Speaks At Temperance Rally In S'side

Dr. Chalmers of Toronto was the guest speaker at a temperance rally held last evening in Spworth Hall, Summerside. Mr. J. H. MacFarlane, Bedouque, president of the P.E.I. Temperance Federation presided and introduced the speaker. Dr. Chalmers outlined the history of liquor legislation in Ontario since the repeal of the Prohibition Act in 1926. Every change has been to open wider the sources of liquor, he said. In 1926 thirty-five million dollars were spent on liquor in Ontario and last year 175 million. He urged the audience to try and influence others to vote for the return of prohibition at the coming plebiscite. He was sceptical of the value of a commission as the administrative body for the new Temperance Act.

A vote of thanks was moved by Dr. Henry Moyle, seconded by Rev. William Billson and supported by Dr. John F. McNeill and tendered by the chairman. Two films depicting the evils of alcohol when used as a beverage were shown.—S.

Bedeque Notes

What might have been a serious fire, broke out in the garage of Mr. Leslie Hooper, Central Bedouque on Saturday afternoon last, but due to the prompt action of the neighbors from the surrounding communities the fire was brought under control before much damage was done. Mr. and Mrs. Hooper were absent at the time.

Mrs. Flossie Lowther, Dorchester, N.B. is spending a few days with relatives and friends in Bedouque and Searletown.

Mr. Lloyd Affleck has recently taken over the saw mill here, which for many years was owned by Ralph Callbeck & Co., Central Bedouque. After making repairs he will carry on as usual.

Extensive interior renovation is being made in the Bedouque United Church. Mr. P.N. Tucker, North Bedouque is in charge of the painting.

Mr. J.H. MacFarlane, Fernwood, president of the Temperance Federation, attended the Temperance Rally in Charlottetown Tuesday evening last. Dr. R.C. Chalmers of Toronto was the guest speaker. He was accompanied by Rev. E.S. and Mrs. Weeks, Bedouque.—Bed.

WEDDING BELLS AT ST. ANTHONY'S. On Wednesday at 8:30 a.m., June 9th, a very pretty wedding ceremony took place at St. Anthony's R. C. Church, Bloomfield, when Aldona youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tennis Peters became the bride of Ray youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. John Noonan of O'Leary. The pretty young bride was beautifully gowned in long pale pink taffeta and short length white veil caught up with coronet of orange blossoms and buds with green foliage, she carried a white prayer book with long white taffeta streamers and wore a corsage of deep pink carnations. Her only jewelry was a string of white pearls. She was very capably attended by Miss Edna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Peters of Duvar, who wore pale blue long flowing gown with shoulder length blue veil pinned in place with light blue flowers and her corsage was pale pink carnations. The groom was a very smart in brown and was ably supported by Frank, brother of the bride. His suit was blue. Mrs. Peters, mother of the youthful bride, wore brown with pink carnations and Mrs. Noonan, mother of the groom, was gowned in navy blue sheer, also with pink carnations. The bride entered by the front door of the church on the arm of her father who gave her in marriage, and walked up the aisle to the beautifully decorated altar, to the strains of the wedding march, capably rendered by the organist, Mr. C. J. Gylant. The bride was followed by the bride's maid, and when they reached the centre of the altar rail they were joined by the groom and groomsmen who entered from the side chapel.

The marriage ceremony was capably performed by their loving pastor the Rev. Fr. M. J. Rooney who also celebrated the nuptial Mass. Mr. Albert Noonan, brother of the groom, very capably rendered hymns appropriate to the occasion. After the services were all over the happy young couple slowly left the church where they were met at the door by their relatives and friends who showered them with well wishes and confetti. After taking pictures at the church they all motored to O'Leary to visit the groom's father who has been an invalid for years and was the only parent absent from the service, thence to the beautiful home of the bride where a very special wedding breakfast awaited them in a room well decorated with pink and white streamers. After breakfast was over the beautiful three tier wedding cake was cut by the bride and groom in the usual traditional manner. There were about twenty-five invited relatives. A social hour was then spent in music and step-dancing after which the bridal party left by car on a short honeymoon to the Island capital and other Eastern towns. The bride's travelling outfit was short pink jersey dress with grey shortie coat and black accessories. After their return they will reside in O'Leary where the groom

