IN MEMORIAM

MR. NEIL PETER McMILLAN
At the Prince Edward Island Hospital, Charlottetown, on Tuesday, the fourteenth day of May there passed away at the age of 58 years one of nature's gentlemen in the person of Mr. Neil Peter McMillan, Wood Islands.

The deceased had been in a somewhat poor condition of health for a number of years, but not even his most intimate friends had thought that the end was so near at hand. While it was probable that his health would never be fully regained yet it was felt that a number of years were still in store for him. About seven years ago, finding that his health was breaking Mr. McMillan entered the Provincial Sanitarium at Kentville, N.S., for a rest. He had not been there many months before he was able to do light work and for upwards of two years he served there as an orderly. He was returned to his native province and secured a position on the Government cutter "Bayfield", but in about two years' time he was again obliged to rest.

At this time, which was about four years ago, he entered the Provincial Sanitarium at Charlottetown for this purpose. It was not very long until his health was again quite well restored and he again took up work there as an orderly. He continued at this post until about ten months ago, when it became necessary for him to take further rest.

From this time on until the coming of the end, while not doing any really active work he still continued to move about and take an interest in the affairs of the Sanitarium. A few days before his passing away he became quite suddenly ill and was at once taken to the Prince Edward Island Hospital for treatment. It was soon evident that his chances for further recovery were all gone. He grew gradually weaker until on the above mentioned date his gentle spirit winged its heavenward flight.

Mrs. Neil Peter McMillan predeceased her husband by seven years. Angus R. MacLeod, wife's son, mourns the loss of a kind and loving father, a young family of two sons and two daughters ranging in years from seventeen to ten. The sons are Frank and Daniel and the daughters are Mary and Sarah. Mr. MacLeod is living with relatives in Wood Islands. They are feeling their father's loss very keenly.

The deceased was one of a family of three brothers and four sisters. The brothers besides Mr. McMillan, now deceased, are James D. McMillan, Boston, Mass., and Wm. L. McMillan on the S. S. Aranmore, and the sisters are Mrs. Wm. Martin, Arlington, Mass.; Mrs. Wm. Brown, Roderick McKay and Mrs. Roderick McMillan, all of Wood Islands. As the deceased was a brother who was much beloved by the other members of the family, he is being deeply mourned.

Mr. McMillan was a man who was quite widely and favorably known. When he was quite a young man he spent a number of years in Boston, where he made many friends. Following this for about twelve years he operated the Wood Islands Flour Mills, where because of his very genial manner he was very popular with the general public. Then for the past number of years when serving as orderly in the Sanitarium at Kentville and also in the one in Charlotte, he became a general favorite with all of his patients. It was ever his great delight at all times to bring all possible comfort to all suffering ones.

Henceforth many will miss his tender care and his never failing kindness, but not only will he be much missed by the many suffering ones and also by all of his relatives and friends, but his loss will be most keenly felt by the four members of his young family. Bereft of a loving mother seven years ago these four young people are now called upon to part with the tender care and the wise counsel of an ever devoted father. In their hours of loneliness they will "Sign for the touch of a vanished hand And long for the sound of a voice that is stilled"—but all in vain.

The touch of that hand can never be felt again upon the earth and the sound of that voice can never more be heard here below. When the end came Mr. McMillan remained calm and unmoved. "He knew in whom he had believed and he was persuaded that He was able to keep what he had entrusted to His care against that day." And he really so but about four years ago when quite ill he had promised God that, if at that time, he would spare him until his children were quite grown up and were able to take care of themselves that he would then be content to be called away. He felt that God had granted his request and now assured of His continued goodness to him, in humble resignation he passed away in the spirit of calm and of deep peace.

The funeral was a very large one and was held at the home of his sister Mrs. Roderick McKay on Wednesday, May 15th. The service was conducted by Rev. R. Hensley Skavert and was a very impressive one throughout. The pall-bearers were Messrs. Dougald Stewart Lachlan McMillan, Alex. S. McMillan, Wm. J. Young, James Emery and David Parsling. Interment was in the Wood Islands cemetery.

