MR. KIPLING'S "IF."

Mr. Rudyard Kipling has just published a poem entitled "If——," giving it a volume to itself. The poem is of four stanzas, and it is published at the democratic price of one penny. (Macmillian.) "IF——" may be described as a Literary's Man's Advice to His son. Quoted is the second stanza and the two concluded lines:—

"If you can dream—and not make dreams you master;
If you can think—and not make thoughts your aim;
If you can meet with Triumph and Disaster,
And treat these two impostors just the same;
If you can bear to hear the truth you've spoken
Twisted by knaves to make a trap for fools,
Or watch the things you gave your your life to, broken,
And stoop and build 'em up with worn-out tools—
Yours is the Earth and everything that's in it,
And—which is more—you'll be a Man, my son.

THE SUNLIT SEA

(Written by Byron C. Tapley, St. John, New Brunswick, Canada)

England hath her voice proclaimed,
Flaunted by a war-mad foe,
Patience tried, with action slow,
Save that they would have it so.
Offspring from the Overseas,
Flocking to their Mater's side,
Heard it, and responded though
Hell itself yawned gaping wide.

War of Nations! Allies' might!
One foe gone is one less life;
More men, money, food debarred,
But one ending for this strife.
One from us, ten fill the gap;
Power. Plenty behind the van.
Time will tell, and Fate decide,
Who the master, who the man.

Dove of Peace on earth shall reign
When the issue, done and past
Since they'll have it, very well!
Give it good, and hard and fast.
Shall we hold her title clear,
Though what odds against her be?
Hers that was—is—once again,
Mistress of the sunlit sea.

THE OYSTER INDUSTRY OF PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND

adapted by Order-in-Council September 12th, 1907.

Notwithstanding all the increased restrictions the output continued to decline as may be seen from the table of returns published by the Department of Fisheries.

CAUSES OF DECLINE.

The causes contributing to this decline were numerous. In the early years of the fishery the oyster was used by a few people and then more as a novelty than as a staple article of food. Its abundance and cheapness created that condition where "Familiarity breeds contempt." The farmers considered it more valuable as a fertilizer than as a food.

Large quantities of shell were taken by means of mud-diggers and the beds were cut and destroyed.

In the meantime the facilities of transportation had so improved that it was possible to carry oysters rapidly far inland to a widening and hungry market. The demand soon left no doubt as to its proper use. The once locally abundant and despised oyster increased in value so that mud-digging on live beds was prohibited and as the best known beds became fished out new beds were sought for until the whole area was completely explored.

The price at one time which was only $1 a barrel increased to as high as $12 per barrel. The increased demand and the higher price made the fishing more and more extensive and as the season shortened, time was not taken to cull the oysters on the boats but were taken ashore to be culled on stormy days and there the small ones were left to decay. The rise of the quahaug industry which sprang into large proportions about the year 1901 contributed also to the decline of the oyster fishery. Quahaugs are found bedded in mud or soft sand and are very often most abundant around oyster beds. They are taken with long toothed rakes and the process stirs up mud and slime which frequently spreads over and settles on the oyster beds. As this fishery is carried on about the time the oyster spat is beginning to grow, the mud and slime settling down upon it destroys it or coats the shell so that it cannot find a resting place.

Another cause for the destruction of the fishery, frequently heard is due to the clearing of the forests and the tilling of the soil so that the rains carry down from the uplands to the bays quantities of silt which smothers the young oyster and the winds cause the waters of the bay to become red with shifting sands which produce the same results.

Whatever the cause, the fact remained that in many waters where the oyster had once flourished in great abundance they were no longer being produced.

This was specially noticeable in St. Peter's and Bedeque Bays where vast deposits of oyster shells form a mine of wealth to the farmers of the Province. In fact all the bays were fast becoming non-productive. The last one remaining being the largest of all, Richmond Bay.

The decline of this fishery was viewed with alarm by contemplative statesmen, and means were eagerly sought to arrest it. It was well known that similar results had occured in other places, and that the treatment found successful consisted in leasing or selling the oyster areas to private parties who would conduct a system of restocking old beds and building up new ones, and by a systematic cultivation greatly increase the output.

