Rigid Copyright Laws Apply To Radio Programs

LONDON, Oct. 4.—(C. P. Cable)—Decision of the Court of Appeals today that restaurants and similar places using radio sets for entertainment, are liable to pay copyright fees for tuning-in on copyright music, will affect thousands of places in England. The Court holds that such tuning-in, in such gathering places, constitutes a "separate performance" of the music, rejecting defendants' plea the copyright owners were entitled only to the original fee paid by the broadcasters.

The decision was given in a test case in which a brewery company operating a chain of refreshment places appealed against a recent decision of Mr. Justice Maughan, who found that reproductions of wireless programmes by means of receiving sets and loud-speakers in hotels and public-houses, for entertainment of customers or guests, were public performances.

In dismissing the appeal the Master of the Rolls said it raised an important point which had been fully and adequately dealt with by the trial judge. The action of the management concerned in enabling guests to hear representations of works which were being broadcast from a moving-picture theatre appeared to him to constitute a performance.

The case will probably be taken to the House of Lords if the Brewers' Society decides to support a further appeal. According to the Society about half of the 95,000 licensed public-houses in England and Scotland have wireless and unless the decision is reversed they will be unable to use the sets without a license from the performing right society, and even then they may not be protected if the copyright concerned is not held by a member of the society.

OTTAWA, Oct. 4.—(C.P.)—Every Canadian restaurant owner who tunes in his radio while copyrighted music is being played, leaves himself open to payment of copyright fees, it was stated here today by Thomas L. Richard, Commissioner of Patents.

"Yes, we have the same law in Canada," he said, commenting on the judgment of an English Court which ruled that hotels, restaurants and other public places must pay copyright fees if copyrighted music came over the air.

And the Canadian Copyright Law have some other features, not generally known. If a restaurant owner has a gramophone and plays copyrighted records for the entertainment of his guests, he could be sued for fees by the man who held the rights. If copyrighted sheet music is played in a home to a group of guests, it's all right with the law, but if the window is opened and a group of people gathers on the sidewalk, that turns the private concert into a public recital and the pianist could be made to pay copyright fees.

Film Star Sued For $100,000 Damage

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 4.—A $100,000 damage action was filed today against Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., film actor, by Lucy Doraine, young Hungarian actress who charged he caused her to be arrested falsely and imprisoned. The suit was an aftermath of a heart balm suit filed against Fairbanks in December, 1932.

Former actions against the film player revealed Miss Doraine's husband, Jorgen Dietz, a chemist, demanded $50,000 bail from Fairbanks. He charged Fairbanks stole the love of Dietz' former wife, Mrs. Solveig Dietz.

The chemist also asked an additional $20,000 from Fairbanks, charging false arrest and imprisonment.

Shortly after Dietz filed these suits a statement was issued from the District Attorney's office saying Dietz attempted to obtain $5,000 from young Fairbanks for a necklace which the statement said was worth only $300. This necklace, the statement said, belonged to Miss Doraine. It was in connection with the necklace that Miss Doraine was retained by the District Attorney for questioning.

Marlene Has Never Heard of Mae West

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Like a mannikin from the Rue de la Paix, a Hollywood celebrity posed against the sundeck railing of the liner Paris today.

In the background were the docks of Hoboken. The clicks of cameras were punctuated by the blasts of ferrymen's whistles. Marlene Dietrich was back in America, minus the trousers that aroused Paris gendarmes.

Instead: a swishy skirt, two silver fox furs slung from broad shoulders, a jacket drawn tightly about narrow hips—hiding a blouse of Chinese red, which peaked through in spots.

"Oh, Miss Dietrich..." one of the crowd said. "You know, the Americans are going back to the old styles. . . A lot of curves and so on. . ."

The sun swept from behind a cloud. The film star blinked dark eye-lashes—long and artificial on top, natural below. She crossed her slim legs, toiled with long, red-enameled finger nails. Her red lips parted in a wide smile.

"A lot of curves, you say. . ."

"Yes," the questioner continued, "like Mae West."

"May West, let me think. . . I never heard of her."

Einstein's Plea For Individual Liberty

LONDON, Oct. 4.—(A.P.)—The necessity of preserving the liberty of the individual if a life worth living is to be maintained was strongly urged tonight by Professor Albert Einstein in an address at Albert Hall, which was closely guarded by police as the result of rumors of likely trouble.

The hall was packed to its capacity for the noted physicist's address. There were a large number of Jews in the audience, including Lord Reading, while 2,000 students acted as stewards inside and out.

(Einstein came to England recently from Belgium after a Nazi organization was alleged to have put a price upon his head.)

