British Loan Clears Hurdle In U.S. Senate

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 8 — The United States Senate rejected today a proposal by Senator Ernest McFarland (Dem.-Ariz.) to require Great Britain to yield title to Atlantic military bases and open other Empire areas to American commercial use in order to obtain a proposed $3,750,000,000 loan.

The vote was 45 to 40.

The administration thus beat down what loan opponents regarded as their strongest attempt to alter terms of the financial agreement with Britain. Their victory apparently cleared the way for Senate approval of loan authorization legislation without major amendment, although some loan opponents voted against the amendment.

Democratic leader Senator Alben Barkley predicted the bill's passage tomorrow.

The vote came on the anniversary of President Truman's announcement that the war with Germany had ended and Barkley played upon this key in a dramatic last-minute appeal to his colleagues not to hamstring the financial arrangments with Britain "and drive our ally into arms in which we do not want to see her enfolded."

Loan proponents have contended that if Britain does not get financial assistance, she probably will turn to Communism.

Justice Minister St. Laurent reiterated that a bill of rights would be ineffective.

The Senate voted 43-30 against giving second reading to a private bill to sanction manufacture and sale of oleomargarine.

Senator T. A. Crerar (L-Manitoba) urged in the Upper Chamber that Canada throw her doors open to immigration.

Howe Says Fuel Shortage Looms In Canada

P.E. Island Senators Unite In Defeating Oleomargarine Bill

OTTAWA, May 8 — (Special)— Three Prince Edward Island Senators today contributed to the defeat of Senator W. D. Euler's bill to permit the manufacture and sale in Canada of oleomargarine, which went down to defeat by a vote of 43-30.

Senators J. A. MacDonald of Cardigan, J. E. Sinclair of Queen's and Brewer W. Robinson of Summerside all voted against the bill, with Senator MacDonald reading a resolution opposing the measure which was forwarded to him by the Dairymen's Association of Prince Edward Island. Senator J. P. McIntyre of Mount Stewart, who previously intimated he would oppose the oleomargarine bill, was unavoidably absent from the chamber.

P. E. I. Dairy Brief

The resolution emphasized the importance of the dairy industry in maintaining the fertility of the soil and the resultant dangers of passage of any legislation which would reflect unfavorably on Canadian agriculture. The current butter shortage, P. E. I. dairymen claimed, was "only temporary", due to a number of factors such as the increased consumption of fluid milk and the low price paid for butter fat.

It concluded: "We, the Prince Edward Island Dairymen's Association, oppose most strongly the passage of the bill which has for its object the manufacture and sale in Canada of oleomargarine."

Senator MacDonald

Senator MacDonald told the Upper House that since most arguments pro and con had already been presented on the bill, he asked his fellow Senators to consider carefully the arguments set forth by P. E. I. dairymen and added, "I am fully in accord with the resolution and think it a mistake to pass this measure at the present time."

Revenue Minister McCann told the House of Commons this afternoon that far from persuading the Canadian taxpayer, his department operated on the basis of protecting the taxpayers. He denied a suggestion made by John Diefenbaker, Progressive-Conservative member for Lake Centre that his Deputy Minister, C. Fraser Elliott attempted to "instruct" a magistrate.

Dr. McCann said that legal counsel engaged to prosecute persons for failure to comply with the Income Tax Act can only move for the committal to jail of a convicted person when advised to do so by the Deputy Minister.

This practice was followed, Dr. McCann said, for the "protection" of the Canadian taxpayer against "over zealous" prosecutions.

Freak Thunder Storm In Southern England

LONDON, May 8—(CP Cable) Floods stopped traffic on some London streets today when the heaviest rainfall in years followed a three-hour freak thunder storm across Southern England. The storm, in some districts was the worst in living memory, flooded basements and streets.

Scotia Tied Up At Borden Pier Because Of Storm

An easterly gale with rain and snow was keeping the ferry, Scotia No. 1, tied up at Borden early today, it was learned from railway authorities who said there was not much chance that the ship would sail before daylight. One round trip was made to Tormentine yesterday, but winds had increased to gale force in the afternoon and further sailings were cancelled.

The Scotia took over yesterday from the Prince Edward Island which left for Halifax in the morning to go in drydock for annual overhaul. It is expected that the Prince Edward Island will be away five weeks.

Yesterday's storm not only delayed railway traffic across Northumberland Strait, but caused cancellation of air services to the mainland late in the day.

The western section of the Province reported snow during the afternoon and early night, with the ground white late in the day although most of the snow melted as it fell.

V-E Anniversary Almost Unnoticed

LONDON, May 8 — (CP) —The first anniversary of the crushing defeat of Germany today passed virtually unnoticed in Britain but in Frankfurt, American troops paraded in celebration of the occasion.

German civilians, a year stunned by the overwhelming weight of Allied arms, looked on in amazement as the United States forces, less than half of them armed, marched through Frankfurt streets.

In France a brief ceremony was held at the Arc de Triomphe. In the Soviet Union, the day was marked by complaints of the press and radio with the way Russia's allies were meeting the problems of Europe.

In crushed Italy, VE-day was a holiday but there was no air of gaiety among a people depressed by the lack of food and the fear of a harsh peace settlement.

