Re-enact Any Music

The new Orthophonic Victrola has been doing it since December 2nd

This music of great orchestras, of famous artists, of that almost endless and ever growing host of Victor entertainers keeps its true beauty when heard upon the Orthophonic Victrola.

A demonstration is a remarkable experience. So truthful is this performance that at first you will disbelieve your ears—until you have become accustomed to the miracle.

You hear the giant anger of the storming kettledrums, the amorous cooing of the clarinets, the soft and sunny laughter of the piccolo. You close your eyes and wonder where will wonders cease. Your first query will be "How soon can I have one?"

Any "His Master's Voice" dealer will do his best to give you delivery as early as the present supply permits him.

In Memoriam

MR. J. K. ROSS

The funeral of the late J. K. Ross was held on Saturday afternoon the body being laid to rest in the People's Cemetery.

An impressive funeral service was conducted in the Baptist Church, it opened with the singing of the hymn by the choir "Peace, Perfect Peace." This was followed by Scripture reading by Rev. Gordon C. Warren, of Fredericton, N. B., an intimate friend of the late Mr. Ross.

Mr. Leigh Dingwell then sang "Crossing the Bar."

Rev. R. C. Eaton gave a funeral address, in which he paid fitting and eloquent tribute to the memory of the late Mr. Ross. At the outset he said that it was fitting to hold the service in the church in which Mr. Ross had been such a prominent member and Deacon for many years. He was always interested in the affairs of the church, rendered valuable service as a teacher, and as an official not only for the Baptist denominations, but for the kingdom of God at large.

Mr. Eaton stressed the splendid work carried on by Mr. Ross on behalf of moral and social reform, especially the temperance movement. The present prohibitory laws and their observance are due to men of his type, who gave their time, ability and conviction to make conditions as they are.

Mr. Ross was always interested in philanthropic movements, and the promoter of every worthy cause found in him a sympathetic listener and a generous contributor.

As a citizen he was interested in everything tending to the building up of Charlottetown and Prince Edward Island. He was a man of rich and varied talents, who recognized God as his overlord and taskmaster of his life, and who gave his time, industry and enthusiasm in every work which he undertook. Of him it may well be said: "Well done, good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

After prayer by Rev. Mr. Eaton, the choir sang "For All the Saints Who from Their Labours Rest," and the congregation stood in silence for a minute before benediction was pronounced.

The services at the grave were conducted by Rev. Mr. Eaton.

The pall bearers were: Messrs. J. P. Gordon, William Hogg, L. C. Worthy, G. F. Hutchison, Norman J. MacLeod and Ross Bethune.

TREE-TOP STORIES

GRASS-FINGERS "SWISH... whooooo... ooooo!" Swish... swish... ooooooh!" sang the wind.

Emily ran around the corner of the house and saw the roo-bushes bending and nodding. And then she saw a long grass stoop down and begin to hunt for something on the ground.

"Have you lost something, Grass?" Emily asked. The Grass nodded, and went on hunting.

"I would help you if you could tell me what you are looking for," Emily said. But the wind came by just then and caught and carried them away.

Hydro's Chief Engineer Discusses Interlocking Tile for Walls

Mr. Harold S. Johnston, Chief Engineer for the Nova Scotia Power Commission was in charge of the design and construction of the Ruth Falls Development where Interlocking Tile was used for the generating station. He finds:

"This tile has made a most substantial wall through its interlocking properties, which also aids in preventing the seepage of water through the walls from outside. The tile surfaces have also lent themselves readily to the application of Bisporic stucco on the outside and to plastering on the inside."

Walls that stop dampness, fire, sound, frost—that have no upkeep cost—that can be laid several times as fast as other materials—are worth investigating.

Interlocking Tile Features

21% less heat loss than solid brick. (Jas. Gowan, M. P. A. I. G.)

Safety Load up to 6,000 lbs. per square inch. (Testing Laboratory, McGill University.)

48 hr. immersion test, 5% absorption (same)

Same tile builds wall any thickness.

Plaster direct on tile—no furring necessary.

Air pockets prevent conduction of heat, cold or moisture.

Can be plastered with stucco, faced with brick, or left exposed.

Each Interlocking Unit equals seven bricks in size and, having half the weight, can be laid at a fraction of the cost.
