

Now SHE'LL STEAL INTO YOUR HEART more tenderly than ever!

With a brave plea in her laughing eyes, though her heart is sad she takes you into the realm of her own exquisite dreams... as only she can do it!

SHIRLEY TEMPLE
in her greatest picture
'Our Little Girl'

ROSEMARY AMES
JOEL McCREA
LYLE TALBOT

ALSO... ODDITY—VENTRILOQUIST—
and—OUR GANG COMEDY
Starting TODAY—3 Days
PRINCE EDWARD 3--7--8.45 P. M.

When Shirley sings a lullaby—"Our Little Girl"—your eyes will fill with tears, but you'll be strangely happy.

COMING NEXT WEEK THE LAWRENCE FAMILY ON THE STAGE

Summer Care
REQUIRES A WAVE!
And summer requires a really good wave—one that can "take it" from wind and sun and water.

Percy Gullison's Elite Beauty Salon you are assured of getting a wave of quality, given by experts.

Telephone 1329

Elite Beauty Salon

ANNANDALE W. I. CONVENTION

The eighth annual district convention of the Women's Institutes of Bridgetown, Little Pond, Strathcona, and How Bay, Cumberland Hill, Albion Cross, Mt. Hope and Upton was held in Annandale hall on July 22, 1935, a large attendance of delegates and visitors being present.

The afternoon session opened by singing "The Island Hymn", the President, Mrs. Howard Wood, presiding.

The Institute Creed was afterward repeated followed by an address of welcome by Miss Laura McDonald, Little Pond, responded to by Mrs. Hudson MacDonald, Bridgetown.

Minutes of 1934 convention were then read by the secretary Mrs. Herbert Ross, Strathcona, and reports of year's work were given by the secretary of each institute.

Mrs. Martin at substitute for the Institute Supervisor, gave a very interesting and instructive address on Canadian Industries, and Miss Laura McDonald gave a romantic and interesting history of an antique willow planter over seventy-five years old.

There was an attractive handicraft exhibit of rags and fancywork some of which was displayed and explained by owners.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year, viz:

President—Miss Laura McDonald, Little Pond.

Vice-Pres.—Mrs. Bentley Creed, Bridgetown.

Secy.—Mrs. James McKenzie, Eglington.

A vote of thanks to retiring officers was extended by Miss Laura McDonald, after which there was a discussion on school attendance and Carnegie branch libraries resulting in a resolution committee being formed which drew up and presented resolutions concerning these subjects and which were adopted at the evening session.

Meeting then adjourned until evening, and a very sumptuous and enjoyable banquet was tendered all present by the Eglington, How Bay and Little Pond Institutes.

Evening session opened at 8.30 p. m. the president presiding over the following program:

Opening chorus—Institute Rally Song.

Solo—Miss Marion MacKenzie, Bridgetown.

Instrumental music—Messrs. Lapierre and Poole.

Recitation—Miss Sara McPherson Launching.

Solo—Mr. Walter Burdett, Strathcona.

Monologue—Mrs. Brenton Stead, Little Pond.

Duet—Harold Dockendorf and Weston McLeod, Mt. Hope.

Solo—Mrs. Leo McKenzie, Eglington.

Recitation—Mr. John Dingwell, Little Pond.

Solo—Miss Marguerite McDonald, Cumberland Hill.

Instrumental music—Albion Cross orchestra.

Address—Dr. A. A. McDonald, Souris.

Solo—Miss Anna McDonald, Albion Cross.

Step dancing—Mr. Dan McCormick, Little Pond.

Duet—Misses Thelma Jackson and Della McKenzie, Eglington.

Dialogue—Upton Institute.

Solo—Mr. Ernest Poole, Collection.

Duet—Misses Beatrice Steele and Edna Dingwell, Little Pond.

Report of resolution committee by Miss Laura McDonald.

Vote of thanks extended to Dr. McDonald and others who helped make the convention a success.

God Save the King.

When Dahlias Grow

As your dahlias continue to grow, both taller and heavier, keep all the shoots tied up to the stakes, for if they flower while growing along the ground, the flowers will become dim and faded during their blooming period, the flowers on the plant at that time will be ruined and the future bloom will not be as luxuriant.

The important factor is to cultivate around your plants more often, this means watering, for if they become too dry during their blooming period, the flowers on the plant at that time will be ruined and the future bloom will not be as luxuriant.

