

THE QUEEN'S COUNTY GUARDIAN

Head Offices in New Prowse Block--Charlottetown.

The work of cleaning up the streets is being vigorously carried on and the resultant neat appearance is commendable.

The roads in the country are improving--rain is the greatest help in banishing the frost that still remains in the ground.

The mission room receipts of the Wesleyan acknowledge thirty dollars from Cape Wolfe Methodist church, P. E. I. per Rev. A. D. McLeod.

A good warm rain is wanted now. Then the plow would be at work in many fields and the farmers would get busy at once.

At St. Stephen, N.B., on Easter Sunday, Rev. G. M. Young formerly of this city received twenty-five persons into church membership.

The snow and ice which clings so tenaciously to the shores of the rivers, has disappeared rapidly during the past week. The remnants of the winter supply drifted away from North River Bridge yesterday, and the North River shores are practically clear.

A visitor to St. John writes that he found Rev. T. Dienstadt, the active and popular pastor at Fairville, holding profitable special services, assisted by Rev. E. Bell, Revs. H. D. Marr, J. Haney and N. McLaughlin, brother of Dr. McLaughlin of Charlottetown were all engaged in special work and meeting with encouragement.

It is understood that the owners of automobiles in this city are preparing to test the validity of the auto bill which they declare is ultra vires given by a prominent lawyer. As soon as an important member of the auto club arrives the test will be made.

Rev. F. A. Wightman, Montague, in writing to the Wesleyan re the Historical Society, N.B. and P.E.I. Conference says: "It is presumed that the late Dr. Paisley, President of this Society, made more or less complete arrangements for the program of our next meeting. No record of this, however, can be found, and I would therefore ask any one who may have promised Dr. Paisley to furnish a paper to communicate with me at once and oblige."

The death occurred at North Belgrade, Maine, on April the first after a lingering illness of Jane Elizabeth wife of Albert B. Staples and eldest daughter of the late Richard Robertson, Eldon, Belfast, in the 34th year and three small children, four brothers and two sisters to mourn their loss.

At Petitoodiac, N.B., on Easter a reception service was held, after which the sacrament of the Lord's supper was administered by the Rev. E. Bell, assisted by the Revs. J. Pascoe and T. Allen all of whom were at one time stationed in this Province. There was a large congregation, excellent singing and a very liberal Easter thank-offering. At the same service the many friends of Rev. E. Bell presented him with a well filled purse as an Easter gift.

The fine warm weather of last week has brought forth many evidences of the rapid advance of spring. The growth of the grass followed very quickly upon the disappearance of the snow, and a day or two appeared to be sufficient for the earth to don its garb of spring greens. The trees are beginning to show signs of re-awakening and this month will doubtless "unlock the flowers" and plants that have been held fast in Winter's grip.

The wonderfully prolific pen of Rev. William Harrison, Cornwall, P.E.I., continues to adorn the columns of many periodicals. Amongst the last contributions are: "The Churchmanship of John Wesley," in the April number of the Methodist Quarterly Review, and "Can Secularism Do It" in the Bibliotheca Sacra. The former he gives clear and convincing evidence of the complete break of Wesley from the Church. The latter is a powerful presentation of the inability of secularism to resist the evils of age.

In the disastrous fire at Chelsea, Mass., many former residents of Tracadie lost all their worldly possessions. The homes of Peter Weir, Thomas Smith, John Dwyer, Thomas Byrne, Edmund Hughes and James McDonald were totally destroyed. Their families escaped with just the clothes they had on their backs. Mr. McDonald, who is a brother of John S. McDonald, Tracadie Cross, was badly burned while breaking his way through the flames that were destroying his home. Miss Mary A. Fitzpatrick, formerly of Ten Mile House, also lost all her personal belongings.

