Egmont Bay Exhibition

As the Egmont Bay Exhibition already briefly referred to many fine exhibits were shown which reflected with great credit on the district.

The following letter of regret was received by the Secretary from Premier Stewart.

Charlotte town, Prince Edward Island, September 27th, 1932.

C. M. Arsenault, Esq., Secretary Treasurer, Mount Carmel and Egmont Bay Exhibition, Egmont Bay, Prince Edward Island.

Dear Mr. Arsenault,—It is with much regret that I am forced, on account of illness, to decline your kind invitation to be present at the opening of the Mount Carmel and Egmont Bay Exhibition.

It has always been a pleasure to attend your exhibition and I have always looked forward to it.

May I take this opportunity to express the hope that this and future exhibitions may be as successful as they have been in the past.

Yours faithfully,
 J. D. STEWART,
 Premier.

Lieut.-Governor Dalton in opening the Exhibition said: Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen.—It gives me pleasure to be here today to assist in the opening of your Annual Fair.

I desire to congratulate you upon the splendid exhibits displayed in the different lines of agriculture, domestic science and handicraft. This affords ample evidence of the interest that you are taking in the advancement of our basic industries and of your praiseworthy endeavors to arrive at the highest peak of perfection in the development of those industries.

In this age of intense commercial rivalry—and more particularly during this much discussed period of depression—the watchword of quality becomes an ever-increasing factor in the markets of the world, and as the acme of quality in the finished product cannot be attained without the essence of quality in the raw material, the ultimate results must be traced, and be credited to the primary producer.

It is at Exhibitions such as this, where fair competition and friendly rivalry more fully demonstrate the possibilities of your industry and where mutual observation and interchange of ideas beget community interest and ambition, that the seeds of progress are sown and new methods adapted to our changing times and conditions are brought more forcibly to our attention. The general result must be wholly beneficial.

Eminent leaders in Statescraft, banking and commercial enterprise now assert that we are at the turn of the tide and that a new era of prosperity is "just around the corner," and whilst we must not be unduly optimistic nor expect more than a very gradual return to normal conditions, in the meantime we would be well advised to be ready to take advantage of the opportunities which must come with the return of prosperity. The markets of the world shall be again open to our products, and if quality is demanded, let us be prepared to supply quality.

In declaring this Exhibition formally opened, let me voice the hope and venture the prophesy that, as another year rolls around to another Exhibition day, it will mark even more pronounced progress in your efforts and a greater compensation for your labours.

Following is the prize list:
Horses Class 1.
 This class had a much better turnout than other years and the horses were much better groomed than formerly. There was, however, poor classification. Mr. Peter S. Gallant took first prize for a pair of black horses, 2 and 3 years old and also for his mare and foal.

There is still plenty of room for improvement in the showing of the animals.
Cattle Class 2.
 This class was much better than former years, there being metaoin former years there were more entries the animals were of a better type and much better fitted than other years. Much more interest is being shown in the raising of cattle than formerly. This is in a great measure due to the interest in the Calf Clubs. In the open club entries, the Shorthorns won top prizes.

Sheep Class 3.
 Mr. Clay, who judged the sheep was most enthusiastic over the showing, especially of market lambs. The exhibit was the finest ever seen at Egmont Bay and a decided improvement in quality and type over other years. There was evidently a serious effort on the part of the farmers to produce the type of market lambs the trade demands. With three or four more years breeding in the same direction the Egmont Bay exhibit will compare favourably with Alberton's exhibit of sheep, which is one of the most outstanding in the Maritime Provinces. The Shropshire Breed predominated over all other breeds. The sheep had been well fitted for the show and looked very nice.

Swine Class 5.
 This class was very poor and decidedly inferior to hogs shown five or six years ago, which is evidence that there is a great lack of interest in swine breeding in recent years.

POULTRY CLASS 5.
 The poultry exhibit was much better than previous years and there was keen competition in the breeding pens. There were a much larger number of entries. The exhibit of eggs was also worthy of the highest commendation.

Grains, Roots and Vegetables.
 There was a good entry of grains and some good individual exhibits. One exhibit of timothy seed, eleven inches long, shown by Ament Gallant of Mont Carmel, attracted much attention. Mr. Gallant had seven entries and carried off six prizes. There were some fine sheaves of grain. Three very fine samples of timothy seed and one outstanding exhibit of red clover.

