HOME FOR BURIAL—The remains of the late Malcolm McPhee of Brattleboro, Vermont, arrived in the city Monday evening accompanied by his brother Charles. Mr. McPhee, who was instantly killed in a car collision on Friday last in Brattleboro, is a son of Mr. L. A. McPhee, Heatherdale from whose home the funeral takes place on Thursday at one o'clock.

DESTROYED BY FIRE—Two parishes of the Edmonton archdiocese, Alberta, namely, Villeneuve and Brossseau, suffered on Sunday, Nov. 13, the loss of two splendid churches, completely destroyed by fire. At Villeneuve it was impossible to save anything. The fire started about 1:30 p. m. and before it was noticed the whole inside of the structure was in flames. The loss is estimated at $15,000. The rectory situated near the church was saved by the good work of the voluntary firemen who did all in their power to fight the flames. The pastor at Villeneuve is Rev. J. Rupert O'Neill, son of Mr. and Mrs. John O'Neill, Charlottetown, P. E. I. The loss is only partially covered by insurance. The fire which destroyed the church at Brossseau started in the sacristy late in the afternoon. It soon spread throughout the church and in a short time the whole structure was in flames. The origin of the fire is a mystery. (Patriot Please Copy).

BRIDAL SHOWER—A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Flood, Kelly's Cross, on November 4th, when a wedding shower was given in honor of Miss Ellen Malone, Charlottetown, niece of Mr. Flood, and Mr. Joseph Costello, Tryon, who have since been united in the holy bonds of matrimony. All of the bride and groom's immediate relatives and friends were in attendance, and manifested by many beautiful gifts that they held this happy young couple in the highest esteem. After the opening of the presents by her cousin Miss Sadie Malone and reading of the verses by Miss Mary Alice McQuaid, Mr. and Mrs. Flood who on this joyful occasion admirably acted as host and hostess showed by the pleasant attitude that all were welcome and made the evening an entertaining as possible. A delicious lunch was served, then music and dancing continued until the wee hours of morning. Before the guests departed for their respective homes Mr. Flood made a few brief remarks thanking all on behalf of the prospective bride and groom for the many beautiful presents given them. The music was furnished by Messrs Joseph Costello, Amos Costello, Maurice McDonald, Golding Graves, Mathias Flood, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Dan el Malone, mother of the bride.

SISTERS REUNITE AFTER 30 YEARS—Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Tuplin, owners of a black fox farm in Kensington, Prince Edward Island, arrived in Bakersfield Sunday to visit Mrs. Tuplin's sister, Mrs. Clarence Coryell, and a brother, P. W. Paynter, whom she had not seen for 30 and 9 years, respectively. The Island, an area of one million acres, is the homeland not only of the Tuplins, but of their local relatives. It is located nine miles from Nova Scotia in the mouth of the Gulf of St. Lawrence. The couple arrived at Bangor, Me., November 23, three days after their departure. They were guests there of a sister, Mrs. Charles Richardson. After a short stay they continued to Lowell, Mass., where two daughters, Mrs. Albert Dougherty and Mrs. Paul Irish, were visited. A brief sojourn with a nephew, Ernest Hillman, in Florida, preceded their arrival in Bakersfield, where they will spend the greater part of the winter, with occasional trips to Los Angeles and other parts of the state. The transcontinental trip was made by motor, distance 5,300 miles.—Bakersfield, Calif., exchange.

Quebec Reminds Nomad of Paris
 (Canadian Press)
 QUEBEC, Que., Dec. 5.—Eric Malpas, who has been cycling around the world since March 25, 1931, and who recently arrived at Quebec, claims this city reminds him of Paris.

According to Malpas "Quebec perhaps would look like Paris of hundreds of years ago." His first impression obtained after landing here was that the windows of most houses in the city were very low, and close to the sidewalks. "It seems funny," he said, "to look out of the window and see the shadows of the people passing."

This is his first visit to Canada and the United States after having travelled through his native Australia, New Zealand, Ta'man'a, Ceylon, Arabia, Egypt, Malta, the British Isles, and France.

