The Croup.

It's a terrible thing, isn't it? Somehow, that awful cough, that hard struggle for air, can never be forgotten. Be a little forehanded and prevent it. Keep Vapo-Cresolene in the house, and when the children take cold let them breathe in the vapor during the evening. It goes right to the throat, just where the croup lies. All irritation subsides the cough quiets down and serious trouble is prevented. It never fails to cure whooping-cough. 64

Vapo-Cresolene is sold by druggists, or sent express prepaid on receipt of price. A Vapo-Cresolene outfit, including a bottle of Cresolene complete, $1.50. Send for free illustrated booklet. LEEMING, MILES CO., Ltd., Agents, 298 St James St., Montreal.

COST OF LIVING AT OTTAWA.

A writer in the Farmers' Sun, Toronto tells that there has been a vast amount of exaggeration and misstatement about the cost of living to members at Ottawa. He tells that to begin with, seventy-two members of the House of Commons last session registered at hotels where the price of regular board and lodging was from $30 per month upwards, and adds that "most of the hotels give special rates to members." One hundred and eleven members registered at private houses, that is either in rooms or as boarders. Rooms range from $5 to $20 per month according to locality and furnishing. Those living in rooms can obtain table board in the Parliament Building itself at $25 per month in the Commons and $28 in the Senate restaurants. In some cases two or three members form a private mess, provide their own meals and divide the cost. Board and rooms can be secured for $18.50 per month and upwards and even at the lowest price good comfortable feeding is given. "Thus it will be seen that many members live at about $100 per session of six months."

If members drink or gamble, as not a few do these vices may consume a good deal of money although the Sun writer, who professes to know, says the whiskey purchased by Members and Senators is but a small part of what they drink. While in many cases Members feel constrained to entertain parties coming up from their constituencies and invite them to take refreshments in their room in the House, in comparatively few cases does the cost come out of the Member's pocket. In many cases the liquor consumed in these rooms is contributed, and it is even said that if the brand of liquor does not suit the recipient, he does not hesitate to let the donor know it. Probably the lobbyists of some of the great corporations could throw a light on this matter, which must be becoming a very heavy tax upon them." This is not a pleasant picture by any means, but one who has lived at Ottawa and been a good deal about Parliament will necessarily have seen and heard much that goes to confirm the Sun correspondent's story.

There is another bubble in the way of defence for the indemnity graft that ought to be punctured. It is this, that under the new indemnity law Members are to have $15 a day deducted from their pay for each day's absence except when on leave. This is spoken of as a new and stringent provision. The fact is that all along the law has provided for a deduction of $8 per day for absence of Members from the Commons, but successive Governments have been lenient and it has not been collected. As the Toronto World states (its chief editor being a Member of Parliament) there is no reason to suppose that it will be collected in future. And the same journal states it as a well-known fact that "about half the members of Parliament are absent the greater part of the session." These facts and statements do not tend in any way to relieve the unfavorable impression which the indemnity grab has made upon the country.

THE MODE PARISIENNE.

For a separate wrap of dressy design this illustration will offer several hints and suggestions to the clever dressmaker. The coat itself is of original cut, the back laid in one piece to the waistline, and the fullness of the skirt deftly inserted beneath the strappings of lace that follow a bolero form all around the body of the coat. The fronts are one pieced likewise, the side lines of the figure cleverly indicated and the front fastening following the extreme straight line that fashion so strenuously insists upon in the later modes. The sleeve is very full at the top, supported with haircloth flounce tacked upon the lining, so that they stand out in a square rather than a drooping line from the shoulders. A pendant cuff of circular cut makes a finish at the wrist. Cravette strappings of the material are crossed upon the bust, the velvet ribbon frilled edge making for a dainty touch.

This is election day in the Third District of Queens. There are also elections for the House of Commons in Wentworth, North York and Antigonish today.

The telegraph wires give fearful tales of wrecks, casualties and perils upon the seas during this stormy season. The loss of life and property at sea has been truly alarming of late.

The fact that a number of men arrested for violation of the election law in the recent New York elections have absconded and forfeited their bail, gives rise to the impression that extensive organized frauds prevailed. There is every indication that these men were got out of the way by more important and influential persons than themselves, who feared the revelations that might be made at the trial. But the end is not yet.

The provincial election in Saskatchewan has been fixed for December 23rd, with nomination one week earlier. Twenty-five members are to be elected, the same number as in Alberta, and present indications are that there will be a large Liberal majority returned.

In Germany where the educational qualifications of the medical profession are high, complaint is made that the ranks are overcrowded. There are now in the Empire 29,200 physicians, or double the number of 30 years ago. It is estimated that to prepare a young man for the duties of a physician in Germany costs $6,000 and yet in Berlin 46 per cent of all the physicians have an income of less than $700. The legal profession is much more remunerative, 80 per cent of the lawyers averaging $2,000 in yearly income. Where preachers and doctors are poorly paid and lawyers thrive, the indications are that a large proportion of the people will pay more to gratify a contentious spirit than to save soul or body. And this sort of people are not confined to Germany.