"It is in times of economic distress such as we experience everywhere today," said Einstein, "that one sees very clearly the strength of the moral forces that live in a people.

"Let us hope that the historian, delivering judgment in some future period when Europe is politically and economically united, will be able to say that in our days the liberty and honor of this continent were saved by its western nations, which stood fast in the hard times against the temptations of hatred and oppression, and that western Europe defended successfully the liberty of the individual which has brought us every advance of knowledge and invention—the liberty without which life is the self-respecting man is not worth living."

Einstein made no direct reference to the Jews or the Nazis, but other speakers dwelt on the Jewish question.

Lord Rutherford, formerly of McGill University, Montreal, explained the object of the meeting was an appeal on the behalf of the refugee academic and professional workers.

Commander Oliver Locker-Lampson, Einstein's host, declared Jews had contributed the most to Germany's position and Germany had expelled her most civilized citizens.

Written Papers Good 200 Years

(Canadian Press)

MONTREAL, Oct. 4.—The cornerstone of the Neurological Institute of McGill University, to be laid here shortly, will contain specially written documents in India ink on "permanent" paper guaranteed to last 200 years it has been announced by McGill University.

The cornerstone, to be laid by His Excellency the Earl of Bessborough, governor-general of Canada, will contain the charters of the Royal Institute for the Advancement of Learning (McGill University) and of the Royal Victoria Hospital, which have been neatly copied on this high-grade paper, especially obtained for the purpose. In addition to these documents, inclosed in the cornerstone will be the announcement of the faculty of medicine for the year 1933-34; the McGill University calendar for 1933-34; the annual report of the Royal Victoria Hospital for 1933; copies of the correspondence between McGill University and the Rockefeller Foundation in regard to the Neurological Institute and numerous other important documents.

A grant of $1,230,000 was made to the University by the Rockefeller Foundation for the new institute which, it is expected, will be entirely finished by February. It will be well-equipped with the laboratories, operating rooms, libraries and a museum. It will have room for 50 patients and will be the outstanding institute on the continent, ranking as one of the finest in the world.

C.W.L. MEMBERS ADDRESSED—Mrs. W. J. MacIntyre, Past President of the Catholic Women's League of Canada, paid a visit to Kelly's Cross on Sunday evening, October 1, and delivered a very eloquent and inspiring address on the work and aims of the Catholic Women's League, to the people of that place. The address was preceded by a short program to songs and hymns by the school children, after which the speaker was introduced by the Chairman, Mrs. MacIntyre spoke for more than an hour, and held the rapt attention of her audience, while describing the aims of the Catholic Women's League, with regard to the help it tries to give to the Diocesan Institutions in its own province, and the different forms of assistance it gives the Church in the other provinces, particularly in the West. The support given the Sisters of Service in their missionary work, and the zeal and ambition displayed by the women in some of the centres in Western Canada was cleverly outlined by the speaker. The scholarship of $2,000 a year given to the sister, daughter or ward of a member of the C.W.L. was clearly explained. Mrs. MacIntyre concluded by making an earnest appeal for the moral support of every woman in the Parish. The Diocesan President, Mrs. Katherine Creamer, spoke of the high honour recently bestowed upon Mrs. MacIntyre by the Holy Father, the commendation and hearty approval of the Catholic Women's League by the Hierarchy of Canada; the affiliation of societies of Catholic women, and other matters dealt with at the Convention at Quebec, and closed her remarks by moving a hearty vote of thanks to Mrs. MacIntyre. This was seconded by Mrs. Jas. Flood and tendered the speaker by the Chairman, Mrs. MacIntyre modestly responded, after which God Save the King was sung.

LABOR PARTY FAVORS TOTAL DISARMAMENT

HASTINGS, England, Oct. 4.—(A.P.)—The Labor party today pledged its strong resistance to any war, passed a resolution favoring the total disarmament of all nations and heard Arthur Henderson declare the participation of the United States and Russia is necessary in peace conversations sponsored by the League of Nations.

"The road to Washington and Moscow lays through Geneva," said Mr. Henderson, chairman of the World Disarmament Conference, in explaining that the League is the only instrument for peace organization. He won cheers when he said, "we must abolish the national equipment and institutions that made war possible and the private interests that lived by war."

The party's attitude toward war was supplemented by the equally strong views in the disarmament resolution. This motion favored not only total disarmament of all nations but also the creation of an international police force.

It called upon the British Government at the forthcoming Disarmament Conference "to abandon its retrograde attitude on the question of air bombing" and to submit proposals for the large and immediate reduction by all nations of their armed forces.

