

To Investigate Grounding Of Marine Trader

Rescued from the mud of Battery Point where she ran aground early Tuesday morning, the 1,391-ton freighter Marine Trader proceeded into Charlottetown harbor under her own power yesterday and tied up at a pier.

The powerful tug Foundation Franklin, rushed to the mouth of the Charlottetown harbor from Pictou, N. S., Tuesday when the Canadian Government steamship Brant was unable to pull the boat off the pier, was hampered by the new storm that swept the island and waited for the high tide at noon.

After unloading part of her cargo of bananas here, the Marine Trader sailed early Tuesday morning for Bonaville, Newcastle and Bellmish, N. B., where she was to complete the discharging, when she struck Battery Point.

STATESMAN'S

A partial cause of the statesman's tragic end, Friends said he had also been under great strain caused by his work in settling hundreds of strikes since the Popular Front Government came to power.

The Minister made it clear in his notes, however, that the Rightist attacks on his war record, which continued despite his public exoneration of desertion charged by a court of honor, were at the root of his despondency.

Salengro's body was discovered by a servant at 8 a.m. today, stretched out in the kitchen on almost the same spot where his wife was found dead a year ago, following an attack of bronchial pneumonia.

First report of Salengro's death was an announcement he had died of inflammation of the main heart artery. His brother Henri later revealed he had committed suicide.

The note addressed by Salengro to Blum said:

"My Dear Blum: My wife will soon have been dead 18 months from the calamity which she had not been spared and from which she suffered so much. My mother is not recovering from the effects of her operation and of the calamity which has gnawed her to the marrow. For my part, I have struggled valiantly, but I am at the end. If they did not succeed in dishonoring me, at least they will bear the responsibility of my death, for I am neither a deserter nor a traitor. My party has been my joy and my life. With my affection to you my own, my memory to ours, to you my gratitude."

Newspapermen, called into the room where Salengro lay, found the Premier and other associates of Salengro in tears.

Another note, left to his housekeeper, read simply: "Forgive me, Mme. Renard, for the trouble I am giving you."

PARIS, Nov. 18—(AP)—Informed political observers predicted tonight that Roger Salengro, French Minister of the Interior who committed suicide, would become a "martyr", his death adding ammunition to the struggle between Left and Right in France.

Even after Salengro's exoneration on wartime desertion charges the Rightists did not cease their attacks on the minister, and informed sources asserted new and secret charges were made against him at Tuesday's cabinet meeting.

In Paris tonight Rightist deputies and Leftist newspapermen fought with fists in the corridors of the Chamber of Deputies.

RIGHTISTS SILENT

Rightist quarters were silent, but some observers conjectured whether they might take the death as admission of "betrayal" of France, and hold the Blum Government responsible for shielding a "traitor".

Powerful Leftist organizations issued statements laying responsibility for Salengro's death to the attacks of his political foes.

Labor Codes Are Effective in Alberta

EDMONTON, Nov. 18—(CP)—A minimum wage law for men, one of the few in Canada, was operating in Alberta today as the result of the Alberta Government proclaiming legislation passed last April.

In a surprise move, the Government proclaimed the wage law, legislation formally cutting interest on provincial bonds to an average of 2 1/2 per cent and announced the terms of five industrial codes.

The codes related to the wholesale business, barters, photo finishers, the automotive trade and Edmonton district bakers.

The interest reduction legislation made no actual change. Interest was cut last June by order-in-council from an average of 4.89 to 2.50 per cent and the legislation merely validated the order.

Under the minimum wage law, a board of three will be appointed to inquire into industries, set wage schedules and enforce regulations. It affects all industries except farm labor and domestic servants. Alberta, like most provinces, has had a minimum wage law for women but this is the first for men.

The whole-sale code was the most important of the five. Its main object was to prevent, except under justifiable circumstances, selling from a wholesaler to a consumer. An advisory board from the industry itself will be appointed to assist in enforcing the regulation.

KING VIEWS

Wales. So through an outspoken report of 200 printed pages Stewart makes his recommendations.

Despite long-drawn poverty, South Wales today gave the King a splendid welcome. At Llantrisant which lies at the entrance to the Rhondda Valley great crowds broke the police cordon. At Merthyr Tydfil, where 75 per cent of the adult population is unemployed, tens of thousands lined the route, cheering as the King drove slowly by. Just outside Aberdare an old woman stood, draped from head to foot in a Union Jack.

For ex-service men the King had a special word of greeting. He talked to them of days in France. And the King did his job thoroughly. Hundreds of men stood at the Merthyr Tydfil Labor Exchange, making reports and collecting unemployment pay. The King stepped behind the counter.

"That's what's wanted, Your Majesty," one man shouted. The King asked first one man, then another, how long they had been without jobs. Five, nine, 10 11 years, came the replies. "Terrible," said the King to the man with the 11 years' record.

It was for the King a day of grim contrasts. The Royal route swept from the pleasant countryside with its undulating hills to the monster slagheaps and bleak desolation of the Rhondda valley. His Majesty specially asked to see Downais, the blackest spot in Wales. There almost every family is on relief. The King walked amongst the ruins of great industries.