Wearing shorts and a pith helmet, Malpas attracted considerable attention from the curious. The youthful globe trotter has travelled 24,000 miles on his world-wide bicycle tour.

Malpeque
 The people of Malpeque and in fact of all parts of the Island where the Hon. Thomas McNutt is known, will sympathize deeply with him in the loss of his beloved wife, the late Mrs. Thomas McNutt, nee Miss Sophia Carr of Campbellton, N. B., who passed away Friday morning, December 2nd after a protracted illness, which was borne with great sweetness and patience. She was surrounded with all that love could do for her comfort, but God saw fit to take her home to himself. The late Mrs. McNutt was a very gracious woman, kind and considerate to everyone, a great worker in all departments of the church, an ideal hostess, and loved by young and old. Her presence will be greatly missed in the home, the church and the community; but she leaves behind to those who mourn her loss and to countless friends who loved and will forever cherish her memory, the beautiful fragrance of a life lived purely and unselfishly. A short service was held at her late home on Sunday afternoon at 1:30.

Rev. M. A. McMillan, Princeton United Church, her pastor, was in charge. After the singing of the hymn "Peace, Perfect Peace," reading of Scripture followed by prayer, the long funeral cortege wended its way to the church and the main service was held. The large auditorium and memorial room were filled to overflowing by friends from far and wide, who had come to pay their loving tribute to one so dear and respected. Rev. Mr. McMillan was assisted by Rev. Fred Williamson of Keir Memorial Church, who read the scripture and led in prayer. Mr. McMillan spoke very feelingly on the beautiful christian life of the deceased. He said that, by her countenance, her language, and her courage, she had proved she was one of God's dear children.

To the grand strains of the "Dead March" in Saul, all that was mortal of a devoted christian woman was laid to rest in Malpeque Cemetery. Many beautiful floral offerings attested to the love in which she was held. To the husband, Mr. Thomas McNutt, Malpeque, to the four brothers, namely: Mr. Hugh Carr, Mr. Fred Carr, Campbellton, N. B., Mr. James Carr, Montreal, and Mr. Percy Carr, Newfoundland, who are left to mourn her passing, the deep sympathy of all is extended.

A very pleasant social evening was held in the Memorial Room of Princetown United Church on Tuesday, November 29th. This was under the auspices of the Malpeque and Baltic Auxiliary of the Women's Missionary Society of this church, and their program was exceedingly "musing and interesting." The program opened with a short playette, "Aunt Polly Joins the Missionary Society." As those who were taking part thought the playette was too short, a great deal was added which made it of much more interest. The quaint costumes, some of them forty or fifty years old, caused much merriment. The following is the cast of characters: Aunt Polly, Mrs. S. L. Campbell; Mrs. Jones, Mrs. D. Bearisto; Mrs. Smith, Mrs. G. W. Ramsay; Miss Alvira Tompkins, Mrs. Ralph Bearisto; Miss Mary Golden, Mrs. M. A. MacMillan. A short program followed the playette, namely: Instrumental music, Miss Marion Simpson, Mr. Arnold Bryenton, Mr. Richard Matheson; reading, "Digesting the Newspaper" with local skits, Mrs. Bearisto; songs, "Just A Song at Twilight," "I Know A Little Pussy," "Inky Pinky Pider," "When You are in Trouble, Japs," by Canadian Girls in Training; piano solo, "Dance of the Bears," Master Kenneth McKay; reading, selection from "Hiawatha," Mrs. Ralph Ramsay; vocal solo, "The Voice in the Village Choir,"

Tryon and Vicinity

The annual chicken supper and bazaar of the Tryon Baptist church was held on Wednesday, November 23rd. The tables were laden with everything that was good and everyone enjoyed a supper that just couldn't be excelled. A nice sum was realized.

Miss George Matheson of St. Eleanor's, has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. Manson McNeill of North Tryon for the past two weeks.

Mrs. George Heffel of Albany was a recent visitor to Tryon, the guest of her mother, Mrs. Sarah McKenzie.

