Morning Stock Letter

Wall Street Mirror Says: Special to Johnston & Ward

NEW YORK, April 24—It has been a puzzling question for some time as to whether with loans so much reduced, the market would terminate its decline in a selling climax and whether there was time for a selling climax to develop...

At the close of the day, the Dow Jones Industrial average was only a point under the low for last December. Another factor that may prove of some importance is that most of the important earnings statement for the first quarter are either out or the results fairly well known.

Rallying tendencies which made their appearance in the Thursday market should become more pronounced today. In relation to this expectation the average is nothing more than a technical rebound from an oversold condition and that stocks should not be bought on strength.

In line with the statements made here yesterday that constructive operations were under way in numerous directions, it is further learned that more people are now inclined to look upon the market situation with favour.

Reduction in the redcount rate is not expected. This two per cent rate has held since December 24th. Some sources take the view that this reduction is not held in all quarters.

Whereas Auburn is called as a rank specialty and therefore should not be looked upon as a market leader, nevertheless the market action of Auburn for this year has pointed in large measure the course of the general market.

Among the issues which are well liked in good quarters is United Aircraft. The pool in this issue is prepared to move ahead quite sharply if given a chance by the general market.

Standard Gas should be looked upon as one of the leaders of the public utility group. Safetyway Stores, which has acted quite well during the selling the past month. It is open to quite a sharp rally.

desire difficult to fulfill. Where ever I went I was expected to become the head or one of the heads of the firm. Nothing, you see, could be "good enough" for Colonel Lawrence. Once a colonel, always a colonel.

"That is one reason why I refused decorations and other honors offered me," he continued. "Had I accepted them at the time they would have shut my mouth! By refusing them I was able to speak my mind. After a long struggle with cabinet ministers and others, I got the government, thanks to Winston Churchill, to fulfill as many promises made to the Arabs during the war as it was humanly possible and practicable to fulfill. Then it was I decided to give up all of which I was sick and tired and chose to enter the R. A. F.

"Lawrence of Arabia" Lifts Veil of Secrecy

Light Thrown on Enigma of Man Who Swayed Arabs in Wartime and Now Courts Obscurity.

On a business trip here from Sheboygan, Wis., Imig parked his midge machine in front of a candy store. Several youngsters picked it up from the curb and carried it in front of the entrance to the store.

Lawrence of Arabia has spoken of possible movement of the general market. Its action now on will be closely watched.

Today, from his own lips, the United Press is able to give his answer to a riddle of eight years—the reason why this man, whose "kingdom" stretched from the Red Sea to the Persian Gulf, from Aleppo to Mocha, changed his name and became a humble mechanic in His Majesty's air force.

Lawrence, the unknown, his burr-wood-clad figure appearing and disappearing like magic in the tents of desert princes, is the man who fanned the flame of Arab revolt, and welded in his fire the engine that swept Turkish rule from the land.

This is the first explanation of the mystery of "aircraftsman Shaw." It was to Henry T. Russell, of the United Press London Bureau that he gave his story, in personal and privileged conversation.

PLYMOUTH, England, April 20.—(U.P.)—"Lawrence of Arabia," the most mysterious figure that emerged from the Great War, now serving in the Royal Air Force as aircraftsman T. E. Shaw, lifted today the veil of secrecy which has surrounded his life during the past 10 years.