The King left the special train which had brought him from London at Llanwith Major and proceeded by car this morning at Boverton. Here he was shown a co-operative farming undertaking for unemployed men, sponsored by the Welsh Land Settlement Society.

Italy Observes Sanctions Date

ROME, Nov. 18—(AP)—Recognition by Italy and Germany of the Spanish Fascist Government today came while Italy celebrated the day of "ignominy and iniquity" on the first anniversary of the application of sanctions in the Ethiopian invasion.

A minute of silence was observed throughout the land at five P. M. following the unveiling of plaques commemorating the "ignominy and iniquity" which Fascists believe descended on the rest of the world when the sanctions were voted.

proval would be announced only after the fall of Madrid. The text of the Italian communication: "In consequence of the fact that General Franco has taken possession of the greater part of Spain and the development of a situation which shows with increasing clarity that in the remaining part of Spain one cannot speak of the exercise of a responsible governing power, the Fascist Government has decided to recognize the Government of General Franco and send to that Government a Charge D'Affaires to begin diplomatic relations."

The Charge D'Affaires will go here immediately. The present diplomatic representatives (to the Largo Caballero Government) have been recalled.

Policies Secret

An Italian official declined to forecast Italy's future neutrality policies. The joint action, it was announced, had been agreed upon during the recent Berlin visit of Foreign Minister Ciano.

Thus, Italy and Germany became the first European powers formally to approve the provision of Government of Gen. Franco. (Portugal has been reported seriously considering such a move, and Salvador and Guatemala have already recognized Franco's regime).

Italy's recall of representatives to the Madrid Socialist Government would apply to but a couple of diplomats now in Alicante. Ambassador Orazio Pedrazzi and first and second secretaries of the embassy are in France.

"To have Italy as well as Germany recognize the Burgos Government and withdraw contacts with the other Government is victory in itself," said Admiral Magaz.

Embassy attaches said Magaz had a letter from the Burgos Government which would serve as credentials empowering him to act as charge d'affaires here and later take the rank of ambassador.

Make Announcement

BERLIN, Nov. 18—(AP)—Nazi Germany today formally recognized the Spanish Fascist provisional Government, but officials said the move in no way meant the Reich would give direct aid to the Insurgent General Francisco Franco.

(The joint announcement was first given out at Rome where Admiral Magaz, the Burgos Government representative, guardedly intimated Franco hoped for Italian aid.)

One prominent German official after the recognition announcement said: "Our action is purely recognition of the new Government and goes no further."

The consensus of foreign diplomatic missions, however, was that German aid already is sifting through to Franco in various ways. Official circles in Berlin intimated the Reich was not considering withdrawal from the London non-intervention committee.

Seeks Statement

LONDON, Nov. 18—(AP)—Clement Attlee, Labor Leader, said tonight he would question Foreign Secretary Eden in the House of Commons tomorrow on Italian and German recognition of the Spanish Insurgent provisional government.

All indications were, informed sources said, that there would be no breakup of the Non-Intervention Committee because of the joint action, although a spokesman for the Russian Embassy said Soviet plans depended on the next Italian and German moves.

Death Of Former Island Man At Malden, Mass.

Mr. William Joseph Kelley, chief probation officer of the District Court, member of the School Committee and one of the best known residents of the city, passed away November 11 at his home, 36 Vernon St., Malden, Mass. He submitted to a serious operation in August and seemed to improve for a time, but for the past few days had been in a very critical condition. The funeral was held on Monday morning at ten at the Sacred Heart Church of which he was a member.

Mr. Kelley was a self made man and burned the midnight oil to establish his place in the world. He was born in Summerville, P.E.I. 59 years ago, Nov. 1, and received his education there, coming to Malden in 1896. He was first employed as a rubber worker at the Edgeworth plant of the Boston Rubber Shoe Co. and subsequently became a member of Malden police force, receiving an appointment as regular on Dec. 18, 1906, and being advanced to a sergeancy by the late Com. F. D. Stevens on Jan. 20, 1923. He resigned on May 10, 1925 to succeed the late Probation Officer Wm. M. F. Killion, by appointment of Judge C. M. Bruce.

As probation officer, Mr. Kelley was always extremely kind and considerate and was highly regarded both by officials and those with whom he came in contact in his official position.

Mr. Kelley was prominent in civic life. He was serving his first term on the school committee, having been elected three years ago, and his term expiring next year. He was a graduate of the Suffolk law school and had been president of its alumni. He was a past grand knight of Santa Maria council K. of C., and a past president of the Deliberative Assembly. He had been president of the Malden Police Relief Association, a graduate of Staley College of the Spoken Word, Mass Middlesex and Malden Court Bar Association, Catholic Alumni Sodality of Boston and the State Probation Officers Association.