Novelist Celebrates Catches Rainbow Trout

JASPER PARK LODGE, Alta., July 30—Ray Beach, one of the best known novelists and writers of the day, celebrated his arrival in this district by catching the limit of rainbow and Kamloops trout in the new fishing grounds in the Tonquin Valley. A few years ago the waters in the Tonquin Valley and also the second fish culture experiment that has turned out successfully in this area, as Medicine, Beaver and Maligne Lakes were open to the public two years ago for speckled trout. Mr. Beach was delighted with his visit into the new trout fishing territory, reached from the Edwards Island through a tunnel three miles long and he got them all with a dry fly. "This is what I call real fishing," declared the noted author, on his return to the Lodge after a visit to the Tonquin Valley. "They go for a fly and give you a real battle, yes, real fishing."

European Countries and Wheat Situation

What has happened to the wheat market is shown in the case of Italy, Spain and Portugal. Italy's annual consumption is in the vicinity of 308,000,000 bushels while national production rose from the pre-war figure of 215,000,000 bushels to 296,000,000 in 1933; in this year the yield was 22 bushels to the acre as against 16 for Canada according to the Agricultural Department of the Canadian National Railways. Spain has an annual consumption of 417,000,000 metric tons; about 5.6 bushels per capita as compared with Canada's 10.1. There is a surplus of domestic grown wheat in Spain and prospects of an excellent crop this year. Portugal's consumption of wheat is approximately 417,000 tons per annum. There was a surplus of home-grown wheat at the end of

IN MEMORIAM

ANGUS R. MacLEOD

There passed away at North Milton on June 13th, 1935, at the home of his niece Mrs. Amos Rodd, Angus R. MacLeod aged eighty-three years, who was highly respected by a large circle of friends.

He was born at Darlington, where he lived most of his life, but the last few years he made his home with his niece Mrs. Amos Rodd, who faithfully and tenderly cared for him during an illness of about two years. He was a man of sincere piety, of true devotion to his Master and loyalty to the Christian Church. His parents, Roderick McLeod and Catherine McLeod, were natives of the Isle of Skye, Scotland, who brought up their family in the fear of God and in the atmosphere of Christian charity.

Angus R. was the last surviving member of a family of seven, four brothers and three sisters. He and his brother John R., and his sister, Mrs. Donald L. McLeod lived together for many years and were faithful church-goers and generous supporters of the church.

A few years ago, they gave a generous donation of hundreds of dollars to the Bible Society, and forwarded a liberal sum of money to the Scotch miners who were in need.

In that home, family worship was regularly conducted, and whatever else had to be done, this duty was never neglected. It would be a good thing for our country if more homes would follow this example. The funeral service was conducted in Mr. Amos Rodd's house by Rev. E. O. Lancaster, Rector of the Anglican Church, Milton, assisted by Rev. J. M. McLeod, Charlottetown, and Rev. Hugh Miller, of Trinity Church, Charlottetown, who gave a comforting and impressive address. Interment was in the family plot in the Hartsville cemetery and the service at the grave was conducted by Rev. J. M. McLeod, an intimate friend of the family.

The funeral director was Mr. N. D. MacLean of Charlottetown. The pall-bearers were his three nephews, Walter McLeod, Joseph McLeod, Gordon McLeod, and Philip Chandler, Ira Rodd and Robert Hooper.

Of Angus R. McLeod it could be truly said, as it was said of Hannah: "He was a faithful man and feared God above many."

