BRIDE HONORED—Mrs. Arthur Polley, nee Grace Ferguson of Hampton, P. E. I. was given a real Cape Breton welcome Thursday evening when she returned from supper and home to find her husband and friends to find upwards of forty friends assembled at the home of her mother-in-law, Mrs. H. C. Polley, Duke St., after which with gifts in view of her recent marriage, Mrs. Albert Davis was hostess for the affair, and played the Bridal Chorus as the bride entered. She was accompanied to the guest chair after which the gifts were brought in and opened by Mrs. Earl Gray. Mrs. Davis reading the greetings enclosed. A wide variety of gifts were in the assortment for which the honoree expressed her deepest thanks to her new relatives and friends. Singing was enjoyed and refreshments played. The guests of honor and her husband leave shortly for her home in P. E. I., after which they will proceed West to their home.—Sydney Post Record.

FAREWELL TO WINSLOE FAMILY—A very interesting event took place at Winsloe on Friday evening November 8 when Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Balderston opened their beautiful and spacious new home upwards of a hundred and surrounding districts who gathered to bid farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Coles and family prior to their taking up residence in Summerside. When all had assembled, Mrs. Sidney J. Davies of St. John's Rev. Sidney J. Davies of St. John's Church, followed by Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Horne who read a very complimentary address from the friends in church and community and Mrs. S. G. Holyroyd made the presentation of a Walnut Case of Community Plate Silver and gift of money. Mrs. Gerald Hooper then read an address to Mrs. Coles on behalf of South Milton Women's Institute and Mrs. Murdoch Nicholson presented Mrs. Coles with a beautiful silver and crystal gift as a token of appreciation for their efforts since its organization. Mr. and Mrs. Coles expressed their deep thanks for the gifts and the kind sentiments expressed. Later a delicious lunch was served by the ladies.

ROBERTS-MACLEOD WEDDING

On Wednesday evening, Oct. 23, 1946, a very pretty wedding took place at Zion Church Manse, Charlottetown, when Rev. Carlyle Webster, united in marriage, Miss Helen Isabel MacLeod, daughter of Mrs. MacLeod and the late John A. MacLeod of Brookfield and Mr. William Ervin Roberts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Roberts of North Milton.

The bride was very becomingly attired in a wool suit of chartruese green with matching accessories and a corsage of Tallman roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Ruth Roberts, sister of the groom wore a grey striped suit with black accessories and a corsage of American Beauty roses. Mr. Sterling MacLeod, brother of the bride capably performed the duties of best man. Following the wedding ceremony a reception was held at home of the bride, Mrs. MacLeod, mother of the bride received wearing a black crepe dress trimmed with gold sequins. Her corsage was of American Beauty roses. Mrs. Roberts wore a grey crepe dress complemented by a corsage of pink carnations. The dining room was decorated with autumn flowers and leaves. White and pink streamers caught up with a halo of silver bells completed the decorations. The wedding cake centered the table and was flanked by pink tapers in silver holders. Tea was poured by Mrs. John A. Matheson. The loss were cut by Mrs. Stephen Holroyd, and girl friends of the bride assisted in serving. The bride and groom departed amidst the good wishes of the guests for a honeymoon trip through the Maritimes. For travelling the bride wore a turquoise wool dress, brown top coat with matching accessories.

Out of town guests included Mrs. Nell Simpson of Vancouver, B. C., and Miss Blanche MacPherson, R. N. of Ottawa.

Prior to her marriage the bride was tendered a miscellaneous shower at her home. Many beautiful and useful gifts were received. The happy young couple will make their home in Charlottetown.

Windsor performed the ceremony. Music was played by Chester Horton.

The bride given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white sheer with full skirt and fitted bodice. Her view was floor-length and fell from a high headpiece of flowers. Her bouquet was of red roses. She was attended by Miss Lucille Nickerson, sister of the groom who wore a floor-length gown of blue sheer and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. Gwendolyn Snair, little sister of the bride, dressed in yellow and carried a nosegay of pink and white flowers was flower girl.

Byron Snair, brother of the bride attended the groom.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Boutillier Point Hall. The bride's table was prettily decorated in pink and white, with stills and centred with a three-tier wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom.

The toast to the bride was proposed by Dan Abraham of Halifax. Following the reception the bride and groom, left on a trip through out the province. For travelling the bride wore a blue wool suit with matching accessories. On their return they will reside in Charlottetown, P. E. I., where the groom is engaged in farming.

Hints on Etiquette

If you happen to blot a letter you are writing, it is better taste to rewrite it, as the blot shows carelessness.

