Turns Back On Cities

(By Central Press Canadian) VANCOUVER, May 6—"Those of us who live in the hills wouldn't come back to the city for any consideration," declared a bronzed, little man wearing a picturesque buckskin suit with fur collar. The speaker was Harry Hooper, known as Vancouver's "Barney Oldfield" in the early days of automobile racing. He is now a placer miner operating in the Williams Lake district and he has found that life in the open air is much preferable to that in town. When he is not working with his small hydraulic outfit, Hooper cultivates several acres of ground at his diggings in the Cariboo. As a result he raises all the cantaloupes, melons, potatoes, cabbage and other kitchen vegetables he needs. "We're nearly independent of the city now," he says with pride.

No Fear of Depression Although placer miners are not making fortunes, the depression holds no fears for them, Hooper declares. He has been working his present leases for four years. Placer miners have one serious complaint to make, however. The regulation which prevents the mint receiving less than two ounces of gold, works a distinct hardship on the small miner. Hooper registered a vigorous complaint about this to Mr. Frank E. Woodside, manager of the B. C. Chamber of Mines, and that institution will probably take action on the subject again.

The miner with less than two ounces of gold in his poke finds it necessary at times to sell some of his precious metal for what he can get. The miners advocate regulations which will require banks in mining areas to accept any quantity of gold, making an advance payment on the ultimate price which the mint will pay for it.

For instance, on two ounces the bank will pay at present $50, and the balance when the mint has made its return on the fluctuating price which is around $35 an ounce. The general run of gold found in the Cariboo is approximately 750 fine as compared with the pure metal which is 1,000 fine. Were miners able to sell their gold in this way, and not be put to the necessity of trading small amounts for what they can get when the weight is less than two ounces, Hooper asserts the miner's lot would be much happier.

was stressed by the British government leader and his colleagues. Sir John, who did most of the talking, impressed upon the visiting statesmen the fact that the European peace system had deteriorated sharply as a result of German land, air and sea force expansion in defiance of the treaty of Versailles.

Air Pact, Hope It was understood the Foreign Secretary pointed out that British hopes now centre on a Western air pact, which only proposal emerged from the Franco-British talks of Feb. 6 which Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler approved.

The ministers were told that the "air Locarno," in which Germany and Belgium would be asked to join Italy, France and Britain, now is under consideration in London, Paris and Rome. This agreement would not obligate the Dominions in any way. (They are not signatories of the original Locarno pact.)

Naval Treaty Discussed LONDON, May 7—(C. P. Havas)—Great Britain will not make any new naval treaty with Japan without United States participation, cabinet ministers today assured Premier R. B. Bennett of Canada, authoritative circles said. There is no danger that Japan, which last December denounced the Washington naval limitation treaty fixing British United States and Japanese navy ratios at 5-5-3, will be able to drive any wedge between London and Washington, it was emphasized. This affirmation of attitude was regarded as an admission by Premier Bennett that Canadian defence problems are bound up with those of the United States, as well as those of Great Britain.

After these statements, Sir John Simon re-affirmed before the House of Commons that Great Britain, standing by her obligations under the Locarno treaty, would come to France's aid should Germany violate the Rhineland demilitarized zone.

Complete unity of views among the Dominions and Great Britain on British foreign policy was revealed by the meeting, informed quarters said. Today's discussions centred chiefly on British continental and Far Eastern policies, and on both aspects the premiers bombarded Sir John with queries.

Immediately the submarine plunged below and prepared the torpedoes tubes. Screen Stars Adopt Child

(A.P. By Guardian's Special Wire) CHICAGO, May 7—The Al Jolson, of Hollywood and Broadway, became the adopted parents today of a seven-week-old boy and Mrs. Jolson—Ruby Keeler of the dancing world—set out proudly to take the baby back to California.

"He's dark, like Al," said Ruby as a nurse carried the baby aboard the Santa Fe "Chief" for Los Angeles. She added earnestly, "he's got an awful lot of personality, for a baby only seven weeks old. And can he cry!"

"The boy, adopted from 'The Cradle,' Evanston, Ill., home for foundlings, will be named 'Albert Jr.," said Mrs. Jolson, who was born and brought up at Halifax, N. S. Albert Jr. is an only child, although his adopted father used to get his audience a few years back by inviting "Sonny Boy" to climb up on his knee.

Besides the nurse, Ruby's sister Helen was along as was Anna five, the daughter of a cousin. Until the Jolson's new home is finished at En Cima, California, Albert Jr. and Ruby will stay with Ruby's mother in Los Angeles.

"Have you ever had any practice raising children?" some one asked Ruby.

"No, except for taking care of children for my relatives," said the dancer, "but I'll pick it up."

PERMANENT CANCER FUND Is Suggested

OTTAWA, May 7—Establishment of a permanent cancer fund in Canada was suggested by King George in a cablegram sent to the Governor-General, expressing the King's thanks for donations to the Jubilee Cancer Fund.

The King's message read: "I have received with much pleasure your telegram informing me that my people in Canada are contributing so generously towards the King George V Silver Jubilee Cancer Fund for Canada."

I warmly thank all those who have joined in helping this most noble and humanitarian cause, and I fervently trust that a permanent fund may be established and thus further the relief of much suffering and distress.

The Governor-General earlier had sent the following cable: "Your Majesty's loyal subjects in Canada have by their contribution joined in establishing today the King George Fifth Silver Jubilee Cancer Fund for Canada. $375,000 have already been received and contributions are continuing to come in. I have utmost confidence that before the end of this jubilee season a permanent fund will be in operation which will not only fully reflect the loyal devotion of the peoples of Canada on the 25th anniversary of Your Majesty's accession but will finance a great humanitarian campaign for the welfare of the Canadian people."