When cutting your dahlias, do so early in the morning, or in the cool of the evening. Cut only those flowers in full bloom, since they will last longer than if they are in bud, or half opened. Cut with long stems and just above a joint. This keeps your plants pruned and causes new branches to shoot out. Strip the bottom leaves off the flower stalks and place them in a pail or container of cold water up to the base of the flower, if possible. Then place in a cool place for several hours or overnight before arranging them.

There is something more to providing indoor blooms than garden picking or buying from the florist; the flowers must be conditioned. Cut either early in the morning or in the evening, freshen the blooms deep in water in a cool place for several hours, cut stems with a slanting cut to provide more absorption surface; use container with ample room at the base; never place in the sun. A lump of charcoal will aid in keeping the water sweet and clear.

All flowers which will easily, such as poppies, heliotrope, forget-me-nots, violets, pansies, and all ferns, last much better if they are cut partly closed, and the stems plunged for a minute in a can of hot water, or the stem ends cut with a flame. This seals the ends of the stems and keeps the sap from escaping. For exhibitions, flowers should always be cut a full day beforehand, and stood in water clear up to the bloom heads and kept in a cool, dark place.

Reds Fine Parents For Bad Actions Of Their Children

MOSCOW, July 24—North and south, to say nothing of East and West, Stalin's new order rehabilitating the home and degrading that family life be respected and respectable, is upsetting the old Russian customs.

True to Soviet practice, parents now are getting it in the neck—or at least in the pocket book—because their children don't live up to the new ideals of orderly conduct.

Instead of patting little Communists on the head when they toddle across the street, or through windows, the militia now are fining the parents for failing to keep the family life under control.

And in the far-Southern regions of the Soviet Union, oriental to the core, arrests are being made and show-trials put on to get across the idea that it's now improper to recruit the family by kidnapping brides or deplete it by selling-off daughters.

Leningrad, where the workmen and peasants who occupy the palaces haven't yet learned the manners of the former owners, apparently is the center of the campaign to make children well-behaved by fining their parents—and so establish disciplined family life.

Within a few weeks after Stalin's order, 385 parents had been hailed to court and penalized for failure to keep their sons and daughters orderly.

Here is the scale of offenses, as measured by the fines:

A mother whose son threw water out of a window on passers-by—10 roubles.

Parents whose young son chattered obscene words on a wall—18 roubles.

To the elders of a little boy who rudely snatched a ball from a little girl and made her cry—35 roubles from a child-loving court.

For a mother whose young daughter ran across a street and fell under a street-car (emerging unhurt but frightened)—50 roubles.

Meanwhile from the trans-Caucasian districts have come reports of several cases in which the Eastern ideas of proper family life have clashed with the new Soviet theories.

There have been several recent reports of arrests of parents who allegedly sold their young daughters as brides.

The new demand that the private citizen of the Soviet Union be respected, plus the efforts of the newspaper Pravda, have resulted in the reversal of one of the harshest sentences imposed in Russia—a term of two years for nine cents.

It was imposed by a Moscow city judge on Alexei Svaranok, a 20-year-old student in the Automobile Trust, over a disputed fare on one of Moscow's ancient and overcrowded street cars.

Now, as a result of his act, the judge who imposed the sentence has been dismissed, the head of the local judiciary has been censured and the Moscow chief of police has been warned.

Race of Pygmies Found in Orient

HANOI, French Indo-China, July 24—French scientists today announced discovery of an authentic race of pygmies in the mountainous hinterland of Annam previously considered uninhabited.

They brought a tiny man and his woman to Hue, Government seat of Quang Binh province. The human evidence was identified by Dr. Pierre Trehout, director of the French hospital and an eminent colonialist and student of African and Asiatic peoples, as belonging to a race akin to African pygmies.

The Annam pygmies were in deplorable physical condition. Dr. Trehout is nursing them back to health and strength while the French school of the extreme Orient prepares an extensive study to determine their origin.

Typhoons flooded large areas of Quang Binh, causing a relief expedition to penetrate the area along a river flowing from the mountains. The relief director saw a tiny man with features differing from Annamites clinging to a log being swept down stream.

He failed to rescue him but questioned aborigines along the river as to whether they had seen pygmies in the mountains.

Few villagers had ventured above the river but several Annamites testified they had seen dwarfish men so timid they appeared to vanish on sight.

After long search the man and woman brought to Hue and identified as pygmies today were found by Quang Binh Annamites high in the mountains of the interior.