The resolution furthermore called for the suppression of all private manufacture and trade in arms and for the strict international inspection and control of the execution of any disarmament treaty.

"The resolution opposing war was unanimously adopted and set out the party stand as offering resistance even though at the promotion of international general strikes.

Eulogy of Elgar King's Musician

HEREFORD, England, Oct. 4.—(O.P.)—In connection with the annual Festival of the Three Choirs of the West Country in the Cathedral here a correspondent writes of the rehearsal just prior to the festival and pays high tribute to Sir Edward Elgar, the festival being largely an Elgar festival this year as in many years past.

The first festival of the Three Choirs was in 1715, and during all the revolutionary changes which have taken place since that year the aims of the festival have been pursued—presenting the supreme in music in a splendid architectural setting, the Cathedral of Hereford, without a break except during the Great War.

"Years hence," says the correspondent in his eulogy of Elgar, Master of the King's Music, "many of us will recall this day for the sake of its memory of Sir Edward Elgar in a perfect setting. Never to have heard Elgar's music in one of these Cathedrals is never to have heard it at all. Best of all is to hear it here in rehearsal."

"Here, with the singers of his own country rising in tiers before him, and with the sunshine pouring through stained glass, sits the doyen of our composers. At 76 he still reads his scores without spectacles, and he rehearses with the businesslike expedition of a man of half his years, wasting not a moment. Such is Edward Elgar in his musical home."

British War Debt Negotiations

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—(A.P.)—Bearing what American officials confidently expect to be a lump sum offer for settlement of the war debt, representatives of the British Government arrived tonight to seek a reduction of the amounts due the United States.

While Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, in charge of the British side of the negotiations, remained in New York with friends, his associate, Mr. T. K. Bewley declined to discuss the sum in contemplation although rumor has placed it at about 10 percent of the principal still unpaid, or, roughly $300,000,000.

Sir Ronald Lindsay, Ambassador to the United States, said he would like to have it emphasized that the debt represented only actual war expenditures by the United Kingdom.

Definite arrangements for the conferences had still to be made, with indications they would not begin until early next week at the soonest.

Sir Frederick is tentatively scheduled to call upon President Roosevelt on Thursday and his appointment at the treasury probably will be arranged soon afterwards.

Gov't Considers Rebuilding Piers

(Canadian Press)

OTTAWA, Oct. 4.—The government will consider, probably tomorrow, the question of rebuilding the recently destroyed pier No. 2 in Halifax, and at the same time take up the matter of completing the ocean terminal facilities in that city.

Lt. Col. E. O. Phinney and J. L. Hetherington, heads of the Halifax Harbor Commission, are in Ottawa to take up this matter with Hon. Alfred Durand, Minister of Marine. The recommendations of the commission will be taken before the next meeting of Cabinet Council, which is expected to take place tomorrow afternoon.

It is understood the rebuilding of pier No. 2 will be a first consideration. It is a part of the old terminal facilities, erected before it was decided to establish the ocean terminals at the south end of the city. Capable of accommodating the largest vessels afloat and built at a cost of nearly $1,000,000, pier 2 saw the embarkation of the majority of the Canadian troops who served in the Canadian expeditionary force, and the landing of most of those who returned.

UNITED LABOR MAKES DEMAND

(Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Demand of William Green, President of the American Federation of Labor, for shorter working hours and higher minimum wages than are now being incorporated in NRA codes today was given the direct support of Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins.

The cabinet member, whose appointment as United States Secretary of Labor the Federation's high command had opposed only a few months ago, went before the annual convention of the organization with a stalwart demand for strengthening the voice of organized labor.

"We cannot stop with the present minimum wages and maximum hours of labor," Miss Perkins said, as the 500 delegates and their guests cheered.

Mangels For Poultry

The chief value of roots as a poultry feed lies in the fact that they can be stored during the winter months, says the Dominion Poultry Husbandman, and fed over the period during which fresh green feeds are not available. They should not be considered in any way as a complete substitute for fresh green feeds, chiefly because they are quite deficient in vitamin content. The anti-neuritic and anti-scurvitic vitamins are present in only the slightest traces, while the anti-arthritic vitamin is entirely lacking. In comparison, fresh clover, one of the most commonly used green feeds, contains all three in abundance. The chief function of mangels and roots in general is the supplying of succulence to the ration. It has been found that by using mangels and supplementing with a regular dose of Epsom salts, laying birds will come through the winter in fairly good shape.

The worst cases of non-support, Judge Lacroix found, were due to sheer heartlessness.
