—SILVER WEDDING — A great putsch of friends and neighbors of Bert and Mrs. Kelly of Kensington took place on Thursday evening Nov. 22nd. They took Mr. and Mrs. Kelly entirely by surprise and presented them with a chest of silver plate and fine address, which was read in a most capable manner by Dr. W. P. McBride. Short addresses apropos of the occasion were given by Rev. R. F. Macdonald, Mrs. Jas. Pendergast, Mrs. N. J. McNeill, W. G. Simpson, George Cousins and James L. Saunders. James Pendergast was chairman for the occasion. Mrs. James Saunders superintended the festivities. An enjoyable feature of the entertainment was the singing in chorus of song hits of twenty five years ago—with fine harmony and cadence and the other qualifications required by a philharmonic assembly. A nourishing and delectable lunch being served, the remainder of the evening was taken up in dancing. Excellent solos were rendered by Mrs. Kenneth McLean and Mr. Russel MacKay, a character monologue was given by Mrs. Ray Sudbury which was a special feature. Mr. and Mrs. Kelly were rather overcome by the size of the gathering and the unexpectedness of it, but Mr. Kelly regained his composure sufficiently to reply to the address in a manner appropriate to the occasion.—K

—SEWING CIRCLE — A new sewing circle was formed by some members of St. Paul's parish for the winter months. They met for the first time on Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Rennie Gallant. At the conclusion of the evening Mrs. Gallant served refreshments assisted by Miss Inez Gallant. S.

—KITCHEN SHOWER—Mr. and Mrs. Al Gosgrove were surprised in their new home on Second Street on Thursday evening when their Summerside friends called to bid them welcome to the city. The ladies brought presents for a kitchen shower for the new home. After the good wishes and gifts were fittingly acknowledged the remainder of the evening was spent in music and singing. Dainty refreshments were served. S.

—GIVEN HOUSE WARMING—Mr. and Mrs. Erskine Haywood were given a surprise party on Thursday evening in their new home on Winter Street, when a number of their friends called to give them a hearty welcome. After the guests had assembled Mrs. Clifford Boundy was called upon and read an address of welcome to Mr. and Mrs. Haywood. Mrs. J. R. Hunter then presented Mrs. Haywood with a little gift. Mrs. Haywood replied very fittingly to the address. The tables were then arranged for cards at the conclusion of which a dainty lunch was served. S.

—ISLAND TOURISTS ABROAD —Mr. S. W. Webster and son, George, of Kensington, returned some time ago from an extensive automobile trip to the western states, principally Colorado and Wyoming, through New York State, calling at Buffalo and Niagara Falls, Detroit, Chicago and all large cities enroute, visiting the famous Chicago World's Fair on return trip. Mr. Webster who had previously spent thirty-three years in Cripple Creek, Col., renewed many old time friendships. They had the pleasure of seeing a rodeo in the romantic old city of Cheyenne, Wy., theirs being the only P. E. I. car at the show. The number of cars from different states and countries were announced by the management. They were held up many time by Islanders living abroad who cried out hungrily for conversation and news from home. They all appeared happy and prosperous and held responsible positions in the scheme of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness in the great Republic. Mr. Webster had so many requests to give the location of P. E. Island (from people who never heard of it), that he became irritable and sarcastic —he told one man who asked "What State is that in?" That it was in the State of Utah, and another that it was the capital of the world. Mr. Webster never was much obsessed with an inferiority complex, either at home or abroad but evidently those Westerners must have looked like children to him.—K

CHRIST CHURCH

this ancient, high and important office.

A prayer and a hymn by the Cathedral choir followed, after which Ven. A. F. Bate, Archdeacon of Fredericton, read a certificate of the election of Archbishop Richardson as present of the house of bishops and metropolitan bishop of the ecclesiastical province of Canada, as given by J. J. F. Winslow, K. C., Fredericton Chancellor of the Diocese of Fredericton and secretary pro tem of the house of the House of Bishops.

Very Rev. J. H. A. Holmes, dean of Fredericton, then addressed the congregation as follows:

"By the canons of the ancient church and of this ecclesiastical province it appertaineth to the office of metropolitan in the church of God to have the care of the whole province over which he had been elected metropolitan; to summon together the bishops of the province as need shall arise and to preside over them; to summon together and preside over the provincial synod; to safeguard for the episcopate the selection of worthy men and to consecrate them to the Bishops when assured of their fitness; to maintain the order and discipline of the church by presiding over the metropolitan court of appeal and by the exercise of such visitatorial powers as he may be called upon to exercise by duly constituted diocesan authorities; and to take such part in directing the activities of the church and promoting true religion in the province as is set forth in the constitution and canons, or determined from time to time by the action of the provincial synod, or as in inherent in the office of metropolitan.

"To this office the Righ Reverend John Andrew Richardson, D. D., has been elected by the House of Bishops of this ecclesiastical province in full assurance that he will be supported in his high office by the prayers and co-operation of the clergy and people."

Ven. H. A. Cody, Archdeacon of Saint John, then gave to His Grace the crozier or metropolitan cross, saying: "Reverend Father in God on behalf of the church in this province, I now give you this crozier, at once the emblem of our faith, and the symbol of your office as metropolitan."

His Grace replied: "I receive this symbol of office, and emblem of our faith in humble trust that, supported by the help of God's Holy Spirit, and the prayers of the church, I may be enabled to fulfill the duties of the office to the glory of God, and the edification of his people."