Treaty Father—What on earth are you doing, Willie?

Willie—I was only mimicking you dad.

Treaty Father—Well, stop acting like the fool.

OUT ON BAIL TO THROW THE GAME

GARDON WASH

With EDDIE QUILLAN BETTY FURNESS

Grant Mitchell—Edgar Kennedy
ADDED ATTRACTIONS
"RUSTLERS OF RED DOG"
Chapter Eight
and COMEDY—"PICKLED PEPPERS"

3 Shows Daily—3--7--8.45

CAPITOL—Today—Friday—Saturday

C.N.R. Excursion To Moncton

MONCTON, N.B., July 24—An excellent opportunity is being afforded to people in the Maritime Provinces to visit Moncton on the low fare coach excursion being operated by the Canadian National Railways on Friday, August 2nd. There is considerable interest in the visitor to Moncton, stated Mr. R. J. S. Weatherston, General Freight and Passenger Agent of the railway here, notably the famous tidal phenomenon of the Petitcodiac River, the bore, and the rocks at Hopewell Cape. Many visitors each year come to Moncton to see these natural phenomena. A generous return limit is allowed on this excursion, tickets being good to return the following Monday, Aug. 5th.

Girl Makes Kayak Solos 550 Miles

NEW YORK, July 24—"Fed up" with humanity, Ida Lyman, 22 year old Montreal social worker, today completed a 550 miles water trip from Montreal to New York in a 15 foot Eskimo kayak.

"This trip has been a good rest for me," she said, after she finished telling of the rigors of the voyage. Storms and rapids beset the route—via Lake Champlain—which was that taken by the pioneers of 200 years ago.

She is the first person to make the trip single handed, said Capt. Bill Byrne, president of the George Washington Boating Association, at whose float she tied up.

Miss Lyman a native of Denmark and a naturalized Canadian, said the first leg of the trip was the hardest.

"There's a lot of white water in the Richelieu River between Montreal and Lake Champlain and several days I had to buck storms. I don't think I made more than 12 or 15 miles those days," she said.

Each night, under a tiny tent, she slept rounder than ever before in her life, she said. She cooked her own meals, but admitted they mostly came out of tin cans.

Her cockleshell craft she built herself two years ago. It follows the Eskimo design, sharp at both ends, broad in the middle, and completely covered with canvas except for the cockpit.

There is a double-bladed paddle.

Miss Lyman will spend 10 days visiting settlement houses in New York, and will then return to Montreal by airplane.

Crime Doesn't Pay Says Dillinger's Dad

WINNIPEG, July 24—A 71-year-old father with little wrinkles about his eyes sat in a circus tent here today and told his young fellows crime does not pay.

The soft-spoken little lecturer was John Dillinger Sr., father of the man who a year ago was listed as America's No. 1 bad man.

It was not always thus. There was a time when he was "Farming and stock raising" in Indiana, but since John Dillinger Jr. went wrong, as his dad says, he is known as the father of the notorious gunman.

The lecture was just a little tougher than usual for him today. His tale, oft repeated for his circus audience, took on a new significance.

For a year ago Monday Federal agents killed the younger John on Chicago's East Side.

Dad Dillinger makes few excuses for his wayward boy. In fact he shoulders most of the blame himself and puts the rest of the family in a humiliating position.

For a year ago Monday Federal agents killed the younger John on Chicago's East Side.

Dad Dillinger makes few excuses for his wayward boy. In fact he shoulders most of the blame himself and puts the rest of the family in a humiliating position.

Crime Doesn't Pay Says Dillinger's Dad

WINNIPEG, July 24—A 71-year-old father with little wrinkles about his eyes sat in a circus tent here today and told his young fellows crime does not pay.

The soft-spoken little lecturer was John Dillinger Sr., father of the man who a year ago was listed as America's No. 1 bad man.

It was not always thus. There was a time when he was "Farming and stock raising" in Indiana, but since John Dillinger Jr. went wrong, as his dad says, he is known as the father of the notorious gunman.

The lecture was just a little tougher than usual for him today. His tale, oft repeated for his circus audience, took on a new significance.

For a year ago Monday Federal agents killed the younger John on Chicago's East Side.

Dad Dillinger makes few excuses for his wayward boy. In fact he shoulders most of the blame himself and puts the rest of the family in a humiliating position.

For a year ago Monday Federal agents killed the younger John on Chicago's East Side.