A book written recently by W. H. P. Jarvis, son of the late Dr. Jarvis of Summerside, and published by Wm. Briggs, Toronto, is receiving much favorable criticism. It is entitled Trails and Tales in Cobalt, and is packed full of fun, fact and fancy. The author, who tells us in his preface that he was in Rossland at the time of the War Eagle slump and spent five years in the mining camps of Alaska and the Yukon, makes use of his acquired knowledge while on a prospecting trip in Cobalt a description of which he gives us in picturesque but chastened style. The book contains many excellent stories told with freshness and vigor. Such as one as the story of Hyena Kate, the woman who gave her life to save her limp husband; or the tale of the Northern Lights that seemed near enough to touch; or, best of all, the one of "The Forgiveness of Sin," where the robber of the sluice-boxes is brought to trial confesses, and is set loose through the pleadings of the old man he robbed, the only one who had befriended him; "for," he says, "It seems like to me now, boys, that if I hadn't trusted him so much maybe he wouldn't 'a' stole."

Another successful Islander abroad is Howard Farquharson who left this Province five years ago and went to Saskatchewan, where he taught school for a short time, then entered the medical college in Winnipeg and attended that institution for two years, then came to London, Ont., to attend medical college there, where he spent the remaining two years. Dr. Farquharson has been very successful in his examinations this year taking honors in eight subjects. He is a son of Sampson Farquharson, Mt. Herbert, and intends coming to the Island next week for a short visit.

Such a one as the story of Hyena Kate, the woman who gave her life to save her limp husband; or the tale of the Northern Lights that seemed near enough to touch; or, best of all, the one of "The Forgiveness of Sin," where the robber of the sluice-boxes is brought to trial confesses, and is set loose through the pleadings of the old man he robbed, the only one who had befriended him; "for," he says, "It seems like to me now, boys, that if I hadn't trusted him so much maybe he wouldn't 'a' stole."

The steamer Bonavista, Captain Fraser, from Louisburg, with a cargo of coal, arrived in Quebec Tuesday with her fore hold full of water. It appears that the vessel, on her way up the St. Lawrence, struck ground below the Traverse, and immediately began to make water. When she arrived off the Island of Orleans, it was considered prudent to breach her just below Indian Cove, and she was towed in there by the tug Belle. It is said she can easily be cleared of water with the steam pump. A survey will be held on the steamer, when future action with regard to her will be decided on.--Hx. Herald.

Fell asleep in Jesus on April 13th, 1908, Captain James Wyatt, an aged and highly respected resident of Marshfield. Capt Wyatt, though ailing for sometime was not thought to be seriously ill, and passed peacefully away, aged 75 years. He was a man of exemplary high character, kind gentle disposition, which won him many friends, honest and upright in all his dealings, always ready to give a helping hand to the poor and a word of encouragement to the despondent. Captain Wyatt took a great interest in the Navy and was Captain of the 1st Royal Thistle Company of Prince Edward Island. He leaves three daughters to mourn the loss of a kind and affectionate father, Esther of Robery, Emily and Matilda at home. The funeral took place on Thursday 16th, April, and followed by a large concourse of friends, all that was mortal of the late Captain Wyatt was laid to rest in Marshfield Cemetery to await the summons from on high.

There were at least two men in the Opera House who drew attention to their department one night last week by putting on their hats, as soon as the orchestra began to play God Save the King. This may be a specialty--if so it is one that will not be applauded nor commended; if it is the result of ignorance or discourtesy this mention should be sufficient intimation of the fact that in this country it is usual to listen bareheaded to the National Anthem when played on such an occasion. In many cities audiences generally stand and remain standing in their places till the National Anthem is finished; but in Charlottetown the rule seems to be that everyone should take the first bars as a signal to rush out,--and the rush is often participated in by gentlemen holding official and other positions whom one would expect to recognize and practise what is decorous and proper at such a time.

A precious one from us has gone, A voice we loved is still A place is vacant in our home Which never can be filled.

God in his wisdom had recalled The boon his love had given And though the body moulders here The soul is safe in heaven. (Examiner please copy.)

Miss Palmer of this city who has been visiting F. Parker and Mrs. Carvill at "The Grosvenor," Montreal, during the winter has left on a visit to Sir Louis and Lady Davies, of Ottawa.

McRae Bros., lobster packers, Canoe Cove, with their new gasoline boat, a few days ago, put one hundred lobster traps and afterwards came to the city and left for home at five o'clock all in the one day. Some twigs of elder and wild currants picked by Miss T. S. Newson, Cornwall have been handed in to The Guardian. They are very much advanced in growth the leaf buds being almost burst. This is apparently evidence that the spring will now come quickly with summer close upon its heels.
