Insure Your Teeth

Nature has supplied the teeth with a coating of enamel which is one of the hardest of organic substances. The enamel is in fact so hard that if the teeth are kept clean with an antiseptic dentifrice, they are apt to last as long as anyone has need of them.

Enamelo Tooth Paste

has all the qualities that a cleansing and preserving dentifrice should have. It destroys germs, hardens the gums and cleanses, whitens and polishes the teeth without possibility of harm.

JUBILEE

MOUNT ALLISON LADIES' COLLEGE.

1854-1904.

The main building of the Mount Allison Ladies' College is in gala attire today. Upon this day, August 19th, fifty years ago its doors were first thrown open for the reception of students.

The Jubilee is to be formally celebrated on the 19th of August, 1904. For nearly two years the Alumnae Society has been working on a card catalogue of fifty years. This catalogue is rapidly approaching completion.

The following Jubilee poem was written by Miss Sarah E. Smith of St. John's:

Fifty years ago, dear, so runs the story On this Mount Olympic a temple fair arose. T'was by glancing sunbeams in marble glory, Stately as Parnassus, spotless as its snows.

Now from life's fair summit, they, with tender longing, Turn to happy hours in these classic shades, And this year auspicious, hosts of memories thronging, Crown their Alma Mater,—crown that never fades.

Still they come and go, dear, to and fro the college, Careless, happy maidens in their early spring, And the eager, wise ones gather stores of knowledge.

FAMOUS JOURNALISTS.

Some Notable Instances of Journalists Who Have Reached Great Distinctions.

Lord Salisbury traveled without a servant, became a miner in Australia, camped roughed it, washed his own clothes and in later years showed his business capacity by dealing with the difficulties of an unlucky railway company so successfully that he was presented with a splendid service of plate by grateful shareholders and directors.
