle is desultory in character due to melting snow and rivers open or covered with a thin ice which will not bear their weight.

In the west also the commanders are waiting for better conditions before making any effort on a large scale, although the French here and there attempt to capture positions which would give them advantage when a general offensive is decided on. Their more recent efforts have been directed against the heights of the Meuse, to the east and south of Verdun, in which both they and the Germans claim to have made gains. The object of these operations is to compel the Germans to evacuate St Mihiel, where their line reaches to River Meuse, causing considerable bending of the French front.

The general public are more interested in operations in the Dardanelles, of which, however, nothing officially has been published for some days. It is presumed the Allied fleet is waiting for the mine sweepers to complete their work before attacks on the forts are renewed, perhaps also for the arrival of reinforcements in ships, men and ammunition. Upon the success of these operations depends not only the fate of Turkey, but probably the future policy of the Balkan States and Italy.

In Italy a big demonstration was held to-day calling on the Government to take action and realise the ambitions of the country while in the Balkan capitals the diplomats of the Allied nations are busily engaged in an endeavour to reorganise the Balkan League and insure simultaneous intervention of all the Balkan Powers on the side of the Allies. Before this can be done Serbia must be induced to make concessions to Bulgaria in that part of Macedonia which fell to her after the last Balkan war.

STEAMER RAN OVER GERMAN SUBMARINE

(Special to The Guardian)

LONDON, March 28.—The captain of the steamship Lizzie, which arrived at Llanelly, Wales, Saturday afternoon, stated that she was close by when the British steamer Delmina was torpedoed Thursday by a submarine in the English Channel. He said that the submarine proved to be the U-37. The submarine was some distance ahead of the Lizzie, which ran over it at full speed. The German then disappeared, and from oil seen on the surface of the water, the captain concluded the underwater boat was either seriously damaged or sunk.

LIVERPOOL DOCKERS HAVE RESUMED WORK

(Special to The Guardian)

LONDON, March 27.—Responding to appeals made by War Secretary Kitchener, and Earl Derby, Leader of the Unions, Liverpool dockers have unanimously resumed work to-day. The men at Birkenhead, however, still remain out and are tying up work on several big ships.

The shipbuilding employers faction will hold a conference early next week with the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Lloyd George, and will then advocate the complete closing of saloons in the district where armaments are made, and ships built, claiming the output in both cases would be increased 50 per cent. by such a course.

SATURDAY IN HOUSE OF COMMONS

(From Our Own Reporter)

OTTAWA, March 28.—Parliament worked all day Saturday. They kept at it till midnight. The Nova Scotia members had the floor at night with the estimates of the Hon. J. D. Hazen and only the intervention of the Sabbath stopped them talking.

The naval service estimates were largely under consideration and during the course of their discussion Mr. Hazen made some interesting announcements. He gave an illuminating outline of the work of the naval branch of the service since the outbreak of the war. The chief announcement was that he did not expect to see Steffanson, the Canadian explorer, who led the expedition to the Arctic two years alive again. It was possible but very improbable. He stated that the Canadian Government was doing everything posible to locate the missing explorers and his companions who had been lost from the Karluk. Three government ships had instructions to set out in the early spring in search of the three men. Mr. Hazen during the course of the discussion of the estimates paid a high tribute to the naval graduates of the Naval College at Halifax for ther work on the Niobe and British warships. There were 28 in all, including 8 on the Berwick. The Minister made a feeling reference to the death of four midshipmen from Nova Scotia who went down with the Good Hope in the naval engagement off the Chilean coast. He also told of the rush of candidates to enter the Naval College this spring.

The Bill regarding the special war taxes was given a third reading and Hon. Frank Cochrane gave notice of a measure in regard to the operation of the later superior branch of the N. T. R.

Upwards of 150 delegates from the various Sunday Schools of the province sat at the tables, which were laden with dainties provided by the good ladies of Summerside. Owing to the unavoidable absence of the Mayor the address of welcome was given by Councillor Jardine, who in a few well-chosen remarks expresesd the pleasure of the people of Summerside at having the boys assembled there. Reports were made by Malcolm McEwen, Charlottetown, Ernest White, Souris, and Samuel Profitt, Kensington. Mr. J. C. Jardine, the Chairman, then introduced Mr. Taylor Statten, National Boys Work Secretary, of the Y. M. C. A., who explained the object of the Conference and personal efficiency.

FUNERAL OF LATE DR. A. A. MCLELLAN

(Special by 'Phone)

SUMMERSIDE, March 28.—The funeral of the late Dr. McLellan which took place to-day from St. Paul's Church was the largest ever witnessed in Summerside.

Two special trains, from Souris and Tignish, arrived in the afternoon with about 400 of the friends of the deceased. The train from the East brought a large delegation of the Knights of Columbus, of which order deceased was a member. These, and the members of the C. M. B. A. attended the funeral in a body. Long before the service the church was filled to its utmost capacity, the centre pews having been reserved for the visiting brethren.

Rev. Dr. McDonald, of Kinkora, preached the funeral sermon, taking his text from Romans 5 : 12. He referred to the high esteem in which the late Dr. McLellan was held as was shown by the very large attendance at his funeral and the many expressions of sympathy heard on the announcement of his death. He also referred to the public spirit which he had displayed in the community, and very feelingly referred to the loss his family had sustained in his sudden and tragic death.

The pall-bearers were Hon. J.A. McNeill, A. A. McDonald, K. C., Charlottetown; Alex. McNeill, M. D.; Mayor A. C. Saunders, Hugh McInnis and William Stewart.

Among those from outside points who attended the funeral were Premier Mathieson, Hon. Charles Dalton, Mayor Sterns, Charlottetown.