Mr. Gallant's sample of Haszard's improved swede turnip seed, which consisted of two pounds of uniform seeds should, in the judge's opinion, go to the World's Fair at Regina in 1933.

There were nineteen entries of pea beans, this class was very exceptional, field peas, white and coloured beans were of a very fine order.

The showing of cranberries was very much better than usual.

There was a very large display of potatoes. Green Mountains made by far the best showing. Pumpkins and beets were outstanding in their class.
Ranch Breed Foxes.
 There was a fine exhibit of ranch breed foxes and chinchilla rabbits.

Ladies Department.
 This department was as usual very fine and there were some wonderful examples of home spun cloth, blankets and linen. The needle work and hooked rugs brought much praise and the cooking was very tempting.

The butter exhibit was one of the finest in the country and is worthy of special mention.
 The ladies served delicious meals to the visitors during the day and every arrangement was made for the comfort of all.
 Mr. Justice Arsenault in his address referred to the happy state of the Island people compared with the Canadian West. Here we at least have plenty to eat.

He also made mention of the fact that there was a chance for the women to make money in weaving homespun cloth. An industry which is practiced by the women of Quebec, with much profit.
 He saw a great future for the industry on the Island and would be pleased to assist in any way to get the Island women in touch with the proper parties to arrange for the sale of their cloth, which is as good if not better than he had seen anywhere.

All the speakers spoke very highly of the exhibition and especially praised the ladies section.—S.
HARVARD HAS RECORD
CAMBRIDGE, Mass., September 29.—More than 1,000 freshmen, believed to comprise the largest class in the history of Harvard College, have enrolled for the opening of the 297th academic year. Additional applicants were attracted by the fact that this class will graduate in 1936, when Harvard will be celebrating its 300th anniversary.

AN ENJOYABLE EVENING.—About fifty people were very hospitably entertained on Friday night, Sept. 16th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Emmet Flood, Longworth Ave., the occasion being a dance given in honor of the former's brother Johnnie. Messrs. Matthias Flood and Joseph Costello supplied the music. The dance was followed by a dancing by the three Flood brothers while Mr. Matthias Flood played the violin. The dance terminated in a nicely appointed lunch daintily served about midnight, shortly after which the guests departed for their homes. Mr. Flood left on Tuesday, Sept. 20th, for Ottawa, where he holds a responsible position in the D. B. S. His innumerable friends wish him continued success in his future work.

DISASTROUS FIRE.—The beautiful home of Mrs. Hector A. McDonald, Brush Wharf, Orwell Cove, was entirely destroyed by fire on Wednesday. The fire was first discovered about 2.00 p.m. by her sons John H. and Russel, who were working outside in the yard. The roof of the kitchen was then on fire and they quickly got their mother and sister Catherine out of the building. The fire had gained such headway before discovery that the dwelling and contents, with the exception of some of the parlor and hall furniture were totally consumed. The outbuildings had a very narrow escape as three of them were on fire several times but willing hands from Orwell Cove, Eldon and Vernon Bridge (Davis' Point) quenched the flames with buckets of water. As Mrs. McDonald is under the doctor's care she was taken to the home of Mr. T. J. Craig, and the summer residence of Mr. Alexander Anderson, Brush Wharf, was kindly offered as a temporary home and gladly accepted by the family. The dwelling and contents were insured for a small sum and the loss will be heavy as the furniture hastily removed was damaged in the saving and will be almost a total loss.

London historians have found that the city's first library was housed in a Croydon monastery, which was burned down nearly 1,000 years ago.

Schools Adopt A New Slogan

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 30.—Announcement that the slogan for the Birmingham public schools for 1932-33 will be "Development of Character Through Service" has served to bring again to public attention the wide-spread success which attended the series of projects thus promulgated through the school system here during the last 10 years.

Starting with "Character Development Through Health" for 1923-24, there has been a series of slogans adopted each session for development of the pupils' characters, and as a result the schools of Birmingham have achieved a wide reputation for the work along this line.

During 1929-30 children worked under the slogan, "The Development of Character Through a Study of Nature," and were taught to behold the wonders of nature as never before. They learned to protect birds and other harmless forms of animal life, and many pets were kept in classrooms by pupils and teachers.

