Dorothy Dix Says—

Nagging Mothers

No Antidote Yet Discovered To Cure Naggers

DEAR MISS DIX: We are four sisters who are very miserable because our mother does nothing but nag us from morning until night. She is absolutely ruining our lives. We want to do our duty by her, but we do not want our happiness needlessly sacrificed.

ANSWER: I fear that your mother's case is hopeless. Science has discovered toxins that will counteract snake bites and rabies, but nothing is an antidote for the venom of the human tongue.

OF MEDIOCRE INTELLECT. You will find that the nagger is almost invariably a person of mediocre intellect and with few interests in life.

DEAR MISS DIX: When I was 17 I became engaged to a man many years my senior. Now I find that I look with horror upon the idea of marrying him.

ANSWER: Don't let him bluff you into marrying him. No trouble that he could make for you would be as great as the trouble you would bring on yourself if you married him.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a young girl and go out with quite a few boys, but I can never think of a thing to say to them. Will you please tell me how to be an interesting conversationalist?

ANSWER: Nobody can tell you that. Cecil. The gift of gab is a bonus direct from nature and not an art that you can acquire.