Crime Doesn't Pay Says Dillinger's Dad

WINNIPEG, July 24—A 71-year-old father with little wrinkles about his eyes sat in a circus tent here today and told his young fellows crime does not pay.

The soft-spoken little lecturer was John Dillinger Sr., father of the man who a year ago was listed as America's No. 1 bad man.

It was not always thus. There was a time when he was "Farming and stock raising" in Indiana, but since John Dillinger Jr. went wrong, as his dad says, he is known as the father of the notorious gunman.

The lecture was just a little tougher than usual for him today. His tale, oft repeated for his circus audience, took on a new significance.

For a year ago Monday Federal agents killed the younger John on Chicago's East Side.

Dad Dillinger makes few excuses for his wayward boy. In fact he shoulders most of the blame himself and puts the rest of the family in a humiliating position.

For a year ago Monday Federal agents killed the younger John on Chicago's East Side.

Crime Doesn't Pay Says Dillinger's Dad

WINNIPEG, July 24—A 71-year-old father with little wrinkles about his eyes sat in a circus tent here today and told his young fellows crime does not pay.

The soft-spoken little lecturer was John Dillinger Sr., father of the man who a year ago was listed as America's No. 1 bad man.

It was not always thus. There was a time when he was "Farming and stock raising" in Indiana, but since John Dillinger Jr. went wrong, as his dad says, he is known as the father of the notorious gunman.

The lecture was just a little tougher than usual for him today. His tale, oft repeated for his circus audience, took on a new significance.

For a year ago Monday Federal agents killed the younger John on Chicago's East Side.

Dad Dillinger makes few excuses for his wayward boy. In fact he shoulders most of the blame himself and puts the rest of the family in a humiliating position.

For a year ago Monday Federal agents killed the younger John on Chicago's East Side.

Crime Doesn't Pay Says Dillinger's Dad

WINNIPEG, July 24—A 71-year-old father with little wrinkles about his eyes sat in a circus tent here today and told his young fellows crime does not pay.

The soft-spoken little lecturer was John Dillinger Sr., father of the man who a year ago was listed as America's No. 1 bad man.

It was not always thus. There was a time when he was "Farming and stock raising" in Indiana, but since John Dillinger Jr. went wrong, as his dad says, he is known as the father of the notorious gunman.

The lecture was just a little tougher than usual for him today. His tale, oft repeated for his circus audience, took on a new significance.

For a year ago Monday Federal agents killed the younger John on Chicago's East Side.

Dad Dillinger makes few excuses for his wayward boy. In fact he shoulders most of the blame himself and puts the rest of the family in a humiliating position.

For a year ago Monday Federal agents killed the younger John on Chicago's East Side.

Crime Doesn't Pay Says Dillinger's Dad

WINNIPEG, July 24—A 71-year-old father with little wrinkles about his eyes sat in a circus tent here today and told his young fellows crime does not pay.

The soft-spoken little lecturer was John Dillinger Sr., father of the man who a year ago was listed as America's No. 1 bad man.

It was not always thus. There was a time when he was "Farming and stock raising" in Indiana, but since John Dillinger Jr. went wrong, as his dad says, he is known as the father of the notorious gunman.

The lecture was just a little tougher than usual for him today. His tale, oft repeated for his circus audience, took on a new significance.

For a year ago Monday Federal agents killed the younger John on Chicago's East Side.

Dad Dillinger makes few excuses for his wayward boy. In fact he shoulders most of the blame himself and puts the rest of the family in a humiliating position.

For a year ago Monday Federal agents killed the younger John on Chicago's East Side.

Crime Doesn't Pay Says Dillinger's Dad

WINNIPEG, July 24—A 71-year-old father with little wrinkles about his eyes sat in a circus tent here today and told his young fellows crime does not pay.

The soft-spoken little lecturer was John Dillinger Sr., father of the man who a year ago was listed as America's No. 1 bad man.

It was not always thus. There was a time when he was "Farming and stock raising" in Indiana, but since John Dillinger Jr. went wrong, as his dad says, he is known as the father of the notorious gunman.

The lecture was just a little tougher than usual for him today. His tale, oft repeated for his circus audience, took on a new significance.

For a year ago Monday Federal agents killed the younger John on Chicago's East Side.

Dad Dillinger makes few excuses for his wayward boy. In fact he shoulders most of the blame himself and puts the rest of the family in a humiliating position.

For a year ago Monday Federal agents killed the younger John on Chicago's East Side.