WARNER'S 'HUMORESQUE' POWERFUL SCREEN DRAMA

Joan Crawford, the winner of last year's Academy Award, gives a performance worthy of the first lady of the screen in Warner Bros. "Humoresque" which opened at the Capitol Theatre last night. In Fannie Hurst's popular and moving story of a wealthy woman's love for a brilliant concert violinist, Miss Crawford, co-stars with John Garfield, re-asserts herself as an actress of amazing depth, ability and sincerity. The story itself is a compelling one and Garfield as Paul Boray, the virtuoso, is most convincing. As Sid Jeffers, cynical, witty pianist and Paul's closest friend, Oscar Levant has never been funnier or better. J. Carol Nash as Paul's father, proprietor of a small grocery store on New York's lower East Side, adds considerably to his reputation as one of Hollywood's best character actors. Ruth Nelson, in the difficult role of Paul's mother who bitterly resents her son's attachment to a married woman, measures up to the assignment perfectly.

Minerals For Animals

(Experimental Farms News)

While minerals are important in animal nutrition it is well to keep in mind that extravagant and unwarranted claims are often made for their use. There is no single mineral substance or mixture, commercial or home prepared, which is entirely suitable for all classes of animals or under all conditions, says E. Van Nice, Dominion Experimental Station, Scott, Sask. Common salt is valuable to all farm animals and may well be kept before them in a separate container. The pigs should not be overlooked. At the Scott Station tests have shown that salt kept before growing pigs produced a marked increase in gain and was more profitable than when mixed with the feed. Legume or pasture provides valuable nitrogen and phosphorus. These minerals, however, may be provided by adding bone meal at the rate of one or two per cent in the chop or monocalcium phosphate in smaller quantities. These minerals help to prevent milk fever in cows or a general mineral deficiency as shown when cattle chew bones or sticks to get needed minerals. Bonemeal for cattle is often mixed with an equal quantity of salt or one of monocalcium phosphate to three parts of salt. Although milk is generally considered a protein supplement, it is also rich in calcium which enhances its value in pig feeding. In the absence of milk tankage helps to supply protein and minerals of animal origin easily assimilated by pigs. Actual tests at the Scott Station have shown that pigs need direct sunlight or fish oil to enable them to benefit by the minerals consumed. If fresh soil is not available to new born pigs, iron is required to prevent anemia. Treatment should begin three days after birth by placing on the tongue an amount of reduced iron that can be held on a 10 cent piece. This should be repeated once per week for three or four weeks. Horses and sheep on reasonably good feed require few minerals except salt, although a small allowance of bone meal is sometimes used profitably for growing stock. In some areas a small quantity of potassium iodide given during the gestation period is required to prevent an iodine deficiency in the young animals characterized by hairlessness in pigs, joint ill in foals, and gorter in lambs and calves. Additional information on minerals for livestock may be obtained from the nearest Dominion Experimental Station or Agricultural College.

ENGLISH VOCATIONAL PLAN LONDON (CP)

The Employment and Training Bill, now before the House of Commons, provides for appointment of local employment officers to meet each girl and boy of school-leaving age and provide information and vocational guidance.

GROWING UP

A growing feeling of independence of thought and action is one of the normal healthful manifestations of adolescence. It is one of the ways in which growing boys and girls try to prove that they are no longer children. This formative period may be a trial to both parents and youngsters and understanding and real sympathy are necessary to help the growing youngsters to develop into normal healthy adults.

FURNISH FIRST AID

Cuts, bruises, burns and scratches are minor matters only if they are treated promptly and effectively. Health authorities know that every household should be equipped with a simple first-aid kit for treatment of minor injuries. Prompt treatment may avoid infection of a small hurt. The family doctor will be glad to advise as to what first-aid supplies should be kept on hand. Such precautions are particularly necessary where there are children in the family.

LIVED OUT OF DOORS

Early Egyptians lived mostly out of doors and their homes usually were of wood or crude brick.