SULLIVAN-McGUIRK
A pretty wedding was solemnized in St. James Church, Summerfield, on Wednesday, July 17th, when Miss Minnie Mae Sullivan became the wife of Harlan J. McGuirk, Clinton. Rev. Francis McDonald, P.P., performed the ceremony and was the celebrant at the nuptial mass. The wedding march was beautifully played by Mrs. James Croken, the choir singing appropriate hymns for the occasion. The bride wore a royal blue silk crepe dress with lace trimmings and carried a bouquet of lilies and walden hair fern. Miss Jennie Tranter, R.N., cousin of the bride, acted as bridesmaid and wore a navy blue silk georgette. The groom was attended by his brother George McGuirk. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. McGuirk left on a motor trip, visiting the beauty spots of the Island. They will reside in their new home in Clinton, where a host of friends join in wishing them a happy married life. Previous to her marriage Miss Sullivan was tendered a miscellaneous shower at the home of Miss Mamie McGuirk at which she received many beautiful gifts.

Attempt to Bankrupt Service Stations Charged

(Canadian Press)
MONTREAL, July 31—A charge that a "gasoline trust" which included all the major companies was attempting to eliminate competition through forcing St. Lawrence Service Stations, Limited, into bankruptcy was made by St. Lawrence in bankruptcy court here today.

The company claimed the trust's profits had been reduced by $600,000 per month since the beginning of the present gasoline price war in Montreal. Mr. Justice A. Chase Carrière received the bankruptcy petition and St. Lawrence reply, deferring argument until Aug. 6. The bankruptcy action was taken by Reinforced Concrete Builders' Limited. St. Lawrence in its reply described the action as "ridiculous and frivolous." In reality, it claimed, it had no debts which it could not pay and it had several million dollars credit which could be called upon if necessary. The concrete company filed action on the claim it had not been paid for the cost of plans, materials and construction work on a number of gasoline stations erected for the gasoline company. Repeating St. Lawrence suggested proceedings should be dismissed because they were the result of an illegal agreement between the petitioner company and the "gasoline trust."

FORT ACTIVITY SHOWS INCREASE

(Canadian Press)
FORT WILLIAM, July 31—Early prospects for a better crop in Western Canada has stimulated shipment of farm machinery and up to the present shipment of this freight is far in excess of the last few years. As yet, reports of rust which tend to darken the crop pictures have not made themselves felt in shipping circles. Ploughs, cultivators, harrows, ploughs and all sorts of farm implements are being hoisted out of freighters and sent rolling westward to meet harvest requirements. Shipments so far have been the best since 1930, Samuel

Harvesting Swede Seed

(Experimental Farms Note)

Swede seed has been grown at the Dominion Experimental Farm, Nappan, Nova Scotia, for a great many years and several methods of harvesting it have been used. The seed shatters easily and must be handled very carefully if undue loss is to be avoided. If at all possible, it should be cut when dew is on the plants, or after a light shower. The use of large canvas or cotton sheets at harvest time is recommended and the saving of seed will more than pay for their cost. The crop can be most easily harvested by cutting the tops of the roots with a spade and throwing the seed stalks on a sheet. Tie the stalks up in loose sheaves and then cut off the part of the root that was left. In this way very little seed will be lost by shattering, as in cutting the whole plant by slicing off the top of the root, very little shaking takes place.

The sheaves should be put up in loose stocks and left to dry. The length of time required for this process will depend on the weather. When ready for threshing, the sheaves should be placed on sheets when hauling to the barn, or else further loss of seed will occur. An ordinary thresher may be used, provided the concaves are not set too close, and it is advisable to remove every other row of teeth on the cylinder. Small lots may be threshed out by hand on sheets, or on a tight floor. Care should be taken not to strike too hard, as the seed will fly very readily. The seed should be turned over occasionally, until dry, to prevent heating and injury in germination, and then stored in a dry place, preferably in bags.

In good weather, instead of tying and stooking the small bundles may be left lying on the ground, as they are so open they dry out and ripen up very readily and satisfactorily, thereby saving some expense and labour. Kenneth Cox, Dominion Experimental Farm, Nappan, N.S., chinery distributing warehouse here stated. Since last October, 70 vessels have landed cargoes of farm machinery and binder twine at lakhead docks.