He is survived by his wife, who was Miss Nora Hallahan, and two sons, Francis P. of Medford, who was associated with his father in the Probation office, and Joseph Wm. Kelley, well known football star and a senior at St. Anselm's College, Manchester, N.H.; also two daughters, Mrs. Mary C., wife of John W. McDevitt of the Lincoln Junior High faculty, and Mrs. Loretta Fay, wife of Vincent Fay, of this city. He also leaves three brothers, Frank P., Malden; John A., of Randolph, and Austin of Honolulu, and three sisters, Miss Minnie Kelley and Mrs. John W. Scanlon, Malden, and Mrs. James Hannaberry, Quincy. (Malden Evening News).

killed when the car in which she was driving, skidded from the highway and plunged over a 30-foot embankment.

Miss Margaret Miller of Merigomish, N. S., was almost drowned today when her car skidded over a bridge near New Glasgow, N.S., and submerged in the water below. She escaped by kicking out one of the door windows and floated to the surface.

A steady storm throughout last night brought two inches of snow to Prince Edward Island, hampering attempts to refloat the steamship Marine Trader from Battery Point near the mouth of Charlottetown harbor. The ship was removed today by the salvage tug Foundation Franklin, little damaged.

Temperatures ranged from below zero to about 15 degrees above. North Sydney, N.S., reported a low temperature of two degrees below zero. It averaged eight above throughout the day in Halifax and most other Nova Scotia centres, while Saint John reported six above tonight after its coldest November day since 1932.

Amherst reported a snow-fall of eight inches throughout Cumberland County in Nova Scotia. Highways were not blocked, however.

MailAndEmpire Is Purchased By The Globe

and Empire has not been acquired but will be leased as the publishing and production headquarters of the new paper.

"Actual construction of the new building and plant of the Globe and Mail will be launched, said Mr. McCullagh, as soon as short-term leases can be terminated to permit demolition of present buildings on the King-York site. The property is currently occupied by tenants with leases permitting cancellation on three months' notice."

The Mail, later the Mail and Empire, was first issued in 1872, under direction of Thomas C. Patteson on a corner of the site of the present Mail and Empire Building at the junction of King and Bay streets. In 1877 the paper was taken over by John Riordon, C. W. Bunting and W. J. Douglas. In 1895 the Mail was united with the Empire, which had meanwhile been established.

From the death of Mr. Bunting in 1896, until his own death in 1919, Mr. Douglas directed the Mail and Empire. He was succeeded by James S. Douglas, his son, under whose management the Toronto world was acquired. In 1927, the Mail and Empire was acquired by I. W. Killam of Montreal, who has now relinquished control.

The Globe first appeared as a weekly in 1844, published by Hon. George Brown to assist in the fight for responsible government. In 1852 it became a daily morning newspaper, remaining under Mr. Brown until his death in 1880 from gunshot wounds inflicted by a disgruntled former employee. In 1882 Senator Robert Jaffray acquired the Globe and it remained in the family until his son sold the property to Mr. McCullagh last month.

General Sec'y Of Bible Society Gives Address

The Rev. J. B. M. Armour of Toronto general secretary for the British and Foreign Bible Society for Canada and Newfoundland was the special speaker at a public meeting at Zion Presbyterian Church last night. The meeting was under the auspices of Provincial Auxiliary of the Bible Society. The local president, Dr. J. H. Ayers presided.

After the invocation by the Rev. G. C. Webster, the Scripture lesson was read by the Rev. J. M. Murchison; the Rev. Hugh Miller led in prayer.

Mrs. Arthur Roper sang sympathetically a very effective setting of "I Heard the voice of Jesus Say."

District Secretary Murchison gave a brief resume of the work of the Society in the 13 years of great service to the Church and the world.

Dr. Ayers introduced in fitting terms: Rev. J. B. M. Armour, M. A. General Secretary, who in a vivid address set forth the challenge of the Bible Society, using as a basis of his thought 2 Cor. 9.

He appealed for a loyal support of the Society, the handmaid of the Church, by all who follow Christ and accept his commission. The Rev. Mr. Armour, who arrived in Charlottetown last evening by the Canadian Airways plane leaves this morning for the mainland.

ANNOUNCE DESTROYERS FOR CANADA

Cygnets and Crescent To Replace Champlain And Vancouver.

(C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) LONDON, Nov. 18—The Admiralty announced tonight the two destroyers purchased by the Canadian Government are the Cygnets and the Crescent. Manned by Canadian crews, they are expected to leave England early in 1937.

Both were of the Vickers-Armstrong program of 1929. They were built by Vickers-Armstrong, launched in September, 1931, and completed in April of the following year. They have a displacement of 1,375 tons, a complement of 145 and carry four 4.7 inch guns, one three-inch and seven smaller guns, and eight 21-inch torpedo tubes.

The new destroyers will replace the Champlain and Vancouver, borrowed from the Admiralty in 1928 and since maintained by the Royal Canadian Navy, which have become obsolete. The ships are almost identical in size and equipment, with the Canadian destroyers Saguenay and Skeena which were completed in 1931.

It is expected the new vessels will assume the names of those they replace.