Miss Kathleen Rogerson of Waltham, Mass., was a passenger to the Island on the recent excursion. She visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Rogerson of Tryon.

His many friends will be glad to know that Mr. Walter Bell, Jr. of North Tryon is recovering from his recent severe illness.

On Thursday night, December 1st, the women of the United Church of Tryon and North Tryon gave a chicken supper and bazaar in the Tryon Hall. The supper was all that could be desired, chicken, ham, potato, pickles, tea, brown bread, white bread and biscuits, all kinds of pie, white cake, chocolate cake, Scotch cake and cookies, all for thirty five cents. Judging from the way the good things disappeared, we would take it for granted that those partaking of supper knew a good thing when they saw it.—A neat sum was realized.

Great Network Of Air Routes In Conception

LONDON, Dec. 6.—(By the Canadian Press)—Negotiations for the establishment of an England-Australia airway—the subject of discussion ever since the first flight between the two countries in 1919—have at last reached a point where Colonel Shelmerdine, Director of Civil Aviation in this country, is able to express a "confident hope" that an air mail service to Australia will begin regular operations next year.

He indicated that Imperial Airways would probably extend their service by co-operation with an Indian company from Karachi to Singapore, and that the rest of the eastern section would be undertaken by Australian interests. Port Darwin, which has seen the beginning or the end of many flights between England and Australia, is envisaged as the radial point for services connecting the main Empire trunk line with the chief cities of the Commonwealth.

Thus the way to the inauguration of the world's longest air line—and, because of the route it follows, potentially far the most important of the network of possible trunk routes all over the globe—seems clear. Many details have still to be worked out, and important discussions are going forward daily in London, Delhi and at government and air line headquarters in Australia. Still to be announced is the reply of the Australian authorities to the offer of the Dutch to extend their service to the Netherlands East Indies as far as Australia, though it is to be hoped that the idea of "all-empire" operation will not be jeopardized.

The attitude of the Indian government, which has invariably asserted its right to control all air line traffic in India, upset earlier negotiations for the extension of the present England-India mail and passenger service to Calcutta and beyond, but Colonel Shelmerdine's statement shows that a way round the difficulty has been invented. Meanwhile, British constructors are going ahead with the building of special high-speed mail-carrying aircraft which could easily operate a regular service all the way from London to Sydney and Melbourne in a week, should a "mail only" service be decided on to supplement the passenger traffic. Even if the present policy of carrying mails and passengers together in the same machines be continued, however, the airway will still offer immense saving of time over the swiftest steamships. And a point to remember in criticizing the British air line craft on the score of speed is that the present fleet of Imperial Airways, including the new monoplanes ordered for the African routes, shows an average cruising speed considerably higher than that of any other European air transport company.

The immediate possibility of operating an air service between London and Australia in 72 hours elapsed time was emphasized by Air Commodore J. A. Chamier in a lecture at the Imperial College of Science. Basing his statements on the fact that the new British mail-carrier will cruise at 150 miles an hour and have a range non-stop of at least 1,000 miles, the speaker declared that with such speed, and assuming flight along the most direct available routes, Egypt could be reached from London in 13 3/4 hours' flying time, Karachi in 26 hours, Cape Town in 40 1/2 hours, Australia in 57 hours and Canada in 30 hours.

If existing routes were followed and full allowance made for stops to re-fuel the time required for the flight between England and Australia would be 72 hours. These, he declared, were not dream figures and could be realized immediately at relatively small cost—without stretching the abilities of the aircraft designers. Actually, the performance of the new mail-carrier will be superior to that assumed by Air Commodore Chamier. The cruising speed is expected to be 172 m. p. h. and the range in still air will be 1,250 miles with a crew of three men and 1,000 pounds of mailload on board. A little calculation shows that "Australia in 60 hours" is by no means an impossible slogan for the first company which will operate a high speed mail service with relays of this kind of aircraft. The cruising speed is 15 per cent higher than Air Commodore Chamier took as his basis, and the employment of relays of machines would eliminate much of the time spent at the intermediate halts.