"The Worthy Use of Leisure" was the character development objective during the 1930-31 session. Auditorium programs concerning leisure were held at practically every school in the city, and many other interesting features in connection with proper use of leisure were developed.

Wonder was the character development object for the last session, culminating in "The Wonder Gate," an elaborate pageant staged during the meeting of the Alabama Education Association and which attracted wide attention among educators.

While plans for working out next session's slogan of character development through service have not been fully worked out, Dr. C. B. Glenn, superintendent of city schools, is anticipating equally good results from this slogan.

Visit To The Prince of Wales

LONDON, Sept. 30.—Europe's Royal matchmakers revived their whisperings yesterday when the Prince of Wales, world's most eligible bachelor, departed by airplane for Scandinavia, home of the world's most eligible princess.

It has been two years since rumor connected the names of Britain's royal heir and the slender, golden-haired Princess Ingrid, granddaughter of King Gustav V of Sweden. On this occasion as before, reports of an impending engagement are almost certain to be denied, but society circles profess to see unusual significance in this visit.

For one thing it was described as "a private family visit." Just before leaving, moreover, the Prince spent some time with his royal parents at Balmoral. Still again, those who observe formalities point out that it is the Prince's first visit to the Swedish Court and, as such, the most appropriate occasion for asking the hand of 22-year-old Ingrid.

The Prince will not reach Stockholm until about October 1. He flew yesterday from Croydon airport to Copenhagen, Denmark, to visit with King Christian X, whose birthday falls on September 26, and to open the British Exhibition at Copenhagen. He plans to spend about 10 days in the Danish capital. It is taken for granted that Princess Ingrid will see much of her

SAN JUAN BANK CLOSSES

(Canadian Press)
SAN JUAN, Sept. 30.—The Banco Territorial y Agrícola de Puerto Rico, one of the oldest financial institutions of the island, closed its doors this afternoon with the explanation that exceptional demands as a result of the hurricane made the step necessary. Meanwhile civil, military and Red Cross officials did their utmost to provide storm sufferers with food, shelter and medical supplies.

The latest check of casualties, with many sections still unreported or only partially reported, showed 197 dead and more than 1,800 injured.

Iowa engineers have developed a method for raising sunken surfaces of concrete roads to their former levels by forcing mud and cement under them with a gasoline-driven pump.

visiting cousin during this trip. Ingrid whose mother was a first cousin of King George, has long been regarded as the most logical choice for the Prince of Wales, when the British heir decides to marry. A year from next June the Prince will be 40, and many of his countrymen feel that his decision should be forthcoming soon.

Ingrid is one of the few unmarried princesses in Europe of Protestant faith, and she and the Prince have many interests in common. The Swedish Princess is an expert horsewoman and, like the Prince, fond of outdoor sports such as golf, motoring, swimming and tennis, she took up flying when she was 20.

Tall and slim, with a soft round face and the heavy eyelids of a dreamer, she is exceptionally attractive and is considered one of the best dressed women in Europe. She is an accomplished musician and takes a keen interest in the theatre and opera.

Prince Michael On Visit To London

LONDON, September 30.—An eager young man of 11 sat in the front seat of an automobile with the chauffeur tonight that he might better see the dazzling haze that is London for the first time in his young life. The lad was Prince Michael, heir to the throne of Rumania, who arrived to visit his mother, Princess Helen, the estranged wife of King Carol. The Princes waited in a limousine at the door for him when the channel boat came in.

Anticipating a glorious experience, the Prince hopped into the front seat that he might see nothing. Southern England was producing its first seal-fog of the season, and London shone her dazzling lights through a mystic haze. But not long after the lad had leaped excitedly from the front seat at his hotel door he was in bed and talking over with his mother more exciting things he would see and do during his visit. But the exhaustion of his trip from Paris today soon began to tell, and the lad fell asleep.

Members of the Princess' suite said Prince Michael would probably go to places like the Science Museum in Kensington, because he has a great love for mechanics and things. It was said the Prince would not go to school in London but would probably accompany the Princess to Italy within a week.

A spinster called on her doctor and asked whether influenza could be caught by kissing.

"It most certainly can," said the doctor.

"Well, when I was on vacation a month ago a man kissed me."

"The doctor laughed. 'You're all right. If the complaint hasn't developed by now, it never will—not from that kiss anyway.'"

"I thought not," confessed the spinster, "but I do love talking about it."