Crime Doesn't Pay Says Dillinger's Dad

WINNIPEG, July 24—A 71-year-old father with little wrinkles about his eyes sat in a circus tent here today and told his young fellows crime does not pay.

The soft-spoken little lecturer was John Dillinger Sr., father of the man who a year ago was listed as America's No. 1 bad man.

It was not always thus. There was a time when he was "Farming and stock raising" in Indiana, but since John Dillinger Jr. went wrong, as his dad says, he is known as the father of the notorious gunman.

The lecture was just a little tougher than usual for him today. His tale, oft repeated for his circus audience, took on a new significance.

For a year ago Monday Federal agents killed the younger John on Chicago's East Side.

Dad Dillinger makes few excuses for his wayward boy. In fact he shoulders most of the blame himself and puts the rest of the family in a humiliating position.

For a year ago Monday Federal agents killed the younger John on Chicago's East Side.

Crime Doesn't Pay Says Dillinger's Dad

WINNIPEG, July 24—A 71-year-old father with little wrinkles about his eyes sat in a circus tent here today and told his young fellows crime does not pay.

The soft-spoken little lecturer was John Dillinger Sr., father of the man who a year ago was listed as America's No. 1 bad man.

It was not always thus. There was a time when he was "Farming and stock raising" in Indiana, but since John Dillinger Jr. went wrong, as his dad says, he is known as the father of the notorious gunman.

The lecture was just a little tougher than usual for him today. His tale, oft repeated for his circus audience, took on a new significance.

For a year ago Monday Federal agents killed the younger John on Chicago's East Side.

Dad Dillinger makes few excuses for his wayward boy. In fact he shoulders most of the blame himself and puts the rest of the family in a humiliating position.

For a year ago Monday Federal agents killed the younger John on Chicago's East Side.

Crime Doesn't Pay Says Dillinger's Dad

WINNIPEG, July 24—A 71-year-old father with little wrinkles about his eyes sat in a circus tent here today and told his young fellows crime does not pay.

The soft-spoken little lecturer was John Dillinger Sr., father of the man who a year ago was listed as America's No. 1 bad man.

It was not always thus. There was a time when he was "Farming and stock raising" in Indiana, but since John Dillinger Jr. went wrong, as his dad says, he is known as the father of the notorious gunman.

The lecture was just a little tougher than usual for him today. His tale, oft repeated for his circus audience, took on a new significance.

For a year ago Monday Federal agents killed the younger John on Chicago's East Side.

Dad Dillinger makes few excuses for his wayward boy. In fact he shoulders most of the blame himself and puts the rest of the family in a humiliating position.

For a year ago Monday Federal agents killed the younger John on Chicago's East Side.

Crime Doesn't Pay Says Dillinger's Dad

WINNIPEG, July 24—A 71-year-old father with little wrinkles about his eyes sat in a circus tent here today and told his young fellows crime does not pay.

The soft-spoken little lecturer was John Dillinger Sr., father of the man who a year ago was listed as America's No. 1 bad man.

It was not always thus. There was a time when he was "Farming and stock raising" in Indiana, but since John Dillinger Jr. went wrong, as his dad says, he is known as the father of the notorious gunman.

The lecture was just a little tougher than usual for him today. His tale, oft repeated for his circus audience, took on a new significance.

For a year ago Monday Federal agents killed the younger John on Chicago's East Side.

Dad Dillinger makes few excuses for his wayward boy. In fact he shoulders most of the blame himself and puts the rest of the family in a humiliating position.

For a year ago Monday Federal agents killed the younger John on Chicago's East Side.

Crime Doesn't Pay Says Dillinger's Dad

WINNIPEG, July 24—A 71-year-old father with little wrinkles about his eyes sat in a circus tent here today and told his young fellows crime does not pay.

The soft-spoken little lecturer was John Dillinger Sr., father of the man who a year ago was listed as America's No. 1 bad man.

It was not always thus. There was a time when he was "Farming and stock raising" in Indiana, but since John Dillinger Jr. went wrong, as his dad says, he is known as the father of the notorious gunman.

The lecture was just a little tougher than usual for him today. His tale, oft repeated for his circus audience, took on a new significance.

For a year ago Monday Federal agents killed the younger John on Chicago's East Side.

Dad Dillinger makes few excuses for his wayward boy. In fact he shoulders most of the blame himself and puts the rest of the family in a humiliating position.

For a year ago Monday Federal agents killed the younger John on Chicago's East Side.

