SAHARA SEA PLAIN GROWS

Flooding the Sahara Desert so that it may become a sea with ships visiting ports that now are towns on the edge of the desert, is one of the dreams of John Ball, of the Geological Survey of Egypt. The plan, which has been under consideration for some time, is growing more definite and now includes a canal extending 200 miles to the Mediterranean Sea and big enough for ocean liners. Evaporation from the inland sea, according to Doctor Ball, would increase rainfall on what are now arid lands.

England is just taking up the idea of placing numbers on the backs of foo ball players so that spectators may identify them.

The ceremony was performed by Right Rev. Monsignor Maurice MacDonald, who also celebrated the nuptial Mass. The bride, who was becomingly gowned in a navy blue suit trimmed with gray squirrel and gray squirrel neckpiece and hat to match, was assisted by Miss Mary Duffy, sister of the bride, who was attractively gowned in a navy blue suit with Copenhagen hat. Mr. James Power ably assisted the groom. Both the bride and bridesmaid carried bouquets of beautiful American roses and maiden hair fern. After the ceremony the happy couple motored to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Bradley, Hillsborough Square, where a sumptuous wedding breakfast was served, after which they left by the express on a short honeymoon trip of the Maritime Provinces. The numerous and valuable array of presents testify in no small measure to the popularity of both bride and groom. The Guardian joins with many friends in extending to Mr. and Mrs Theriault hearty congratulations.

Newspaper Advertising
Is the Wind That Fills the Sails of Business
DAILY NEWSPAPERS seldom blow their own horn. Modesty forbids. Newspaper men prefer to do their work quietly and unostentatiously. They leave results to speak for themselves. Those results are tremendous. But there comes a time when it is no longer dutiful to sacrifice truth to modesty.
If the day of "personal" journalism is gone—the day when editorial opinion was almost as powerful as the edict of a king—the day of absolute dependability upon News is here as never before, and more than takes its place. Of all human institutions, the Daily Newspaper Press is still supreme.
WITHOUT the Daily Newspaper society could not function, could not progress, as it does to-day. There would be national paralysis. The people would perish for lack of knowledge. Corruption in municipal and national life would abound. Justice would be throttled. Power would be centred in the hands of the few. Stock Exchanges would dwindle to nothing. Business would perish of pernicious anaemia. Suspicion and distrust would usurp the place of faith and confidence. Foul rumour would encircle the land and chill the hearts of the people.
Recognising its supreme importance, every civilised nation upon earth long ago gave freedom to the press.
BECAUSE it so effectively lubricates the wheels of Business, Business has in the Daily Newspaper its most powerful ally. Because of the influence it wields with the public, Advertising in the Daily Newspaper yields a rich and certain reward. Honest and informative advertising is the greatest auxiliary any Business or Industry can have.
A NEW DAY is dawning for CANADA
The radiant beams of increasing prosperity are already well above the horizon and illumine the land from coast to coast. By planting the seed of Advertising in Canada's Daily Newspapers NOW, Business and Industry are sure of a steady and legitimate harvest, measurable only by the limits of human needs.

TASK FOR SHERLOCK HOLMES

Exchange of a bag containing $3,-000 to one having only newspapers inside, is puzzling the police of Manila, P. I., and officials of the Manila Railroad, on which the robbery was committed. The bag, of yellow coarse pina cloth, was sealed before the station agent at Manila but that delivered to the consignee, a Chinese merchant at Lucena, was of white cotton cloth with a faked seal. Railway officials believe that the change must have been made on the train, but are unable to get further information.

BAD COINS BOTHER OFFICIALS.

Bent coins in chocolate slot machines are now added to the worries of the officials of the government railways in Australia. School children of Northcote recently protested that they were being cheated out of their pennies, which they put into the machines, and for which they received no chocolate. The railway commission investigated and found that bent coins, pieces of tin and bits of cardboard inserted in the machines caused them to stop and not deliver the sweets. The commission apologized to the pupils.

CAMEL WORTH MORE THAN WIFE

That a camel is worth more than a wife, was the declaration of a native of Egypt who recently offered both to an English clergyman. He first offered the wife for the equivalent of $25. "Why do you want to sell her?" he was asked. "She is old and fights," was the laconic reply. "Then she would fight me," said the clergyman. "No, not an English gentleman," was the answer The offer being refused the native then offered the camel for $100 Asked to explain the difference in prices, he replied curtly, "Camel better than wife."

POUT AND CRY FOR BEAUTY.

Patients of a London beauty doctor must pout daily and cry at least once a week in order to acquire or preserve youthful looks. Facial exercises are the latest beauty cult in the English city, and the doctor declares that if women will pat their cheeks and yawn and smile with their eyes wide open, and wrinkle their noses six times a day before the glass, such exercises will benefit the faces fully as much as the "daily dozen" helps the figures. He also says that such exercises will eventually do away with creams, lotions and powders.

Mr. Alex. Buell is hired for the lobster fishing season with Mr. William Porter.

Some of the old experienced fishermen are staying at home and are going to try potato growing.

Quite a number of mat hooking parties has been carried through very successfully during the past few weeks.

Mat-hooking is a new industry that has sprung up within the past couple of years, owing to the big demand for home drawn designs. And some of the women and girls shall, let up hope, realize a snug sum of money for their hard labor. This new industry keeps the women folk busy during the winter months. But isn't it too bad that there is no industry for the employment of the men, who have so much spare time from Fall until Spring. The snow which fell on the night of April 19th gave the earth the appearance of winter. But we need not worry ourselves about the weather. As we are promised, in words of the Holy writ, Spring, Summer, Autumn and Winter, seed time and harvest as long as the world lasts.