This policy had been adopted in colonial days, a grant of about 50 acres in the Narows East Bideford having been made to W. H. Pope in 1872. This has passed through various hands at an ever increasing price and is today one of the most valuable producing areas in the Province.

In 1890 the Department, realizing the great importance of oyster culture arranged for an appropriation of $5,000 by parliament to enable a survey of the grounds to be made, and with a view of faciliating the filing of applications by persons desirous of obtaining exclusive licenses, for the cultivation of private beds. Regulations to guide surveyors in preparing plans and descriptions for applications for Oyster Fishing Licenses" were prepared... .

Considerable interest was aroused in 1897, seventeen leases containing 46 acres were held in the Province but owing to the uncertainty of their holdings following the decision above mentioned nearly all the leases were allowed to lapse.

In 1906 the local legislature passed the oyster fishing act and prepared the following leasing regulations.

"(1) No greater area than 5 acres will be leased to any one person, excepting persons owning land in more than one county who are entitled to 5 acres in each county in which they have property.

"(2) Leases are granted for a term of not more than 20 years at the annual rental of One Dollar ($1.00) per acre. A fee of Three Dollars will also be charged for the leases and for the cost of registration.

"(3) Applications must be properly filled up and made on the printed forms furnished for that purpose and forwarded to the Clerk of the Executive Council, Charlotetown..

"(4) A plan or sketch, designating with reasonable accuracy the location of the plot asked for, and the names in full of the present owners of the land opposite and adjoining the said foreshore, must accompany the said application. The name of the applicant must also be given in full. .

"(5) A seperate application and a separate plan must be sent by each applicant.

"(6) The applicant must give the name of the legal owner of the land fronting the area asked for whether a be himself or some other person.

"(7) In the event of the application being accepted by the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council, a notice of the same will be sent to the applicant. The applicant will then be required to deposit with the Clerk of the Executive Council, the sum of three dollars $3.00 to cover cost of lease and registration. Should the applicant fail to make such deposit WITHIN THIRTY DAYS from the date of such notice, the Lieutenant Governor in Council may lease the plot to any other applicant entitled under the law to obtain same.

A copy of the Fishery Act and necessary forms will be furnished on application.

The above regulations and instructions were approved by the Lieutenant Governor in Council, on May 16, 1906.

Applications were received for five acre blocks from some 250 applicants but, as most of these came from Grand River, Bentinck Cove and other places in the very heart of the best fishing grounds and were taken up chiefly by farmers, a storm of protest arose from the fishermen and the Government yielded to the storm after having granted only five leases.

Meanwhile Hon. A. B. Warburton urged that the Dominion Government should take up the leasing of the barren bottom and an agreement was being worked out whereby the Dominion Government should undertake the survey and leasing of ground and should give one half of the net profits from the rental to the Province. This agreement, however, was never concluded.

In the year 1911 Premier Mathieson took up the matter with the Minister of Fisheries and concluded the following agreement.

AGREEMENT between the Government of the Dominion of Canada represented by the Minisster of Marine and Fisheries and the Government of the Province of Prince Edward Island, represented by the Premier thereof, made in pursuance of "THE FISHERIES ACT" and of chapter of an Act passed in the second year of the reign of His Majesty King George the Fifth, intituled "AN ACT TO AMEND THE FISHERIES ACT" and under the authority of an order in Council dated——— day of ——— A.. D., 1912.

"(1) The Government of said province of Prince Edward Island may, and is hereby authorized to grant

$67 GONE

Every Canadian consumed, during 1913, approximately $67.54 worth of imported goods. Every Canadian thereby sent sixty-seven dollars of Canadian money to enrich some other country, to keep foreign workmen employed.

It does not seem so much, but it makes the gigantic total of $675,428,168. The value of all goods "Made in Canada" is less than double this. Of these imports 65% come from the United States, yet by every condition of nature we are just as well equipped to manufacture many of these goods as our neighbour—and we do.

If only 25% of this 675 million dollars' worth of goods were produced in Canada, that production would give employment to 62,500 workmen, sufficient with their families and dependents to support 250,000 people, to populate a city larger than Winnipeg, or to create 16 cities the size of Guelph, Moncton, Brandon, or New Westminster.

By purchasing only goods "Made in Canada" you can help to keep a good share of this 675 million dollars at home, you can bring about a greater prosperity than Canada has ever known.