Crime Doesn't Pay Says Dillinger's Dad

WINNIPEG, July 24—A 71-year-old father with little wrinkles about his eyes sat in a circus tent here today and told his young fellows crime does not pay.

The soft-spoken little lecturer was John Dillinger Sr., father of the man who a year ago was listed as America's No. 1 bad man.

It was not always thus. There was a time when he was "Farming and stock raising" in Indiana, but since John Dillinger Jr. went wrong, as his dad says, he is known as the father of the notorious gunman.

The lecture was just a little tougher than usual for him today. His tale, oft repeated for his circus audience, took on a new significance.

For a year ago Monday Federal agents killed the younger John on Chicago's East Side.

Dad Dillinger makes few excuses for his wayward boy. In fact he shoulders most of the blame himself and puts the rest of the family in a humiliating position.

For a year ago Monday Federal agents killed the younger John on Chicago's East Side.

Crime Doesn't Pay Says Dillinger's Dad

WINNIPEG, July 24—A 71-year-old father with little wrinkles about his eyes sat in a circus tent here today and told his young fellows crime does not pay.

The soft-spoken little lecturer was John Dillinger Sr., father of the man who a year ago was listed as America's No. 1 bad man.

It was not always thus. There was a time when he was "Farming and stock raising" in Indiana, but since John Dillinger Jr. went wrong, as his dad says, he is known as the father of the notorious gunman.

The lecture was just a little tougher than usual for him today. His tale, oft repeated for his circus audience, took on a new significance.

For a year ago Monday Federal agents killed the younger John on Chicago's East Side.

Dad Dillinger makes few excuses for his wayward boy. In fact he shoulders most of the blame himself and puts the rest of the family in a humiliating position.

For a year ago Monday Federal agents killed the younger John on Chicago's East Side.

Crime Doesn't Pay Says Dillinger's Dad

WINNIPEG, July 24—A 71-year-old father with little wrinkles about his eyes sat in a circus tent here today and told his young fellows crime does not pay.

The soft-spoken little lecturer was John Dillinger Sr., father of the man who a year ago was listed as America's No. 1 bad man.

It was not always thus. There was a time when he was "Farming and stock raising" in Indiana, but since John Dillinger Jr. went wrong, as his dad says, he is known as the father of the notorious gunman.

The lecture was just a little tougher than usual for him today. His tale, oft repeated for his circus audience, took on a new significance.

For a year ago Monday Federal agents killed the younger John on Chicago's East Side.

Dad Dillinger makes few excuses for his wayward boy. In fact he shoulders most of the blame himself and puts the rest of the family in a humiliating position.

For a year ago Monday Federal agents killed the younger John on Chicago's East Side.

Crime Doesn't Pay Says Dillinger's Dad

WINNIPEG, July 24—A 71-year-old father with little wrinkles about his eyes sat in a circus tent here today and told his young fellows crime does not pay.

The soft-spoken little lecturer was John Dillinger Sr., father of the man who a year ago was listed as America's No. 1 bad man.

It was not always thus. There was a time when he was "Farming and stock raising" in Indiana, but since John Dillinger Jr. went wrong, as his dad says, he is known as the father of the notorious gunman.

The lecture was just a little tougher than usual for him today. His tale, oft repeated for his circus audience, took on a new significance.

For a year ago Monday Federal agents killed the younger John on Chicago's East Side.

Dad Dillinger makes few excuses for his wayward boy. In fact he shoulders most of the blame himself and puts the rest of the family in a humiliating position.

For a year ago Monday Federal agents killed the younger John on Chicago's East Side.

Crime Doesn't Pay Says Dillinger's Dad

WINNIPEG, July 24—A 71-year-old father with little wrinkles about his eyes sat in a circus tent here today and told his young fellows crime does not pay.

The soft-spoken little lecturer was John Dillinger Sr., father of the man who a year ago was listed as America's No. 1 bad man.

It was not always thus. There was a time when he was "Farming and stock raising" in Indiana, but since John Dillinger Jr. went wrong, as his dad says, he is known as the father of the notorious gunman.

The lecture was just a little tougher than usual for him today. His tale, oft repeated for his circus audience, took on a new significance.

For a year ago Monday Federal agents killed the younger John on Chicago's East Side.

Dad Dillinger makes few excuses for his wayward boy. In fact he shoulders most of the blame himself and puts the rest of the family in a humiliating position.

