St. John, July 4.—(Special)—While the steamer Penobscot was three hours run from Portland on the way to St. John a passenger named Ernest Knapp belonging to Prow's Neck jumped overboard. A number of persons on deck saw him and the alarm was at once given. The steamer was stopped but by the time the boat reached Knapp he was dead. It was thought he had been struck by the wheel of the steamer but no marks were visible on his body. He left a letter addressed to his wife. The body was put ashore at Portland. A young woman named Grass employed as waitress at the Lansdowne Hotel here committed suicide tonight by drinking carbolic acid. She is said to have been disappointed in love. The cable to Demerara is interrupted.

MEETINGS OF THE CHURCH CONVENTION

The public meeting last evening of the Church of England Convention began shortly after eight with Mr. Justice Fitzgerald in the chair. After singing a hymn and prayers the chairman spoke some words, touching on the last of the rising generation in religious affairs and the wrong independence that shows among boys of this generation and thus pointed out the lack and necessity of Sunday School work. He then called on the Bishop to speak. Bishop Worrell dealt with the Sunday School Association formed this afternoon: that it seemed to be well organized but that it was not enough to rely on it. He pointed out the great work for Christians in the world and in keeping pace with its progress, of the necessity to find reasons for evil—such as lack of reverence in children—and so remedy them. The evil mentioned seemed to come from want of spiritual teaching in early years. Not only clergy but laity should remember they are to be teachers. All not only clergy are kings and priests to God and have a high place full of responsibility to fill. Our own life, our own example, our own teaching are the greatest courses of benefit to those we teach—system and organization are not enough. First, teachers must have the truth they want to teach—then let them study the best methods of teaching, in which the public schools are worth copying. Systematic work is needed, however. Careful preparation, remembering that the little souls in the classes depend upon the teacher's work. A teacher is not successful if the scholars do not take interest in the work. The old lessons must be taught over and over again. Illustrations should be used, especially those drawn from the Bible. Necessity there is for definiteness in purpose. The teacher should be filled with his purpose and know what he wants to teach. The church catechism is a short but wonderful manual. Be systematic, adapt yourselves to the work, co-operate with your scholars. In difficulties let us bring our few talents as the loaves and fishes to the Master and He will in return wonderfully bless them. After singing, Rev. Mr. Armitage spoke of the influential position of the teacher—especially one of the truth of the living God—a task that angels might indeed long to do. No man is able to understand the faith of God unless he practices it in his life. The spirit of the world is to keep a new found truth to itself, but this we must not do—the spirit of science is to share it with all—how much more the spirit of Christians what should they do? Dr. Hannah of King's College, deal with the ideals of the Sunday School work. Christendom is now on trial such as it never before had. How far, he asked, are we drifting from the ideals which have made us great? The speeches were all splendid, short in delivery but strong and helpful. The audience was large and representative, including many of the church's leading men in city and country. Before closing, regret was expressed at the absence of Archdeacon Reagh owing to ill-health. In the morning Holy Communion was celebrated Bishop Worrell being celebrant. The Clerical Association met in St. Peter's Vestry at 10.00 a.m. There were present His Lordship the Bishop, Revs. Simpson, Woodroffe, Simm, Cotton, Nichols, Harris and Dr. Hannah, President of King's College. The ordinary business was attended to. Resolutions were carried unanimously that word should be sent to Archdeacon Reagh expressing the sympathy of the Association on account of his poor health, and that the Association regrets the coming departure of the Rev. C. R. Cumming who has proved a faithful member. Several important matters concerning the church on the Island were discussed, and there seems reason to believe that a new period of prosperity may be expected for the church in the near future. Rev. Walter Cotton was chosen secretary. In the afternoon a Sunday School Conference was held at which work was mapped out for the future.

SAYS HE FIRED IN SELF DEFENCE

John Mackenzie Tells Coroner's Jury How He Shot J. W. Ferguson at Stellarton—Jury Return an Open Verdict not Incriminating any Person.

STELLARTON, July 4.—(Special)—The Coroner's jury on last night's tragedy tonight brought in the following verdict: That John William Ferguson came to his death on the morning of July fourth, caused by a bullet wound in the breast. John Mackenzie who fired the fatal shot said today that while he was walking home two men jostled him on the street. He tried to get away but was followed and stopped. One of them caught him by the collar and was dragging him into the light. Mackenzie pointed his revolver at the man holding, whereupon he let go but the other caught him and said, "If you're looking for trouble come on." "I warned him to look out," said Mackenzie and as he was about to tackle me I fired, intending only to wound him. I did not know the man.

EASTERN NOTES.—The late storm was felt severely in these parts, and for some days at least has paralyzed the lobster fishing, driving ashore or destroying many of the traps which were moved recently into shoal water where the lobsters are supposed to move as the weather grows warmer. Cod fishing is still dull, the want of bait severely felt.—After escaping a year, the dreaded Pictou County cattle disease has broken out here again in a few places. The mystery of its cause and the possibility of its cure appear to be still unsolved notwithstanding extensive and expensive experiments carried on by the Dominion Government in Nova Scotia, but circumstances, certainly point strongly to the weed generally known by the name of ragwort, when it is sown among the hay as being the cause.—Numbers of our men and maidens are driving to Montague to attend the annual Baptist Association there. The delegates from here are Rev. Mr. Gardiner and Mrs. Gardiner, Alex. and Mrs. McLean, and Mrs. Alex. Robertson.—Rev. Mr. Gardiner delivered a lecture on "The Eye" in the church here on the evening of the 3th. He was eloquent on the platform as in the pulpit.—The first potato bugs of the season are reported by John McEllan. THE INSPECTION OF THE MILITIA

Never in the history of the Prince Edward Island militia has a display been made of a more imposing nature than that of yesterday afternoon at Victoria Park. The day was a beautiful summer one, an ideal July afternoon, and the park was thronged with spectators who lined the fields and watched with great interest the military evolutions of the afternoon.

A feature of the inspection was the massing of the entire Brigade on the football grounds and the March Past before the visiting Militiamen, Lt. Colonel Vidal, Lt. Colonel Rutherford and Lt. Col. Jones. The brigade consisted of the Light Horse, the Fourth Regiment with Regimental Band, the 5th Regiment with Regimental Band and the Army Medical Corps, each in charge of their respective officers.

After the Brigade had been reviewed the 82nd Regiment was inspected on the football grounds by Lt. Col. Vidal and the Fourth Regiment by Lt. Col. Rutherford on the cricket grounds.

Much interest naturally centered on the 4th Regiment and as the different Companies went through company and regimental evolutions the expressions of admiration at the magnificent work by Prince Edward Island's pride were many.

After the infantry movements the gun drill in the shed followed.

The inspecting officers spoke in high terms of the different units and made special reference to the neatness of the Fourth Regiment Band.

The Light Horse will be inspected in a few days by Colonel Lessard who is expected shortly from Ottawa.

The Militia break camp on Saturday.
