GARFIELD SCOTT

At Meadow Bank, March 26th, 1921, the angel of death visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenford K. Scott and claimed for its victim their darling baby boy aged 9 months and 26 days. Garfield was a bright and winsome little fellow always ready to smile and play. He leaves to mourn besides his sorrowing parents one little brother to whom he was very much attached. All that kind and loving nursing could do was done but God willed otherwise and his gentle little spirit peacefully passed away at an early hour. The funeral services were conducted at the home and grave by the Rev. Mr. Mellick and all that was mortal of little Garfield was tenderly laid to rest in Cornwall Cemetery. Suffer little children to come unto me and forbid them not for of such is the kingdom of Heaven.

dreadful disease. Some of them have served four years or more overseas, and have returned to their native province to find they have to leave their homes, and all that is near and dear to them in order to receive treatment.

I suggest that it is the duty of the present government to take some steps to re-open the Dalton sanatorium and have those men treated in their native province.

Thanking you kindly for your valuable space.

I am, Sir, etc.,

EX-PATIENT.

The teacher was explaining things to the boys in his class. "For instance, I want to introduce water into the house. I turn it on. The pipes and every convenience are in order, but I get no water. Can any of you tell me why?" He expected the children to say that it was because he had not made a connection with the main in the street. The boys looked perplexed. They could not see why the water should refuse to run into his premises after such faultless plumbing. "Can no one tell me what I have neglected?" reiterated the teacher, looking at the many wondering faces bowed down by the weight of the problem. "I know," squeaked one boy at last. "You don't pay up."

The steam launch belonging to a battleship sprung a leak and sunk rapidly. Near by an old seaman was leisurely rowing a boat, but he made no attempt to go to the rescue. The launch's crew managed to swim to the boat, and as they scrambled on board one of them said to the boatman: "Why on earth didn't you come to the rescue?"

Didn't you see we were sinking fast?" "Why, bless ye!" said the old salt stolidly, "I thought your craft was one of those darned submarines."

Dugald M'Tavish, the all-round athlete and sportsman in the village, entered his name for all events in the recent local Highland games. The first event on the programme was the half-mile, and of eight runners Dugald finished eight. "Dugald, Dugald," said a fellow Scot, "why do you not run faster?" "Run faster!" he said scornfully, "an' me reservin' mazel for the bagpipe competition."

GEORGE EDISON MACKINNON.

George Edison Mackinnon, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Mackinnon of Churchill, was only three years and two months when he passed away on Dec. 6th 1920; calmly and trustfully testifying to his entrance into the heavenly home.

It is rarely that the death of one so young evokes such widespread interest and tender sympathy. Little George won for himself in the affections of a wide circle of acquaintances a place and prominence far beyond his years. His little mind was so lively and his simple sayings clung to one's mind with a haunting tenderness. For this reason his last words and his clear impression that he was going home, were so effecting. He never had been robust, but very shortly before he died, he spoke of his going home with a clearness that no earthly thoughts could have given him. Although so young he took a deep interest in the things of God exemplifying fully that yearning for Divine things which has been noted in some children destined for an early departure from this world. He was conscious to the last, and whispered touching words of love and farewell even to a little neighbor boy. Then saying to his sorrowing parents that he wished to go home, he peacefully slept in Jesus.

"I thank thee, O Father, Lord of Heaven and of Earth that Thou hast hidden these things from the wise and prudent, and revealed them unto babes; even so Father for so it seemed good in Thy sight He leaves to mourn a father and mother and two other children.

The funeral service was conducted by his pastor, the Rev. D. M. Lamont. Sincere sympathy is extended to the bereaved family.

THE OLD GARDENER SAY

When you buy your garden tools include a common mason's trowel. You will find it very useful in weeding and transplanting in many ways. It is better than an ordinary garden trowel. Include a potato hook also even though you may not grow any potatoes, for there is no better tool to use in cultivating around small plants, either in the vegetable garden or the flower garden.

What One of the Best Known Travellers in Canada Says

"Now I am going to give you an unsolicited testimonial, as they say in the patent medicine advertising literature I have had a profound contempt for patent medicines, particularly so-called liniments. Perhaps this is due to the reason that I have never been ill a day in my life. One day last fall after a hard day's tramp in the snow of Montreal, I developed a severe pain in my legs and of course like a man who has never had anything wrong with him physically, I complained rather boisterously. The good little wife says: 'I will rub them with liniment I have.' Go ahead," I said, just to humor her. "Well, in she comes with a bottle of MINARD'S LINIMENT and gets busy. Believe me the pain disappeared a few minutes after, and you can tell the world I said so."