For a year ago Monday Federal agents killed the younger John on Chicago's East Side.

Crime Doesn't Pay Says Dillinger's Dad

WINNIPEG, July 24—A 71-year-old father with little wrinkles about his eyes sat in a circus tent here today and told his young fellows crime does not pay.

The soft-spoken little lecturer was John Dillinger Sr., father of the man who a year ago was listed as America's No. 1 bad man.

It was not always thus. There was a time when he was "Farming and stock raising" in Indiana, but since John Dillinger Jr. went wrong, as his dad says, he is known as the father of the notorious gunman.

The lecture was just a little tougher than usual for him today. His tale, oft repeated for his circus audience, took on a new significance.

For a year ago Monday Federal agents killed the younger John on Chicago's East Side.

Dad Dillinger makes few excuses for his wayward boy. In fact he shoulders most of the blame himself and puts the rest of the family in a humiliating position.

For a year ago Monday Federal agents killed the younger John on Chicago's East Side.

The Central Guardian

FAN BELTS to suit all makes of cars carried in stock. Mallet's Battery Service. L-8773-7-13-19-25.

THERE WILL BE a tuberculosis clinic at the town hall, Summerside, Tuesday, July 30, from 10 A. M. to 12 noon. L-8589-7-25-11.

CORNWALL CHARGE July 28th. Rev. C. N. Brown will preach at New Dominion at 11 A. M. Kingston at 3 P. M. Cornwall at 7.30. Rev. D. K. Ross, Minister. L-8585-7-25-11.

CORRECTION—An Orwell Correspondent states the election returns from that poll should read: MacDougall, 74; Jenkins, 88; MacKinnon, 74; Jones 56.

ROTARY ASSEMBLY at AMHERST—The Rotary Assembly of District 32, comprising the Maritime Provinces and Newfoundland, will meet on Friday and Saturday at Amherst, N.S. Mr. P. W. Turner, District Governor, will preside. The presidents and secretaries of the various clubs are the delegates. Mr. A. B. Fisher, president of the Charlottetown Rotary Club will attend. Major J. A. MacKenzie, the secretary, will be unable to be present due to pressure of business.

PROMINENT VISITORS—Among those who will visit Prince Edward Island in the near future are Rev. and Mrs. H. A. Berlis, of Toronto. Rev. Mr. Berlis is the minister of one of Toronto's large west-end congregations, Royce Avenue Presbyterian church. He is also well known in Ontario's educational circles. For the past three years he has been chairman of the Board of Governors for the Missionary and Deaconess Training Home of the Presbyterian church. Rev. and Mrs. Berlis will be accompanied on their trip by Master Douglas Berlis and Miss Smiley Crichton. While on the Island they will visit their son, Mr. Rudolph Berlis, who is student-in-charge at Brookfield.

WEDDING BELLS—A quiet wedding of interest to many friends of the bride and groom, in the western part of the Province and in Charlottetown and vicinity, took place at the home of Mrs. A. E. Wilkinson, 43 Upper Hillsboro St., Friday, July 19th at 4 o'clock, when her youngest daughter, Eva, was united in marriage to Mr. Hugh Stanley Hyde, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Hyde of Cornwall. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. S. Weir, B.A., of Vernon, who is a personal friend of the bride's mother, Mrs. Wilkinson. The wedding march was played by Miss Best. A solo, "O Perfect Love" was sung by Mrs. A. S. Weir. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful gifts from her large circle of friends. The wedding party, consisting of relatives and friends, gathered at the home of the bride, 43 Upper Hillsboro St., where a delicious wedding supper was served. The young couple are to reside at Cornwall, and have the best wishes of their friends for a happy and prosperous married life.

MACQUARRIE—MacDONALD NUPTIALS—A very pretty wedding took place at the bride's sister's on 105 Port St. Furhaven, Mass., at four o'clock, July 6th. The bride, Miss Florence C. MacQuarrie, a graduate of Falconwood Hospital, P.E.I., also of St. Luke's Hospital, New Bedford, was formerly from Riverdale, P.E.I., but nursing in New Bedford and vicinity for a number of years, was attended by her sister, Mrs. E. W. MacDougall. The bridegroom, Mr. Norman MacDonald of Nine Mile Creek, P.E.I., was attended by Mr. MacDougall. The double ring ceremony being used. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. A. MacClellan, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in New Bedford. The house was tastefully decorated with laurel and pink and blue flowers of various kinds. The bride's nieces Evelyn, Arlene, Betty and Natalie formed an aisle of ribbons. Miss Cora Westgate sang O Promise Me, accompanied by Mrs. E. W. MacDougall, who also played the wedding march. The bride's dress was of azure blue, with hat and shoes to match. She carried Lillies of the Valley. The matron of honor was dressed in cameo pink with white hat and shoes and carrying blue gifts were received. Following the reception, the happy couple left for N. Y., sailing from there on the S.S. George for Halifax for a brief honeymoon trip.—(Patriot please copy).