Cameron-Inman Wedding

On Nov. 8 1946 at the hour of 7 o'clock in the evening Victoria United Church was the scene of a lovely candlelight wedding when Ida Isabel, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Inman, Victoria, Prince Edward Island, became the bride of Sheldon Reuben, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. William Platts Cameron, Albany, Prince Edward Island. The impressive marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. Roy E. Jackson assisted by Rev. Peter E. Jackson. A large number of invited guests and friends and neighbors of the contracting parties, the double ring service being used. The strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March beautifully rendered on the organ by Mr. Peter MacDonald, the radiant bride entered the church on the arm of her father by whom she was given in marriage. She was attired in a white floor length wedding gown of Old English lace over white tulle with a long train and long sleeves pointed over the hands. Her floor length veil of embroidered net was held in place by a circlet of tiny white ostrich feathers and she carried an arm bouquet of American Beauty Roses. Her only ornament was a string of pearls the gift of the groom. Miss Edith G. Inman, R.N., sister of the bride was maid of honor. She wore a floor length gown of blue with a long train and long sleeves pointed over the hands. Her floor length veil with uslo of feathers to match and carried a bouquet of white roses.

Her two bridesmaids were Miss Eva MacLeod, an intimate friend of the bride and Miss Florence MacLeod, sister of the groom. Miss MacLeod wore a floor length gown of pink net over satin, with satin bodice, pink lace mitts, pink feather trimmed hair with shoulder length veil and carried a nosegay of yellow gladioli. Miss Florence MacLeod wore a floor length gown of grey of bronze tulle, with shoulder length veil and carried a nosegay of blue gladioli.

The best man was Mr. Lloyd Cameron, brother of the groom and the ushers were Mr. Keith Myers, a friend of the family, and Mr. Donald Cameron, brother of the groom.

During the signing of the Register Mr. Sterling Inman, cousin of the bride sang very effectively "Because."

The bride's mother chose for her daughter's wedding a black dress trimmed with sequins, with accessories and corsage of Bettertime roses, and the groom's mother was attired in an olive green dress with brown accessories and corsage of yellow roses.

The attendants of both bride and groom were splendidly attired and all other interests must give precedence to it. But why the extra concern today?

Ellen's Diary

The lord and master of a poultry farm hailed the new, some day "We're up in good time this morning!" I remarked to James drawing up the sturdy milking stool Mr. D. made for me and pushing the near er hind foot of the Gurnsey heifer aside, the better to get to my work. "A-hem!" James cleared his throat his mind far and ever away from the coo-wooby ruffled stable. "Don't forget, Ellen to listen to the weather forecast when you go in". This broadcast is one point of Radio, which reaches to the very centre of James' heart. Even the news is held more lightly now and all other interests must give precedence to it. But why the extra concern today?

I found that out later. When folks returned from the other farm for an early dinner, and James advised me "better hurry a little, Ellen, we've a notion to go to a sale this afternoon". So the plowing was forgotten and I was left alone. Even the babe, doctored out in a gown of blue to match her eyes and a pink jacket went as well-said her mother. "Never you mind the evening work, Ellen" James said gathering up cap and gloves and stepping out jauntily to join the others. James, I believe would say the same thing if he were off on a trip across the broad Atlantic.

It is a lovely feeling that comes to me when I am left alone at Alderite—to know that I am able to spend an afternoon or a whole day without interruptions and according to my own inclination. It is a find for a while next door to her own "Dear me" a chic little lady, whose rich brogue betrayed the birthplace of her ancestors, as she slipped into the seat next to me, recently at a city lunch counter and ordered "a chicken dinner". "Isn't this heavenly? Just think, I don't even have to get up to bring the tea pot!" "Yes" I said, "and you'll not enjoy it nearly so well as if you had it!" "That" she said with a twinkle "is what you think! I guess" she continued "you haven't got a half dozen—Lord love them! But honestly" she asked "isn't it grand to get a day off from the ordinary round, now and then?" So I had part of this afternoon to do with as I pleased.

Never did an Autumn sun beam more brightly on any bit of wash, nor the birds twitter more gaily in the lawn shrubs. Never have I found a book more interesting as later I curled up in the wide comfort of James' old armchair. I had found a perfect Utopia by

Variety Concert at Falconwood

A concert party, organized by Mr. Connie LeClair, presented a program of entertainment for patients and staff of Falconwood Hospital, Monday evening.

Mr. C. E. Fraught, business manager of the Hospital, presided and introduced the performers.

The varied program, which was presented in the spacious auditorium, was much enjoyed and the hope was expressed that similar entertainments would be presented at more frequent intervals in the future.

Mr. Fraught, at the conclusion of the entertainment, thanked the performers for their kindness and thoughtfulness in providing such an excellent evening's entertainment.

When the party's on—the festive telling in full swing and the conversation sparkling—that's the time to pass around Philip Morris.

Your guests will appreciate the suave smooth flavour of this famous blend. It's made for enjoyment and friendship.