The Archbishop then, preceded by his chaplains, Rev. Canon C. M Hatheway, Fredericton, bearing the crozier, and Rev. Canon J. V Young, Saint John, bearing the pastoral cross, was conducted to his throne by the dean, who turning to the people, said:

"I now declare the most Reverend John Andrew Richardson, D D., Archbishop of Fredericton, to be duly installed as metropolitan of the ecclesistical province of Canada, and the see of Fredericton to be the metropolitan see of the said Province."

His Grace then ascended the pulpit and made a few remarks, the ceremony had a significance necessarily personal to him, he said God will was expressed by the service, and there were present representatives of many classes of belief other than those of his own community. He thanked those for their friendship, their confidence in him and their presence in the Cathedral.

During his 35 years of residence in New Brunswick, including his 28 years as Bishop, he had never felt the tide of friendship flow with so full a current as in the last two weeks, he continued. From all parts of the Province and Canada had come messages of congratulation and good wishes but no part had been more conspicious than the City of Fredericton."

It all encouraged him to a stronger faith, the Archbishop declared, adding that the stately ritual of the service had a significance much more than local or diocesan. It was an emphatic reminder that the faith and order of the Church of England were fundamentally and definitely Catholic, he said. This position could not be compromised without disloyalty to its principles and disloyalty to its post.

He continued that those of the Church believed that Christ established a divine society sent out to redeem with the effective aid of two great sacraments—the first by which men are admitted, and the second by which they are kept in the socity and strengthened.

The church assumed a certain shape and was subjected to a certain order not later than the middle of the second century. It was a three-fold order, with bishops, priests and deacons. The church could look back to one unbroken ministry since Jesus sent forth his twelve.

His Grace's remarks were followed by an offertory anthem by the choir, after which a special collect was read by the dean and the benediction was pronounced by the metropolitan. The recessional hymn with the Archbishop walking through the procession of clergy and choir members, concluded the impressive ceremony.

BUCHANAN — MACKAY WEDDING—A very pretty wedding took place on November 21st, at the residence of Rev. Ewen MacDougall, Charlottetown, when Miss Beatrice Maud MacKay of DeSable was united in marriage to Mr. Alfred Roland Buchanan of Churchill. The bride looked very charming in a dress of blue satin trimmed with sequins and grey satin, and wore hat and accessories to correspond. Miss Katie MacKay, sister of the bride, dressed in blue crepe trimmed with taffeta acted as briesmaid, while Mr. Guy MacLeod ably supported the groom. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the bride's home, where about fifty guests—the immediate relatives of the bride and groom greeted the bridal party on their arrival. An elaborate supper was then served in the dining room which was very prettily decorated for the occasion in pink and white with a large wedding bell suspended from the ceiling. Outside waited a jolly number of serenaders, who, upon entering the house were generously treated and before leaving they bounced the groom. The wedding guests then sang, For they are Jolly Good Fellows. The remainder of the evening was very pleasantly spent in friendly conversation, music and singing. Worthy of especial mention were Mrs. Holton MacLure, Mr. Davis Ward and Mr. Clayton Morrison who entertained the guests with their lively music and comical songs. An object of much comment was a large table heaped with shower and wedding presents, including silver, china, linen, pyrex, glassware, etc., also cheques and money. Before leaving all joined in singing Auld Lang Syne and God Save the King and departed wishing Mr. and Mrs. Buchanan a long and prosperous wedded life.

MCGOUGH — MURPHY NUPTIALS—Souris church was the scene of a very picturesque wedding on Wednesday morning, Nov. 14, 1934, when Miss Marquerite McGaugh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip McGough of Souris was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Percy Murphy, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Murphy of Kinkora. The bride entered the church on the arm of her father to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March, beautifully rendered by Mrs. Wm. Paquet. The nuptial ceremony was preformed by Fr. Ignatius MacDonald. The bride looked charming in a blue chiffon velvet dress with rhinestone trimmings, and hat and accessories to match. She also wore a beautiful fur coat—the gift of the groom. She was attended by the groom's sister Miss Mary Murphy, who was becomingly gowned in a rust colored crepe dress with accessories to match. The groom was ably attended by the bride's brother, Mr. Harold McGough. After the ceremony the bridal party and the immediate friends of the contracting parties assembled at the home of the bride, where a delicious wedding breakfast was served in a most gracious manner by Mrs. McGough. The dining room was artistically decorated with pink and white streamers caught in the center of the ceiling by a superb wedding bell. In the afternoon the bridal party motored to the home of the groom where a reception was given in their honour when about seventy invited couples were served a most suptuous repast by Mrs. Murphy, who is so noted for her culinary art. During the supper, speeches were given by Mr. James McCardle and Mr. James Saunders, which were fittingly responded to by the groom. The happy couple were the recipients of a large number of expensive and useful gifts which testifies to the high esteem in which they are held in the community. The Guardian joins, with a host of friends in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Murphy a long and happy wedded life.

ROSE VALLEY WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The November meeting was held at the home of Flora MacDonald on Wednesday evening Nov. 14th. There were five members and seven visitors present. Meeting opened by singing "O Canada" followed by repeating Creed, reading of minutes, and roll call. The president gave a splendid address, a complete summing up of the year's work. The committees reports were received. A bean supper had been held since last meeting, at which a lucky door ticket was given, the prize—a hooked rug—was won by Annie Newsome. The election of officers was postponed until the December meeting, which will be held on Friday evening, Dec. 7th at the home of the president, Mrs. J. W. MacKenzie. The roll call is to be a Christmas present, not to exceed fifteen cents, to be exchanged among the members, whose names are to be drawn for. The Questionnaires were presented and Mrs. J. W. MacKenzie was appointed convener for League of Nations for next meeting. Closed by singing God Save the King.