The Central Guardian

FAN BELTS to suit all makes of cars carried in stock. Mallet's Battery Service. L-8773-7-13-19-25.

THERE WILL BE a tuberculosis clinic at the town hall, Summerside, Tuesday, July 30, from 10 A. M. to 12 noon. L-8589-7-25-11.

CORNWALL CHARGE July 28th. Rev. C. N. Brown will preach at New Dominion at 11 A. M. Kingston at 3 P. M. Cornwall at 7.30. Rev. D. K. Ross, Minister. L-8585-7-25-11.

CORRECTION—An Orwell Correspondent states the election returns from that poll should read: MacDougall, 74; Jenkins, 88; MacKinnon, 74; Jones 56.

ROTARY ASSEMBLY at AMHERST—The Rotary Assembly of District 32, comprising the Maritime Provinces and Newfoundland, will meet on Friday and Saturday at Amherst, N.S. Mr. P. W. Turner, District Governor, will preside. The presidents and secretaries of the various clubs are the delegates. Mr. A. B. Fisher, president of the Charlottetown Rotary Club will attend. Major J. A. MacKenzie, the secretary, will be unable to be present due to pressure of business.

PROMINENT VISITORS—Among those who will visit Prince Edward Island in the near future are Rev. and Mrs. H. A. Berlis, of Toronto. Rev. Mr. Berlis is the minister of one of Toronto's large west-end congregations, Royce Avenue Presbyterian church. He is also well known in Ontario's educational circles. For the past three years he has been chairman of the Board of Governors for the Missionary and Deaconess Training Home of the Presbyterian church. Rev. and Mrs. Berlis will be accompanied on their trip by Master Douglas Berlis and Miss Smiley Crichton. While on the Island they will visit their son, Mr. Rudolph Berlis, who is student-in-charge at Brookfield.

WEDDING BELLS—A quiet wedding of interest to many friends of the bride and groom, in the western part of the Province and in Charlottetown and vicinity, took place at the home of Mrs. A. E. Wilkinson, 43 Upper Hillsboro St., Friday, July 19th at 4 o'clock, when her youngest daughter, Eva, was united in marriage to Mr. Hugh Stanley Hyde, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Hyde of Cornwall. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. S. Weir, B.A., of Vernon, who is a personal friend of the bride's mother, Mrs. Wilkinson. The wedding march was played by Miss Best. A solo, "O Perfect Love" was sung by Mrs. A. S. Weir. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful gifts from her large circle of friends. The wedding party, consisting of relatives and friends, gathered at the home of the bride, 43 Upper Hillsboro St., where a delicious wedding supper was served. The young couple are to reside at Cornwall, and have the best wishes of their friends for a happy and prosperous married life.

MACQUARRIE—MacDONALD NUPTIALS—A very pretty wedding took place at the bride's sister's on 105 Port St. Furhaven, Mass., at four o'clock, July 6th. The bride, Miss Florence C. MacQuarrie, a graduate of Falconwood Hospital, P.E.I., also of St. Luke's Hospital, New Bedford, was formerly from Riverdale, P.E.I., but nursing in New Bedford and vicinity for a number of years, was attended by her sister, Mrs. E. W. MacDougall. The bridegroom, Mr. Norman MacDonald of Nine Mile Creek, P.E.I., was attended by Mr. MacDougall. The double ring ceremony being used. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. A. MacClellan, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in New Bedford. The house was tastefully decorated with laurel and pink and blue flowers of various kinds. The bride's nieces Evelyn, Arlene, Betty and Natalie formed an aisle of ribbons. Miss Cora Westgate sang O Promise Me, accompanied by Mrs. E. W. MacDougall, who also played the wedding march. The bride's dress was of azure blue, with hat and shoes to match. She carried Lillies of the Valley. The matron of honor was dressed in cameo pink with white hat and shoes and carrying blue gifts were received. Following the reception, the happy couple left for N. Y., sailing from