Marshal Tito told his army in a Belgrade broadcast that Yugoslavia would demand the return of territories ceded to other countries "under an unjust peace after the First World War." Apparently referring to the Trieste area.

Sweden, which escaped the war, observed the anniversary with one minute of silence and the ringing of church bells. Large sums were collected for the starving children of Europe.

Generalissimo Franco's Spain announced that 16 Germans regarded as obnoxious by Britain and the United States would be returned to Germany.

In Berlin, a four-power victory parade was postponed until tomorrow at the request of the Russians, who still were fighting a year ago today.

French observance of VE-day is scheduled for Sunday, coinciding with Joan of Arc Day.

Britain's celebration of her official VE-day will be June 8. But even the scheduling of a celebration has brought complaints against the Government from local governing bodies who protested anything which might cause waste in shortage-plagued England.

Moscow radio's commentator "analyzer" accused the Allies in Germany of retaining Hitler supporters in positions of responsibility. He said the Russians were not satisfied with Allied handling of war criminals, Allied occupation policies or Allied attitudes in the Trieste boundary dispute.

Soviet political writers complained that the Communist-supporter proposal for a French constitution was defeated in Sunday's French referendum because of rightist warnings of pressure from the United States and Britain against the charter. They also blamed the Roman Catholic Church.

Many Industries May Be Affected In Near Future

(By The Canadian Press)

OTTAWA, May 8—Prospects of a fuel shortage in Canada next winter are "more alarming than at any time during the last several years," Reconstruction Minister Howe said today in the Commons.

Mr. Howe, discussing conditions arising from the strike of soft coal miners in the United States, said the resulting shortage would seriously affect coke supplies for domestic heating next winter. In addition anthracite supplies would be below last year's when there was a shortage of hard coal.

The immediate situation was that while many large industrial consumers had sufficient stockpiles of soft coal for two or three months, industries which were dependent on deliveries from wholesalers were in difficulties.

"Canadian railways are protected and have more than two months' supply of coal on hand in stockpiles," said Mr. Howe. "It

Walls Of Former Building Will Be Used In New St. Paul's Parish Centre.

Liner Queen Mary Docks At Halifax

(By The Canadian Press)

HALIFAX, May 8 — The giant liner Queen Mary arrived here today making the first of a series of summer voyages as a bride ship repatriating dependents of Canadian servicemen. It was the first time she had been seen in Halifax harbor since September, 1944, when she brought former Prime Minister Winston Churchill to Canada for the Quebec conference.

More than 900 dependents of Canadian servicemen and 29 priority civilian passengers began disembarking while the liner was tied up before leaving tomorrow afternoon for New York. The remainder of the more than 2,400 passengers aboard will disembark at New York.

One of the passengers disembarking at Halifax was Brig. G.E. Beament, Ottawa, former president of the Canadian Army's Khaki University in the United Kingdom. With him was his Scottish wife and their two children, Justine and Meriel.

Another Canadian aboard was Rooney Pelletier, service organizer of the North American Division of the BBC, who will make a lecture tour of cities in Canada and the United States.

Also bound for Ottawa were J.J. Rutherford, head of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics Agriculture Branch, and Robert Anderson, of the National Film Board.

Among the British passengers who will continue on the big Queen to New York were Sir Walter Citrine and Lady Citrine. Sir Walter, general secretary of the Trades and Labor Congress of Great Britain, will discuss labor matters in the United States with members of a joint British-American committee.

Val Gielgud, brother of the London actor, John Gielgud, and drama director of the BBC, was on his way to renew broadcasting contacts in the United States.

Senator From S'side Would Speed Selection

OTTAWA, May 8—(CP)—Action on motions supporting two national flag designs was postponed today after an exchange of opinion in the parliamentary flag committee.

When the committee resumes tomorrow or Friday it will be asked to vote for either:—

1. A red ensign with a golden maple leaf in the fly in place of the coat of arms—one of 26 similar versions submitted to the committee.

2. A flag composed of red and white triangles bearing a green maple leaf in the centre of the diagonal line separating the two colors—a submission of La Ligue du Drapeau National of Quebec.

The committee previously, by the process of elimination, had cut down a total of 2,500 designs to 76.

Senator Brewer Robinson (L-Prince Edward Island), suggested each of the committee's 37 members return to the next meeting with their own selection. He thought this would show which of the 76 flags was the most popular and the committee then could continue its process of elimination.

A motion by Wilfrid LaCroix (L-Quebec Montmorency, opposing the inclusion of the Union Jack in any selected design, was ruled out of order by Senator Norman Lambert (L-Ontario), joint chairman, on the grounds that Mr. LaCroix's motion was negative in character.

Urges Distinctive Flag

In offering the red and white triangles flag, J. A. Blanchette (L-Compton) said he did so because he thought Canada's national flag should be "truly distinctive". He recalled attending school in New England where each day he had joined in the traditional recitation of the American flag pledge. This little ceremony had impressed him and he foresaw the day when young Canadians across the country would be carrying out a similar ceremony before a distinctive Canadian flag.

He said the red triangle was typically English, for the cross of St. George was red. The lower white triangle was typically French from the standards of Old France. The green maple leaf was the soil of Canada and represented fortune,
